SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—Chile's state of siege—modified martial law—under which the country has been living for over nine and one months ended Wednesday night when the Senate rejected it by a vote of 23-to-2. Chamber of Deputies had already voted it down. It was imposed when the country was plagued by a wave of strikes.

ROYAL ARRIVAL

SANDRINGHAM, Eng. (AP)—The Royal Family arrived at their Norfolk estate Wednesday night for the Christmas holiday after crowds of Londoners gave Princess Anne shouts of "Happy Christmas!" Thursday. The agriculture department announced late Wednesday that a new division has been created in connection with the transfer of jurisdiction in animal quarantine concerning his fitness under security rules to continue in the job. In effect, Dr. Ladejinsky is denied a man with more American agricultural experience.

State department officials, obviously irked at an agriculture department decision to transfer, ing contrary to theirs, said they intend to look into whether the payroll unless new evidence is discovered showing him to be a security risk. The department said even, withheld formal comment.

Ladejinsky himself outlined some portions of the agriculture department's summary of charges against him. He said that most of the points had been raised in hearings when he was cleared by the state department security division.

Russian-Born Diplomat Fights To Retain Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wolf Ladejinsky fought today to retain his post as foreign attache under the United States agriculture department, despite indications that the state department is willing to keep him on its own payroll in a different job.

It is understood that Ladejinsky supporters are preparing to carry the unusual case to President Eisenhower himself.

Agriculture Secretary Ezra Benson has ruled that Ladejinsky, a Russian-born American citizen, is not qualified—technically and because of security—to continue the $11,000-a-year post which is being transferred from state to agriculture department jurisdiction.

QUESTIONS MOVE

But Senator Hubert Humphrey (Dem. Minn.), calling for a "frank and open airing" of the incident, said Ladejinsky "if he wasn't more a matter of giving the job to a 'pro-red' than a question of political persuasion."

Representative Walter Judd (Rep. Minn.) criticized the method of Ladejinsky's ouster—and-did in a statement that he attended similar talks in land reform measures are needed to help save Free China, Indochina and Burma—expressed hope that the government will continue to use Ladejinsky's services.

The 55-year-old Ladejinsky, who was naturalized in 1935, was Gen. MacArthur's chief land reform official in occupied Japan and has served as an agricultural attache under the state department there for the last four years.

FARMERS QUESTIONED

The agriculture department announced late Wednesday that a new division has been created in connection with the transfer of jurisdiction in animal quarantine concerning his fitness under security rules to continue in the job. In effect, Dr. Ladejinsky is denied a man with more American agricultural experience.

State department officials, obviously irked at an agriculture department decision to transfer, ing contrary to theirs, said they intend to look into whether the payroll unless new evidence is discovered showing him to be a security risk. The department said even, withheld formal comment.

On behalf of the Sunday school Mrs. Rush thanked Mrs. Young for her untiring service and hoped that she would continue with this work in the coming year. Mrs. Young thanked Mrs. Rush and Nancy Hockaday presented the gift.

Although completely taken by surprise, Mrs. Young thanked all for their kindness in remembering her and asked for co-operation in the coming year.

Wellington

WELLINGTON W.I.

WELLINGTON — The Wellington Women's Institute held its annual Christmas euchre party in the town hall on Wednesday evening. There was a very good crowd in attendance despite the bad weather and slippery roads. The hall looked very nice with evergreens, Christmas trees and lovely vases of mums. Twenty tables were in play for the euchre and the prize winners were: Ladies' high: Mrs. Chas. Broadbridge; ladies' low, Mrs. Dean; gents' high, Mrs. Welbanks (filling in for a man), and gents' low, Earl Lamly. First door prize, a basket of groceries, was won by Mrs. Wm. Jackson; second door prize, a peck of McIntosh apples, won by Mrs. Clifford Cleave, and because there were several articles left after filling the door prize basket, six tally cards were drawn and prizes given to the lucky owners of the cards. Marguerite Yandt won 1-lb. icing sugar; Edna Platt, a cake mix; Hilda Moore, a jar of pickles; Mrs. Burtt, can of pork and beans; Mrs. Bailley, can of fruit cocktail, and Mrs. Sam Clarke, a can of tomatoes. Previous to Wednesday tickets had been sold on a lovely hand-made quilt, so a draw was made for it and was won by Eldon Carson. The tables were then all joined together and a delicious lunch was served by the ladies in charge. Much credit is due to Mrs. Oscar Bowsy, who was convener of the party and the sale of the quilt tickets.

WELLINGTON — Mrs. Boyle entertained at a pre-Christmas party on Saturday night. Most Beloved Carol Is 'Silent Night'

The most beloved carol of the many that are sung in all parts of the world is "Silent Night" that simple and tender German song.

Its origin was unknown for many years. Recent research, however, disclosed that it was written by Joseph Mohr, an assistant priest in Oberndorf in South Germany. The melody was composed by a schoolmaster, Franz Gruber.

The poet and the composer were part of the choir that sang the carol for the first time on Christmas Eve in the Oberndorf church in 1818.

The night it was sung the small church's organ was out of order and the choir sang to the accompaniment of a guitar.

Since then the carol has been sung to the tune of almost every musical instrument in the world and in the languages of nearly all men.

Four Associates Of Purged Beria Face Firing Squads

Two Lesser Officials Sentenced to Long Terms

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

MOSCOW (AP)—A former minister of state security and three other associates of purged police boss Lavrenti P. Beria have died before Soviet firing squads. Two lesser officials have been sentenced to long prison terms.

A government communique announced last night the fate of ex-minister Victor Semenovich Abakumov and five of his one-time aides in the state security ministry. All were charged with treason and political sabotage.

The communique was printed in the government newspaper Izvestia on the first anniversary of the official disclosure of Beria's execution by a firing squad. Izvestia said the latest sentences were passed by the military tribunal of the Soviet supreme court in Leningrad following a trial that lasted from Dec. 14 to 19. There was no indication when they were carried out.

SEES STRUGGLE

(In London, a source well informed on Soviet affairs said the purge indicates a struggle still is going on among the powerful figures within the Soviet Union and Premier Malenkov himself may be directly involved. The informant identified Abakumov as a onetime private secretary to Malenkov.)

Izvestia said the six convicted officials were accused specifically of hatching up the "Leningrad case," a trial several years ago in which "without any grounds, a number of party and Soviet workers were falsely accused of the most serious state crimes. The paper added that the men are imprisoned as a result of the convicting having now been rehabilitated as Soviet citizens."

EXECUTED ORDERS

The government communique said Beria placed Abakumov in his post in 1946 and that Abakumov was "a direct participant of the criminal provocative activity carried out Beria's orders directed against the central committee of the Communist party and the Soviet government."

The three deputies of Abakumov who received death sentences were identified as V. I. Komarov, M. T. Likhachev and A. G. Leonov. The latter was former chief of the investigation section in charge of cases of special importance in the state security ministry.

The two men sentenced to prison They were named as I. A. Chernov, V. I. Komarov, and Y. M. Broverman 15 years.

2,500 PICKED UP BY NAVY

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)— About 2,500 Roman Catholic refugees from Communist Northern Viet Nam were picked up at sea by French naval vessels between Dec. 19 and 21, the French Navy said Thursday night. The refugees put out to sea in sailboats, barks and junks. Their dash to freedom was carried out shortly after the Communist-led Vietminh had assured the international armistice commission there were no more Catholics wishing to leave the area.

Much of Canada To Be Green For Christmas

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Dreaming of a white Christmas? Chances are you'll get your wish if you live in Newfoundland, New Brunswick, Quebec and northern Ontario. For most other parts of the country, however, the weather man does not include snow in his predictions.

Newfoundlanders will celebrate the holiday with traditional houseto-house visits, during which gifts will be exchanged, and dancing.

Northern Ontario, which already has had a snowfall of up to 18 inches, can expect more snow for Saturday's storm and western regions will not get it.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Cold air which originated over Hudson Bay, will cover all of Ontario by this afternoon. Clearing skies are forecast for tonight. Christmas Day will be sunny and cold across most of the province. A few persons in Alberta is having mostly rainy weather and is expected to reach the Great Lakes Saturday. Cloud will spread across southern Ontario Saturday afternoon.

Killer Career of Three-Legged Timber Wolf Ended by Big Posse

NEW LISKEARD, Ont. (CP)— The search for a killer came to an end Thursday night.

The first shot fired from a new rifle ended the career of Three-Leg, the timber wolf who has destroyed some 300 sheep. The shot was fired by Ernest Harris, a member of a 15-man posse who had flood-lighted through snow drifts all night long in the search for the killer.

Harris needed only the first shot to finish the killer. He fired the shot as the wolf loafed out of a ravine in this area 45 miles south of Kirkland Lake.

Three-Leg was considerably larger than a wolf caught in Ontario's Kerns township Nov. 19. At that time forestry officials felt they had put an end to the killer who had mangled dozens of sheep and dragged through lost sheep since raids on farmers' livestock began June 27. But sheep killings continued and a few days ago nine little pigs were eaten.

The wolf killed in the snowstorm Thursday night was with two other wolves. Harris shot the killer 100 feet at the shoulder, weighed 78 pounds and had a spread of 6 feet 10 inches. The right front leg was only a stump. Apparently the wolf severed the left off to free himself from a trap.

Farmers found the tracks of three wolves beside the carcass of a dead sheep. They followed the tracks for three miles and finally cornered the animals in a bush. The other wolves escaped.

HUNDRED MILLION DOLLARS DEFICIT SEEN BY GOVT.

Defence Spending Down But Tax Returns Off

OTTAWA (CP) — The government, aiming at a nominal $4,000,000 surplus at the end of the fiscal year, doesn't appear headed in that direction, a deficit of more than $100,000,000 seems more probable.

Finance Minister Harris, in his treasury statement Thursday, said the government went $168,000 into the red in November, another drop in defence spending and collections overcoming reduced defence spending. Budgetary accounts were closed in November, 1953, with a surplus of $9,000,000.

Defence spending dip brought the surplus for the first eight months of the 1954-55 fiscal year down to $91,668,000, about a third of the $275,068,000 surplus for the corresponding period a year ago.

The current spending pattern, with bills totalling $2,700 up towards the end of the year, indicates the government will collect defence expenditures still and the former finance minister Abbott in his final budget, $2,541,041 last year. This cut the eight-month outlay by $168,000 to $2,373,780, against $1,069,288,000 in the corresponding 1953-54 period.

Over-all spending for the month, however, rose slightly to $230,215,000 from $229,483,000, boosting total expenditures for the eight months to $2,517,996,000 from $2,514,455,000 a year ago. The November increase reflected heavier payments for family allowances, health programs, veterans affairs, post office administration and transport.

The treasury's total November revenues dropped by about $8,500,000 to $230,047,000 from $238,500,000 last year, mainly because of lower corporation tax collections. The total November revenue for the eight months to $2,609,664,000, now $110,800,000 from $2,719,535,000 a year ago.

The eight-month total for personal income tax collections is $794,600,000 stayed below last year's $813,000,000.

CBC Will Reduce Overseas Service

OTTAWA (CP)—A government decision to cut about 20 per cent next year's budget for the CBC's international service, by mean curtailment of broadcasts to some areas, but will not affect overseas broadcasts distributed the Iron Curtain.

The decision to shave about $500,000 off the $2,300,000 provided for the service this year was announced by Finance Minister Harris. Informants said it will mean curtailments in broadcasts beamed to Europe and parsibly to Latin America and Australasia.

Harris, who is understood, however, that broadcasts to Communist — controlled countries in Europe — Russia, Poland, the Ukraine, Czechoslovakia and Hungary would not be shortened from their average length of about seven hours to each country.

The Christmas Story

How I love to hear the story of that glad first Christmas night
When the shepherds on Judean hills beheld a wondrous sight,
When the radiance of God's glory wrapt the hills in mystic haze
And the watching shepherds wondered on that night so long ago.

I can hear the angels speaking to the shepherds on the hills—
"Fear ye not, I bring a message," with what joy my spirit thrills,
And I listen to the story of a Saviour sent to man.
Of the Christ-child in the manger o'er the hills of Bethlehem.

Then I hear the choir of angels on that night so calm and still Filling all the air with music, "Peace on earth, to men good-will"
"Glory be to God the Highest"—how the gladsome notes prolong!
As I listen with the shepherds to the herald angels' song.

And I follow with the shepherds o'er the hill-tops far away
And with them I hasten onward where the town of Bethlehem lay,
Where we find the little Christ-child in a manger rude and old —
Oh how thrilling is the story though it's been so often told.

Yes, it is the old, old story, but to me it's ever dear,
Bringing to the Christmas spirit and the yearly Christmas cheer.
And the world will grow the brighter, bear still the souls of men
If we take to heart the story of the Babe of Bethlehem.

By JOHN MOSHER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Yuletide goodwill from the 75-year-old peer, basking at Nassau for the winter, comes as surely as if he were arriving tonight from the North Pole with reindeer and all the trimmings.

The Newcastle hospital in his boyhood town of Newcastle is one of the latest beneficiaries. On his annual fall visit to New Brunswick he arranged for a cheque to be given the institution when the chimes of St. James United church here played his favorite carol in the Christmas season. This week the bells rang "Hark the Herald Angels Sing," and the hospital is $5,000 richer.

Rev. W. C. Aitken, father of Lord Beaverbrook, was the Presbyterian minister of St. James church here before his death in 1912.

Thursday it was learned the peer will provide equipment for a school nearing completion at Beaverbrook, a village 15 miles from Newcastle and from which he took the name for his title. He had previously given $10,000 toward the building cost.

Another gift pulled from the Beaverbrook bag of cheer means a happier Christmas for retired Presbyterian ministers in the province and widows of Presbyterian clergymen. Their pensions have increased immediately by $200 a year.

Earlier in December announcement was made that Lord Beaverbrook will give the proceeds of an art gallery, a fine building will be erected in Fredericton and its contents will include more than 100 paintings and 200 prints he plans to donate. And last month the City of Fredericton accepted his offer to build a huge rink and recreation centre for the province's capital.

Premier Hugh John Flemming has extended "the gratitude of all citizens of New Brunswick" to the province's greatest benefactor. The Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire have also sent him a "heartening" of his generosity.

The former Max Aitken is a year-round Santa Claus to the province he regards as home and where he grew to early manhood. Beaverbrook scholarships have benefited university students for many years. New Brunswick residents enjoy educational and recreational facilities existing only through the benevolence inspired by the Empress lord of London's Fleet street, University of New Brunswick, of which he is life honorary chancellor, has been a principal recipient of his aid.

His recent visit began Oct. 12 when he arrived, light-hearted and content, for his "happiest time of the year." Before leaving nearly a month later for Toronto, New York and Nassau, he announced new scholarships and expansion of others, and formally opened two buildings. He also gave generous gifts to the Newcastle town hall and auditorium and the UNB law school building at Saint John.

The Newcastle ceremony became a mass display of affection. He is still "Max" to many people around here, and about 2,000 ordinary folk — while finished—turned out to welcome Max home again. Shaking hands with men, women and children and exchanging reminiscences with the elderly, he had a wonderful time. Sussex in the southeast and Saint John were similarly fervent — warming although on a smaller scale.

Field and Wife Ask for Asylum

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Budapest radio announced today that Noel Field and his wife Herta have been given political asylum in Communist Hungary.

The Fields were released Nov. 19 after serving five years in Hungarian prisons on spy charges. United States' diplomats in Budapest have been pressing for weeks hours after the Hungarian government announced they had been freed.

Today's announcement confirmed predictions made by Western diplomats in Vienna some time ago that Hungary would not return the Fields to the United States.

Noel Field, these diplomats said, never would be would have been questioned in connection with the Alger Hiss case if he returned.

SUPPORT PROGRAM FOR EGG PRICES TO BE CONTINUED

Agricultural Minister Makes Announcement

OTTAWA (CP) — Agriculture Minister Gardiner, announcing continuation of the government's egg price support program, has announced egg handlers co-operate with the agricultural prices support board in disposing of surpluses.

The program, under which the government agrees to pay 38 cents a dozen, basis grade A large, plus handling charges for all surplus eggs in storage at the end of the year, this year is costing taxpayers $700,000.

Mr. Gardiner said Thursday the program will continue unchanged in 1955, but in his announcement, reinforced statements made at the recent federal-provincial agriculture conference here, he added:

"Some handlers were able to dispose of all or most of their storage holdings in 1954 and others disposed of little or none. . . .

ASKS CO-OPERATION

"In view of this situation, the full co-operation of the distributing trade in ensuring a wide and equitable distribution of the limited under support is necessary for successful operation of the program. The board will reserve the right to take appropriate steps at any time to enforce such distribution."

Mr. Gardiner said told the agriculture conference that some egg farms apparently are not prepared to sell their product. They just held them until the government bought them at the end of the year.

"If we must take all eggs so stored by these producers this year" he told the conference, "we must cease to deal with them in future."

He said there was no reason why egg prices should have dropped as much as 10 cents a dozen to 12 cents a dozen the support program provides to producers.

Christmas Brings Peace To Holy Land

The Christmas holiday has produced a momentary act of peace between the Moslem and Christian—Jordan and Israel—at war nearly seven years.

Divided by a no man's land and a military armistice line which cuts off visits between the two countries most of the year, these two occupants of the Holy Land today lifted barriers and allowed Christians in Israel to observe Christmas in Bethlehem on the Jordan side.

First to cross the line were nearly 2,000 Arab Christians living in Israel, separated from their families and friends on the Arab side since 1948.

After Five Tearful Christmasses, Four Brothers Get Mother Back

SHENANDOAH, Iowa (AP)— Four young brothers, motherless for five Christmasses, today had reason to believe in Santa Claus and in prayer.

It was just 13 hours after Mrs. Hill, 29, walked into the offices of the Reno Post Court Thursday that she arrived home to meet her sons and husband.

She said she had read a Shenandoah story in the Post that had mentioned sons Mike Rhoades,[1] had cried for her every Christmas, and she left on the next plane she wanted.

The Post put through a telephone call to Mrs. Hill's mother, Mrs. Thomas Woods. After a joyous long-distance reunion, Mrs. Woods told her daughter that Edward Myer, president of the Shenandoah KMA here, had promised the family that any time the children's mother was found he would pay her fare back to Shenandoah.

Two of the boys, David, 8, and Richard, 6, remember less distinctly. The youngest, Robert, 5, doesn't remember her at all. He was only 6 months old when she disappeared.

The children's father was killed in an auto accident Aug. 2, 1949, only a month later their mother vanished.

Mrs. Hill went to Chicago where she met her present husband, David, 34. They were married last June and moved to Reno, Nev., where she worked as a waitress and he as a chef.

"I just seem to be separated from my babies," Mrs. Hill said. "Troubles can pile up on a person and you can't think straight." She said that each year away she "became more afraid and ashamed to go home."

"It was the power of prayer that brought her back," said Mrs. Woods. "Every night we all knelt down and prayed together to God to watch over and protect her,

French Assembly Rejects Arms Plan; Order New Ballot

Mendes-France Will Stake Government's Life on Vote

PARIS (AP)—The French National Assembly early today refused to ratify German rearmament but Premier Pierre Mendes-France took immediate last-ditch action to save the Paris treaties.

The deputies in a startling action voted 280 to 259 to reject the pact providing for German rearmament within a strengthened western European alliance.

Mendes-France at once called for a second reading and announced the next vote, to be held Monday, will be a vote of confidence in his government. The premier and his cabinet would have to resign if the assembly persisted in rejecting the treaty.

HAD FELT SURE

Mendes-France had felt so sure of victory on the first vote that he had not bothered to stake his government's life. In calling the treaty up again, he hoped to rally enough supporters in the assembly to reverse the result.

Following the stunning vote against German rearmament, the assembly approved two of the three basic treaties. They were the agreement to restore German sovereignty and the Saar Convention. The third was the North Atlantic Alliance, also part of Monday's vote of confidence. After this, the assembly adjourned.

Opposition to the premier was strengthened by members of the Mouvement Republicain Populaire, which had previously backed the non-defeat European Defence Community. The MRP leaders also called the EDC proposal last Aug. 30.

Speakers for the MRP earlier had indicated its members would abstain in the vote on the treaty, but the party decided at a last-minute recess meeting Thursday to vote against it.

Mendes - France also lumped the treaty with amendments together as another confidence question. This, too, will come up Monday. The premier said the amendments aim at delaying ratification of the treaty. Moscow and France opposes these. But he wants the assembly to approve the bill, which would put the two accords be treated as a unit in the ratification process.

SPANISH BISHOP DEAD

CIUDAD REAL, Spain (AP)— Emeterio Echevarria Barrenechea, Roman Catholic Bishop of Ciudad Real and Superior of the Spanish military order, died Thursday from a heart attack. He was 74.

Ecuador Revolt Soon Settled

QUITO, Ecuador (AP) — President Jose Maria Velasco Ibarra appeared today to have weathered a brief military revolt, but both he and the army gave ground to achieve peace.

Two cabinet ministers were out of office and seven members of the top military command under arrest. The president held on only by fleeing Thursday from the capital to Guayaquil, Ecuador's major port, and rallying the officers of the second military zone there to his support.

Today's calmer arrest included the chief of the army general staff and the commanders of the navy and air force. All are said to were charged with attempting to promote disorder.

OVER ARMY CHARGES

The crisis flared over army charges that Economy Minister Jaime Nebot Velasco had insulted the forces in statements he made in Buenos Aires recently.

Velasco Ibarra, 59, Velasco Ibarra bowed to army demands and accepted the resignation of Economy Minister Nebot Velasco in turn agreed to the resignation of the defence minister, Lt.-Col. Reinaldo Vera Donoso, who had backed the army in its feud with Nebot.

OVERALLS FOR CHURCH

SANDWICH, England (AP) — William Gillespie will have to go to church this Christmas in working overalls instead of a raincoat. The only other outfit the 70-year-old gas fitter has is a blue-pin-stripe suit, and a magistrate ruled Thursday that police must hold the suit until Jan. 3, when two army privates charged with stealing it are tried. The court said "it is not in our power to release it" for Christmas.

Slippery Streets Cause Accidents

Slippery streets caused by yesterday afternoon's fresh fall of snow were responsible for damage in a series of motor accidents in the city Thursday afternoon and evening.

The majority of the motor mishaps were minor and resulted in little more than fender damage, but one man suffered a broken leg and other injuries when struck by a car on Victoria Ave. Frank O'Connor, 62, of 74 Victoria Ave., was struck by a car as he attempted to cross Victoria Ave.

It was a battle of trucks on Dundas Street East when a stake truck driven by Hartley Simpson of Hampton went out of control on a curve, sideswiped an oncoming stake truck driven by William H. Thompson of Coburg and then continued across the street to strike still another stake truck driven by J. J. Blower, RCSA, Picton. Total damage to the three vehicles was about $350.

Approximately $400 damage, $200 to each vehicle was caused on Highland Ave. when cars driven by Kenneth Fair of Brockville and Nicolas G. Vandelies of Forin Street, Belleville, collided.

By HARRY MULHALL

Christmas is a time for children, and parents try to make it so.

Secure in the home, shielded from problems, they even now are preparing to take over the home for their great day.

But what about those, who, through some adverse quirk, during this past year have found themselves without homes or parents, or both.

For many of them in Canada, their Christmas thrill will have depended on the Children's Aid Societies across the nation.

Down in the offices of the county's Children's Aid Society on 63 Moira Street West are many files containing records of these children, some who have never known their mother or father, others who have prematurely grown up in the world because of failure of their parents to do their part in presenting a problem.

VITAL CONTRIBUTION

Under its superintendent, Bruce Kerr, the staff of the agency strive to make their contribution to society by endeavoring to rehabilitate these young displaced members of the home front back into the normal routine of living.

Those in the care of the Children's Aid are in the same category as other children who have that their handicap is psychological instead of physical.

There are three common causes for a child coming under the wing of the society, says Mr. Kerr:

(1) Being born out of wedlock; (2) Desertion by one or both parents; (3) Adverse economic conditions in the home.

At present the principal method of re-introducing a child back into society is through adoption.

"I expect we will end this year with about 35 adoptions," Mr. Kerr said.

The increase he attributes to the fact for the first time, adoption this year was placed in the hands of a full-time worker, Gwyn Thomas a young social work graduate from Toronto, who joined the agency's staff in September.

SEPARATE DEPARTMENT

The setting-up of adoption as a separate department has been one of several moves in re-organizing the agency since Mr. Kerr was appointed head last February. He intimates that it will not be the last if the men have his way.

One of his aims is the establishment of a receiving home for the society's wards, which would provide the workers time to observe and assess the characteristics and temperament of the children before placing them in foster homes. He pointed out that several other Ontario centres, including Oshawa and Port Hope, already have established such homes.

Says Mr. Kerr: "The primary thing is a liking for people and the desire to understand people in a constructive way — plus an academic knowledge of human behavior."

A worker's success depends on his making people realize the fundamentals of their problems; the limitations and the utilization of those limitations to the best advantage.

"We believe everyone has the potential within themselves to change their behavior and better conditions for themselves."

Working on this theory Mr. Kerr directs a staff of nine social workers, organized into various departments, and during the past year the emphasis has been entirely on child care department.

At the present that department looks after the welfare of 200 children by 16 foster parents, 11 workers: J. C. Miles, Mrs. Laura McLaughlin and Mrs. Edith Smith, are each responsible for about 85 children.

MEDICAL CARE GIVEN

They handle the medical and dental care of each child, its clothing, education, spending allowances, plus the weekly interviews monthly. They also consult with foster parents, and try to get to the root of any problems the children may have. The children are visited every month, those presenting problems and needs even more often.

Miss Bryd Corbet is in charge of the unmarried parents department. In the course of the first eight months of this year 65 unmarried parents presented themselves at the agency for aid.

They were assisted in three ways:

(1) In planning for their confinement and arranging admission to an out-of-town maternity home; (2) In getting financial assistance from the father of the baby, and (3) By arranging adoption and permanent care of the child if the mother so wishes it.

In this instance, of the 65 unwed mothers, only 38 applied to the society to care for their children. Of these again, 24 were placed in adoption, the other four in boarding care.

One aspect of this part of the society's work is that the mothers, finding themselves in a new, what socially-compromised situation, are assured of a sympathetic understanding of their troubles from the agency.

CHECKS CAUSE OF NEGLECT

Another comparative newcomer to the agency, though not to welfare work, is W. J. Elliott, who investigates any information received by the agency or alleged neglect. If the case can be handled readily he remedies it. If the child has to be taken into care by the society he establishes the background of the case and prepares it for presentation in the family and juvenile court where he appears on behalf of the society.

He also spends two days a fortnight working in the northern part of the county.

Aim in this agency is the homefinding department, supervised by Miss John Fry, on a part-time basis.

An important phase of the agency's work is carried out by Mrs. Ingrid Bateman, psychologist who performs psychometric and personality testing of the wards, from the age of two years for whom she is considering for adoption placement. Unmarried mothers are also given the test.

What are the children like who pass into the care of the society? Surprisingly most of them are in "extremely good health," Mr. Kerr says. All of them receive dental and medical examinations when they become wards.

Another function the agency has its problems, and like most institutions, they are chiefly ones of finance.

Due to increased services to children and adoption services our costs have risen to $1.50 per day," Mr. Kerr says.

Annual cost of maintaining a child is $300.

In comparison with this Mr. Kerr pointed out a recent report of the Ontario Legislature Select Committee on Reform Institutions states annual cost of keeping a jail inmate at $1,500.

MUNICIPAL GRANTS

Municipal grants to the society also are a ticklish problem for the superintendent.

At present the agency receives $800 from the city, $600 from the county and $750 from Trenton. Mr. Kerr recently applied to the county council for an increase in the grant.

He points out: "Grants to the local society were second lowest any society serving a county in the province of Ontario."

Grants received for special services from all sources total $10,000. The agency feels it needs more money, especially for preventive services.

Preventive services, Mr. Kerr claims, can eliminate ultimate cost to the taxpayer by removing situations in the home which cause a child to be taken in by the society.

To do this means more highly-trained workers, which in turn means more money.

Next year the agency budgets for $125,000.

"The quality of the work is in relationship to the calibre of the people and training of the people doing the work and if we are going to exercise true stewardship of this $125,000 per year entrusted to the agency, then the people are entitled to a better job."

ADOPTION IMPORTANT

Most important aspect of the agency probably is its adoption work, supervised by Mrs. Thomas.

"The thing we are afraid of is placing a child in with people who can have children of their own," says Mr. Kerr.

It becomes extra difficult when prospective foster parents are turned down by the agency, but they are refused sometimes they try to "bring pressure to bear."

Said Mr. Thomas: "We certainly appreciate people coming to us and asking for a child. But . . . the final decision to place the child in a home for life is in our hands."

"And the fact that we insist in adhering to high standards gives the people confidence in the job we are doing," said the superintendent.

"You know," he added, "it can all be summed up in the five words: "It's no fun playing God."

Sale of Christmas Seals Only Means Of Financing Fight Against TB

The people of Hastings County will have the opportunity of a free chest X-ray during 1955. The Ontario Department of Health is to provide the special X-ray equipment used in mass chest X-ray surveys. The Hastings County Tuberculosis Association will be sponsoring the organizing work from the proceeds of the current Christmas Seal Sale.

Over three million free chest X-rays have been taken of the people of Ontario under this cooperative arrangement since surveys began. From 1946 on, 300,000 X-rays have been taken annually in this case finding program.

A great number of chest abnormalities have been discovered. Of the cases of active tuberculosis the majority are found in the early stages of disease. This has contributed to the rapidly declining death rate from TB in the province.

The reference clinics, held regularly at Belleville are under the supervision of the Medical Officer of Health, Dr. Gage Brearley and Dr. Ruth Wills, of the Hastings County Tuberculosis Association.

This Association has worked together with the Health Unit directly to make a chest X-ray available to every employee.

The Christmas Seal Sale is the only source of revenue by which the diversified programs of the Hastings County Tuberculosis Association are financed.

Holiday Traffic Will Reach Peak Christmas Eve

Holiday traffic by train and bus between Belleville started increasing last evening and is expected to reach a peak this evening, according to railway and bus officials in the city.

No extra bus trips have been scheduled by Colonial Coach through Belleville. Extra buses were added to regular runs on Thursday evening, and extra buses are available for scheduled trips today as traffic warrants.

Traffic by bus is not as heavy this year as last, which was a peak year.

C.N.R. traffic Thursday included one extra section of the 12.30 p.m. train from Montreal and the 2.40 train west to Toronto.

Thursday evening the Toronto-Montreal flier ran in seven sections with three sections of the 8.01 train to Montreal and four sections of the 7.45 train west to Toronto.

Trains scheduled for Christmas eve include three sections west at 2.40 and two sections east at 12.20 p.m., three sections east at 8.01 p.m., and three sections west at 7.45 p.m.

Extra sections will be running ahead of, and behind, the regular section.

C.P.R. passenger trains through Belleville this morning included two extra sections to Montreal at 2.15 a.m. and two extra sections to Toronto at 4.20 a.m.

Regular service was maintained to Ottawa at 3.18 a.m. and from Ottawa at 4.45 a.m.

Value of Art For Children

By NANCY CLEAVER

"My children love to draw. Paints or crayons seem to fascinate them. They have a marvellous time making pictures!" Mrs. Johns said.

Her friend objected, "But painting makes such a mess! Crayons are always getting lost and stepped on! If their drawings ever looked like anything I could recognize, perhaps I could put up with the bother of letting them paint. If my children were very artistic it would be different. But really I don't see much value in letting them dabble with paints."

Art for children should not be confined to those who are very gifted—and it is very difficult for an adult to judge whether or not her child is artistic! Children's art is very different from grown-up art. A little child from the time he first makes short vertical strokes goes through different stages in drawing. He passes from the fingle circles or scrawls, the "scribbling" stage, to a "naming stage" of his pictures. To his mind, his marks on a paper resemble various objects.

GRAPHIC DESCRIPTION

Towards his third birthday, he begins to try to control his pencil and before long he is making crude drawings. The young child's drawings are graphic descriptions of objects as he sees them, with only the most important details appearing. Often as he draws, he will explain, "This is mummy" or "the train. See the smoke going chug-chug." In his pictures a shy child can express his feelings.

Children draw or paint for sheer enjoyment. They should not be hampered by adult suggestions. Neither should their pictures ever be ridiculed. A child is sensitive and rather than run the risk of being laughed at he will avoid time he will refrain from painting.

A little child's finger muscles are not sufficiently co-ordinated to work on tiny pictures. He should be given large sheets of paper, wrapping paper or newsprint may be used, at least eighteen by twenty-four inches. It is a good idea to hang the child's drawing up in his own room. He has put time and effort into his creation and so it is of value to him. If mother immediately throws it into the stove he thinks it is of no use in her opinion.

GOOD MATERIAL

Large size crayons, small jars of poster paint and colored chalk, (if care is taken with the dust from the chalk) are all good art material for children. A youngster likes to stand at an easel to paint or draw. His work is at his eye level. It is not difficult to make a simple easel at home with a shelf for little jars of poster or tempera paint and flat bristle brushes at the lower edge of the easel board. This poster paint can be washed from clothes and is not poisonous.

In recent years, in a number of schools, children have had the opportunity to do finger painting. This form of art can be carried out in homes, when it is comparatively easy for a child to put on a plastic or oilcloth apron, work on a table and be "cleaned up" when the painting time is over.

Finger painting is great fun. All the mother has to do is to provide materials to work with and let the child go ahead and paint. Sheets of glossy shelf paper or colored oilcloth can be used for finger painting. The child likes to keep his picture, as the shelf paper can be purchased by the roll and used over and over again.

Finger paint can be made from a cup of starch mixed into a paste with ¾ cup of cold water. Add 3¼ cups of boiling water and cook until thick in a double boiler. Then add ¾ cup talcum powder, ½ cup soap flakes and vegetable coloring.

Nancy Cleaver who writes the "For Parents Only" Syndicate feature wishes all her readers a Merry Christmas.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

O Could I Speak The Matchless Worth

O could I speak the matchless worth,
O could I sound the glories forth,
Which in my Savior shine,
I'd soar and touch the heav'nly strings
And vie with Gabriel while he sings
In notes almost divine.

I'd sing the precious blood He spilt,
My ransom from the dreadful guilt
Of sin and wrath divine;
I'd sing His glorious righteousness,
In which all perfect, heavenly dress
My soul shall ever shine.

I'd sing the characters He bears,
And all the forms of love He wears,
Exalted on His throne;
In lofties songs of sweetest praise,
I would to everlasting days
Make all His glories known.

Well, the delightful day will come
When my dear Lord will call me home,
And I shall see His face;
Then with my Savior, Brother, friend,
A blest eternity I'll spend,
Triumphant in His grace.

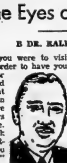
The world will always honor Dr. Isaac Watts for his hymns, but he was one of his sermons that was responsible, for the composition of Dr. Samuel Medley's great lyric, the words of which are reproduced above.

Medley, who was born in England in 1738, was the son of a school teacher and was reared in a Christian home. At the age of 18, however, he ran away and he drifted away from the home influences of his boyhood and he might never have found his way back to the church but for a serious injury which he suffered in the Seven Years War.

That famous conflict began shortly after Medley entered the navy. In 1757 he was severely wounded in a battle with the French off Port Lagos. It was while he was recuperating in the home of his grandfather in London that he yielded to the appeal of a sermon by Dr. Watts, read to him by his grandsire, and gave himself to Christ. Later, he left the navy, married, and taught school for four years. Then, in 1767, after coming the ministry, he accepted the pastorate of a large Baptist church in Liverpool.

For 27 years he had a most successful ministry. Many of his worshipers were men of the sea, and because he knew how to fill his sermons with expressions which appealed to sailors, he converted many of the mariners.

Between sermons, Dr. Medley found time to write his hymns. Most of them, including his beautiful and inspiring poem, "O Could I Speak The Matchless Worth", were dashed off on loose pages of rough paper. None of them is as well known as the one here published but this one gem is fine enough to assure its author everlasting fame and the eternal gratitude of posterity.



A little while before he died, as he felt himself growing weaker and realized that "The delightful day" of which he had sung in the closing stanza of his hymn was about to dawn for him, Dr. Medley fell again into the language of the sea which he always loved and he said to those gathered about him:

"I am now a poor, shattered bark, just about to gain the blissful harbor, and oh, how sweet will be the port after the storm! But a point or two more and I shall be at my heavenly Father's house".

A Lift For Living

The Eyes of The Heart

B DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

Suppose that you were to visit your doctor in order to have your eyes tested for new glasses. He would tell you to look at a wall chart on which there were rows of letters varying in size. He would ask about certain letters, "Can you see that one?" And you say, "Yes, so." That is physical vision.

Or suppose you go to consult a lawyer about your income tax. He tries to explain the intricacies of the tax laws. After a while you say, "I see." (That might be a slight exaggeration!) To the extent that you do see the points of the law, that is mental vision.

But now suppose your young daughter comes home to dinner tomorrow night. She goes through the meal with what she thinks is her usual composure. She tries to keep herself under control. But you, as her mother, detect a suppressed emotion in your daughter. After a time you say, "Mary, out with it. I see there's something on your mind." That is more than physical or mental vision. That is seeing with the eyes of the heart.

NEED ALL EYES

We do not discover all the facts and values of the world unless we use the eyes of the body, the eyes of the mind and the eyes of the heart. Saint Paul recognizes this truth when he writes to the Ephesians. In the 1st chapter of his letter he tells them that he is praying God to give them the spirit of wisdom and revelation. Then he uses these words: "Having the eyes of your heart enlightened." And it is about the eyes of the heart that we think at this time of the week of 1954.

Pause a moment to consider how the eyes of our bodies have been enlarged and enlighted by man's inventions. By means of the telescope we have lengthened man's eyesight until we have multiplied almost to infinitude the stars seen by the naked eye. With the aid of the microscope we can see a miniature world in a drop of water. By television we can penetrate stone walls and inky darkness to behold scenes long distances away.

STARK NOVEL

George Orwell has awakened us with some fiction series of man's ability to see into other minds. In his stark novel, "1984," he sketches a world in which men will have no privacy at all. Even his most intimate thoughts in darkened rooms will be detected by devices controlled from a central bureau of dictators. It is a fanciful picture with enough possible realism to make it a bit terrifying.

But what will the world of tomorrow become if we keep improving our mechanisms for lengthening the eyes of the body and the mind but do not "have the eyes of our hearts" enlightened? I do not raise the question in order to frighten us, but to assure us to what we are missing. God has so much more in store for us than we are now seeing.

Consider the children in our families. We parents want them to look up to us, but how much time do we find daily to look at them?

Thornton Wilder, in "Our Town," pictured a little girl returning from the land beyond the grave and saying something like this: "Mother, Father, I see! We never took time to look at each other when I was on earth."

LET US LOOK AROUND

Let's take time at this season when perhaps our children are home for the holidays, and really look at them, trying to understand them.

And how about that life partner who has lived with us as husband or wife, sharing our joys and sorrows? Maybe we have been so taking each other for granted that we have not looked deeply into the heart. Perhaps the hair is growing gray and strangers might think the liner in the face have marred its beauty, but when we look with the eyes of the heart, we see that love grows lovelier with the years.

And there are those persons whom we do not like. Charles Lamb, the poet, was a man of bitter prejudices. Once at a party Lamb noticed a person about whom he had written some critical words. The friend asked the poet if he did not wish to be introduced to him. "No," replied Lamb, "I meet him..I might like him."

At Christmas we commemorate One who came "to open the eyes of the blind." This means also "the eyes of the heart."

CHRISTMAS

There can be no Christmas without Christ.

Because Christ gave Christmas is Christ's birthday. Because Christ gave Himself to all men, His birthday is an occasion of joyful celebration for Christians.

There is no other birthday celebration like Christmas because there has been only one Christ Child. It is because there was the Babe in the manger of Bethlehem was God that we have Christmas.

The story of the first Christmas is ever new only because the Child Who was born was destined to be re-born in the hearts of men, forever.

There is significance to all the events surrounding the first Christmas. Christ was born in a stable because there was no room in the inn. He could have had a palace but a stable was adequate. Shepherds, not kings, heard the heavenly choir sing the first "Gloria."

"He came unto His own and His own received Him not."

Three Wise Men, following a star, brought gold, frankincense and myrrh from their distant realms to a tiny Babe, Whom they recognized with the eyes of faith as the King. The first Christmas was observed by the adoration of the humble and the gifts of believers.

It was the pattern for the proper observance of Christmas. But how often unanimate pride and lack of faith stand in the way of a proper observance of Christmas and lead to hollow disappointment when the promise of Christmas seems unfulfilled.

The key to a happy Christmas is recognition of Christ as the author of the festival; renewal of the humility of which His humble birth is the perfect example; and re-establishment of that faith in Him that gave three foreign kings forever the title of "Wise Men."

The angels sang the song of success at Christmas when they chorused "Glory to God in the Highest." Giving glory to God is the best of Christmas gifts. Good will is the source of that "peace which the world cannot give."

ACCIDENT RECORD IMPROVES

There is good news from the highway front.

During the first nine months of this year, the number of fatalities on Ontario highways declined by 1.3 per cent from the 1953 rate.

From the first of January until the end of September this year 615 persons were killed in traffic accidents. During the same period in 1953 623 persons met their deaths. The five-year average for 1949-1953, for the January to September periods, was 559 deaths. Personal injury accidents declined even more sharply, 2.2 per cent from the 1954 rate; accidents which involved property damage only were down 4.1 per cent and the decline in the total number of accidents was 3.6 per cent. There were, however, still 44,981 accidents reported during the first nine months of this year.

It is rather surprising to find only 101 accidents occurred as the result of driver passing another vehicle on a hill or on a curve. It is virtually impossible to take a Sunday drive without witnessing at least one example of this reckless procedure. If this figure is accurate we must conclude that many motorists owe their continued presence in the land of living to sheer good luck.

Speed too fast for the road or traffic conditions is given as the cause of 5,467 accidents. Driving off the roadway accounted for 2,483 mishaps. Not having the right of way is given as the cause of 2,852 accidents. The total number of accidents for the nine months summarized is given as 42,967; the other 31,994 accidents cannot all have been without any cause so we are forced to conclude that in many cases the police were unable to ascertain the reason for the accident.

In Hastings County this year there were 664 accidents in the first nine months of this year, compared with 612 in the same period last year. This year ten persons were killed, compared with 18 last year; 217 were hurt this year and 247 last year. Prince Edward County, with 135 accidents compared with 140 last year, saw two die, the same number as in 1953, and 40 suffer injuries; compared with 49 in 1953.

A SMART TRICK

Hope springs eternal . . .

There is somebody in Westfield, N.J., who might—who just might—be able to end the Cold War, settle the Ford strike, make filling out an income tax form a pleasure and even keep the kids in bed until noon on Christmas morning.

This unknown brain truster's credentials are based on performances, not promises.

The public library at Westfield, N.J., was moving to a new location. Moving day is always a muddle. But not for the Westfield library.

Readers were merely asked to borrow eight books each and return them when the library was in its new location.

Clever, eh?

JUST FOLES

CHRISTMAS EVE

They were tired and it was late
And the landlord shook his head.
"It would useless be to wait.
"I would useless be to wait.
Since the tax roll they must sign
As Augustus ordered them.
Every man of David's line
Must enroll at Bethlehem.

"There's a stable you may use,"
Said the landlord, "for the night."
But he hadn't heard the news,
And he hadn't seen the light
From a star high overhead
As did shepherds far away.
So, he sent them to the shed
Where he told them they could stay.

That was Christmas Eve to be Still remembered, and the
When the shepherds came to see
Mary's infant newly born.
Time the inn has battered down,
But the memory is kept
Of the Saviour and the town
And the manger where He slept.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL I. DOUGLASS

THE LAMPLIGHTER

The late Sir Henry Lauder, Scotch comedian, used to tell how as a child he went to a window every evening looking for the lamplighter. The street would grow dark and he could see the lamplighter approaching, but he knew when he had come and gone because the string of lights he left behind him.

How much we wish that we knew more about the life of our Lord here on earth and the many things he said which we know are not recorded. For the Apostle John tells us that there are also many other things which Jesus did, the which, if they should be written every one, I suppose that even the world itself could not contain the books that should be written (John 21:25).

Sometimes we do know enough about him to know that he has left behind him a string of lights which are the only guides for humanity in a dark world. The things he did, the acts he performed, the ideals he set up for individuals and nations, continue to be the world's great hope.

Amazing, is it not, that history has been changed by the birth of a Man born in an insignificant corner of the world, from among the common people?

But the world is still following the string of lights which he left behind. Shepherds looked up into the sky 2000 years ago and saw a great light and heard great words for a Saviour had been born to them and to the world, and he would be known for all time as Christ the Lord.

The Bennett Career

By ARTHUR BLAKELY

(In the Montreal Gazette)

The late Viscount Bennett is unquestionably the ugly duckling of Canadian politics. Alone among Canadian political ministers, he is unwept, unhonored and unsung.

Some seven years have passed since his death, and almost two decades since he last held office. But even today, he is attacked with vehemence by representatives of the political parties which had contained his adversaries. And his defence by the party which he once led has been something less than wholehearted.

He is remembered, by and large, only for what his political enemies have said of him.

* * *

The Liberals sold the public on the curious theory that Mr. Bennett created, alone and unaided, the great world-wide depression of the '30s — though it is a matter of record that the depression was well under way when he was sworn in as prime minister on Aug. 7, 1930, and that he owed much to that depression to his general election victory a week or so earlier. He was pictured to the public as the most arbitrary of dictators in a decade in which Hitler and Mussolini were coming to the peak of their attacks on dictatorship.

He is remembered as the author of the section 98 of the Criminal Code by many thousands who have never seen the "infamous" section or studied its provisions and who, even if they had seen it, that it had been introduced by a Liberal-Conservative coalition government many years before.

The late Lord Bennett has been portrayed so often and with such skill as an ogre, a bogey-man to frighten children, a depression-stricken public — that he is remembered by little else.

* * *

But periodically, there are little reminders of his important and sweeping changes enacted by him. It is still known as nothing else to friend and foe — which have outlasted Bennett himself and which without which Canada would be quite a different place.

In the constitutional field, he settled for Canada the question of terms of the Statute of Westminster.

Perhaps the greatest single achievement of the Bennett Government was in the field of trade and made a lasting change in the whole Canadian economy. This was the creation of the Empire Trade Agreement, which resulted in the establishment of many American branch plants here to take advantage of the preference concessions. And many concessions secured at that time still are effective.

* * *

He established central banking in Canada in 1934. And he appointed to head the Bank of Canada, Mr. Graham Towers, who has continued in that post and whose retirement has been announced as effective at the end of this year. And he appointed as deputy minister of finance, Dr. Clifford Clark, who, when death removed him from that post two years ago, was honored as one of the greatest figures in the history of the federal public service.

Did Not See Two Sides

(Minneapolis Tribune)

While rummaging through the public library card catalogue the other day, one of our number happened upon this interesting book title: "Woman Suffrage Wrong in Principle and Practice." The book turned out to be a substantial volume published in 1890. The author, boldly striking cyanide in his soup, described suffragettes as "female fiends, female fanatics, long haired lunatics, vain, conceited, fussy, would-be leaders of society."

Continuing in this vein for some 350 pages, the book is one long, perfervid argument against the ridiculous notion that women could ever be trusted with the vote sensibly on political issues. We quote from a few representative passages:

"In the highest human mental qualities — justice — where man approaches nearest deity, women are notoriously, lamentably, pitiably deficient. Most of them know not what it means; and never practise it for . . . The slow and cautious deliberation, the mental grasp, and the reaching insight to, and analysis of mingled motives, essential to justice, are far and away beyond them. That capacity is not even dormant, and therefore could not develop by cultivation. Women never see two sides to any question. . . ."

Pulled Two Ways

(New York Times)

Man's vaulting ambition, not content with the conquest of the sonic barrier, now impels him to prepare for the day when he will have the last obstacle in the way of escape from the gravitational pull of his planet. Two technical difficulties, a recent meeting of scientific societies concluded, are immense. Substitutes must be found for aluminum and other metals which cannot take the intense heat generated by a machine hurtling through space at 25,000 miles per hour. The effects of "fatigue" on the materials of which it is built must also be overcome.

Experts have said that a craft designed to pierce the thermal barrier be fitted with porous metal skin through which fuel could be pumped to keep the plane from melting. Another concluded that engineers might have to design "expendable" craft, fit for only one flight. But the men who will pilot these "flying bullets" will be made of stern stuff, the poet said, and man has taken the advice. Each assault on the unknown has made unbelievable feats of valor. Already man has ventured without compliant to searing heat and numbing cold. Will he some day subdue the gravitational pull?

There are signs that direction may yet have the last say; that man is beginning to fear the results of his insatiable ambition and the superhuman valor required to fulfill it. Very much like a child, terrified by the unknown, man regresses to what he believes must have been a more simple and less complicated past. He is forgetting that that past defied time and innovation. The Nineteen Fifties, which produced the hydrogen bomb, have produce a craft to project man beyond the sonic barrier, have also bred a generation of antiquarians.

The process of regression is quite familiar in the United States. Every year millions of Americans explore whatever ancient secrets are to be found in subterranean caves. There is some reason to suspect that the attractions of Niagara Falls, Carlsbad Caverns and the spurting geysers of Yosemite lie as much in their lessened liability as in their scenic beauty. Henry James' Daisy Miller roamed Europe in search of culture; her twentieth century sister roams through the caves of Europe in El Escorial and the myriad alleys of the Alhambra in search of monuments to man's unfulfilled ambitions.

Although the younger set continues to hang onto every celestial development, from Sputnik and Space Patrol and is not yet ready to accept the fact that it has the index to the drift from futurism is the amount of time and energy devote to astrological controversies. Did Jesus once preach in the Mohawk Valley? Did the Vikings settle on the coasts of Virginia 500 years before Columbus? Was a single, isolated event or a series of distinct glacial periods? Were they one while a new discovery reinforces the belief that man's proper place is on this side of the gravitational pull. Can anything be more comforting to the earth skeptics than the discovery of Cheops' sand-eaten space ship?

Devil to Pay In Milwaukee

(Toledo Blade)

Over in Milwaukee, a man who struck a child for throwing stones and "ruining his car wax" washing it was hailed into court. The judge, a thoughtful man, discharged the defendant that kindness would go further with children than threats. "Give the money you would otherwise pay as a fine," he said, "for toys and candy for the boy."

This approach to juvenile delinquency is worth considering to keep the glove compartment filled with things that might be missed. If they throw stones at the car, it'll be crackerjack and lawnmowers. If they scrape the fender with a penknife, a pair of skates or maybe a box of firecrackers. And just in case they break into the car and set it on fire, it'll be time to call it quits.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

OILY SKIN, BLACKHEADS AND PIMPLES.

Dr. Brady

In my early teens I suffered with oily skin, blackheads and pimples (doctors call it acne) and so I have a lot of sympathy for youngsters with this trouble, for boys and even more for girls, because a girl's vanity is tender and more easily hurt.

The urge every reader who has this common skin rash, eruption, blemish or whatever you please to call it, or who has a boy or girl so troubled, to send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope and ask in writing (Editors Note: Not available in Canada) for the pamphlet "Acne."

If you use the camphor-sulfur-glycerin-witch hazel lotion every night, following hot soap and water scrubbing, it will probably set up some irritation after four or five days. That is not bad, in fact it is desirable. Just give the treatment a rest for two or three days, or until the irritation subsides, then resume applications every night for each alternate night or twice in the week.

For goodness sake don't take any pamphlets or any part of it to the drugstore and ask the man to put up this or that "prescription" for you. The formulas or recipes I give you are not prescriptions. They are merely directions to guide you in making up the mixtures yourself. You can read, can't you?

If you don't want a client to ask embarrassing questions or try to sell you the nostrum that pays the largest profit, you must purchase the published sulfur in one store, the camphor water at another, the glycerin at a third and the witch hazel "extract" at the 5 and 10 maybe.

For the benefit of ignorant and vicious persons who know so much that isn't so, I repeat here what I say in the pamphlet:

Nearly all normal young persons have some acne—perhaps it is a blessing in that it tempers what might otherwise become insufferable vanity in youth.

Pimples are in no way related to "impure blood" (whatever that may be) and have no bearing whatever on the morality or the individual.

You have persons with oily skin, blackheads and a tendency to acne who should wash their faces often and rely on plain soap and water skin care. Others need the mildest, medicinal "beauty" or "penetrating" nostrums.

For excessive oiliness of the skin, without pimples, sop on the skin once daily a solution of two (10) grains each of resorcin in the ounce of bay rum, witch hazel or toilet water of any kind.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

LOSE YOURSELF

Watch a great artist at work, be he a painter, musician, or actor. Someone, commenting on the acting of Joseph Jefferson, said that in his characters of "Rip Van Winkle" and "Bob Acres" he was the character portrayed. Jefferson was "Rip Van Winkle" and "Bob Acres." That was because Jefferson himself had become the character.

Jesus in his ministry was always emphasizing this point. You recall the example of the Rich Young Ruler who came to talk with him and was told to go and sell everything that he had and then to come and follow him—but he departed "sorrowfully," for he placed a higher value upon himself than himself. That line in the Bible is something to ponder upon when we might be tempted to sacrifice self to the magic performance of Lib-erace on his piano. Or TV, of course, you can see him and are fascinated by the same personality, but if you only heard the music, lost in all would be the master artist himself, for as he plays all else is forgotten.

The great Edison lost himself in his work so deeply that even food and sleep would be cast aside so that he might achieve some objective toward which he had worked for days and sometimes months. He was very deaf and he often commented on the fact, saying that it enabled him to concentrate better and not hear many things that would be distracting anyway!

We don't get very far, and we are beset with troubles, when we try to accomplish things by keeping ourselves well in all the time. The sooner we lose ourselves and get busy on what we wish to accomplish, will we be granted peace and joy of service.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

One of my friends who doesn't stop to think is irritated by what he describes as the arrogant airs of some of the Canadians now living in Europe who have come to Canada.

"Why, they even adopt a lordly air," he complains. "They swagger. It takes me to have them over."

He is, of course, perfectly right. Jabbering away. In some foreign tongue, brush grandly by, as though they were all members of conquerors . . .

No, brothers, they are not conquerors, exactly. Many of them are people who have grown to man's or woman's estate without having known freedom. They have dreamed of it, in barrack rooms, in concentration camps, maybe, or at best, cowering in cities and towns that were taken over by common gangsters, they have never dared to walk, proudly, before. Proudly, as men and women all dream of walking. By joining the gangsters, they themselves walked proudly, as no doubt the gangsters walk. But instead, they came away.

And now they are in a country where anybody can walk with lordly air, if he feels so disposed. What's to prevent him? What a heavenly sensation it must be to walk, proudly, like a young man who has been through humiliations and defeats to a certain extent ever known, to feel the mere physical joy of swaggering, head up, shoulders back, as the world used to question his right to do so. Except, of course, a few local wits not to get in the habit of stopping to think.

We may imagine that many of our new Canadians are living in a heaven. They have escaped hell long. But while it lasts, I should think the majority of us can envy them and put up with it with a smile.

But whether they realize it or not, the new Canadians who crowd in the freedom to walk upright and look, men and women, are paying us the richest compliment possible. They are trying to be like us. And if they overdo it, now and again, it is only because they are amateurs.

Their children will be professionals of freedom.

Death of Vishinsky Ended Career of Cold War Leader

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The death of Andrei Vishinsky in 1954's closing weeks ended the career of one of the chief figures in the cold war, based on a month-piece at the United Nations, Vishinsky slumped dead at his desk here, 32 while working on a speech he was to have delivered that day to the UN general assembly in New York. He was 70.

Vishinsky made his name as prosecutor at the sensational Moscow purge trials in the 1930s which sent to their deaths Soviet leaders who had earned Stalin's enmity. Vishinsky went on to become a leading Soviet agent in the enslavement of the Baltic countries and Romania. At the UN he was noted for his skill in debate and his vitriolic tirades against the West.

The year brought death also to other world leaders. Alcide De Gasperi, 73, premier of Italy's first post-war governments who aligned the country firmly with the West, died Aug. 19. Viscount Simon, former British foreign secretary, died Jan. 11, at 80. Viscount Norwich, 85, better known as Alfred Duff Cooper, member of Winston Churchill's wartime government, died at sea New Year's Day.

The world of art lost Henri Matisse, the French painter, who died Nov. 3 at 84. Lonsdale Barrymore, noted member of a noted stage family, died in California Nov. 15. Other stage and screen personalities who died during the year included Sydney Greenstreet, 74, fat man villain of many a movie; John Murray Anderson, Newfoundland-born producer; Frederick Lonsdale, 73, British playwright.

WALTZ COMPOSER DIED

Western Europe Prospered On Crest of Industrial Boom

By SEYMOUR TOPPING

LONDON (AP)—Western Europe prospered in 1954 on the crest of a record industrial boom and the healthy business trend is expected to continue into the new year.

The astonishing recovery by the 300,000,000 Europeans this side of the Iron Curtain spelled out a major victory for the West in stiffening western Europe's resistance to Communist penetration.

The flush of prosperity came to the war-lit West Germans and the long-austere British, who finally threw away their ration books. Millions got their first taste of comfortable living since pre-war days.

F.M.F. GOADS FRANCE

France's dynamic Premier Pierre Mendes-France began expanding and injecting more freedom into France's sluggish economy, and officials claimed prospects are bright.

Although bad weather made for poor harvests, especially in Spain and Yugoslavia, experts estimated western Europe's gross national product for 1954 at an all-time high of about $200,000,000,000 — some 10 per cent above last year.

Industrial output soared to record peaks, especially in metals, chemicals and the building trades.

Officials and industrialists are cautiously optimistic that favorable conditions will continue to improve in the first few months of 1955 and possibly through the whole year. West Europe's demand for goods—spent-up for more than a decade—shows no signs of letting up. The boom so far has not started any steep inflationary trend.

The general expectation is that all of 155 will be a good year.

CONSTRUCTION BOOMS

Lagging in the rising production trend were the Swiss watch industry, Italian shipbuilding and Dutch textiles — all running into trouble with foreign competition. Production in Britain's coal industry fell behind, because of a manpower shortage.

North American tourists, coming back after an absence of several years, do a surprised "double take" at the spruced-up faces of European cities. Thousands of new homes and factories are mushrooming in a building-making construction drive. TV aerials have become a common sight.

Highways are crowded with gleaming new cars, motorcycles and scooters pouring out of Europe's factories in unsurpassed numbers. Shops are jammed with clothes and household appliances and thronged with busy people who look better fed and dressed than 12 months ago.

The cost of living has gone up a little. But wages generally have kept pace and the average western European is enjoying more goods and services. There are few jobless. The notable exception is overpopulated Italy, where rising production and a record tourist trade show no signs of overcoming the chronic unemployment problem.

Top World News Story of '54 Was Fall of Dien Bien Phu

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two dramatic triumphs of youth and grit were cheerful highlights of the world news picture as seen by Canadians in 1954.

War and destruction were still the biggest business builders. Fall of the French indochinese fortress of Dien Bien Phu was picked as the Canadian Press poll of daily newspaper telegraph editors as the world news story of the year, and hurricane Hazel with its 81 deaths as top Canadian.

But second place in Canadian news went to Marilyn Bell's conquest of Lake Ontario; and second place in world news to Roger Bannister's achievement of the first four-minute mile.

MOST IMPACT

Editors were asked to pick the six world and six Canadian stories of the year with the most impact on their selections:

World: 1, Dien Bien Phu; 2, Bannister's mile; 3, German rearmament agreement; 4, five U.S. congressmen shot; 5, Pope Pius' illness; 6, Australia's Petrov case.

Canadian: 1, Hurricane Hazel; 2, Marilyn Bell swim; 3, Moose Jaw plane crash; 4, Emilie Dionne death; 5, Grey Cup final; 6, start of seaway project.

Fall May Fe Dien Bien Phu, after its long defence highlighted by the tenacity of a French nurse and a dashing commander, barely got the call in world news over the of research.

CLOSE THIRD

A close third was agreement by the Western Allies in late September on a plan for German rearmament, which just edged out the startling March shooting of five U.S. congressmen in the Capitol at Washington.

Pope Pius' illness, and the decision to the West of Vladimir Petrov, setting off the continuing Australian espionage case, rounded out the top half-dozen world stories.

Revolt in Guatemala, censure of Senator McCarthy, Churchill's birthday, the United States elections, and the Comet crash off Elba were other stories frequently mentioned.

Lining up at the counter of Belleville's largest cafeteria are students of Quinte Secondary School, College St. West. The cafeteria opened last week, is doing capacity business in its 276 seat dining hall while serving full course meals each school day at 40 cents for 25 cents.

Shown behind the modern serving counter are the cash register are student waitresses, four of whom help the dietitian and assistant dietitian each day.

The lineup formed each day immediately after the 12.00 o'clock horn, is completely served by 12.15. The cafeteria serves more than 100 full course meals each noon, and in addition sells milk and dessert to those who bring their own main course.

Children, Adults Enjoy Station Christmas Party

A "stand-down" took place in RCAF Station, Trenton, at noon on Wednesday, December 22nd, to let personnel attend the Christmas party with their children. By 1.30 in the afternoon the drill hall was filled to overflowing with children of all ages and adults, all anxious to get a peek at St. Nick.

There were clowns on hand to amuse the children and a puppet show was one of the main events of the party.

"Tweedy and Sylvester" appeared on the tiny stage and sang their song, "I ot I tuw a Puddy Tat." A "Liberace" puppet appeared, accompanied by the grand piano, candelabra, and "George". Appropriate music was provided by the puppets by recordings.

CHOIR PLEASES GATHERING

A choir of Broadmer school students pleased the crowd with Christmas hymns. The Training Command Band directed by F. O. Hunt, played Christmas music which was enjoyed by all.

Dressed in his bright red clothes trimmed with glistening white fur, and wearing shiny black boots, Santa Claus appeared in the South Station Drill hall at about 2 p.m., to greet the host of kiddies and to hand out samples of toys and bags of candies and nuts.

Santa sat on a dais set well above the crowd, where all the children were able to see him. Shouts of "Merry Christmas" and "Hi Santa Claus" could be heard from the farthest corners of the drill hall.

Upon presenting an age-tag to one of Santa's helpers, in the booths behind the dais on which Santa sat, each child was rewarded with a Christmas gift and a bag of assorted candies and nuts.

Nourishing Dinners at Low Cost Served in New H. S. Dining Hall

By BOYD UPFER

The largest cafeteria in Belleville opened last week offering full course meals at noon for 40 cents. It has been doing capacity business since.

This haven for the hungry is the most recent section of the Quinte Secondary School, College St. West, to be put into service.

Each school day at noon its 276 seats are filled with students, diners. Each school day approximately 100 full course meals are served. In addition, milk and desserts are sold to those who bring their own main lunches.

Meals, prepared by Mrs. J. Sherwood, dietitian, and Mrs. W. Bushell, assistant dietitian, are served piping hot from large warming closets with the assistance of three enthusiastic student volunteers who are rewarded with a free meal. A student cashier records all sales. A call for volunteers produced such a response that student helpers will be rotated weekly.

A typical meal includes cooked ham, potatoes, carrots, bread and butter, white or chocolate milk and apple pie a la mode. Charge was 35 cents. Daily variations on this basic menu include pork chops, sausage, different vegetables and a variety of desserts. Tea, coffee and soft drinks are not served.

COSTS WATCHED CLOSELY

How can the school afford to serve a meal like that for 35 cents?

The answer is careful planning, quantity buying, a one item menu each day, quantity cooking and a policy of serving meals at cost.

Careful planning includes daily check each morning when attendance is taken in the classroom, of those who want a full dinner, milk and desserts that day. This information is relayed from Principal Leslie Reid to Mrs. Sherwood in the kitchen. Knowing almost exactly how many people are for eliminates waste and helps make possible the economical cost of the meals.

A cafeteria that supplies hot, nourishing meals is doubly important at the Quinte Secondary School where a large proportion of the student population, transported to the school from the surrounding rural area, is unable to go home at noon for hot meals.

Next year, when the school population is expected to increase from 370 to approximately 550, the cafeteria will be called upon to serve students by two shifts.

Principal Reid hopes that the staggered lunch hour great year will free the final period of the day for an "activities period."

"At present," he explained, "students from the rural area and surrounding villages are unable to take as full a part as they might like in extra-curricular activities because they have to leave for home at 4.00 o'clock. If the final period of the day can be cleared by staggering lunch hours, it will be possible to hold the intra-mural athletic program, glee club, drama guild and band practices for all students before 4.00 p.m. giving non-resident students a full part in school activity."

MODERN KITCHEN

Meals are prepared in a modern, up-to-the-minute kitchen equipped with two large commercial-type ranges with a combination of top for withdrawing odors, a 40-cubic foot refrigerator, as ice cream cooler, vegetable preparation table, bins for bulk flour and sugar, meat slicer, and food mixer. The potato peeler can handle a bag of potatoes in seven minutes.

The serving counter is backed by a refrigerated dessert shield a large steam table with recessed stainless steel pans, and a beverage urn. Warming closets under the counter keep plates warm. Meals are started under the counter for easy handling during rush periods.

A large pantry is just across the hall from the kitchen. The hall has an outside entrance for delivery service direct to the pantry or kitchen.

Separate trays are provided to carry dishes. Dirty dishes, returned to the kitchen by students, pass beneath a hot water pressure before being put in racks for passage through the mechanical dish washer. Dishes, rinsed in hot water, are dried in the drainboard, are self-drying and require no wiping. Only cutlery is used.

ATTRACTIVE DINING HALL

The dining hall, when finished, will be almost as attractive as the meals. Windows covering the entire south wall give the dining hall a light, airy atmosphere that is complemented by the green drapes in the school colors. The acoustic tile ceiling and vinyl tile floor deaden noise most effectively.

Line-ups form at the cafeteria counter immediately following the 12.00 o'clock horn, not bell, in the Quinte Secondary School, and 12.15 all diners have been served. The cafeteria is deserted before 12.40.

The cafeteria is located at the west end of the school adjacent to the combination gymnasium-auditorium. This arrangement is particularly possible for the school to rent either or both units for community activity when the auditorium is opened every noon year and at the same time seal off the rest of the school.

Thirty Needy Families Helped By Elks Order

Santa came early for 30 needy families in Belleville and area this year.

The jolly old fur-coated fellow came to the 30 families in the guise of members of the local Elks Club who Thursday evening distributed well filled boxes of groceries to the families who otherwise may have had a lean Christmas.

A dozen of so members of the local Elks, headed by Exalted Ruler Ralph Downey, gathered at the Moira Street lire hall last night, packed up boxes of groceries, which had been prepared beforehand and then pla

Demand for New Dwellings Has Eased in Many Centres Despite Easier Access to Money

OTTAWA (CP)—There are indications that the demand for new dwellings, despite easier access to mortgage money, has eased a bit in many Canadian centres.

Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation reported Tuesday that Corporation reported recently that fings during the first eight months this year—71,567—were three per cent more than in the same period of 1953—69,463. This indicates a high-level of demand, CMHC said, but the demand is not so broadly based geographically.

While there was considerable demand in some centres, most places had fewer housing starts than in 1953. The increase for the whole country, for example, was below that for the Toronto area alone.

OTHER AREAS

In centres of more than 5,000 population, other than Toronto, starts were down three per cent to 43,152 from 45,007 in the first eight months of 1953. Starts in other areas showed little change early this year, but their oldest weakness of a pickup in the last three months.

Higher personal incomes and a growth in the number of families supported the demand for new housing, the government agency said, but the main credit belongs to increased mortgage opportunities under the government's new National Housing Act.

That law, passed at the last session of Parliament, enables lower down payments, longer repayment periods and higher maximum loans. It widened the asset and income ranges of potential borrowers and, through government-guaranteed mortgages, brought the banks into the mortgage-loan field.

PRIVATELY FINANCED

CMHC said 71,055 of the construction starts in the eight-month period were privately financed compared with 68,363 in that period of 1953. That was an increase of four per cent.

Completions of new dwellings, excepting conversions, were up nine per cent to 57,672 from 53,764 in the first eight months. The corporation said the increase reflects the larger number of dwellings under construction at the start of 1954.

There were 102,409 construction starts in all of 1953 and 96,838 completions.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

TOUP BETTER GO BACK TO YOUR HUSBAND IF HE WILL HAVE YOU

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 19 years old, and have been married for five years. I have two children.

Above eight months ago, I fell in love with a man who says he loves me and wants to marry me. I don't think I could bear to give him up, so I have asked him to finance my divorce. He said he would when he got some bills paid up.

I have already given my husband up for this man, and it seems to me that if he loved me as much as he says he does, he would find some way to help me get my divorce immediately. Don't you think so? How can I, considering whether he really does love me, or is just telling me lies.

Please let me what you think about all of this. —L.M.C.

What I think about all this is that, unless you have some very good reason for leaving your husband, you had better see if he will take you back and, if he does, start trying to be the kind of wife and mother you ought to be. It is tragic that two married while still a child, but you don't say your husband has not been good to you, and if that is the case, then you ought to stay with him and make the proper kind of home for him and your children.

I think the chances are that this other man has no intention of marrying you, and that how long you will find yourself left alone to solve a best you can for the problems you have brought upon yourself.

You live in a large city where there must be some family welfare organization to which you could go for advice. I suggest that you find out where it is, and go there immediately to discuss this matter before you find yourself in worse difficulties.

WAIT AND SEE IF THIS BOY INTENDS TO WRITE YOU

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My sister and her boy friend introduced me to one of his friends, who seems to be a perfect match for me.

When he gave me a first date, kiss, I did not refuse, for he had said something that I had not heard from any other boy and I admired him for his respect for me.

I am now told by my mother, my sister and her boy friend that I acted too fast and threw myself at him.

He is in the service, and after our third date on the weekend pass, he returned to the base, first asking me to write to him at least three times a week and promising to answer. He wrote me one letter the first day back at the base, but hasn't as yet answered any of the letters I have written him, and I have a feeling that the reason is because he thinks the way I acted toward him was just the way I have acted toward any boy I met.

How should I write and explain that I never acted that way before on a first date, or that I had a reason I acted that way with him is because I admired him more than any other fellow I met?

— N.S.N.

Dear N.S.N.:

Why don't you just wait and see if this boy really intends to write you regularly? I rather doubt that you acted in any way that made him feel you were too forward. After all, you didn't ask him to kiss you, did you?

Dont let anything that has been said to you by your mother, or your sister and her boy friend worry you. If you know yourself that you did nothing more than you have told me, on your dates with this boy, there is certainly nothing to worry about.

If he does write you, be careful not to go overboard in your replies to him, but just have a nice friendly correspondence and let things take their course. I'm sure you're over-concerned about the whole matter.

AN APPLE, some whole cloves, a length of red or green ribbon—that's all your little girl needs to make a fragrant closet accessory for a gift. Stick cloves into the apple until it is covered, tie the ribbon around it—leave a loop to hang the Spice Ball.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMESON

BY YOUR HANDS SHALL YE BE JUDGED

Like people, hands can be dumb or eloquent. We say goodbye with a wave of the finger tips. We beckon an order that says "come hither" or "go." We express approval, clasp them together to express ecstacy. We lift our hands in horror. The mother rebukes a child with an uplifted finger.

We judge others by their hand habits. Stand rigidly with your hands on your hips and see right as if you considered yourself the boss of the world. Even the smallest, kindest woman will look belligerent when she takes that pose.

Let us observe the affected young lady—who turns her head coyly to one side, draws her flattened fingers over her head, smoothing the wave lines, pats the temples and twists them. What do the hands say then? They tell you that she is vain, that she wishes to pose, that she is play-acting in an endeavor to call attention to her charms.

What do you think of the woman who holds a tea cup but lets her little finger extended? You laugh, don't you? You look upon this little affectation as something amusing, and you wonder why she hasn't learned that it is a silly habit. That little pinky strutting its stuff is indicative of her character. She wants so terribly to be oh-so-nice and she doesn't know how, poor dear.

Shy girls hide their hands, or try to. Gawky, ones of the awkward age place their palms downward on their knees. Trim, critical old ladies fold their hands on their tummies and look like tigers in the old family album—definitely come alive.

The manner of the handshake tells a story too. The warm handclasp bespeaks friendship. If you are offered limp, cold fingers that barely touch your own you wince for the person as the deuly's head at the feast.

Going Places

Resolutions for Travellers

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

New Year's resolutions usually are aimed at helping you do a little better unto others in the coming year.

But if you'll try on for size some of the self-protection noted below, prepared for those occasions when you'll be going places and seeing things, you'll observe that you're actually doing yourself as much of a favor as the next guy. For instance:

Resolved: I will never, never again pull out of a parking space, driveway, or intersection and into the line of traffic, without first making sure the road is clear and no one behind me will be forced to jam on his brakes or otherwise risk an accident to avoid me.

And I'll never pull out at a line of traffic to pass some one else, without first making sure that no one is already in the process of passing me.

NOT TRIVIAL

If you think these resolutions are capricious or trivial, you'll be interested to know that one of the most scientific studies of the causes of highway accidents ever conducted—by the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission—recently indicated that a large majority of accidents are not caused by speeding, or any of the other common scapegoats. They result from incompetent driving: simply not knowing the rules of highway procedure and how to handle a car skillfully.)

Resolved: I will make it my business always to take the trouble to cancel reservations I don't need.

If the air, train or every traveller fulfills this simple but important courtesy, they'll soon again have to rush down to the railroad station or airport, gambling that someone with a reservation won't show up.

You'll never get into a hotel late at night, exhausted, and be denied a room with the half-truth: "We didn't have any rooms checked out we expected."

ONE OUT OF FIVE

Translated from hoteliese, that really means a bigger percentage of people with reservations showed up than usual. Usual is about 80 per cent:one out of five persons with hotel reservations neither shows up nor cancel his reservation.

Resolved: When stopping at a hotel, I will try to remember that even though the people behind the closed doors can't see me, they can hear me coming down the corridor.

Early or late, there's nothing more disturbing to a guest in a hotel room than people coming down the hall carrying on loud conversations. Most such oblivious strollers would be acutely embarrassed if they stopped to realize that behind each of those dumbbooking doors is a fellow guest who can hear every word.

NO HARD TIME

Resolved: On trains, planes, and buses I'll keep my coat and personal belongings at the seat next to me, so another passenger who may want the seat won't have to ask me to remove them.

Resolved: I'll never give a hard time to conductors, airline stewardesses, ticket agents, room clerks, and others whose job it is to serve the public, and who usually are personally innocent of any fault in what I'm compaling about.

Resolved: I will do those little things on the highway that not only promote safety, but are common courtesies of civilized human beings: Dim my lights for 50th oncoming cars and those in front of me. Try to avoid splashing rainwater from my wheels onto pedestrians. Not sneak into the right hand lane at traffic lights, to get the jump on property placed forward; not make corner turns from the opposite (wrong) lane. Not "lock in" the cars behind, or in front of which I park.

You get the idea . . . Happy New Year!

Film Council Presents Adult Education Topic

An adult educational program was presented on Tuesday evening by the Belleville district Film Council with Dr. A. M. Breuls, M.O.H. of Belleville, as the guest speaker. The topic under discussion was entitled "Tuberculosis" followed by a film "A Fair Chance," depicting the rehabilitation of a patient after leaving the sanatorium.

Dr. Breuls stated that it was better to prevent than to cure disease, that his associates and family show the utmost understanding and tolerance by helping him to adjust himself to normal family life and business routine.

NOT A SCOURGE

Tuberculosis today is not the scourge to mankind that it was in the past. Dr. Breuls said that fifty years ago, six times more persons died of T.B. than today. Government assistance has helped greatly, also the Christmas Seal campaign, which includes, health clinics, mobile units, chest X-ray (this being done in larger centres upon admittance to hospital), a six month checkup on persons who have been discharged as "arrested" from the sanatorium.

A spontaneous discussion period, led by a delighted audience, concluded the evening's program.

Refreshments followed, under the convenership of Mrs. Ted Gibson and Miss Olive Delaney.

LEGISLATURE OPENING

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP)—Premier Matheson announced Thursday that the Prince Edward Island legislature will meet Feb. 8. Speculation here is that a general election will follow the session. The premier leads 23 Liberals in the House against a six-man Progressive Conservative Opposition.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

DECEMBER BIRTHSTONES . . . THREE . . . ALL BLUE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

All of my sister's birthday is on the day of May and her engagement is to be announced on that important day. I'd like to give her a piece of jewelry (even costume jewelry) on that day, and I am thinking of giving her something set with her birthstone, perhaps a clip or a pin, but a ring, of course, for she'll be wearing her engagement ring.) But I'm not at all sure what really is the December birthstone, for I've heard several mentioned. Please tell me.

—Sister Susan

Actually there are three birthstones assigned to December. All of them blue, and all interesting shades of blue: Turquoise . . . Lapis Lazuli . . . and Zircon. A turquoise (which is supposed to bring success in the affairs of the heart!) may be of a beautiful azure blue, or a greenish blue. The Lapis Lazuli, of deep, rich blue, is full of ancient lore and mystery. The Blue Zircon, the third of December's birthstones, is very popular in the Blue Zircon, in glowing aquamarine tones, is the form most favored. It blends harmoniously with practically all colors, and is lovely in shades of blue.

SHOULD SHE TELL HIM SHE'S SEEN THAT MOVIE?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Do you or any girl should tell her date that she has already seen the movie he is suggesting they see?

Yes . . . I think it's wise, the best plan, for her to tell him she's already seen the movie. It's not too easy to go through the entire evening discussing the fact that she's seen the movie and that's certainly embarrassing! If she really should truly would like to see it again, she may try to convince him of this, otherwise it is better for both to settle for another movie.

WHEN TO FILL WATER GLASSES

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Tell me, please: Is it correct to have the water glasses filled before the guests come into the dining room? — H.D.

Yes.

SON DOESN'T WANT FATHER'S NAME MENTIONED IN ANNOUNCEMENT

My son's engagement is to be announced soon, and we have very special problem about the announcement. His father and I are separated. I feel that, in the announcement, my son should acknowledge his father's name, but doesn't want him to. Is my husband's name . . . for example, Mrs. Martin Jones.) My husband and I both live in this town. Please tell me the correct form for the names in the announcement. — Mother

Since you and your husband are separated, not divorced, and you both, and correctly, use his name, the correct form would be: " . . . to Mr. Edward Russell Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Jones, of Center Village, Ohio." I hope you can persuade your son to use his form, which gives dignity to the a n n o u n c e m e n t, and which makes no explanation of a circumstance (the separation) that needn't at this time be explained publicly. If he can't be persuaded, the only alternative I can think of is your father's name: " . . . to Mr. Edward Russell Jones, the son of Mrs. Martin Jones, of Center Village, Ohio."

Expect the Best

By Mary Moore

When asked Paul said he wanted a hammer. Doris said she wanted a pipe wrench. I said I wanted a "muff" for the steering wheel.

My neighbor Eleanor said that's fine, I must say. All the sentiment is stripped from Christmas with pipe wrenches and steering wheel covers! I'm going to buy you what I want to buy you and have some fun choosing."

She delights me. She has a wonderful faculty or being able to stay right on the beam. She said something else that to repeat will not be modest but I will risk it because I feel it might help the mothers of teen agers who read this.

As I told you earlier in the week I had a party here in our recreation room for a high school class of teen agers—boys and girls. If not wanting to go home and noise and music and more noise and crokinole and square dancing and "round" dancing are any sign—the party was a success.

The morning after the party a mother of one of the teen-aged boys said to Eleanor "Did Joe behave? Did he dance with the girls?" Eleanor replied "I have not seen Mary that morning yet but you can depend on it she will bring out the best in them."

Goodness knows their unchilel potential is terrific and I dearly wanted to bring out the best in them—but I did not know I had an established reputation for doing so. I floated on a rosy cloud all day after hearing that.

Kids are wonderful. They are full of good. All we have to do is release it. Expect the best and you'll get it heaped up and running over.

. . . and I do mean "running over." I asked the boys to move some chairs for the girls. "Sure Mrs. Moore—right away." So they did—with the girls on them!

Boys who had never passed a cup or plate to a girl in their lives draped paper napkins over their arms passed food and beverages tirelessly until all were full to the brim. A real and wonderful help to Marianne and me. Those same boys washed dishes too.

We all know that Christmas brings out the best in us, grown up and conscientious and responsible as we may be. The difficult task is to hang on to that Christmas spirit all through the year. It is so easy to lapse. No wonder the song writer sang "Don't wait until the night before Christmas to be good."

More than once I've been pampered with "I bought myself a Christmas present." What a travesty of the real spirit of giving. What a farce! How can any sane woman who professes to be a Christian or even think believe that Christ died for us and that we commemorate His birthday by sharing and giving gifts—how can she interpret this supreme sacrifice as meaning she may give a gift to herself?

Silliness, of course, much often-er, we see evidence of such self-effacement that it is nothing less than holy. Mothers of large families who really work their fingers to the bone to wreat some Christmas cheer from limited budgets. Not right in the audience whose husbands are on strike and whose children will have a slim Christmas indeed this year.

They are the heroines to whom we should pay tribute. Their husbands expect their uncomplaining co-operative best. Their children confidently expect the best. They are disappointed if they give their utmost, and their treasured reward is to sing the smiling faces of their beloved young ones on Christmas morning.

All year long in 1955 expect the best from the young people in your care, and you will receive a full measure heaped up and running over.

Merry Christmas in full measure, from

Faithfully yours
Mary Moore

Chaperoning Girls Takes Mrs. Goetz To Many Strange Lands, Places

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Mrs. Agnes Goetz spent last Christmas in Frankfurt, Germany. She'll probably be in Casablanca this year. She covered a lot of ground for a woman who spent many years as a housewife.

Three years ago Mrs. Goetz was a contented homemaker in Dayton, Ohio. Then her mother died. Two weeks later her newly-married daughter, Ann, was struck by infantile polio. Within five days she was dead.

Mrs. Goetz' life seemed to lose its purpose.

Her husband is Col. Joseph Goetz, U.S. Air Force officer in charge of supplying entertainment for all the services. He brought her to Hollywood, where he was rearranging a show to entertain troops in Alaska and for the premiere of "Would Is His Arms."

WARDROBE MISTRESS

"We were in the commissary at Universal - International," Mrs. Goetz recalls. "Bill Goetz (no relation), who was head of the studio then, dropped by and suggested that I go along on the trip as sort of wardrobe mistress for the girls.

"At first I didn't think much of the idea. But then I thought it might be good for me. I foolishly that I had been shunning the company of young people ever since my daughter died. I guess it was a subconscious thing, as I wouldn't remember and be hurt again."

The girls—Ann Blyth, Lori Nelson, Joyce Holden and others—were all her daughter's age, and she enjoyed being with them. She was too busy taking care of their clothes to review any memories.

Last Christmas, Mrs. Goetz hit the global road again. She went along as manager of one of the many entertainment tours Hollywood sends to American servicemen everywhere at Christmas. Her unit was headed by Maxie Rosenbloom and went through Germany, France, Iceland and the Azores.

Last summer she was approached by a New York agent who arranges camp shows to be sponsored by commercial products. He wanted her to manage a tour for a cigarette sponsor.

She was gone 10 weeks, touring Germany, Berlin, France, England and Scotland. This Christmas she again will manage the Rosenbloom tour, going to North Africa, Cuba, Bermuda and Puerto Rico.

Her future trips may take her to more distant places. One plan is to accompany a group of classical artists to India, Pakistan and other places. This is being considered by the U.S. state department, which has sent to other countries in an effort to woo goodwill.

Mrs. Goetz, a trim, greying brunette, says her duties include everything from chaperoning the girls to finding mirrors for the entertainers to use for their makeup.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Once upon a time there was a popular expression that went: How high is up? Apply it to bridge with vigor. Nothing in the game is more important than knowing how high to bid.

Every lavender of a bridge bidding system has his pet method of measuring the limit of your best final contract. Some seem to go to logarithms for their inspiration; some to the natural.

Culbertson uses the basis of honor tricks; combining the honor cards into 3 and a fraction; four to five take seven tricks; five to 5½ take eight tricks; six or more take nine tricks; 6½ to eight, slam.

The Goren basis is points; four for ace, three for king, two for queen, one for jack; total 40 points; 16 to 18 take seven tricks; 19 to 23 eight tricks; 26, nine tricks; 33 or more, slam.

Each of these authors modify, augment, deduct here and there to fit certain situations. But the main basics form the nucleus of how a player or pair measures the trick-taking possibilities.

Accordin' to Gordon, each high card is a no-trump trick and add one for each short card for suit tricks; seven takes seven, eight takes eight, nine takes nine. 12 prompts slam probe.

Your south partner opens with a heart and your north hand has a response of two hearts in the pale shown here:

SOUTH	NORTH
♠8 4	♠10 6 5 3
♥K Q 10 6 3	♥9 8 4 2
♦A 9 8	♦6 5 4
♣A 7 2	♣A Q 8

With hearts as trumps your pair expects to take eight tricks. Culbertson rules that you there with its five honor tricks; Goren rules show it to you with its 19 points.

My rules tell you south has five tricks (four high cards and a short in spades); you have three tricks (two high cards and a short in diamonds). A contract of two calls for eight tricks. On the button.

Deal out some hands and seriously compare each method. Will you ask me which is easiest, and most accurate? Don't be funny.

Monroe and Brando Figures Of Year in Hollywood

Another hectic Hollywood year, 1954 brought fewer scandals, more marriages, fewer divorces, longer pictures, better acting and less new talent than other years. Business was good, and there was little of the panic talk that had plagued the film industry from 1948 to 1953.

Marilyn Monroe was the top female personality in Hollywood during 1954. Her studio suspension, marriage to and divorce from Joe DiMaggio made headlines everywhere. All she had to do was stand over a sidewalk grate in New York. Whoosh! Her picture was on all the front pages.

BRANDO MADE NEWS

Brando drew almost as much attention. He walked out on "The Egyptian," was sued for millions, stilled things by playing Napoleon. He journeyed to France, got himself engaged to the step-daughter of a fisherman. Many critics hailed him as best actor since John Barrymore.

Best male star performances: Marlon Brando, "On the Waterfront"; Bing Crosby, "The Country Girl"; James Mason, "A Star Is Born"; Humphrey Bogart, "The Caine Mutiny"; William Holden, "Executive Suite."

Best female star performances: Judy Garland, "A Star Is Born"; Grace Kelly, "The Country Girl"; Eva Marie Saint, "On the Waterfront"; Ava Gardner, "The Barefoot Contessa"; Jean Simmons, "Desiree."

Best pictures: "On The Waterfront," "A Star Is Born," "Executive Suite," "The Country Girl," "20,000 Leagues under the Sea."

Best musical: "Seven Brides for Seven Brothers."

Best new TV show: Disneyland.

Surprise movie hit: "Dragnet."

Best TV find: George Gobel.

Best movie song: "Three Coins in the Fountain."

Comeback of the year: Frank Sinatra.

Worst epic: "King of the Khyber Rifles."

Most overworked name in gags: Liberace.

Christmas Card Idea Originated By Englishman

Christmas cards are so much a part of the modern Yule season that one seldom stops to wonder how the idea originated and by whom.

This simple idea of wishing your friends a Merry Christmas brought honor and knighthood to the originator, Henry Cole, a middleclass Englishman.

Cole mailed his cards on a December day in 1846, the cards depicted a Victorian family assembled at the festive board and the traditional Christmas custom of giving to the poor. They also bore the now-classic greeting: "A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to You." He had a thousand of the cards struck off by a lithograph. They were such a success that plain Henry Cole subsequently became Sir Henry Cole.

The cards we send today, however, a far cry from those mailed by Cole. The cards you send and receive this year will be designed by famous names in contemporary art.

An American shopping for cards this year may select scenes painted by such famous people as Winston Churchill, Britain's prime minister and famed amateur artist, and Grandma Moses, one of America's most famous artists.

The demand for cards is so great that many companies spend their entire time in designing and producing them for the holiday season.

Relatively Quiet Course For Federal Politics in '54

By ALAN DONELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — A cabinet shuffle, biggest in seven years, and the rise and fall of a tax conference between the federal and Quebec governments, marked the relatively quiet course of federal politics in 1954.

The cabinet changes involved eight persons, the retirement of three veteran ministers and the appointment of two new cabinet members.

The moves came July 1 after prorogation of a seven-month session of Parliament during which the Quebec tax dispute took shape.

CCF GAINS A' SEAT

Parliament blazed no major legislative trails in its first session since the 1953 elections. In two by-election campaigns involving 10 Commons seats, there was only one change from the voters' 1953 verdict—a CCF gain in Manitoba Beaches.

Three cabinet ministers, Defence Minister Claxton, Finance Minister Abbott and Transport Minister Chevrier, resigned. Mr. Claxton became an insurance company executive, Mr. Abbott moved to the Supreme Court and Mr. Chevrier was appointed first president of the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority.

Replacing Defence Minister Campney took over Mr. Claxton's job and the associate minister post was left vacant. Immigration Minister Harris became finance minister and George Marler, Quebec Liberal leader, entered the cabinet as transport minister. State Secretary Pickersgill took over the immigration post and his former portfolio was given to Roch Pinard, former parliamentary assistant for external affairs.

The federal-Quebec tax dispute began when the Quebec government levied a personal income tax of about 15 per cent of federal income tax collections in the province. The Ottawa government rejected Quebec's bid that the new tax be fully deductible from taxpayers' federal liability. Federal law permits a maximum five-per-cent deduction and it appeared some Quebecers would be paying double tax on part of their earnings.

CLAIM DENIED

Quebec had the right to levy the tax, as the only province not leasing to Ottawa its rights to collect certain taxes, including income tax. But, the federal government denied the provincial legislature's claim as a prior right to collect income tax.

The issue was debated at length in Parliament. In September the Prime Minister St. Laurent took a stand and in two speeches in Quebec province sharply criticized the Union Nationale government of Premier Duplessis.

Mr. St. Laurent said Canada's development was welcomed everywhere except in Iron Curtain countries and by some politicians in Quebec. He said he rejected the view that Quebec "cannot be a province like the others."

Mr. Duplessis replied that Quebec, with its racial and religious background, is not a province "like the others."

The two leaders, however, cooled off the dispute with their much-publicized personal meeting in Montreal Oct. 5 which opened the way to a compromise.

By December, Ottawa and Quebec authorities still were working out details of a solution. Its terms would be offered to the other provinces which have tax-rental agreements with the central administration.

Of the year's 10 by-elections, all but one were in Ontario and Quebec. Selkirk in Manitoba, which elected a Liberal last year, picked veteran CCF member William (Scotty) Bryce in one of six by-elections Nov. 9.

There were no turnovers in Montreal Verdun, Gaticeau, Peel and Elgin, where by-elections were held March 22, or in Montreal St. Antoine-Westmount, Moncton, St. Lawrence - St. George, Stormont, Toronto Trinity and York West, on Nov. 9. Liberals retained six and Progressive Conservatives three—Peel, Elgin and York West.

COMMONS STANDINGS

The year also brought a start on the long-awaited $900,000,000 St. Lawrence seaway and power project, in an agreement covering the international rapids section of the seaway, the government deferred its plan for an all-Canadian seaway and agreed to allow the United States to build a 16-mile seaway link at Barnhart Island near Cornwall, Ont.

Five of 10 TV Shows in 1948 Still Around and Going Strong

By WAYNE OLIVER

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the early predictions about television was that it would use up talent so fast nobody would be able to last long—but it isn't turning out that way.

Five of the 10 shows on December, 1948, still are around and going strong, and the star of a sixth will be back next month.

The C. E. Hooper rating service, which no longer issues national ratings, had Milton Berle in first place six years ago. He's third in the latest Nielsen ratings and seventh in Trendex.

In second place in the December, 1948, Hooper ratings was Arthur Godfrey and His Talent Scouts, which isn't in either the latest Nielsen or Trendex but does appear frequently in their top 10.

SULLIVAN ROLLS ALONG

Fourth in the Hooper of six years ago was Ed Sullivan's Toast of the Town, fifth in both the new Trendex and Nielsen surveys. Seventh in the ratings six years ago was Friday night boxing on NBC, which isn't in either of the latest top 10s but is one of the currently popular and high ranking shows. The Sunday night Television Playhouse was 10th in 1948 and while missing from the top 10 now, apparently is close to it in the charmed circle.

In sixth place in the Hooper top 10 of six years ago was a show starring Phil Silvers, no longer on the air. But Silvers will be back on CBS television, in a new filmed show on Tuesday night next month.

Among those from the top 10 of the Hooper ratings of six years ago that are off the air now were a giveaway named "Winner Take All," a show called "Cobb's Corner" and Ted Mack's "Amateur Hour."

Further evidence of the durability of TV shows and stars is the first Trendex rating of three years ago. It included Berle, Godfrey's Talent Scouts, Red Skelton, Fireside Theatre, Playhouse of Stars, Toast of the Town and Godfrey and His Friends—all still going strong.

There have been numerous casualties among TV network shows and personalities, but so far they do not appear to have been running higher than what would be normal for other branches of show business. A few that might be called to mind offhand would include Jerry Lester, Dagmar, Conrad Nagle, Mike Stokey, Kyle McDonald and Herman Hickman, all of whom were network regulars a few years back.

A new NBC radio series, "The Adventures of Sherlock Holmes," has been scheduled for Sunday nights, starting Jan. 2. Sir John Gielgud will play Holmes and Sir Ralph Richardson will portray Dr. Watson. A TV version being filmed in England and telecast in the United States stars Ronald Howard, son of the late Leslie Howard, as Holmes.

The CBS television series "Amos 'n' Andy," which has been existing on reruns for several months, will have some fresh episodes in a network series starting Tuesday, Jan. 4, and the title will be "Adventures of the Kingfish." The characters will be the same as for the earlier films.

CHIEF LEGISLATION

Parliament's main legislative tasks were three measures: Completion of a two-year job of redrafting the massive Criminal Code, which will come into effect April 1; the decennial revision of the country's banking laws, and a rewriting of National Housing legislation which brought chartered banks into the residential mortgage field under a system of insured mortgages with lower down payments and longer terms.

Most of the session's fireworks centred on only measures as a one-cent-a-ounce increase in postal rates and boosts in parliamentary pay. Another measure provided for joint federal-provincial financing of hospital-building with a means test, to totally disabled persons.

A legislative milestone was reached when the government allowed the Emergency Powers Act to expire May 31. The act gave the government control over the country's economy and security without reference to parliament.

FIRE TAKES FIVE LIVES

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP)—Five persons who planned to journey today to their North Carolina homes for Christmas were burned to death Thursday night when fire gutted a four-room tenant cottage near Wilmington. The five were Ernest Farmer, 38, his wife, Lilly Mae, 36, and their daughters, Ann, 5, and Joan, 4, and Mrs. Farmer's brother, Roosevelt Williams, 18.

2-YEAR-OLD NOW KNIGHT

CHESHAMPTON, Eng. (AP)—Sir John Bradford, 13-year-old baronet, was killed Thursday when a tractor he was driving overturned and crushed him. Sir John will be succeeded to the hereditary knighthood by his 2-year-old half-brother, Edward Alexander Slade.

"C-I-L Singing Stars" Contestants—Sunday

Joan Maxwell, contralto, of Winnipeg and Robert Goulet, baritone, of Edmonton, will be heard Sunday, Dec. 26th on the nation-wide C-I-L Singing Stars of Tomorrow radio competition. The program presents Canadian singers 26 years of age and under and offers substantial scholarships totalling more than $3,000. The well-known Canadian writer and commentator Greg Clark is featured each week. The program is broadcast Sunday evenings at 9 P.M. on Stations CFRB, CJBQ.

CHRISTMAS SURPRISE

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—A five-pound, eight-ounce boy was born Thursday to a Lansing woman who said she didn't even know she was pregnant. Mrs. Martha Johnson, 38, gave birth to the baby at her home. Her husband said the birth was a complete surprise to him too.

THE "BREAKS" (BIG ONES)

All year long you have heard us shooting about the bad breaks Belleville got in "baseball, football and hockey." Weeks was this, weeks was that if it hadn't been for that dang-busted umpire or referee—but things as a rule even up. And look has come our way. We have got the "breaks" at last. In this GIFT news room are some 29-odd hard working souls, and that includes the editorial room—sometimes we're happy, most times not. Now for the "breaks" we get. First, young Dezz Sterling, sat in the ad alley and other places where needed, thought he'd like to go to Kingston for a trip. Result: car smash, and broken arm. "Dizz, arm will be in a cast and he keeps that arm away from him as far as he can now." George Carver tried to sneak into the house one early morning to see where the wife had hidden his Christmas present, he slipped and broke his collar bone—he has been in a hanging like mood lately, closely. Ron Kavner, linotyper, trying to help a fellow worker out getting his car started, stuck his hand into the whirling carburetor according to him he has a big blister on that. "Geezy" Philp has the "asthma", can't sleep standing, can't sleep sitting, can't sleep lying down. And Charlie Hardwick keeps yelling "get this damn paper out."

Peace—ain't it wonderful!

* * *

And so to all you good sportsmen, sportsladies and others, this is "Geezy" — George and Garry — the sports department, wish for you the very best Christmas and the New Year can offer. And that comes, too, from those sterling contributors, Claude D. Tice and Boyd Upper.

Five NFL Players Have Agreed To Contracts With Argonauts

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Argonauts gave fans an inkling of their plans for the 1955 Big Four rugby ball season Thursday night by disclosing that five players in the United States National Football League have agreed to contract terms.

Argo team director Harry Sonshine revealed the agreements after a Detroit Lions official said a portion of the Toronto team's top-secret list of NFL players most wanted by Argonauts for next year.

Sonshine didn't identify the men but said:

"One player has already given us his signed contract. Two more told me on the telephone that they had put their contracts in the mail and two more have told me they will send their contracts along immediately after the professional bowl games."

BROKE STORY

Any thoughts fans might have had that Argos were kidding when they announced moves for a homesdoing rebuilding job were dispelled Thursday when Bob McClellan, sports editor of the Detroit Times, said in a story that Sonshine had approached five members of Detroit Lions, defending NFL champions.

There was speculation that the list of imports would grow after Sunday's championship game between the Lions and Cleveland Browns.

Sonshine said "we've had players in Toronto recently to talk about next year."

THE FIVE

The five men mentioned by McClellan were quarterback Tom Dublinski, defensive backfielder Jack Christiansen, end Pat Abbott and tackles Lou Creekmur and Gil Mains.

McClellan added that he heard that George Connor, the great linebacker from Chicago Bears, and Billy Wilson, an end from San Francisco 49ers, who tied Pete Pihos for the most passes received in the NFL this season, had also been approached by Argos.

McClellan said the salaries ranged from $12,000 to $15,000 yearly, with a no-release clause included.

Sonshine admitted going after Lion players but denied offering salaries ranged from $12,000 to $15,000.

"I asking the boys what they would expect to be paid for playing on their football in Canada," he said.

Sonshine added that he didn't have prolonged discussions with Creekmur and Christiansen, but they told him they had signed two-year contracts, running into 1955, with Chicago.

"It's Argonaut policy," Sonshine said, "not to offer a contract to a player who is still under contract."

The Lions apparently are not concerned about the situation.

Nick Kerbawy, Lions general manager, said he would even give Sonshine the addresses of Detroit players.

"... I'm not worried about losing them. I'd think there was something wrong with Canadian football if they didn't want our boys. They're the very best."

Half Johnny Fecosoff, 21-year-old product of Toronto and a three-year man with Argonauts, said he received an offer from the NFL New York Giants "not good enough money to "make my head swim."

He said the bid was "almost double" the $4,500 he received for his 1954 Big Four campaigning.

Fecosoff, used mainly on kick runbacks and at defensive half for Argonauts, has not yet made up his mind on the deal, Sonshine said he should take it.

"I've told Johnny what we have to offer," Harry said. "If he should decide to go to New York, I'll be the first to shake his hand and ask him to maintain the integrity of Canadian football. I only hope the American clubs feel the same way if things go our way."

Ranks Howe and Richard With All-Time Stars In His 17 Years With League

By RON ANDREWS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Murray (Muzz) Patrick says Gordie Howe and Maurice Richard are the two greatest hockey players he has seen but adds that Jean Marc Beliveau some day may be the greatest of them all.

"Beliveau was possibly the greatest amateur and could become the greatest professional," Muzz says.

Looking back over 17 years of National Hockey League activity as a player, sportsman and coach, Patrick rank Howe, the Detroit Red Wing ace, and Richard, of Montreal Canadiens their mark, the all-time stars and sees in Beliveau the makings of a "super great."

ALSO SHORE

And, speaking of stars, Muzz said to a reporter, he could not couldn't ignore Eddie Shore, former Boston Bruins defenceman, who was the "best man I ever played against. He was tough, could stickhandle and score goals. The guy was just plain great."

Beliveau, a strikingly built centre with Canadiens, can hardly miss to be a "great star and remain one" for years, he commented.

"He's big and he can use his weight to advantage. Mind you, he isn't dirty, but he's rugged. Wait a couple of years and that kid will be one of the outstanding professional hockey players."

"There isn't too much to choose between them. Each can do a few things the other can't.

"Howe backchecks like crazy when necessary and he can score goals. He confuses opposing goaltenders by switching his stick from one hand to the other while going in on goal for a shot.

"The Rocket is deadly from the blueline in. His shot is accurate and he doesn't miss too many scoring chances. The records prove that.

Richard and Beliveau are tied for second place in the individual scoring race — behind team-mate Bernie Geoffrion. Richard has 18 goals and 16 assists; Beliveau 14 goals and 18 assists. Howe, who missed some games through injuries, is tied for 25th spot with 10 goals and 15 assists.

They'll be out to increase the totals this weekend, when the league swings into action. Howe will be with the second-place Red Wings when they meet the third-place Maple Leafs at Toronto, Rangers go against the leading Canadiens at Montreal and the last-place Chicago Black Hawks meet the first-place Bruins in Boston Saturday. On Sunday it's Toronto at Detroit and Chicago at New York.

Santa Claus Good to Maple Leafs, He Sent Them Parker MacDonald

By MILT MacPHAIL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Parker MacDonald, a 20-year-old young man who was practically an unknown in big-time hockey circles months ago could be the best Christmas present Toronto Maple Leafs have had for several seasons.

Two months ago the 21-year-old Kitchener winger toiling with the farmhand Pittsburgh Hornets when an injury sidelined tig Harry Watson, leaving a left-wing job open in Toronto.

Today, Maple Leaf assistant general manager, and coach King Clancy had been in Pittsburgh only a few nights before they signed the way MacDonald handled matters. They decided he was ready for the NHL.

BEAT WATSON OUT

Since then, the five-foot, 10-inch, 160-pounder has proved by performance that he can fill the big shoes of Watson, native of Sydney, N. S., beat the latter's brother Jimmy out of his job, Watson finally being sold to Chicago.

MacDonald is a fiend for fitness and believes his Lead days will be prolonged by physical perfection. During the off season he plays basketball, a summer hobby which is an iron ore mine in Newfoundland, he played with the Bell Island Miners in the senior Eastern ball League.

"If he hadn't played so well we couldn't have let Watson go," Day said in tribute.

HOPING TO STAY

MacDonald says he hopes his Toronto address is permanent.

"Sure, it's a big jump but I'm going all out to stay with the Leafs.

"But it's a lot different in the NHL. They play more positional hockey, skate faster and a bit up harder."

So far the pace hasn't bothered MacDonald. Toronto's chief nominee for the Calder Cup rookie award. He's scored six goals, assisted on another a respectable record.

He started his climb five years ago when a scout spotted him playing with Sydney Millionaires. Head Leaf scout Bob Davidson wanted a closer look so the youngster played three seasons with Toronto Marlboros in the Ontario Hockey Association junior A series. Then he moved to Pittsburgh, where last season he scored 29 goals and had 24 assists.

British Soccer Market Suffers From Inflation

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — The British soccer player market is suffering seriously from inflation.

"Football is in a crazy state," complained manager Billy Walker of lowly Nottingham Forest as he put five players on the block. The club needed the money to buy new material, essential to keeping it in the second division.

Eric Houghton, manager of Aston Villa, agreed. Houghton was shopping with £30,000 received from Tottenham Hotspur for Dan Blanchflower, a deal which tied the record for second highest transaction in the game.

TRANSFER SCRAMBLE

Walker said he was asking "sensible" prices for his boys, but figured he'd have to shell out plenty to get the players he needed. Houghton agreed that "something must be done" about what Walker described as the transfer scramble.

Walker's suggestion to end club haggling and swollen player values, in which well-heeled clubs in trouble inflate the market to get the cash they want, is:

Make the Football League a central clearing agency, he said, in which players are listed for sale at an agreed price.

VICIOUS CIRCLE

The vicious transfer circle brings smaller clubs quick money, but robs them of the star performers players who mean money at the gate and influence prospects of building for better things.

The deal was more than £20,000 and nobody was particularly pleased, including Graver, who was afraid of the responsibility of living up to such a big price tag. Walker of Nottingham Forest made five bids for Graver, but had to give up.

Including the years before formation of the NHL in 1917, he coached with or managed seven Stanley Cup champions teams.

SIGNS CONTRACT

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP)—Don Mossi, rookie relief pitcher for Cleveland Indians, said Thursday he has signed a 1955 contract with the American League club for almost twice as much as he got this season. He declined to name either figure. Mossi won six, lost one as a relief hurler for the Indians in 1954.

Rich Ferguson Outstanding Male Athlete of 1954

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—One blistering 4:04.6 mile effort, the fastest a Canadian has ever run the distance, shot Toronto's Rich Ferguson into the role of Canada's outstanding male athlete of 1954. He took over from Doug Hepburn of Vancouver, 1953 winner and self-styled strongest man in the world.

The country's sports editors and sportscasters picked the 23-year-old runner for The Canadian Press in its 20th annual year-end sports poll announced tonight. Asked to name the three outstanding athletes, in order, they selected Ferguson with a point total of 136 on the basis of three points for first choice, two for second and one for third.

Weightlifter Hepburn, who broke four British Empire Games heavyweight records while winning the title at Vancouver last summer, finished in the runner-up position with 129 points. Thirty-eight athletes were nominated by the voters but it was a two-man race between Ferguson and Hepburn.

OTHERS TRAIL

Maurice Richard, Montreal Canadiens great rightwinger and all-time National Hockey League goals scorer, was third with 43 points. Gerry James, hard-plugging back with Winnipeg Blue Bombers and junior hockey player with Toronto Marlboros, was close behind with 41.

Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings, last year's winner, was dropped to fifth place with 43, just four up on Sam Etcheverry, Toronto Argonauts quarterback who earlier had won the Jeff Russel Trophy as the most valuable player and junior hockey player with Toronto Marlboros, was close behind with 39.

Selectors received but hot, humid Aug. 7 afternoon at Vancouver's Empire Stadium when they chose Ferguson for the No. 1 male athlete in the CP poll.

It was a memorable day in world track and field history—the day of the miracle mile when England's Dr. Roger Bannister and Australia's John Landy, the only men to crack the four-minute barrier, met for the first time and cracked it together.

Ferguson was just another man in spiked shoes on the sun-boiled track. Before the games his best mile was 4:13.4.

Rich astounded the Canadian sports world by chasing Dr. Roger and Landy to the tape. There were a couple of yards of sunlight between Ferguson and Northern Ireland's Vic Milligan who was fourth in 4:05.

EXPERIENCED RUNNER

Ferguson's track career started six years earlier when he ran his first mile in 4:37. In the 1950 games at Auckland, N.Z., he was timed in 4:31, six seconds off the winning time of 4:11 set by Bill Parnell of Vancouver.

That was the best time by the Iowa University student until Aug. 6 in the golden-mile heats which qualified with a clocking of 4:07.8, a Canadian native record. "It's lucky to be here," he told reporters after that race, but his third-place finish in the final wasn't lucky.

He was tired at the half mile and withstood a strong stretch spurt by Milligan to win a medal.

MANY SPORTS MENTIONED

Included in the list were two world champions from Penticton, Gil Dea, winner of the world individual small-bore rifle title at Caracas, Venezuela and Morris Bowden who teamed with Frances Dafoe, also of Penticton, to win the world pairs figure-skating title at Oslo, Norway.

Earl Walls of Toronto, Canadian heavyweight boxing champion who placed second in the 1953 CP poll, was mentioned by only seven selectors. Others receiving votes included:

Bill Patrick of Calgary, men's B.E. Games tower-diving champion; Pat Kerr of Saskatoon, only Canadian to win the Canadian Open golf championship; Kid Howard of Halifax, N.S., Canadian lightweight boxing champion; Carl Ridd, sprout Winnipeg basketball player; Jackie Parker and Rollie Miles of the Edmonton Eskimos Grey Cup-winning team; Lorne Main of Toronto and Vancouver and Bob Bedard of Sherbrooke, Que., of Canada's Davis Cup tennis team; and Terry Tobacco of Cumberland, B.C., third in the B.E. Games men's 440-yard race and member of Canada's mile relay team which placed second to England in the B.E. Games.

Some Things Baseball Managers Would Like for Christmas

By JOE RIEKHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—As if Santa Claus doesn't have troubles enough of his own trying to comply with millions of requests by the children, here are some things the baseball managers would like to have for Christmas:

Leo Durocher, Giants: Another Willie Mays, a younger Sal Maglie and a Dusty Rhodes who can field.

Al Lopez, Indians: A sound Al Rosen and another try at that world series pitch that Rhodes hit for a home run.

Walter Alston, Dodgers: Don Newcombe at his pre-army service form, a two-handed Roy Campanella and the guy who assured him "The Dodgers can't lose" would be took over the club reins last winter.

AN INTERPRETER, YET

Charlie Dressen, Senators: Walt Johnson and an interpreter to see the blinding-fast sign to his Cuban hirelings.

Fred Haney, Pirates: A club that can finish as high as seventh, a mercenary like Ted Kazanski and his old Hollywood job back.

Lou Boudreau, Athletics: A fully recovered Bobby Shantz, a shortstop named Boudreau, 1948 vintage and an iron-clad contract that protects against such things like last place finishes.

Charlie Grimm, Braves: 'A fast boat to Europe to avoid ticket seekers should Milwaukee win the pennant, a big insurance policy against injuries to key players, and a law against any more fights with the Giants.

CASEY AT BAT

Casey Stengel, Yankees: his first pennant in two years; a massive labor-type strike that will put Baltimore general manager Paul Richards stays on for a long time. Also, the right to keep on chatting with another Bob Turley, Eddie Lopat, Billy Martin. Either some pitchers who can finish a game or a rule limiting games to eight innings, and someone to remind him that the umpires are his friends. (It's easier on the pocket book.)

Mike Higgins, Red Sox: Ted Williams in the opening day lineup. Ted Williams in the opening day lineup. Ted Williams in the opening day lineup. Amen!

Ron Howell To Join Rangers For One Game

NEW YORK (CP)—Ron Howell of Guelph Biltmores of the Ontario Hockey Association will join his brother Harry in the New York Rangers' lineup for one game against Montreal Canadiens, Frank Boucher, manager of the National Hockey League club announced Thursday.

The 19-year-old athlete, who played pro football for the Hamilton Tiger Cats and was recently named to the Canadian all star football team, can fill either a defence or forward berth, Boucher said, in announcing the signing.

Another Guelph junker, Bill McCreary, 26, who joined the Rangers Sunday to replace injured Wally Hergesheimer, has returned to the Ontario team.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—Instead of scattering Christmas gifts haphazardly under the sports staff's Yule tree as customary, we have decided this time to concentrate all our presents in one large bundle and bestow it upon a little guy who really needs it.

What we have in mind is to gift Bobby Shantz, the quarter-sized 29-year-old southpaw, with as good a pitching arm as he ever had. There is nothing in the sports world which would delight more people than to see the great competitor from Pottstown, Pa., shake off the pain which has torn him for the last two years in the Piggie American League batters.

SHANTZ CONFIDENT

The last report we saw said Shantz was completely confident that his bad arm finally had responded to treatment and that he would be ready to work with Connie Mack's big wish for the new year "is that Jim Konstanty of Athletics win the American League pennant, or at least finish in the first division."

Still loyal to the team he managed so long at Philadelphia, the arrow-straight baseball leader said he will be on hand at West Palm Beach March 1 to welcome the players when they report for spring training, as has been his long time custom.

Draw May Decide Who Will Win Coveted Cup

SYDNEY (AP)—The battle between Australia and the United States next week for the Davis Cup hangs by such a delicate thread that it may actually sweep on the result of Saturday's vital draw.

For tactical reasons, captains Harry Hopman and Bill Talbert decline to attach too much importance openly to the way the names are drawn from the glass silver bowl. But privately both are known to have strong preferences.

Talbert, for instance, would like to see Tony Trabert drawn far from the opening singles against either Lewis Hoad or Ken Rosewall, but better against Rosewall.

Hopman would prefer a Vic Seixas - Rosewall opening as a double-barreled reason: 1. Because of Seixas' renowned inability to beat Rosewall; 2. Because the victory by Rosewall would remove pressure in the doubles. Hoad, confident first-up player so I think he would be better in the second match."

Marilyn Bell Picked as Canada's Top News Personality of Year

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Newsiest Canadian of 1954 emerged from the ashes of Lake Ontario at 8:13 p.m., Thursday, Sept. 2.

It was the first time a woman had topped The Canadian Press poll as newsiest Canadian since another teen-ager, Barbara Ann Scott, won the honor in 1947. Marilyn celebrated her 17th birthday Oct. 19 apart from the personality angle the feat that won Marilyn her sudden fame—first conquest by a swimmer of Lake Ontario—was ranked second only to hurricane Hazel in a list of this year's biggest Canadian news stories.

She had already been chosen "woman of the year" by a vote of women's editors, and the year's outstanding female athlete by the sports writers and broadcasters.

Newsiest world figure was 80-year-old Sir Winston Churchill, whose birthday celebrations in November focussed attention on his long and spectacular career. Second to Churchill was France's Mendes-France, prime minister of France.

Miss Bell's selection ended a four-year period in which L. B. (Mike) Pearson had been chosen annually as newsiest Canadian. Second to her was Prime Minister St. Laurent.

IS WOMAN OF YEAR

Freckle-faced Toronto swimmer Marilyn Bell, who held a whole nation's attention for 21 hours on a long swim across Lake Ontario in September as she gamely stroked out way across Lake Ontario is Canada's "woman of the year."

The diminutive 17-year-old schoolgirl, first lady-conqueror of frigid Ontario waters, was top choice in a Canadian Press poll of daily newspaper women editors for 1954's outstanding woman.

Three years after the 32-mile, 21-ing hours of wailing as Marilyn battled her way across the gruelling 40-mile course from Youngstown, N.Y., to Toronto; and the spontaneous wave of admiration which swept Canada when she made it.

Since then, doting Canadians have named everything from dolls to streets after her, and donated gifts and money totalling over $100,000, Hollywood nibbled with tempting movie contracts, and Guy Lombardo bid for her appearance next summer in a mammoth outdoor show at the Canadian National Exhibition, near New York.

Marilyn's woman-of-the-year win marks a three-year record held by Ottawa's peppery Mayor Charlotte Whitton, who shared the honor last year with Jacques Plante, Stewart.

Leaders in the other fields this year are: public affairs, Mayor Whitton; literature and arts, Mazo de la Roche; music, Lois Marshall; stage, screen and radio, Frances Hyland.

Since then she has helped promote a $15,000,000 throughway across the city of Ottawa, just recently approved by federal and provincial civic governments.

Author Mazo de la Roche, who has been writing fiction series since the first book won the coveted $2,500 Atlantic Monthly prize in 1927 is lauded this year for her latest book, "Variable Winds at Jalna," 16th consecutive hit book, published in September, is one of the best she has done and that she is at the peak of her writing power.

Soprano Lois Marshall leads the music poll for the third consecutive year since her sensational rise to fame with an appearance in New York's Town Hall in 1952. Miss Marshall, 28, became crippled from a childhood polio attack, has won concert tour of the United States this year. Her reviews have been raves all the way.

Regina actress Frances Hyland, veteran of many seasons with Stratford and Shakespearean Festival, playing opposite James Mason in "Measure for Measure" and as Lady Bracknell in "Tamils of the Shrew."

The slender, five-foot-two blonde actress first began her theatrical career in London, Eng., to return to the fold.

This winter she has been making a name on Canadian radio and television.

Coach Brown of Cleveland Says Weather Will Determine Winner

CLEVELAND (AP)—Paul Brown who had his Cleveland Browns play a very conservative football game all week, says the weather will determine how the pro football championship will be decided at Cleveland with Detroit's Lions.

"If it's another 'blizzard' with snow and bad footing, it might be very much the same," he said.

The Lions entered the game with a record of 9 wins and 2 losses for the second time in the National League's history.

Brown, edgy and cautious in discussing his prospects, made it plain he thought Cleveland deserved an underdog position. But at the same time his coach made it clear his arch rivals could expect competition.

There's nothing to this talk about the Lions having a jinx over us," he repeated. "They were just the better team last week."

Detroit touchdown. Brown calls the plays himself on defense.

For the third straight time the Browns will be attempting to stop Detroit from winning the National Football League championship. Since Bill Dudley's thrilling days in 1935, no club has won three straight titles.

and was named to Walter Camp's all-America team. Later he played pro football with the Chicago Cardinals. After coaching at Denver and St. Mary's, he joined the New York Yankees of the new All-America Conference as backfield coach in 1946. Solunar Notes

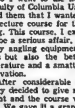
Outdoor Education

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT



(Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Solunar Tables.)

Back in 1937 I conceived the idea that our wildlife resources were being a lopsided job of educating the youth of the nation. To be sure, they were teaching the children how to make a living, once they had their diplomas.

On the physical side, they taught only the contest sports save, possibly, golf and tennis. With the exception of golf, these sports have no place in the life of a man over 35; at least, they shouldn't have.

So I went to the heads of the faculty of Columbia University and told them that I wanted to conduct a lecture course for them on angling. This course, I explained, was to be a serious affair, taking in not only angling equipment and methods but also the better angling literature and a smattering of conservation.

After considerable deliberation, they decided to give me the green light and the course was announced. We gave it a grandiose title: The Theory and Technique of Fresh Water Angling."

HIGH GLEE

As might be expected, the New York newspapers greeted the announcement with high acclaim. They kidded us unmercifully and many of the cartoonists lampooned the idea, showing Nicholas Murray Butler and yours truly in waders, busy in a pool outside.

The course went well and the faculty people, who reviewed the first two lectures, evidently placed their seal of approval on the goings-on in the classroom, because the Mines Building, as I carried on the course for the next two years and became an accredited member of the faculty of Columbia University.

The news of the course spread rapidly. After all, you don't get a box on the front page of the New York Times and eight minutes on Lowell Thomas' radio broadcast without quite a few people learning what you are doing.

PROGRAM CAUGHT ON

I suppose I answered letters of enquiry from at least 20 universities all over the country, all of them wanting detailed information on the conduct of such a lecture course. That, so far as I know, was the start. Now there are few universities, high schools or, for that matter, grade schools which do not have regular, organized classes which teach outdoor sports (fishing and shooting) and conservation.

In my opinion, thorough grounding in the outdoor sports and conservation in general is every bit as important to any youngster, boy or girl, as the "three R's." No matter whether or not some of them will put their learning to good use in the field, such teaching gives them a well-rounded education. After all, not very many boys and girls use Latin or French. But they have schools yet such studies round out their general educations.

The conservation departments of many of the States understand the importance of this educational program and most of them are lending a hand to help the good work. Wisconsin, for example, maintains and operates a special truck which is equipped with outdoor motion pictures, projection apparatus, educational pamphlets, and a crew of trained lecturers, most of them recruited from the ranks of the wardens. These men spend several weeks in late winter and early spring, making a systematic tour among the school districts for the sole purpose of spreading the gospel of conservation.

Every year I see hundreds of men—and women—who quite evidently have not had the opportunity to attend any of these classes for further at its meeting in New York Jan. 14.

Presiding over the program, was W. J. Cottrell, First Guardian of the boys' lodge. As the members assembled, they were outfitted with a paper hat discovered in the Christmas crackers they were provided with.

Opening the program the young folks had some fun when confined for the singing of four verses of Christmas carols of which were thrown on the screen. Two girls furnished a recitation and others assisted with a duet and boys read at random the fortune with their Christmas cracker.

Commanding interest was the film strip showing over fifty scenes and a running commentary supplied by the chairman on the Life of Christ from the manger. As one put it, on behalf of the juvenile, "we never knew so much about Baby Jesus and boys would be a nice country to visit."

Rev. K. J. Crawford, who operated the machine, spoke a few words of greeting to the Christmas wishes to the children. Then came the interesting part of the film that among members of the girls' lodge and that among members of the boys' lodge. The girls trended down to some indoor games.

The boys' lodge served four boys served chocolate drinks, as Guardians Mrs. C. Pauline and Mrs. G. Jones of the girls' lodge, directed the serving of sandwiches and cookies.

Govt. Revises Air Navigation

OTTAWA (CP) — The government Wednesday night announced revised air navigation orders increasing distance visibility requirements for civil planes during visual flying and said they were made necessary by the increasing air traffic and speeds of the jet age.

Under the new orders aircraft under visual control must maintain a horizontal distance of one mile from the nearest cloud formation, instead of 2,000 feet away. This will affect all scheduled flight aircraft under air traffic control.

A department spokesman said the new air safety regulations do not mean that pilots will operate on an RCAF Harvard trainer and a Transcontinental Air Liner plane over Moose Jaw, last April 1 in which 37 died.

GENERAL REVISION

The new rules were part of a general revision that was under study when a Moose Jaw crash occurred. But investigation of that accident and the lessons learned from it had played a part in the drafting of the regulation changes.

They require pilots flying under visual flight conditions above 3,500 feet to proceed along the normal air lanes and at the required altitudes laid down in the regulations.

They also require planes crossing air lanes to cross at "safe" altitudes—for instance at 3,500 feet instead of 4,000 feet. Regulated altitudes are laid down in even thousands of feet. Aircraft making such crossings of regular altitudes must attempt to do so at an angle of 45 degrees or more so as to make the crossing as quickly as possible.

Sheppard Bitter Over Findings Of Jury

CLEVELAND (AP) — Shorn of the comfort and prestige that has marked his life, a shocked and bitter young man sat alone today in a tiny jail cell.

Society, in the form of seven men and five women jurors, has branded him a wife-killer. The law, in the person of Judge Edward J. Blythin, says he must spend the rest of his life behind bars.

When judgment was passed Tuesday on osteopath Samuel Sheppard his mortal life was spared.

But the real day-by-day life of the once-prosperous, athletic and socially-prominent Sheppard may be ended, unless the lawyers find a way to undo the product of his gruelling two-month-long murder trial.

STILL BITTER, PASTOR SAYS

His pastor, Rev. Alfred C. Krake, says the handsome prisoner, who will be 31 next Wednesday, is still "bitter" over the findings of the jury, which took 102 hours to decide he was guilty of second-degree murder.

Mr. Krake, who visited the osteopath Wednesday said Sheppard was "just amazed at the verdict."

The minister said Sheppard still ponders how the jury could have arrived at its verdict of second-degree murder.

"His social conduct was a very grave error," the minister said, referring to Sheppard's admitted extramarital affair with Miss Susan Hayes, 26-year-old medical technician who once worked at the Sheppard family's suburban osteopathic hospital.

During the trial, the state highlighted the affair as a motive for the murder of Marilyn, Sheppard's 31-year-old pregnant wife, whose head was crushed last July 4.

DESCRIBED MEETINGS

Sheppard, while maintaining resolutely that he took no part in the killing of his wife, described a series of rendezvous with Miss Hayes in parked cars, in a suburban apartment in Cleveland and, for a week in California.

"He is the first to say he regrets that," the minister said after the visit, adding:

"Knowing that and other things give a twist to the whole picture and made things look bad for him."

For the most part, Sheppard was a calm, unemotional witness who spoke in a subdued, controlled tone.

Only a prisoner, he displays like control.

"I was quite surprised he was making as good a witness as quickly as that," the minister said.

PAROLE IN 16 YEARS

According to the sentence imposed, in 10 years from the time he leaves the county jail to enter the Ohio penitentiary Sheppard will become eligible for parole.

His chief defence counsel, William J. Corrigan, sought a stay of execution of the sentence, and this was granted by Judge Blythin.

Corrigan said that probably Friday he will file notice of intention to appeal. The judge set next Thursday for a hearing on it.

If the lawyer's efforts are not successful, Sheppard stands to lose —besides his freedom—his licence to practise osteopathy, his comfortable lake-front home and the guardianship of his son.

Sunday School Lesson:

Questions Make the Man

BY ROY L. SMITH

One of the things that distinguishes man from all other creatures is his habit of asking questions. His instinct upon reasons, explanations, justifications, vindications and evaluations.

The dumb brutes will seek satisfaction—food, shelter, comfort—but when man has these things he has just begun to live. There is an entire series of questions which well up within his mind which will not let him rest until he has found answers that are at least somewhat satisfactory.

SOME OF THESE QUESTIONS

What is the meaning of life?

What is there in life worth living for?

Is there anything in life worth dying for?

What can a man trust?

What is the purpose of it all anyhow?

Do I have any destiny?

What can I hope to get out of life that will give me any satisfaction?

What are the satisfactions that last?

Is there anything in life that is bigger than I am in which I can believe?

SOME OF THE ANSWERS

The wise men — the philosophers and seers—among all peoples and races have applied their minds to these questions and have come up with a variety of answers.

Among the ancient Hebrews there was a cynical individual, probably well advanced in years, who had wrestled with the problems throughout a long and varied life and he had ended up in cynicism, for the most part. We do not know his name but we do have his book — Ecclesiastes — from which the scripture of this week's lesson has been chosen.

He had tried everything—pleasure, labor, philosophy, social reform, activity — and nothing satisfied him. He saw injustice and oppression thrive unchecked. He had watched the rich man worry about his money, and had noted that wealth has no power to satisfy the soul. Finally, driven back upon his last resource he turned to religion.

HE SAW A REASON

The position at which the old seer finally arrived lacks much of being satisfactory to a modern man, but it was infinitely higher and superior to anything else offered by the thinkers of his day.

The Uniform Sunday School lessons for December 26: "Thinking Realistically About Life," Ecclesiastes 1-5; 12.

The world in which he lived looked reasonable to him. He believed there were reasons for the inequities of life if he could find them. He believed there was a law for life that would lead to justice and mercy though he could not see how. He repented of much of his wandering and wasting, and was ready to advise youth to put his trust in faith and to shun the wasteful years.

He believed there was a God at the heart of the universe who could be trusted even when he could not be understood. Therefore he said, "Fear God and keep his commandments; for this is the whole duty of man."

Every individual who is determined to do the will of God and obey his laws, when that will and those laws can be surely known, may be sure of one thing. As he walks toward the light it will move on ahead of him.

Let any man who is in doubt test the principle out. Let him do something he knows is right, and about which he has no doubt. Let him walk out bravely in the face of difficulty and run the risk of acting rightly. That done, he will discover something about which he had doubts only a bit ago has suddenly become plain. Light always comes to those who walk in the light. And it will never end.

TORONTO (CP)—New construction in Ontario for 1954 totals $100,000,000 over 1953, preliminary estimates show.

Alvin R. Frack, president of the Ontario Association of Architects, said the final figure for the province will be about $950,000,000, compared to $850,000,000 last year.

House and apartment building comprised about 45 per cent of all Ontario construction, Mr. Frack said.

In the Toronto area, a construction record was set when buildings valued at $259,189,200 were put up during the first 11 months of this year compared with $250,702,900 for the same period in 1953.

Total residential construction in the city area was valued at $230,-529,000 compared to $147,873,700 in 1953. Business construction was valued at $84,871,700, as against $79,092,000, and industrial building was $33,064,200 compared with $28,-891,600.

Mr. Frack said revision of the National Housing Act this spring "greatly stimulated" house and apartment construction in the province. He said the outlook for 1955 is excellent. He did not think there would be much change in construction costs during 1955.

Police Vs. Press Feud Grows In Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP)—A high police official, who said he was "concerned about what the public should read," has added fuel to a smouldering police-press feud here.

Supt. Alan Rossiter of the city police traffic division was quoted as making the statement to a Vancouver Herald reporter Wednesday night in refusing him an interview.

"When I have some information for you, I'll let you know," Supt. Rossiter was quoted as telling reporter Jim Gilmore. "I'll even have it printed up for you.

"I don't trust The Herald and I'm concerned about what the public should read. I'm not going to say anything because I don't know what you'll print."

The situation arose shortly after Vancouver newspaper publishers replied to police chief Walter Mulligan's suggestion for a conference on handling of crime news.

SUGGESTS MEETING

"After the police commission makes its decision on the protest of the Vancouver Province in respect to this incident, it might be useful to have a conference with the Vancouver daily newspapers," said A. E. Allen, editor publisher of the Province.

Gerald M. Brown, publisher of The Herald, said he thought the meeting would serve no good purpose unless the police approached it with an open mind.

The feud began when Often disregarded police instructions and took a picture of a robbery suspect seated in a police car. Olsen, standing on the sidewalk at the time, was taken into custody but not charged. He was released half an hour later with a warning that charges were being considered but no charges have been laid. Chief Mulligan says the matter is in the hands of the city prosecutor.

Sister of Prophet of Doom Wants Him Put in Asylum

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Dr. Charles Laughead, the ousted Michigan State College physician who received national attention as a prophet of disaster, faces a fight to prove his sanity if he returns to Michigan.

A petition filed by his sister seeks to have Laughead and his wife, Lillian, committed to a mental institution. And if the couple are committed, they also will lose custody of their three children.

The petitions were filed here Tuesday by Miss Margaret W. Laughead, the doctor's sister. Laughead, reached in Chicago Wednesday night, had no comment.

The petitions ask that the husband and wife "be admitted to the Kalamazoo State Hospital or Traverse City State Hospital as mentally ill."

"During the past few years," the sister says in her petition, "my brother has become a religious fanatic. He believes that he is to create a new age and that the standing world will be submerged . . . and that he will be picked up by a flying saucer."

Dr. Laughead had predicted that half of the North American continent would be wiped away Tuesday, and that the city of Chicago would be overwhelmed by tidal waves.

FROM OUTER SPACE

Dr. Laughead described himself as a "reporter" for Mrs. Dorothy Martin, Oak Park, Ill., housewife, who declared she received messages from beings in outer space.

Mrs. Martin revised her predictions of doom early Tuesday morning, saying she had received another message that the disaster had been prevented "by intervention on the part of God."

Judge John McClellan said here that if warrants can be served on the husband and wife, a sanity hearing will be held Monday. He said the warrants cannot be served until the couple return to Michigan.

Mechanical Monsters Will Be Transported in One Piece

ATIKOKAN, Ont. (CP)—One of the largest moving jobs in Canadian history, the lifting of two 900-ton dredges from the bottom of a drained lake to a new location two miles away in the same lake, is being planned to this iron ore boom town.

Engineers at Steep Rock Iron mines, located 135 miles northwest of Port Arthur, plan to get the operation under way Feb. 1. The job involves dragging the dredges to the side of Steep Rock lake, site of one of Canada's biggest known iron ore deposits, over two miles of land road and down the lake side again.

Chief Engineer K. L. McRorie says only the spuds, ladders, motors and pumps will be removed from the dredges to lighten the load. Otherwise the mechanical monsters will be transported in one piece.

GAMBLE WORTHWHILE

"It's something of a gamble to move them this way," said one engineer, "but the amount of money that can be saved justifies the gamble."

The dredges, valued at $1,500,000 apiece, are 140 feet long, 40 feet wide and 18 feet deep. They are to be moved from the "A" orebody to the "G" orebody down the lake.

First step will be lowering of the water in the "A" orebody. Dismantling bases will be constructed and blocking will be fashioned in these bases. Then the water level is to be raised and the dredges will be floated over the blocks. The water will be lowered again, allowing the dredges to settle on the blocks.

Then the dredges are to be moved on the side of the lake over a steeply-sloping road whose elevation at the top is 240 feet from the lake bottom.

USE 5 TRACTORS

Tracks and bases of three giant power shovels will provide traction for the dredges. Five tractors will be hitched to each dredge for the long haul to the new site 40 feet below the land surface.

The dredges finished the job of removing some 500,000,000 cubic yards of overburden from the "A" orebody Dec. 10. The work was originally begun four years ago.

Steep Rock shipments to Port Arthur's ore handling docks this last season totalled 1,156,546.

Girl Held Prisoner for Day Released by Deranged Suitor

WAKE FOREST, N.C. (P)

The long vigil ended when officers showed Timberlake official papers committing him to a North Carolina mental hospital.

The textile worker had told officers a short time earlier he would surrender the girl when he saw the commitment papers.

The period of terror for Miss Elizabeth Davis, 20, began at 11:45 a. m. Tuesday.

The five-foot-eight 130-pound Timberlake pulled a gun from his pocket and forced her into a small room in the mill. He was jealous over Miss Davis' attentions to an unidentified soldier.

Timberlake had threatened to hold Miss Davis until the soldier, in an automobile 60 miles from here, was brought to the mill. He had said he planned to kill the soldier.

Once this morning Timberlake turned the woman loose so she could make a quick trip to a rest-room, but during her absence he held a physician as a hostage.

Peacock and Plum Porridge

GEOFFREY BOUMPHREY, in a brief excursion into some of the origins of the festive board, here contrasts the present Christmas Day dinner of turkey, plum pudding, and mince pies with the days when the bird of honor was the peacock.

It is rather odd, if you think of it, that feasting plays such a prominent part in the celebration of the religious festival of Christmas. In Britain and most of Europe the immediate predecessor of "the jovial days of Christmas" must have been the Roman festival dedicated to Saturn, the Saturnalia. All work and business was suspended for several days, there was feasting and merry-making, houses were decorated with laurel and other evergreens, presents were given by friends and relations, masters are said to have waited on servants —even slaves were given a good deal of freedom while it lasted.

The early Fathers of the Christian Church were content to try to control some of the wilder excesses of the Roman festival (and you can be sure there were some); in Britain, a few centuries later, Cromwell and the Puritans tried to stamp out Christmas festivities altogether. They did not succeed, but they did give them a set-back from which they have never entirely recovered. It is "Twelve days of Christmas" no longer, I am afraid. In particular, what always used to be the main Christmas dish, the boar's head, never regained its popularity.

A turkey is a fine bird to eat, no doubt; but as a ceremonial dish to be borne proudly into a banquet with a fanfare of trumpets, held high on a platter of gold or silver, garnished with bay and rosemary, an orange between his tusks, what could compare with a boar's head? It certainly has a magical look all of its own honor. The turkey is an upstart in comparison. It did not reach Britain before the sixteenth century. I believe the Spaniards introduced it into Europe from Mexico; it seems to have been called a turkey just to make it more difficult.

SERVED IN FEATHERS

The bird of honor at medieval Christmas dinners was not the turkey but the peacock. No common hands could serve this in all its glory; it was carried into the dining hall by the lady most distinguished for birth or beauty, like the boar's head, to the sound of music. It was served in its feathers.

If you would like a recipe, here is one from the 14th century: "Take and flay off the skin with the feathers, tail, and the neck, and the head thereof; then take the skin with all the feathers and lay it on a table abroad" (that presumably means "lay it out flat"). "And strew thereon ground cummin; then take the peacock and roast him, and endore him with raw yolks of eggs" (that is "baste him"—I must try basting a bird with yolk of egg some day) "and when he is roasted, take him and let him cool awhile, and take him and sew him in his skin, and gild his comb, and so serve him forthwith."

As another recipe mentions the need for plenty of gravy, presumably the dish was served hot, and in that case I should think the great difficult was to keep the bird even lukewarm until it reached the diner, what with cooling it and then sewing it in its skin, to say nothing of the difficulty of carving a bird with all its feathers on. But I expect our ancestors were used to tepid food, with their great draughty halls and kitchens, with little or no glass in the windows.

One rather interesting recipe for serving peacock tells you to put a piece of cotton soaked in spirit in its beak, and light this before it is placed in front of the carver. This suggests our present-day plum pudding with its accompaniment of flaming brandy. I wonder if the one practice led to the other? The rise of plum pudding to its present position of importance at Christmas seems a bit of a mystery. It is even more of an upstart than the turkey—the earliest recipe for it dates from as recently as 1791. Its predecessor was a rather curious mess called "plum porridge." For centuries this was always served as an accompaniment to the first course of the Christmas dinner. Plum porridge was made by parboiling beef or mutton in stock thickened with brown bread; the second half of the process was to add currants, raisins, prunes, cloves, mace and ginger, and finish off by boiling the whole thing thoroughly.

Mince pies, or Christmas pies as they used to be called, can be traced back at least several centuries earlier than plum pudding. "A finely tempered mixture of neats' tongues, chicken, eggs, sugar, raisins, spices and candied peel" they were described as in the 17th century. But earlier still the place of the neat's tongue in the recipe was taken by plebeian mutton, and they were sometimes known as shred pies. Today the process of refinement has been taken further and the only trace of meat in our modern recipe is the suet.

Plum broth, of course, was another name for plum porridge, the ancestor of plum pudding. And talking of that, what a pity it is that you so rarely see a plum pudding actually shaped like a ball nowadays, except in pictures. I wonder whether our Christmas-card artists get their models from? I suppose it is the reduction in size of the modern kitchen and our smaller cooking pots that are responsible. But a bowl-shaped pudding never looks as Christmassy as the old shape which was boiled, most likely in a cloth in the copper. The plum pudding's flambeau bath of brandy may have come from the peacock dish I mentioned, but isn't it more likely—that both had their origin in the Christmas game of snapdragon, in which raisins are snatched out of a simmer dish of flames?

Folk-lorists have been very busy with this game, which seems to stretch back in time immemorial. They see it as a relic of the medieval ordeal by fire, and even of the Druids' fire-worshipping practices. One more bold than the rest even takes it back to classical times, and asserts that "when Hercules had killed the flaming dragon of Hesperia, with the apples of that orchard he made this fiery meat, in memory whereof he named it Snapdragon."

And talking of Druids, this game is by no means their only link with our Christmas customs. What about mistletoe? This was a sacred plant to them, and every year at the time of the winter solstice, the shortest day — Christmas-time—they went out to the woods in great pomp, and the Chief Druid, clothed all in white as a symbol of purity, climbed into an oak tree, and cut the mistletoe with a golden sickle. Then two white bulls were sacrificed, and the day ended in general rejoicing. Their god, probably the sun, had been thanked for bringing them safely to the shortest day, and for his promise that springtime and harvest would follow in due course.

THE YULE LOG

Holly, on the other hand, seems to be used for no other reason than that it is evergreen and a good deal less funereal or more decorative than most of the other evergreens such as yew, cypress or laurel. The Romans, and no doubt the Roman-Britons, used to decorate their houses with evergreens for the Saturnalia. The British have done the same ever since at the same time of year, and holly is commonly found growing wild in Britain. Also its red berries bring a touch of warmth and color to our homes at a time when we are glad of both.

But the yule log—that does take you back, and I only wish that the modern fireplace did not of necessity make a Parity of it. The practice comes from Scandinavian, Viking ancestors. In pre-Christian times they held a festival of Joul at the winter solstice, and as part of it they used to light huge bonfires in honor of their thunder-god Thor. In medieval Britain the custom survived as a central part of Christmas festivities. The great log was dragged in from the woods, every wayfarer raising his hat to it as it passed, for he knew that in the wassail bowl that it would heat, when it was lit on Christmas Eve, every fued would be quenched and every animosity forgotten, goodwill to all men. Each year, the charred remainder of the old log was carefully preserved and used 12 months later for the kindling of its successor. So the torch of goodwill was passed on from generation to generation.

Guard Against Fire This Yule Season

Guard against fire in your home this Yule season.

The average Christmas tree can go up in smoke in only a minute or so and that doesn't leave much time to call for help.

A live tree with roots packed in a bucket of earth is the safest. Before store and keep the dirt moistened. A small tree is safer than a larger one and festive trimmings can make up what is lacking in size.

Don't use lighted candles. (This may seem an unnecessary precaution in this day of electric lights, but lighted candles contribute to tragic fires every year.)

Check the wiring for the tree to see that it's not frayed and is in perfect condition. The switch for turning off and on electric lights should be at some distance from the tree. Don't plug or unplug lights beneath the tree.

Don't leave tree lights on when it isn't necessary and especially when the family is away from home. From time to time, check over the tree and see if needles near the lights are turning brown. If they have, move the lights.

Watch the calendar. New Year's is the day for the tree to go down. If you should extend the time, don't leave the lights on the tree for more than a half hour at a time.

Place the tree well away from stoves, radiators, and other sources of heat. When you smoke, stay away from the tree. Also be sure that the tree is secured in such a way that it cannot fall. Do not put it near a doorway where it might block an avenue of escape, should a fire occur.

A Christmas Card

Christmas Cards for the Armed Forces is the title of a program of pre-recorded in Montreal for Canadian troops abroad. In Canada, the program will be heard from 10.30-11.00 p.m. Christmas Eve, on CBC. It consists of music and variety entertainment, with Art Morrow and a 37-piece orchestra, and a cast headed by emcee Frank Hiscott. Among the performers are singers Fred Hill, Juliette, Denny Vaughan, Estelle Carran and Joyce Hahn, and the Bob Hahn Quintet. The finale is a special production based on Clement Clark Moore's poem, 'Twas the Night before Christmas.

A Christmas Message . . . .

"Fear not: for behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy . . . For unto you is born this day . . . a Saviour."

On that first Christmas, the humble and the mighty, the rich and the poor, the young and the old, bowed to worship and adore the Christ. They rejoiced in the message of the angels for it met a need in the hearts of all.

As these ancient messages ring out through the needy world this Christmas-tide may they give hope and faith and love to all men everywhere, and bring each to worship and adore at the manger of the Christ Child.

As the Christmas candles are lighted may they shine through the darkness of hate and greed to lighten the hearts of all men, guiding them to the feet of the Christ, the Light to lighten all the world.

To all, we wish for you joy this Christmastide, and may that joy which fills your heart make your life so radiant that all who come within its glow may be lifted to that joy and peace proclaimed by the angels so long ago.

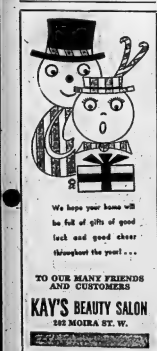
Children's Concert

Long celebrated for his skill in presenting special concerts for audiences made up of young people, Ernest MacMillan will direct a children's Christmas concert to be presented on the CBC-TV network on December 25th—1.30-2.15 p.m. The program will bring fine music, opera and ballet. It will be presented with an audience of some 200 children and will be modelled directly on the conductor-violinist's music appreciation project in Ottawa.

As master of ceremonies, Kasch will introduce the Children's Overture by Rogue Gendre and children from seven to 11 will sing carols from the overture. An excerpt from Tchaikovsky's Nutcracker Suite will also be performed, with choreography by Madame Nesta Toumine and dancers from the Ottawa Ballet Company. The orchestra will play Sir Ernest MacMillan's A St. Malo Dance with students in the audience singing the French words. The operatic selection will be the second act of Humperdinck, with Frieda Lyon and Norma Beecroft in the title roles and further ballet sequences.



Royal Albert Hall Concert

London's vast oval-shaped Royal Albert Hall is always filled with an enthusiastic audience for the three performances of the carol concert given annually by the Royal Choral Society and their conductor for many years, Sir Malcolm Sargent. The huge auditorium is packed from floor to gallery with people who come to listen to the choir and to join in the singing of popular hymns and carols.

On Christmas Eve (9.00-10.00 p.m.) CJBC will present a BBC transcription made at one of last year's concerts. The music includes Adeste Fideles, Hark! the Herald-angels Sing, Jerusalem, and Good King Wenceslas, as well as The Twelve Days of Christmas, A Cowboy Carol, Greensleeves and Silent Night.

The Dinner

By DOROTHY BOYS KILIAN

Young Mrs. Frank Sanderson hung up the telephone receiver and stared blankly at the beautifully set dining table. The Santa Claus sleigh centerpiece filled with red and white striped candy canes, the sprig of holly at each place setting, the gleaming silver—was it all to be for nothing?

"I'm so terribly sorry," her mother had just said over the phone. "We simply aren't going to be able to make it for Christmas dinner. The roads are just a sheet of ice—"

"I know how you feel, honey." Frank put an arm around her comfortingly.

"Oh, Mother!" Eva had exclaimed. "I'll won't seem like Christmas at all without you here. And Frank and I were so excited about it being our first time to have the family."

"I knew how disappointed you'd be, Eva," Mother answered. "But Dad says it's just impossible."

"Oh, Frank!" Eva was close to tears. "It's going to seem so queer without Mom and Dad."

"I know how you feel, honey," Frank put an arm around her comfortingly. "And what's more, what about all that food sitting around in the kitchen?"

"We'll just have to find somebody to eat it with us." Eva wiped her eyes and looked thoughtful. "Let's see, can you think of any of our friends here in town who hadn't planned anything special for today?"

"Well," Frank said, "the Springers are eating with his folks, the Albrights left by train yesterday for Detroit, the McCalls—oh, you know as well as I do that everybody's dated up. You just don't have a Christmas dinner to chance."

"Frank! What about the Aarongards? You know that fisherman and his family who live in the cottage down by the docks?"

"You mean that tall, quiet guy with three or four low-headed kids?"

"Yes; and I heard someone in the post office yesterday saying they've been having a struggle lately—the river's been so ice-blocked that he can't get his boat out to the lake, and there's nothing coming in for them."

"Honey, that's a swell idea!" Frank grinned heartily. "But what'll we tell them?"

"Why, just the plain truth, that our folks couldn't make it at the last minute and we'd be so glad if they'd substitute them."

"Maybe they won't believe it," Frank said. "They've got their pride you know, people like that don't want charity."

"Just try anyway, Frank," Eva pleaded. "Go ahead and phone him right now."

"O.K., here goes." And Frank went to the phone.

A minute or two later Frank hung up the receiver and shook his head. "Just what I was afraid of," he sighed. "When I first started to talk, and wished him Merry Christmas he seemed tickled to death that we'd thought of them, but the minute I mentioned the invitation he frew up and said very politely that they had their own plans. He just didn't believe the story."

Eva looked crestfallen. But after a moment's silence she suddenly said, "Let me have that phone," and hastily dialed a number.

"Mr. Aarongard, this is Mrs. Sanderson. We're so sorry you can't come to dinner here, it would have meant a lot to us. But I'm calling this time to ask a favor of you.

"I understand that you go inland to Brinkville every week or so to deliver some fish orders. I just wonder if the next time you go, you'd be kind enough to take my family's gifts to them—their farm is right on your way.

"—Yes, all their things are under the tree here. We naturally expected them to pick them up when they came to dinner, but—"

Eva began to smile as she listened, and then said cordially, "Oh fine, we'll expect all of you at about three o'clock. Good-bye 'til then." And she hung up the receiver.

"They guess they'll come after all, if we don't mind their changed plans," she cried happily.

"You're a smart little wife if I do say it myself," Frank grinned. "Come on, let's shove that bird in the oven."

Joseph Proved His Love for Mary, Mother of Jesus

Joseph, the Bible relates, had to prove his faith in and love for Mary before they were married. It is one of the great love stories of all times.

When Joseph thought of Mary, he forgot the difference in their ages: she was the girl he had waited for, his beloved. They were espoused—or, as we would say, engaged—which was almost as official as being married. His heart soured on wisps of the approaching wedding day, and then . . .

What More Insisted had come to pass, simply could not be! Joseph wanted desperately to believe Mary, but such things just didn't happen, and if they did, they happened to somebody else.

Much as he loved Mary, Joseph was a righteous God-fearing man and while he couldn't even think of making her a public example, he had just about made up his mind to put her away privily. That is, he thought he had made up his mind. In his heart, he knew he couldn't; what would become of her . . . of her child . . .

Then one night, after he had exhausted himself with tortured thinking, he fell asleep and the angel of the Lord appeared to him in a dream; saying,

"Joseph, thou son of David, fear not . . ."

And when Joseph awoke, he did as the angel had bidden him, and took Mary as his lawful and cherished wife.

"Fear not," the angel spoke unto Joseph.

"Fear not," the angel had declared unto Mary.

"Fear not," the angel spoke unto the shepherds of Bethlehem.

DOOR DECORATIONS

In the last few years it has become more and more popular to decorate doors and doorways with bells and tree ornaments instead of the conventional wreath.

Your door and window frames can be made bright and cheerful by framing them with ribbon and sprigs of holly. You can hang the ribbon in festoons across the curtains and tie at the sides in wide sash bows for colorful effect.

Puritans Outlawed Yule as Frivolous

The Puritan government of England outlawed Christmas in 1645. With the restoration of the Stuarts Christmas customs and traditions were revived, but Christmas never regained its former prestige in England.

It is observed religiously in the churches and as a day for family reunions and social gatherings, in contrast to the lavish feasting and boisterous merry-making of olden time.

Merry-making and gift-giving come in for their share, however, on December 26 which is Boxing Day. The origin of Boxing Day antedates Christmas and can be traced to the custom of gift-giving during the Roman festival of Saturnalia.

In Christian liturgy December 26 is observed as the feast of St. Stephen, the first Christian martyr, and during the centuries when tourneymen and apprentices were in the habit of levying upon their masters' customers, "Christmas Boxes" were collected on St. Stephen's day.

DOUBLE CHRISTMAS

by [illegible]

Everyone in the club thought it an excellent and unique idea: double Christmas! Wonderful! Two connecting rooms which would accommodate any number of members and guests—one room a really modern Christmas tree, the other an old-fashioned tree.

"All right, then," laughed the president when the clamor had died down. "It's voted, definitely. Now, for the two committees to handle the two trees. I'd like volunteers. I know how busy everyone is at this time of year and if I may have volunteers, I shan't be imposing on anyone."

Unfortunately, all those who volunteered wanted to trim the modern tree. No one offered to take the old fashioned tree in the old fashioned room. Linda Marbry was almost as astonished as anyone when she said she would be responsible for it.

Outside in the clear, cool night she wondered why she had offered. She was a stranger in this community and knew no young men who would put up the thirty-foot tree for her. A teacher of freshman English in a small high school does not meet many young men.

At last she decided to let the putting-up of the tree wait and get the ornaments ready; mostly homemade, the Christmas committee had told her: something like pioneer life, the tree must be. So she went into a grocery store and asked for popcorn. It was the same answer in five stores: usually they had an excess of popcorn but now they were entirely out.

Linda Lou was getting panicstricken by half past eight that night.

At nearly nine o'clock she saw a man in a small grocery store window reach up to pull out the light. "Oh, wait, wait, please," she said breathlessly as she pushed open the big door.

"Well, you must be really hungry!" laughed the tall, dark young man teasingly. "What'll it be?"

"Popcorn!" she said.

"Popcorn!" his voice and blue eyes were both incredulous. "First time I ever saw a young lady running around in the dark for popcorn!"

So Linda told him all about the old fashioned tree and how she had been unable to buy any popcorn which must be popped and strung and ready for the tree.

"They gave you little enough time," he grumbled as he went back to the shelf. "Whoever heard of getting up a thing like that in one day! I'd best help you, I think. I'll pop tomorrow morning while you are in your school."

"But your job here?"

"Oh, this isn't any job, I'm a newspaper photographer. Just came down to visit my aunt and uncle and helped out in the store while they went for a visit with a sick friend. Seems rather strange, doesn't it! I got time off which was unusual. Came down here although I could have gone for the holidays to any one of a dozen places. You offered to trim a tree. I have the popcorn—" he hesitated.

"—and you offer to pop it," Linda Lou added in her breathless fashion. "Why—it—it's like a story, almost. Isn't it?"

"It certainly is," he agreed, smoothing his black hair back as he stared down at her. "Now I never wrote a story in my life but I have noticed that in the stories, it all ends happily."

"Well, I'm sure it will make a very happy ending if that tree is up and trimmed in time for the party, the Christmas party—"

"Ah, now, don't just use words to drag this out. Christmas party, indeed! Of course, they don't use Christmas trees at any time except Christmas. Well, I'll get the tree up and pop the corn and we'll color it pink. How does that sound?"

"It sounds wonderful," she murmured.

"Yes, the whole thing sounds wonderful to me, too. With maybe a bit of mistletoe on a long, high branch."

Linda Lou only nodded. It seemed a part of a huge pattern, she thought. A pattern marked Merry Christmas.

"Popcorn!" his voice and blue eyes were both incredulous. "First time I ever saw a young lady running around in the dark for popcorn!"

ALL of us here extend to you, our loyal friends and customers, best wishes for a happy and Holy Christmas.

Yule Seal Idea Was from Denmark

This year millions of Americans have received a letter from their local chapter of the National Tuberculosis Association containing Christmas seals, the seasonal reminder of the never-ending fight to stamp out the disease.

The idea was conceived by a Danish postal clerk. He thought of the idea in 1903 while mailing Christmas packages and letters.

The clerk was Einar Holboell. He mentioned it to his fellow workers and they decided it would be a great help in defraying the cost of fighting tuberculosis. The idea reached King Christian, who approved, and the image of Queen Louise was placed on the first seals in 1904.

Jacob Riis, Danish-born American, heard about the idea and sold it to the American public in 1907 through a magazine article. A Red Cross worker, Miss Emily Bissell, started the first American sales that year.

Double Santa Claus

By ROYCE FIELDS

As was his custom during Christmas week of each year, George Brandon leaned against a pillar in the toy department of the big store, and watched the kiddies. Whenever, with a particularly hungry look, a child picked up a toy or eyed one longingly, George raised his hand. This was a signal to the clerk that the price of the toy was on him.

George was no millionaire. It was just that, not having folks of his own to buy Christmas presents for, he spent his gift money on the kids. It gave him a satisfaction to see their faces light up.

A girl had entered the store and was standing by a pillar near the one George was propped against. He had noticed her with more than casual interest, when she came in. She had a complexion that was the clearest he had ever seen and, although she couldn't see them at that distance, he would have bet she had blue eyes. Her hair was shining blonde.

"I'll second the boy's question," George said. "Just what is going on here?"

When George turned his attention back to the toy counter, a little girl, wearing neat but worn clothing, was eyeing a doll almost as large as herself. He raised his hand. With a slightly bewildered expression, the clerk picked up two dolls, wrapped them, and handed them to the child.

The actions of the clerk puzzled George. He was certain he had only signaled once.

The girl caught him staring at her and she smiled. A very nice smile. George would have liked to have a smile like that, just for himself, every day. With an effort he brought his gaze back to the toy counter.

A small boy was wistfully looking at a train. George could picture the kid at home, on the floor, playing with it. It would be nice to help a boy like that assemble the toy. He raised his hand.

This time the clerk seemed more puzzled than ever. He started to reach for the train, then instead, he motioned for George to come to the counter. George had been about to go over, anyway, to see what was behind the man's strange actions.

"Do you know that blonde girl standing over there by the pillar?" the clerk asked him.

"Yes," George told him, "but I'd sure like to. Why?"

"Did you notice I gave the little girl two dolls, when you signaled?"

"Why yes," George answered him, "and I wondered about it. However, I figured you knew the child and she probably had a sister that you thought should have a doll too."

"No, that wasn't the reason." The toy salesman motioned to the blonde girl. She had been watching them with interest and at the clerk's wave, she came over.

"Miss Marvin," the man behind the counter introduced them, "this is George Brandon. George, this is Joan Marvin. I think all nice people, such as you two, should know each other!"

The girl extended her hand eagerly and George took it just as quickly. He saw that he would have won his bet—her eyes were the bluest of the blue!

"Say, what's going on here?" The small boy had turned away from the glistening train and was looking at the trio wonderingly.

"I'll second the boy's question," George said. "Just what is going on here?"

The salesman laughed. "The reason I thought you two ought to get together, is that you're giving me signals on the same kids."

"You see," he told George, "Miss Marvin made the same arrangement this year, in regards to giving the kids toys, that you've been making for years!"

One Christmas, a few years later, Joan Brandon said to her husband, "Remember the Christmas we met, George?"

"Of course," he answered, "I'll never forget it. Why?"

"Well," she laughed, "I'd seen you in the store the previous Christmas and it took me a year to figure out that scheme to meet you. One little girl got a double Christmas out of it, anyway!"

That Reindeer Is Becoming a Tradition

That reindeer is becoming an American tradition.

Once upon a time there was a reindeer with a built-in flashlight built for a nose. You know, Rudolph, the red-nosed reindeer. From a small beginning in 1938, the little animal with the built-in beacon has become as familiar as Humpty-Dumpty and Cinderella to youngsters everywhere.

First invented as a sales giveaway promotion for Montgomery Ward by Robert L. May, Rudolph was featured in many free booklets before he became associated with Christmas. Songwriter Johnny Marks liked the title "Rudolph, the Red Nosed Reindeer," so he wrote a song about it. He was so sure he had a success that he started his own Publishing company, using "Rudolph" as his first release. Gene Autry made the initial recording, and that one record sold 2,000,000 copies.

Last year, there were 16 different recordings of the song for sale, ranging from boogie-woogie by Sugar Chile Robinson to Bing Crosby, and cowboy singers.

Small Towns First to Light Outdoor Trees

It was a small town that first thought of lighting an outdoor community Christmas tree.

Four communities are believed to have thought of the idea about the same time—as early as 1913. Two of them, McDonald and Germantown, were in Pennsylvania. Salem, Ore., decorated a large Sitka spruce. Riverside, Calif., illuminated a large evergreen, an Araucria.

The first national Christmas tree was in 1924 and was sponsored by the American Forestry association. The event is now televised every year for all parts of the country to see.

The most spectacular outdoor displays in the United States are at the White House and Rockefeller Center in New York. The New York display is possibly the most elaborate in the world.

But it was the small towns that first thought of the idea.

Today, nearly every community in the land has some kind of Christmas decorations. Many communities string colored lights across the street and decorate light posts with evergreens. Many suspend bells and stars at street intersections and have dazzling community trees.

We're overflowing with the heartiest wishes for your good cheer. May this gay holiday be your most enjoyable ever!!

They All Celebrate Christmas

(By MILES GRATTAN)

To the Hollywood stars who spend 12,000,000 dollars every Christmas on gifts to themselves: to the Eskimo Christian convert to whom boiled fish and porridge represent the Christmas spirit: to people all over the world Christmas stands for hospitality and goodwill. And in countries popularly looked upon as "heathen" the religious significance of the Festival is given more emphasis than in other places where it is merely an excuse for merry-making.

All over the world people are getting ready to celebrate Christmas. Even in what are sometimes called, unthinkingly, "heathen" countries, the annual Feast of Yule will be accorded its full significance. Curiously enough, it is just in many of these countries popularly imagined to be unChristian that Christmas is observed with far more of its religious ritual and tradition than in other places, where the devotional significance is often submerged under purely merry-making activities.

Accra, on the Gold Coast, for example, has more than 300 churches, but, up to a few years ago, only about a tenth of that number of clergymen. This usually means that only a small proportion of natives who wish to observe Christmas there can have a priest in their midst. I recently met a mission-worker who described to me how he had spent a previous Christmas Eve in a Gold Coast village.

"Custom demanded that I pay my respects to the Chief on entering the village," he said. "Making calls on Native Chieftans is no mere formality, and I was persuaded to stop and partake of a Christmas Eve supper which made my mouth water when I recall it.

"There were large pots full of appetizing stews and plenty of chicken, yams, eggs and fruit. These native people of 'Darkest Africa' were enlightened enough as regards the meaning Christmas. In their little church, which I visited afterwards, the ugly exterior was hidden in the kindly dusk of evening, but inside everything was bright and lovely.

"The walls and ceiling were entirely covered with fine basket-work relieved by the Stations of the Cross and other pictures. In one corner was a tiny crib, the figures of which had been made by some of the native women. A pilgrimage was organized on the following day to another village where there was no church, and here a solemn ceremony was sung in the open air."

The Christian people of the little Gold Coast villages are perhaps usually thought of as being backward, but they celebrated Christmas with great religious fervor. "I am sure the angels sing every Christmas in Jukwa," said my traveller friend.

Christmas in say, India—with the sun blazing down and a temperature of over 90 degrees Fahrenheit in the shade—contrasts strangely with Christmas at an Eskimo igloo-community in the Arctic. Eskimos who have been converted to Christianity journey to the nearest mission-house, where there is usually provided for them, a dinner of boiled fish, porridge, buns, biscuits, and tea.

The porridge is often eaten from the same plate as the fish and is probably boiled in the same boiler, but it makes no difference to Christian Eskimos who enter into the spirit of the season as heartily as anyone else on earth, to quote mission-workers of the north.

Just before the war in Borneo, Christmas was celebrated in lavish style by a people who not so very long ago had the reputation of being head-hunters. Now a lot of the Dyaks who still live in the jungle are practising Christians. Many of them troop into Sarawak for football matches, dancing, church festivities and feasting.

In the native villages the Christmas meal usually consists of pork, chicken, and great quantities of rice, all washed down by innumerable cups of strong coffee.

In Burma the missionaries have found the stage-play to be the best medium for representing the simple, everlasting truth of the Christmas message. A typical audience at the Pedaw Maternity Hospital there may consist of either Christians or Buddhists. At the village of Kingri, three miles from Chaung Wa, the missionaries first erect an open-air stage and spread mats for the audience to sit on.

By the time Christmas is over in Britain, othe countries are just getting ready to celebrate it. In the Basque country of Spain, for instance, the festivities are held on January 6, since that is the supposed date on which the Three Wise Men arrived in Bethlehem with their presents for the infant Christ.

An account of Christmas in many lands would not be complete without mentioning the exotic fact that the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce reckons that, on an average, $12,000,000 are spent by film stars in that city alone on Christmas gifts each year.

POLITICAL FIGURE DEAD

LIVERPOOL, England (AP)—Luke Hogan, 68, former lord mayor of Liverpool and a national political figure for 33 years, collapsed and died at a theatre here Monday night. He resigned leadership of the local Labor party in 1947 because he opposed the Labor government's nationalization of Liverpool cotton exchange.

Dr. Clement Moore Was Ashamed Of His Famous Poem

Dr. Clement Clarke Moore was ashamed of his famous poem, "Night Before Christmas" and would not acknowledge that he wrote it for more than 20 years.

Today, the poem which begins—'Twas the night before Christmas, when all through the house

Not a creature was stirring, not even a mouse;—

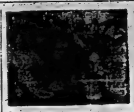
Dr. Moore was an aloof professor of Greek and Oriental literature in the Episcopal Seminary in New York. He wrote the poem on Christmas Eve 1822 and read it to his seven children.

He had not planned for the poem to go further than his own family, but a relative who was visiting the Moores put a copy in her diary. The next year the relative's father sent it to a newspaper.

Other newspapers printed the piece and they quickly became known all over the country. The dignified Dr. Moore was embarrassed and considered it beneath a man of his scholastic standing to be the author of children's jingles.

Twenty-two years later, however, he finally publicly admitted authorship to the jingles and it was published in book form under his name for the first time.

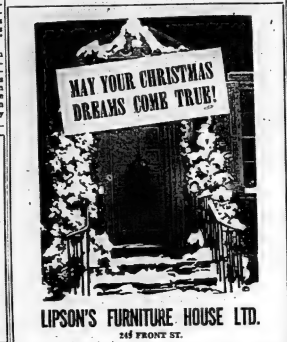
Birth of The Savior Was Greatest Event In World's History



Pleasant as it is to dream of a "White Christmas", with its carols and gifts, feasting and merry-making, the sparkling eyes of children delighting in Santa Claus and the wonderful Christmas trees, these things never can symbolize the tremendous significance of the day.

The birth of the Saviour was the greatest event in the history of the world. In spite of all the backsliddings, Christian peoples have pressed forward steadily.

However vicious and corrupt, the word today is far better than the world of pagan times; familiarity with the cross and crucifixion has abolished legal tortures and much cruelty—and, if given a chance, might shame us into banishing the curse of international vicciousness for the sake of Him who became the Saviour of Mankind.



WOMAN ROBS AMPUTEE

DALLAS (AP) — A woman knocked down an amputee, robbed him of his wallet and $29, and fled leaving him with a broken leg. Ernest Johnson told the police Tuesday that the woman, about 24, attacked him at his shoe shine stand. He said that one of his artificial legs, made of wood and aluminum, was shattered.

Sitter's Eve

By SHIRLEY SARGENT

On account of being the oldest in a big family, I've been baby sitting longer than I remember. Since I was twelve—that'd be four years now that I'm within hitting distance of my sixteenth birthday—I've been sitting for other people for pay. I've always welcomed jobs but tonight what I'd welcome is a date—so what happens? Four times I'm called to our wall phone and four times I have to turn people down 'cause I already promised the Laytons. The Laytons are kind'a old to have Jennie, four, and Jimmy six, but they planned it so their first two would be grown-up before they had any more.

Anyway, nobody calls me for a date, not that anyone does very often, so I'm off for an evening of fun and hilarity. Baby sitting, haw! They aren't babies, and try and sit with those two. For one ample, Jennie gnaws a fruitcake while I'm helping Jimmy with his train, they have two fights, Jimmy turns on all the lights as fast as I turn them off and finally Jennie knocks the Christmas tree over. It was a big tree with a standard and all, but she catches it with her jump rope.

Quick-like I run in and pull out the plug, thanking my stars that no fire started, then herd them up to bed. Three stories later they're both asleep and I hurry down to wash the dishes.

Tired now, I'm thinking of the good time my friends are having and wondering again why I don't have more dates. The hall mirror shows the same old reflection.

"Oh, please," his face is all eager, "stay. I hate to be alone."

Short brown hair, brown eyes and a big mouth that hides my crooked teeth, if I don't forget and grin. Goon's I have a little more money, I can afford braces.

Jennie yells and I wake her from a nightmare. By the time I'm back downstairs, it's nearly ten o'clock and I've still got that darned tree to set up. Like I say, it's a beautiful big tree, ceiling high, loaded with decorations. There I am half under the tree, trying to hold it straight and keep the globes on at the same time, when I hear the front door open. Somebody yells, "Anybody home?"

I'm so startled I let the tree sway, so this voice yells, "Timber!" and a long arm grabs for the trunk.

Looking up between the branches, I see a tall, dark-haired boy, neither handsome nor homely, "Thanks," I'm a little breathless.

"I'm Oliver Layton," he explains, "isn't that a heck of a name?"

Pine needles are thick in the air. "Not so awful," I laugh back, "I'm Margie, the sitter. Your folks are out."

"I know. Look here, can't we do something about this tree?"

A few minutes later we collapse into chairs, staring at the still-lovely tree. "Thanks so much. Can I get you something to eat or anything?"

"Say, that'd be keen. Would you?"

Well, of course, I do and, while Oliver eats, he tells me how he's staying at a friend's this vacation but decided to come home and take his girl to a dance. "So I called her and came clear in by bus, but she didn't wait. She went with somebody else. Heck." he grins, "now I'm sorta glad she stood me up."

"I'd better be on my way now that you're here to baby sit," I say reluctantly.

"Oh, please," his face is all eager, "stay. I hate to be all alone."

Back in the living room then, he asks me all about the kids and about me until, to hear us talk you'd think we were old friends. I like the way he talks, slow and quiet, and the way his grin lights up his whole face. He tells me about boarding school and his friends and what he wants to do.

Suddenly, he jumps up. "Let's dance. We can roll up the rug . . ."

It turns out we're both such sad dancers we have to take our shoes off so's not to hurt each other. But we laugh a lot and the radio sounds fine and I fit right into Oliver's arms. At midnight, he kisses me lightly on the cheek.

Well, it's the happiest sitter's eve I've ever spent and, from the look in his eyes, I can tell it's going to be a Happy Holiday.

Nativity Play

December 26th: THE NATIVITY PLAY, adapted by Andrew Allan from the Medieval Mystery Plays of Chester and York and set to music by Healey Willan. This play, first devised for CBC broadcast from Vancouver in 1940, has been heard eight times before on the network, but not since 1949. Two years ago Allan's TV version of the play for CBS won him a Christopher Award in New York. The text for the broadcast has been somewhat revised, but the intention remains as in the past: to show the feeling that the men of 500 years ago had of the majesty and simplicity of great events. Lucio Agostini will conduct Dr. Willan's music, with Carl Tapscott as choirmaster.

MAKE GIFTS ATTRACTIVE

Make your Christmas package attractive because half of the pleasure of the gift is the wrapping and opening a beautiful package. Use plenty of ribbon and gay colored paper. Add bells and Christmas ornaments to the bows. Tie ribbon about the corners and put the bows off-center to make the packages distinctive. A little disguising by putting small boxes in larger ones before wrapping adds to the mystery of the gift.

Guests Usually Revert to More Familiar Canadian Liquors

By ALAN DONNELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Forty-five times a year, under 45 flags, the health of foreign countries is toasted on national holidays with exotic drinks by Ottawa's diplomatic corps.

It might be Mexican tequilla, Russian or Polish vodka, Indian gin or Yugoslav slivovica—a pint brandy. The United Kingdom high commission serves uncut scotch whisky—far more potent than scotch sold in Canadian stores.

Guests usually sample the unusual refreshments and then revert to more familiar Canadian liquors thoughtfully provided. Even in the embassies of Moslem countries, where religious custom requires abstinence from alcoholic drinks, liquor is provided for guests.

HUNT ROUND

Such national holidays have rapidly become a major facet of social life in Canada's capital.

It takes a diligent diplomat to keep up with the fast pace of receptions and cocktail parties. Ribbed round with protocol, which go hand in hand with the more serious business of the diplomatic colony.

Diplomatic receptions are only one phase, however, of the city's social life which now is at its busiest period.

The high point of the winter season is claimed by the Ottawa May Court Club for its May Court ball, which comes in February.

The May Court's claim to preeminence is challenged, however, by other functions.

The Ottawa Press Club ball launches the winter social season. Originally planned for early November, its date this year was changed to Nov. 19 to avoid conflicting with the visit of Queen Mother Elizabeth Nov. 15-17. A formal, but colorful affair, it was the first to reinstitute formal dress after the informality of wartime social functions.

Apart from the formal balls, Ottawa's social circle is kept busy with house parties, dinners and dancing, which gained prominence during the stay of Governor-General Lord Alexander.

The Alexanders, like their predecessors, made Government House a gay centre for Ottawa society. Governor-General Vincent Massey, a widower, has not taken on the same social leadership but the occasional state dinners at Government House, such as the one for Queen Mother Elizabeth, are major social events.

Mr. Massey also holds a few small dinner dances every year, and last year's ceremonial ball at Government House was the highlight of the social season.

Care of Christmas Flowers

During this Christmas season, the proper care of cut flowers can greatly increase their life in your home, says Prof. H. Geoderis-Wilson of the horticulture department, O.A.C. He recommends the following simple treatments:

Cut woody stems, such as rose, chrysanthemum, and carnations, at an angle as soon as they are received. This prevents the stem from being blocked by the bottom of the vase. Only ¼ or ½ inch need be cut off. Place the stems in warm water, 100oF to 120oF—(just above body temperature). This helps remove air bubbles which plug the stems and cause early wilting, especially or roses.

When flowers are not needed for display, as at night, or if the home is empty, move to a cool, (45o-55o) moist room. This slows down respiration and the flowers will last longer.

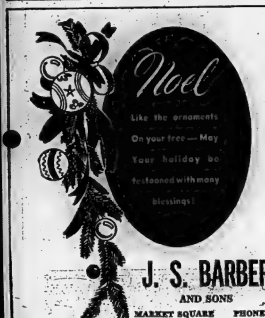
CHEMICAL AIDS

Chemical preservatives may be added to the water to prevent the accumulation of bacteria which plug the stems. The preservative is obtainable commercially in a number of forms, or may be made at home by dissolving one ounce of hydrazine sulphate in one quart of water. Two teaspoonfuls of this solution, together with a tablespoon of sugar in each quart of flower water, will be sufficient. If this practice is not followed, change the water, cut the stems, and rearrange the bouquet each day. Contrary to popular notion, aspirin will not increase the life of flowers.

If you have cut poinsettias, sear the base of the stem or place in boiling water for a short time. This prevents the milky juice from plugging the stem.

POT PLANTS

Hot, dry air in the house is the biggest enemy of the pot plants at this time of year. Room temperatures are too high for plants such as cyclamen, azalea and poinsettia, Professor J.C. Taylor of the horticulture department, O.A.C. stresses that these plants are grown in cool, moist greenhouses and should be provided with similar cool, moist conditions in the home.



Too much water in the soil is very destructive to almost all plants. To avoid water-logged soil, add enough water to moisten all the soil in the pot. Then do not add more water until the soil begins to dry slightly. This procedure avoids danger of roots being killed by too much water in the soil; however, do not let the soil dry out or the plant will suffer.

To keep the air moist, make sure all humidifiers on heaters, furnaces and radiators are kept filled with water. Dry air is very hard on pot plants. When plants are placed in windows do not close the drapes around them, as they may freeze in the dead air space created.

Cyclamens will bloom for a long time if provided with plenty of light and cool temperatures. About 60oF is best for this plant. Place the cyclamen in a well-lighted, cool, location, (such as in a window sill which is usually cooler than other areas in the room). Water as described above.

Azaleas require cool temperatures, and plenty of water, but hard water or water which is artificially "softened" should not be used. Azaleas should be watered with rain water or clean melted snow. Azaleas require an acid soil, and hard or "softened" water may affect this acidity and cause the leaves to turn yellow and the plant to lose its value. Give the azalea plenty of water, but do not allow the soil to become saturated or water-logged.

Poinsettias lose their leaves rapidly in dry air but they will stand slightly higher temperatures than the other common Christmas pot plants. For longest life of poinsettias in the home, keep them in or near a window where they get light and cooler air. Water the plant according to the general recommendations for pot plants.

Your Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes, and find what your outlook, is according to the stars.

For Christmas Day, Saturday, Dec. 25th, 1954,
A Blessed and Holy Christmas to you all!

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—A blessed day, and may you and yours enjoy it fully, with cheerful generosity in your heart. Grand planetary influences to encourage useful and successful activities, wholesome decreation.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—A fresh start is granted us to renew our faith in and promises to our Creator. He knows our weaknesses, but strengthens our good desires. Peace with prayer, good deeds.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—A day for reviewing in mind and heart the issues truly important to our well-being. Where are we headed? Are our motives good ons? Have we sufficiently buried our ego?

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Dependability is a great virtue. Children depend upon parents, teachers; we depend upon others. And God depends upon us! And how often we fail short! Love and be loved; smile.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo)—Think not of self but of the Great God Who granted you your soul, and the 'wonderful resources of this earth, so full of gifts for the properly acquisitive. Such peace in little things!

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo)—Let, no excuses, personal or otherwise, keep you from going to church to thank your Creator for all you have and are. We so seldom thank, so often seek, sometimes demand! Be happy.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—It is not so much the number of prayers and deeds or how we say and do them, and when. To give thanks and to be content is true appreciation.

October 24 to November 22—(Scorpio)—It is a better age than we may realize. The ancients had as many—and often more—grave trials, problems. Yet God's love always wins, His worshippers always have new blessing. Faith!

November 23 to December 22—(Sagittarius)—These are troubled times but there have been troubled times throughout history. Recognize your dependence upon God's great goodness. We must ask; we must love, too.

December 22 to January 21—(Capricorn)—The petty things: the intolerance and ingratitude of our lives becomes shameful before the great goodness and the blessings of this, God's Day. Simplicity, honesty stressed.

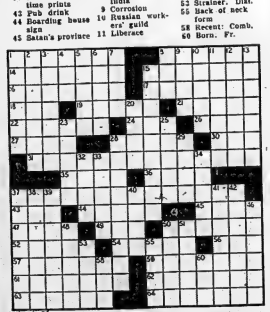
Little Benny's Notebook

Ma wasn't hardly eating any dinner, saying out loud to herself, Oh dear, I suppose the only sensible thing is just to forget it and injoy this good chicken. It's silly to let it pray on my mind as though they were members of the family, she said.

Why, what happened to who? pop said, and ma said, Still at the same time I've known them both through so many ups and downs. I cant think of 2 more charming people. Oh dear , no wonder it comes as a persoeel shock, she said.

What and who for Pete sake? pop said, and ma said, Everybody considered them the ideal cuppie, matched like perfect pears in 2 pods. It seemed like a day of general rejoicing when their engagement was announced just 6 months ago, and now look, she said.

It's no good looking when I cant even get anywhere by listening, pop said. Who the dooce are you talking about? he said, and ma said, Only 6 short months ago, and now like a blue clap of thunder in a cloudless sky, she has divorced him. And for such paltry reasons. Even if it's true that he wears pajamas trimmed with fur and insists of having soop for breakfast, isn't such a successful man entitled to his little vanities? she said.



Yee-gods, do you mean to tell me that we know any such nut as that? pop said, and ma said, Well naturelly. Who doesn't know Clyde Partridge, the most fascinating leeding man in Hollywood? Oh dear, she said.

Oh great greef, pop said.

And he kept on eating as if nothing was the matter, and ma kept on eating as if something was.

Little Benny's Notebook

We had frankfurters and beans for dinner and chocklit cake for dizzert, both being my biggest favorites, and also a big helpings of frankfurters and beans and started to pass my plate again, and ma said, Now dont let your eyes run away with your stummick, or you wont have no room for any dizzert.

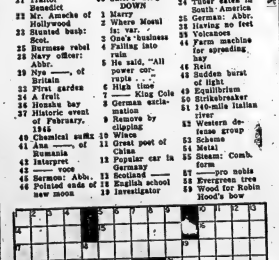
I bet I will, ma, what do you want to bet? I said, and ma said, I dont want to bet and I dont want to and I dont want to hear you talk so much about betting. The first thing you know you'll grow up into a confermed gambler, she said.

I bet I wont, ma, I said, and she said, There, there it goes again. Really, William, I mean actually, he's got bets on the brane, she said.

The way to get rid of that habit is the hard way, pop said. You've got to bet and lose. Benny, I'll bet you 2 slices of cake that you cant refrain from betting until dizzert time. Every time you slip, you lose a half a slice, he said, and I said, Oh boy, sure, I bet I'll get the whole 2 slices.

You now have a slice and a half left, pop said, and I said, Aw heck, I forgot, I bet I wont say it again.

There goes the last half of the first slice, pop said. Darn it, I bet that's the last time I say it. I bet.



There go the first and 2nd halves of the last slice, pop said, and I said, Jimminy Jacolem, pop that's my whole dizzert including the extter slice.

Oh well, you'd better call the bet off, ma said. I guess the shock alone was a lesson he'll remember, she said, and I said, Oh boy, I bet I will.

Which I bet I will.

Christmas Greeting Cards Originated Century Ago

By MONIQUE de FAUCON
[United Nations Children's Fund]

Goodwill on earth and a greeting card for everybody — man, woman and child. If they were to be equally distributed, there would be more than enough to go around, for more Christmas and New Year cards will be produced, bought and mailed this year than there are people on earth. The total number of cards sent in countries observing holidays on December 25 and January 1, is expected to exceed 3,000 million—and the world's population is about 2,400 million.

This record output has been built up in a little over a hundred years of seasonal greetings, large and small, quaint and sad. The smallest greeting cards are exactly the size of a rare postage stamp—a favorite gift exchanged by thousands of ardent philatelists. The biggest greetings ever were probably the 10 by 20-feet posters that an anonymous well-wisher had put up on many towns in the north of England, at a cost of 30 shillings each.

Over the century the diversity of designs has been incredible: cupids shovelling Christmas puddings into wheelbarrows; Cleopatra greeting Queen Victoria on the banks of the Nile; modern designs like pieces of colored linoleum; a genuine Rembrandt drawing and a view of the Berlin Iron Foundry, stamped into five inches of solid cast iron.

"GIFT" ENDED FRIENDSHIP

For sheer weight of goodwill, the Iron founders are probably unchallenged, but for expense the Rembrandt holds the record at somewhere around $36,000 — all of it in lawyers' fees. This celebrated "Christmas card" was a painting showing the Holy Family in their Bethlehem stable. It was unsigned until Herr Hollinger, a Ruhr industrialist, wrote across one corner "Happy Christmas, dear friend." That friendship ended abruptly with the discovery that the painting was a missing Rembrandt, a discovery taken that twelve years of litigation failed to restore to Herr Hollinger.

Most of the millions who send cards make no effort to get them back, being merely content with another in exchange. This yearning for reciprocity is probably the biggest single stimulus that greeting cards ever received since the original 1,000 copies were printed and put on sale in London's Bond Street in 1846.

As usual, the classicists are there with an earlier claim. It seems Romans had a word for it in their habit of sending New Year "strenae" — a term that survives in the modern French "etrennes." As these gifts were often decorated clay tablets inscribed with greetings like "Happiness in the Year Year," some historians blame Christmas cards on Imperial Rome.

HAND-COLORED WOODCUTS

Nearer the mark perhaps were the German "Andachtsbilder" — hand-colored copperplates and woodcuts widely produced in the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries. Still later, at the end of the eighteenth century, the custom reappeared in hand-made festive visiting cards widely popular in France, Austria and Germany. "Few collectors' items, these designs in silk, lace and expensive engraving often carried complicated moving figures that would open windows or unwind parchments to reveal pertinent greetings.

Nevertheless, the Christmas card in its present mass appeal form is a product of Victorian England, and even possibly the brainchild of Queen Victoria's German-born consort, Prince Albert. The Prince is generally held responsible for bringing the Christmas tree tradition from Germany to England. And certainly it was his close personal friend, Mr. Henry Cole, the founder-director of the Victoria and Albert Museum, who commissioned the first modern Christmas card. Designed to his order by John Calcott Horsley of the Royal Academy, one thousand of the cards were put on sale in 1846.

Around 1865, the Christmas card found its most powerful promoter in the introduction of cheap color printing. The combined appeal of Britain's penny post and a flood of motifs and cards imported from the presses of German chromolithographers did the rest. From Britain the cards went out all over the world to establish the habit in many non-Christian societies, where they contribute to the observance of many different holidays, marked on several different calendars.

HUGE PRODUCTION

In the United States, nearly 2,000 million Christmas cards have been manufactured this year. In the United Kingdom, Christmas cards even figure among export statistics as bringing in a net profit of almost 400,000 pounds during 1954. In France where the habit is comparatively new, export is already around ten million cards a year.

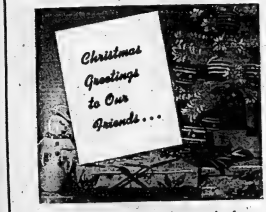
Entire organizations and firms exist on year-round production of cards and the matching of designs with text and verse. Composing Christmas card poetry keeps many a writer mentally snowbound through the warmest months of the year, though Lord Alfred Tennyson, Britain's Poet Laureat, once disdained such work at a thousand guineas for a dozen lines. Even so, he smugly agreed that "these verses would have found their way into many far corners of the earth where I cannot flatter myself that even my name is known."

World-famous museums now compete in producing the most beautiful cards. The Louvre, the National Gallery of Arts in Washington, New York's Metropolitan and London's Victoria and Albert Museums all issue cards reproducing some of their greatest masterpieces.

Since 1950, greeting cards have stepped into the international field through a fund-raising idea of the United Nations Children's Fund. Each box of UNICEF cards earns enough to buy milk for six hungry children during a whole week or to vaccinate ten schoolboys against TB. The cards themselves have been designed by a dozen prominent artists among whom feature Henri Matisse and Raoul Dufy. This year's cards are signed by an American illustrator, Roger Duvoisin, who presents gay variations on the theme of children at play around the world.

Perhaps the greatest mystery surrounding Christmas cards is where they go after Christmas. One man with a partial answer is England's Jonathan King who has collected 183,000 specimens packed into 700 volumes. Full of the charitable spirit of his collection, Mr. King offered the lot to the British Museum. Regretfully the authorities refused, they simply did not have space for the seven-ton donation!

Probably the biggest collectors of Christmas cards are the many hospitals for children and handicapped people who appeal for used cards each year. Some of the lens of thousands of cards they receive are used for small patients to cut out. Others have a more commercial value—those that have removable inner sections are often given a newly-printed centre page and put on sale a year later to the benefit of the hospital!



But whether a makeover item from last year or a brand new hand-painted deluxe design, the object in every case is the same —the general desire for peace on earth and individual goodwill towards men expressed by a salvo of . . . Happy Christmas, Joyeux Noel, Feliz Ano Nuevo, Joyeux Noel, Feliz Ano Nuevo, S Novim Godom, Gelukkig Nieuwjaar—or in the universal esperanto language as "Bonan Kristnaskon kaj Bonan Novjaron."

'Twas in the moon of winter-time,
When all the birds had fled,
That mighty Gitchi-Manitou
Sent angel-choirs instead;
Before their light the stars grew dim,
And wondering hunters heard the hymn.
Jesus your King is born ✲ Jesus is born, In Excelsis Gloria

Within a lodge of broken bark
The tender Babe was found,
A ragged robe of rabbit skin
Enwrapped His beauty 'round;
But as the hunter braves drew nigh,
The angel-song rang loud and high.
Jesus your King is born ✲ Jesus is born, In Excelsis Gloria

The earliest moon of winter-time
Is not so round and fair
As was the ring of glory on
The helpless Infant there.
The chiefs from far before Him knelt
With gifts of fox and beaver-pelt.
Jesus your King is born ✲ Jesus is born, In Excelsis Gloria

O children of the forest free,
O sons of Manitou,
The Holy Child of earth and heaven
Is born to-day for you.
Come kneel before the radiant Boy,
Who brings you beauty, peace and joy.
Jesus your King is born ✲ Jesus is born, In Excelsis Gloria

AMEN

Though the manger be a lodge of bark, or swaddling clothes a skin of fur, the Christmas spirit born on the hills of Bethlehem long, long ago, still fills the heart with awe and wonder.

In the light of this great spirit, we send our warmest greetings to our customers, suppliers and to our own esteemed and faithful staff, both at home and abroad. May you know to the full the wonderful joy of Christmas.

Two Boys Drown When Ice Gives Way at Kingston

KINGSTON (CP)—Two boys, on their first hunting trip with a rifle received as a Christmas gift, died Monday when ice gave way as they crossed the frozen Cataraqui river.

Donald Kotowych, 13, and his eight - year - old playmate, Billy Crooks, were walking across the river near the Belle Island, just east of Kingston, when the ice broke.

The boys were believed on their way to a friend's home, six miles from the city to try out a .22 rifle given Donald for Christmas.

SHORT CUT

Mrs. Harold Crawford, Donald's foster sister, said the boys may have been crossing the ice on a short cut. She said they were not experienced hunters.

Thomas Bridgen, 19, of Kingston, made an unsuccessful rescue attempt. He was hunting on the island at the time and heard the boys' shouting.

Bridgen, when he arrived at the water's edge the boys were clutching the ice on opposite sides of the crack, about 30 feet to about 16 by 30 feet.

He crawled across the ice and he said he got nearer to the boys. He heard Donald encouraging Billy to hang on to the slushy ice.

Just as Bridgen got within an arm's length of Donald, the ice cracked and he fell in. He managed to pull Donald along with the belt of his rifle and had made about three feet headway when he heard the boy murmuring "It's no use, I'm cold."

When he looked round Donald had disappeared. When he went back for Billy, he also had disappeared.

"I knew there was nothing more I could do," Bridgen said later. "I climbed out and ran 400 yards across the ice to the city to give the alarm."

Bridgen said he walked home in his wet clothes and had a bath both.

The bodies were recovered today only yards from where they had plunged into the icy water. They were found by volunteers dragging the river.

Eyeballs Became Uncaged Says Man Travelling 632 mph on Rocket Sled

By RALPH BOVIS

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A doctor who risks his life discovering what is safe for allied airmen has again set a world speed record for travel on land, 632 m.p.h.

Lt.-Col.John Paul Stapp, 44, an Air Force medical scientist, set the mark during an air survival test in a rocket-propelled open sled roaring down a 3,500-foot track. There was no windshield to protect him from the 40-mile wind.

"My eyeballs became uncaged, but there was no pain, nothing to hinder," Stapp said in a telephone interview.

He made the rapid journey at Holloman air development centre, N.M., Dec. 10, but the air force didn't disclose details until Monday.

The speed record came only as a secondary part of the test. Stapp's ride was designed to measure pressure that airmen would encounter bailing out of a supersonic plane flying 1,000 m.p.h. at an altitude of 35,000 feet.

Asked if he is convinced a pilot can safely bail out at supersonic speeds, the bespectacled scientist said he wants to make another test before giving an answer.

Results of these tests will determine what type of ejection apparatus can best be used on high-speed airplanes.

The Dec. 10 run was nearly 200 m.p.h. faster than the record that Stapp set last March 19. It was in the sled.

about nine-tenths of the speed of sound, which was 714 m.p.h. under altitude and temperature conditions on Lake Edward day.

On the later run Stapp collected two black eyes and was blinded 51/2 minutes but reported no other ill-effects except some small blood blisters from dust particles in the air.

During the five seconds of acceleration, Stapp was subjected to 46.2 times the force of gravity the pressure of gravity. It blacked out his speed to complete stop took 1.4 seconds, subjecting the body to 22 times gravity deceleration.

The saw bright yellow and then vivid-red," he said. "The pain was intense. So intense that I recall very little of the 5 seconds of pressure in stopping."

Water brakes stopped the sled 32 feet from the end of the rails. With no windshield to protect him, Stapp had a plastic helmet and clear plastic visor to cover his face. The helmet was fixed to the backrest of the seat so wind and pressures could not twist and break his neck. Straps held him securely in the seat.

OPP OFFICIALS UNAWARE OF POLICE THREAT

Reported Constables Would Resign in Body

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario provincial officials said Monday they were unaware of any threat by Ontario Provincial Police officers to quit their jobs because of dissatisfaction with their pay.

Attorney-General Dana Porter said Monday night:

"I haven't heard a word about it. No one has approached me about it."

Other officials also said they had not heard of any resignation threat.

A report published here Monday said the Ontario Provincial Police officers, impatient over the delay in granting promised raises and bonuses, were talking of leaving their jobs and taking whatever positions they could find.

SAYS FALSE

Commissioner E. V. McNeil of provincial police was not available to reached for comment, but a spokesman described the report as absolutely false.

"That is not to say no men are satisfied with their pay, but any talk of a mass resignation is absolutely false," he said.

A new pay schedule established last year gives constables $2,540 to start, with a top of $3,300 after three years service. A $120 cost-of-living bonus also is paid.

Cpl. W. A. Cook of Allanburg, president of the Ontario Provincial Police Association, said:

"There is no mass resignation scheme as far as the association is concerned and we certainly haven't approve of one."

NEVER PROMISED

Cpl. Cook said Commissioner McNeil never promised the association that the force would receive a raise but "you know the public's west coast which Prime Minister Nehru has demanded repeatedly be ceded to India.

Portugal has refused even to discuss the Indian demands. Nehru has said his government would use only peaceful means to secure the territory.

Assistant Rector of Philadelphia Church Found Beaten to Death

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Police investigating a minor auto accident early today found the assistant rector of St. Peter's Episcopal church beaten to death in his apartment.

Police said the body of Rev. Dr. Benjamin H. Bissell, 59, was clad only in a T-shirt when they found him sprawled on a bed in the apartment about 3 a. m.

Placed under guard at hospital was James Morrison, 26, whom police said had been released from prison three months ago after serving a term for burglary.

Morrison was removed from the wreckage of an auto that crashed into a wall a few blocks from Dr. Bissell's apartment about 2:30 a. m. He was suffering from cuts of the head, hands and face and a back injury.

Police searching the wrecked car found cards indicating it was owned by Dr. Bissell. They also found a clergyman's white and purple stole, and a wristwatch with its leather strap torn.

French Assembly Expected To Approve Arming Germany

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP) — Europe's free press generally agreed today that French Premier Mendes-France will be victorious in driving the Paris agreements through his capricious National Assembly.

Official Soviet spokesmen were noticeably silent. But a statement from the Soviet Socialists—leaders of the West German opposition to rearmament, said:

"Any complex of treaties which comes into force under such conditions and with such a small majority can have no good results."

"Any German and any European policy which does not foresee the reconstruction of Germany on a peaceful first and foremost task cannot endure. . . ."

Some of the French deputies' vote Monday night to admit West Germany into NATO and their speculation on what they may do in balloting Wednesday on the Saar-Iran rearmament question was a big story all over free Europe.

Mendes-France's victory in getting France predicted a final victory for the agreements to rearm West Germany.

In Moscow, the Soviet news agency Tass and Moscow radio both reported Mendes - France's victory but said he achieved it through threats and pressures against the deputies.

The Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda accused the United States and Britain of "brazen interference and great pressure" on the French deputies.

The Daily Mail in London voiced a "general expectation" that Mendes-France would win the rearmament vote. The French national assembly has produced so many surprises that few would dare predict anything for certain."

The London Times commented that "the final vote will be secured only if the deputies keep their eyes fixed on the place that France should take in Europe in the critical months and years ahead."

Headlining its comment "Irresponsible Assembly," the Daily Telegraph said: "The politicians whose hostility to abstention and Atlantic Treaty alliance were given a chance to act a trifle less irresponsibly.

"Characteristically, however, they were unable to make up their minds without a fresh pause for the party caucus to go through their calculations before they let Mendes-France over the first hurdle."

Union Leader May Have Been Marked for Death

Hackensack, N.J. (AP)—Bergen county prosecutor Guy Calisi said last night that Paul Hall, leader of the AFL Seafarers' Union may have been marked for death as a war between rival factions of his union.

Calisi said the theory of the warring factions was brought up by Joseph Kemps, Tampa, Fla., lawyer who is also a member of the executive board of the 75,000-member Seafarers International Union who is running against Hall in a two-month union election to the $28,000 a year post of SIU president.

Kemps was in Hackensack while Hall is free in $2,000 bond on charges of conspiracy to murder Hall. Hall's life was saved last Thursday when police closed in and arrested a man they identified as the hired killer near the union man's Montvale, N.J. home.

Damage Action Will Be Launched Against Govt.

TORONTO (CP) — A $975,000 damage action will be launched against the federal government early next month by three property owners in the Malton area, it was learned Monday night.

The action arises from department of transport zoning regulations which restrict heights of buildings and land uses on 1,000 acres adjacent to suburban Malton airport.

Damages are being sought by Harry Walker, Harry Walker and the Roberts and Dagwell Development Co.

Hilliard G. Chappel, Malton lawyer representing the property owners, said the department of transport regulations purport to "sterilize" the use and value of property by-law.

"Actually the regulations are so restrictive that they deny all industry coming in and blight the land so that it is actually useless," he said.

Mr. Madgett was raised on the 96-acre farm he works north of the big airport. Mr. Walker farms 60 acres and Mr. Dagwell 20. Dagwell firm owns 100 acres purchased for industrial development before the zoning regulations went into effect in June, 1953.

Reds, With U.S. Aid, Rewrite Tale Of Snow White and Seven Dwarfs

By TOM REEDY

BERLIN (AP) — The cold war caught up today with Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs.

It started in the Soviet zone of Germany, where Communist producers at Greifswald rewrote the fairy tale and won high praise from the Communist press Monday and Tomorrow. The Soviet writer commented that the Communist version included certain changes and explained:

"The dwarfs should not be a member of the court, but must be presented as outcast. She is not being educated with the children of the castle janitor and is on very good terms with the farmers, who are actually revolutionaries. That's really why the queen hates her."

The revamped plot is based on social conciousness and the need for understanding feudal barons and dwelling the land among the peasants.

RIAS, the American high command radio in West Berlin, reported the east zone's thespian shenanigans and went on:

"This plot needs thickening; let us finish it."

The dwarfs, RIAS went on, are kept busy digging uranium. Their job is to dig it out of a cave with seven white doves sitting on seven little white beds. Mistress of the house is Countess Orana; Lodge, will be cancelled this week.

Assembly Votes To Let Germany Enter NATO

Mendes-France Has Won Three-Fourths of Battle

By HARVEY HUDSON

PARIS (AP) — Premier Pierre Mendes-France appeared today to have won three-fourths of his battle for French Assembly approval of West German rearmament. But the last quarter may be the most difficult of all.

The assembly by a vote of 280 to 251 gave preliminary approval Monday night to a bill of the 12 Paris treaties, this one to admit West Germany to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. Mendes-France had made the issue a question of confidence in his government, staking his cabinet's life on its passage.

The premier still must win from the reluctant lawmakers two more confidence votes on the interlocking accords to free West Germany and enlist 500,000 West German troops in Western defense. Both ballots are scheduled for Wednesday.

KEY PACT

Still at stake is the key pact setting up a seven-nation European union under which Germany would control the arms and armaments of member countries. It is this pact which, actually provides for West German rearmament.

Premier Mendes-France stunned Mendes-France and alarmed London and Washington last Friday by backing down this accord 290 to 259 on its first reading. The premier early today submitted a revised bill calling for its ratification as a confidence question.

The second confidence vote Wednesday will give final ratification to the admission of West Germany into NATO. Monday night's vote came on separate paragraphs of the ratification bill, not the measure as a whole. Its approval Wednesday is considered a certainty. The deputies last Friday passed a pact giving West Germany almost complete sovereignty.

NEW HURDLES

The NATO vote came during a 13-hour night session, marked by involved parliamentary maneuvering as opponents of the pacts threw up new hurdles for the government at every step.

The premier's 280 supporters fell far short of a majority of the 626 seat chamber and far under the 330 he had asked as a clear sign of French determination to preserve the Atlantic alliance. But the number of abstentions allowed him to win without gaining a majority of all the deputies.

After the NATO ballot, the maneuvering went like this:

The assembly approved by a show of hands an amendment providing ratification of the Saar accords should be exchanged by the signatory countries at the same time. Premier Mendes-France won failure to ratify the Saar agreement, popular in Germany, would hold up implementation of all the pacts.

TWO WITHDRAWN

Two other amendments which would have delayed the application of the treaties pending agreements with Russia, were withdrawn by their supporters when it became clear the premier had not sufficient support to defeat them. Mendes-France thereupon stood on the proposed amendments a matter of confidence, approving the first with

Pamphlets Proved Point About Fires

IRVINGTON, N. J. (AP)— Insurance salesman Phillip Feldmesser stowed a box of fire prevention pamphlets in his cellar three months ago. They warned of fires by spontaneous combustion.

The pamphlets caught fire Monday—from what authorities said was spontaneous combustion.

Damage was confined to the pamphlets.

opposing the other two.

The premier then posed the crucial question: Would the assembly reverse last Friday's vote against the West European Union pact? The assembly recessed while its foreign affairs committee met and turned down, 20 to 19 with four abstentions, Mendes-France's bid for a second reading of the defeated measure. Assembly rules provide that the pertinent committee must approve such a measure.

CALLS ADJOURNMENT

Mendes-France promptly called for an adjournment, with a new session to start 15 minutes later. When the legislators reconvened the premier submitted his new bill calling for ratification of the treaties.

This bill was then submitted to the foreign affairs committee, which approved it 18 to 17 with four abstentions.

In presenting this new bill to the assembly, Mendes-France accepted a suggestion from one of his deputies that special sub-committees in each House of Parliament be created before the government can approve any peacetime increase in the armed forces of West European Union members.

Shuffle Ecuador Military Chiefs Following Revolt

QUITO, Ecuador (AP)—President Jose Maria Velasco Ibarra has reshuffled Ecuador's military command following last week's abortive attempt by a group of officers to unseat him. The government announced the new persons were under arrest as ring-leaders of the revolt.

Velasco's new defence minister, Pedro Menendez Gilbert, said Monday night he had fired the chief of the general staff, Col. Manuel Sotomayor Luna, and Col. Leonidas Aldrigo, military attache at the Ecuadorian embassy in Rio de Janeiro, to replace him.

Menendez said Col. Jorge Echeverria, former undersecretary of defence, had been arrested as the leader of the plot.

Launches Fight To Keep Toilet Of Palace Type

LONDON (AP) — David Mill wood has launched a fight to give his new home here the same sort of toilet he says is used in Buckingham Palace, flushed by a press button valve and not by the old-fashioned pull chain.

Millwood installed such a chainless wonder in his new house, but metropolitan water board told him it would cut off his water supply if he doesn't switch to the chain pull by Jan. 31.

"These things are liable to waste water," said a board official of demo new equipment. "Our bylaws stipulate they must be of the chain-and-cistern type."

Millwood retorted that he intends to keep the valvular version, adding:

"I happen to know this is the very same pattern used in Buckingham Palace, in Prime Minister Churchill's country home at Chequers, in three big hotels and in hospitals and schools. It's up to the board to remove the ban or at least treat everyone alike."

Company Mail Still Missing

City police and Stephens-Adamson company officials are still looking for a mail bag containing about 25 pounds of certified mail, which was stolen from an employee's car on Christmas Eve.

Ted Lalor, of Dufferin Street, Stephens-Adamson employee, had picked the bag of mail up at the post office and tossed it onto the back seat of his car, which was later parked in his driveway. Several hours later a neighbor reported loose mail belonging to Stephens-Adamson lying on the lawn.

Police have revealed the mail bag and mail missing from the car and with the exception of the grocery business on North Front Street, for many years.

The deceased had been in the grocery business on North Front Street, for many years.

He was a life member of Lindsay Lodge No. 100, I.O.O.F., and a life member of the Sons of England, Oxford Lodge, Belleville.

Three District Creamerymen Win Competition

This was demonstrated early this month in Toronto when at the Ontario Creamerymen's Association convention a three-man team from a group comprising creameries located in Belleville and surrounding territory won first place in a butter judging competition and against keen competitors from all parts of the province.

The Ontario Creamerymen's Association make their annual convention both educational and instructional for members in attendance. Creameries in Ontario are divided into ten different groups with an inspector instructor appointed by the Department of Agriculture, Dairy Division over each group. This person must be a graduate of the dairy school and well versed in all phases of butter manufacturing.

At the above convention, government officials furnished different samples of creamery butter of different quality and teams of three men each from the different creamery groups competed in grading the butter.

Church Street Clippers Formed Carol Group

The "Church Street Clippers," a versatile group of young athletes ranging in ages seven to 15 years of age, added another feather to their cap of achievement over the Christmas holiday.

These youngsters who have football, hockey, softball, baseball and sometimes tennis on their sports agenda, came up with a hitherto unknown talent that paid off.

After three periods of strenuous hockey played on their own open air rink (thanks to the good offices of Jail Governor Bob Scott and his staff) on Christmas Eve scientific, the young athletes decided to turn their voices to a worthy cause.

They decided to form a caroling group and "make the rounds" of their immediate district.

They even encountered a few "Scrooges" who impolitely slammed the family door in their young faces.

But undaunted they carried on and when they decided to call it an evening, they counted their "spoils."

The amount was $7.32.

turned the entire amount over to the Salvation Army and other charitable causes.

The Clippers include Masters James Hurst, Graydon Scott, Bobby Scott, Peter Carver, Bobby Jeffrey and David Hurst.

Child Pinned Between Chest Of Drawers, Bed

TRENTON (Special) — A fatal accident marred Christmas and the holidays for the Cyril Whitney family on South Scott Street, Trenton.

On Thursday a young mother thinking her son was sleeping, opened the bedroom door and discovered his lifeless body pinned between a chest of drawers and a sheet.

Two-year-old Randy Whitney, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Whitney, died from suffocation. The little boy was pulled aside in the becharged hanging out the window of his infant's father, fixing the family car in the front yard, followed his crying three-year-old daughter, Cheryl into the house to find his wife bending over the lifeless body of their baby. Medical treatment at the Trenton Memorial Hospital failed to revive the little boy.

Coroner Dr. J. V. Byrne said an inquest was not necessary.

According to the coroner the accident occurred while the baby was left alone. Mrs. Whitney, a janitor of the Trenton Baptist Church, officiating. Interment was made in White's cemetery.

Mourning the infant's loss are his father, brother Eric, a sister Cheryl, and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Hall, Detroit, and Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Whitney, Trenton.

Several 2-Car Crashes Reported But No Damage

TRENTON (Special) — Trenton police had few accidents to deal with over the Christmas holidays. However two minor accidents were investigated but the damage was negligible or only slight in all of them.

Ellis Wood and son, Raymond, 14, of Campbellford, was brought ed by a car driven by Raymond Reidpath, of R.R. 1, Trenton. Father and son, running along Front Street, started to walk across Elgin Street, when the car entered the turn into Elgin St. The driver applied the brakes and skidded into the other Ellis, touching his left leg.

CHILD BITTEN

When a dog bites a man, that is not news. However, when an unknown canine nips a small boy in his parents' back yard the circumstances are a little out of the ordinary.

Little Bryan Vieau, aged three, son of Mr. and Mrs. La R.Vieau, 56 Louis Street, was treated for a laceration of the lower lip and for a scratch on the upper lip on Friday. He was given an injection but no stitches were required.

Police were told that the little boy had just gone out to play in the backyard when a strange dog came into the yard and attacked the child, biting him on the mouth. Bryan couldn't say what color his attacker was. The only thing he remembered was that the dog was big.

If Santa Claus thought something was following him on Friday night he was right. It happened to be Mr. Stork with a charming little bundle for Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jones, 29 Bay St., Trenton. The arrival of Mrs. Jones' six-pound baby girl was the only birth recorded at the Trenton Memorial Hospital on Christmas Day. The hospital reported today mother and baby were both doing well.

Flood Waters Wash Out Bridge In Toronto Area

TORONTO (CP) — Flood waters washed out one temporary bridge and threatened another Monday night in Toronto's northwest suburban areas.

A young couple almost was swept away as surging waters took out the bridge, a flimsy temporary structure replacing a strong cable bridge lost in October floods.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Paddick said they had been clearing away floating ice that threatened the bridge and stepped off to rest.

Paddick said he heard a roar and turned to see the bridge gone.

Ice in the Humber river threatened a bridge in suburban Etobicoke near Thistletown, one of the hardest hit areas in the floods following the October hurricane.

At Churchville, a few miles northwest, more than 30 families were standing by to evacuate their homes as the Credit river continued to rise.

'Miss Garbage Bowl' Will Be Named By Young Montreal Gridiron Greats

MONTREAL (CP) — Miss Garbage Bowl of 1955 queen of Canada's only New Year's Day football "bowl" game — will be crowned tonight at suburban Montreal West's town hall.

The whole thing has the blessing of Montreal West dignitaries. And Montreal Alouette's of the Big Four union are expected to send observers, including Joy Dibble, their duly-elected queen.

The first garbage bowl game was played in 1950 by teen-agers who figured sub-zero temperatures, several feet of snow and crowd of three constituted ideal football conditions. The high school's football posts had been taken down, so garbage pails in the end zones were used for basketball-type converts after touch-will be about six inches deep.

Motor Bus Using Airline Hostesses To Lure Bankers, Brokers Aboard

CINCINNATI (AP) — The lowly motor bus, pietian of commuter transportation, is using airline hostesses today to lure bankers, brokers and lawyers aboard.

The Cincinnati Transit Co. started the new curbstone service Monday from its suburban Mt. Lookout neighborhood to the heart of the city.

Under the company's "Club Plan," the commuter is picked up at the curb outside his home and taken directly to his office building. With no stops outside Mt. Lookout area, the seven-mile ride takes about 25 minutes.

Many of the prospective riders have two cars in their garages. But traffic congestion makes driving to work a chore. The bus rider downs. One team was almost disqualified when a diminutive player was discovered inside the cardboard off concern.

Crowds have grown to 1,000 at the annual event, and last year $650 was raised for the School for Crippled Children. This year, the aim is $1,000 to build a summer camp for the school, an official of the Girls Garbage Bowl Association) reported.

In the forthcoming event, the Northern Combines, wearing loud red flannels, will dash onto the Montreal West High School's field to face the Southern Bombers, clad in bright green pyjamas.

Coal pots will be used and the gridiron will be marked with coal dust on the snow, which probably will be packed.

Quiet Holiday Spent by Police, Fire Departments

An exceptionally quiet holiday was the way police, both city and provincial, and city firemen summed up Christmas holiday activity in their respective departments.

Friday afternoon and evening there was a series of motor accidents in the city and district with police reporting most of them being of a minor nature.

Mrs. Laura Swager, 70, of Thomasburg, suffered possible jaw fracture and shock, Friday evening, when the car in which she was driving slammed into a hydro pole on Station street. Mrs. Swager was riding with her son Barney H. Swager of New Toronto, when he turned out to pass another car and was forced to swerve to avoid collision with an oncoming vehicle.

Also on Friday car driven by Larry Bronson and Donald MacDonald collided on West Moira street, causing heavy damage to both vehicles.

Firemen had only two calls during the holiday. One was early Christmas morning to the Belle-Trent cabins on Trent Road where a mattress was reported ablaze and the other was Monday morning to 154 Church street for an overheated stove.

Five Sentenced To Face Firing Squads in Egypt

CAIRO, Egypt (Reuters) — The Egyptian peoples tribunal today sentenced five officers and men of the Egyptian armed forces to death by a firing squad for their part in a Moslem Brotherhood conspiracy to overthrow the government.

The sentences are part of the big comb-out of Moslem Brotherhood "conspirators" which has followed the abortive assassination of Lt.-Col. Gamal Abdel Nasser, the Egyptian prime minister, in October.

Six leaders of the fanatical politico-religious organization were executed Dec. 7 for plotting to overthrow the Nasser regime, including Mahmoud Abdel Latif, who actually fired the shots at Nasser.

FIVE GET LIFE TERMS

The five sentenced to death today included Mai. Salah Shadi described as the "master mind" of the Moslem Brotherhood's secret cells in the police force.

The court, which was delivering judgment on 29 officers and men of the armed forces, sentenced five others to hard labor for life, seven to 15 years' hard labor, six to 10 years' hard labor, one to five years' hard labor, four to 10 years' imprisonment with a stay of execution, and one to 15 years in prison.

Seventeen Crew Members Injured In Train Wreck

DUNKIRK, N. Y. (AP)—Seventeen crew members were injured early today when an eastbound Nickel Plate freight train slipped into a six-car wrecking train, tearing up hundreds of yards of track and piling up at least eight to 10 cars in a mass of flaming wreckage.

All 17 men were taken to hospital here where 10 were treated for minor injuries and released. The others are in good condition, the hospital reported.

A spokesman for the railroad in Buffalo said the 65-car freight, carrying fruit, vegetables and other perishables, collided with a six-car wrecking train en route to a minor derailment on the line.

ENGINEERS ESCAPE

Two engineers of the doubleengined freight train were reported to have jumped unjured when they leaped from their cabs just before the crash.

The railroad spokesman said the freight train carried a crew of 15 and the wrecker a crew of six. The injured men were all reported to be on the wrecker, not the wrecker.

Firemen from Dunkirk and Fredonia fought the flames from the burning cars. A thick column of smoke poured from the wreckage and hung low over the right of way under heavy rain.

CAUSE UNKNOWN

The collision was said to have occurred on the westbound track while the wrecking train was standing by waiting for the freight to pass it on a second track.

Both tracks of the line were blocked by wreckage. Clean-up crews from Buffalo and Conneaut, Ohio, were sent to the scene.

Admitted to hospital were: Joseph Kubinski of Blasdell, N. Y.; Edward J. Sisulets, John Chemial, John J. Fiber and Reid Somerset all of Buffalo; and Bernard Brady and Don McClintock of Conneaut, Ohio.

The hospital reported that 10 others were treated for minor injuries and released.

DISTRIBUTE RELIEF

GENEVA (AP)—More than 3,000 Red Cross volunteers Monday began the distribution of American relief in East and West Germany, Czechoslovakia, Hungary and Yugoslavia. Food and clothing valued at $8,585,000, a gift of the American people to the victims of Europe's summer floods, are to be distributed during the next six weeks under supervision of the League of Red Cross Societies.

Dog Taught Polio Victim How to Walk

This story was related today by D. L. Walker, Gene's father.

Suzie is a big, friendly Labrador dog. Gene is a three-year-old lad who was stricken with polio when he was seven months old.

Gene spent two weeks in a crowded hospital ward after being stricken with the dreaded disease, and then was sent home to convalesce. But he never seemed to try walking until November of 1953 when he met Suzie.

In that month, his father's grandmother died and Gene was sent to a friend's home during the funeral. The friend owned Suzie.

Gene took a long look at Suzie. Then he crawled to the dog. He grasped its fur and pulled himself up. Suzie, stood still for a time, then began walking slowly. Gene kept pace falteringly, always tightly grasping Suzie.

It was from that day, the Walkers say, that Gene began his recovery. He was taken to the Walker home and now Gene is able to walk, with little assisting much of the time, with no more than a limp.

No Revision Planned Of Present TTC Zones

TORONTO (CP)—The Toronto Transit Commission plans no major changes for the present in the zone system, commissioner Charles Walton said today.

The announcement came despite protests from some suburban areas.

Mr. Walton said the commission is more concerned about service delays than about changing the zone fare structure, introduced last July 1. He blamed motorists for most delays in service.

Added to hospital were: Joseph Kubinski of Blaisdell, N. Y.; Edward J. Sisulets, John Chemial, John J. Fiber and Reid Somerset all of Buffalo; and Bernard Brady and Don McClintock of Conneaut, Ohio.

The hospital reported that 10 others were treated for minor injuries and released.

Time Is Extended

OTTAWA (CP)—The board of transport commissioners Monday gave Trans-Canada Pipe Lines, Ltd., a four-month extension of the time in which it must show satisfactory arrangements for financing its proposed $300,000,000 natural gas pipeline from Alberta to eastern Canada.

The original deadline set by the board was Dec. 31, in a tentative permit granted the company last July. At Trans-Canada's request, the deadline has been put back to next April 30.

Trans-Canada sought the longer time for completing its financing because it has run into delays in getting purchase and sales contracts for gas completed.

A QUESTION OF AUTHORITY

What should be the scope of the authority of the United Nations?

The answer to that academic question is that the United Nations possesses no authority at all, being unable to enforce its decisions on even the smallest of nations republics in the new world or kingdoms in the old.

That, however, is beside the point. Before it is possible to clothe an international organization with effective authority, it is imperative that the desired scope of this authority should be defined.

This was done at San Francisco, when the United Nations was first organized. A charter was drafted, but like many another document, the charter is open to different interpretations. One of its provisions specifies that the U.N. cannot interfere in the internal affairs of any state. Gerard Bradley, professor of the department of history and government at the University of Massachusetts, in a letter to the New York Times, points out that the nature of "domestic jurisdiction" is the subject of controversy.

The meeting of the U.N. Assembly which adjourned recently took no action on three colonial issues. Protests had been received against French rule in Morocco and Tunisia and against continued British control of Cyprus.

In past disputes, Mr. Brauthal says, "the United Nations has generally denied, and in this writer's opinion correctly, the claim of a government invoking domestic jurisdiction."

In 1947, he says, when the Dutch asserted that war in Indonesia was a matter of internal jurisdiction, the U.N. nevertheless successfully ended armed hostilities. The Assembly has attempted to settle the dispute between India and the Union of South Africa over the treatment of Indian nationals in the latter country. In 1952 the General Assembly in 1950 condemned Bulgaria, Hungary and Rumania for not fulfilling their treaty obligations concerning human rights," Mr. Brauthal writes.

"If this salutary trend should be reversed, as seems to be the case now, then we must view the situation with misgivings," he continues. He was apparently referring to recent issues such as colonial rule of Morocco, Tunisia and Cyprus.

It is easy to sympathize with Mr. Brauthal's view, but it is extremely doubtful whether the past examples he cites are in the same category as the more recent issues on which the U.N. has declined to take a stand.

In Indonesia the struggle for independence from the Dutch had progressed to the point where the United Nations protests against the continuance of French rule in Morocco and Tunisia and British rule in Cyprus. It is possible to argue that the U.N. should enter the picture before the revolt against French and British rule progresses to the point of a full-scale war, such as occurred in Indo-China. Nevertheless, we should not lose sight of the difference between a protest by small groups, possibly without extensive popular backing, and an independence movement strong enough to establish a de facto government, as in Indonesia.

As for the U.N. handling of the dispute in South Africa, an attempt may have been made at settlement but results have been lacking. Incidentally the test case in South Africa would appear to be when the international organization decides to do the case of the South Africans' program for "apartheid" in territory which is, strictly speaking, not South African—the mandated former German colony of Southwest Africa.

The condemnation of Bulgaria, Hungary and Rumania was based not on their failure to grant civil rights—many another nation has withheld such rights—but on the fact that these countries with these nations required them to grant such rights.

Finally, if the U.N. is eventually to settle disputes which can lead to war, any question of "domestic jurisdiction" it would appear desirable to first consider revision of voting powers. Is every little state to speak with a voice equal to that of the greatest power? If so, situations may arise in the minority which would rule. Are the great powers to wield final authority? If so, we could see the rule of might rather than of right.

SHORT-SIGHTED SCRIBES

Normally we do not like to invade the realm of the sports writers, believing that every man should stick to his last.

However, year-old balloting among sport scribes in the United States has provided such striking evidence of the short range of their vision that we cannot resist the urge to comment.

A poll of sports writers and sports casters conducted by the Associated Press voted Willie Mays the athlete of the year, placing Roger Bannister in second place. Mays is a baseball player who performs occasionally. Bannister merely ran the world's first four-minute mile.

A second poll confirmed the narrow limits of the sports writers' interests. They placed the race between Bannister and John Landy, at the British Empire Games, as the top thrill of the year. This race brought together the only two men who had ever run a mile in less than four minutes. It was worth 82 points. But a single catch by Willie Mays in the first game of the world series received 50 points.

It is quite obvious that a hockey player who scored half a dozen goals in a minute, a soccer player who turned in a hat trick every game of the season or a cricketer who scored a century every time he went to bat would not even get consideration when the "athlete of the year" is selected.

YEAR ENDING

When have passed a few days more,
Into that assemblage vast
Known as history of the past,
Enters Nineteen Fifty Four.

When is closed its final task,
Done with all of good and ill
And the deed for strength and skill,
Nothing further Time will ask.

It will leave the world of men,
And as all the old must do
Give its duties to the new,
Never more to serve again.

Time for what is best to strive,
That is all it brought to earth;
Time for man, to prove his worth,
So with Nineteen Fifty Five.

St. Kitts To St. John's

(St. Catharines Standard).

We have been trained to remember that St. John's was located in Newfoundland and Saint John was the city in New Brunswick.

On the whole, we have done our best to keep those two similarly places separated and spelled correctly, giving neither cause for indignation. Now comes the unkindest cut of all.

It pains us to report that the St. John's Daily News—that's in Newfoundland—was writing an editorial about Mr. Pickersgill's recent speech here referred to this community as "St. Catherine's, Ontario." Not just an "e" indeed, of an "a," or an apostrophe where none should be, but both.

Alas, it is too much. Fie on you, good editor of Ste. John's, or whatever it is.

Likes His Home On the Water

Aston Delmar, a bank employee, said in a talk in a BBC broadcast that two years ago he found himself with a house that was too big for him and he could not sell it to other of the right size. One night, by accident, he thought that he would like to live on a boat. "Hundreds of people live in caravans and enjoy it. What's the difference between a caravan and a boat—except that one travels on land and the other floats?" he said.

A boat could be bought comparatively cheaply, there would be no draughty passages or staircases to cope with, housework would be reduced to a minimum and the holiday question would be settled for all time for there would be nothing to do but cast off with his home and all its furnishings about him and no packing to be done. "In fact the holiday feeling would start every evening when I got home," he said. "Most intriguing of all, when I got fed up with the view all I had to do was start the engine, pull up the anchor and cruise gently along until I found a spot to my liking. I could have a different view every day if I liked."

He then set about finding a boat. "You don't buy a boat, you build one," and he fell in love with it and bought it almost at once. "Advertisements for boats usually describe them as 'three-berth' or 'four-berth' and I had no intention of having a boat with berths—cabins, plenty of storage space, a fully equipped galley and a large enough bath. I also had under the cockpit deck were fuel tanks, fresh water tanks and a twenty-three horse-power engine which, although thirty years old, was in first-class order.

He moved in in October and concentrated on "doing up" the interior of the cockpit and installing a generator for electric light which provided me with power to keep my keep lighting batteries fully charged and gave a.c. current for an electric vacuum cleaner and television. "We're quite civilised and have all mod. cons.," he said Mr. Delmar, proudly. For heating he used blue paraffin and "the conventure" was far warmer and less draughty than a house.

His dog took every minute of life on a boat and spent hours sitting on deck watching the ducks and swans in the water, and enjoyed jumping over the side, swimming ashore for two or several times then clambering up the bank and jumping back on board by the gang plank. Cats, too, seemed to adapt themselves easily to life on a boat and Mr. Delmar's cat dislike of water. Nearly all the craft moored in the same area as his had nautical names like Stoker, Bosun and Sgrtisail. He knew one cat that liked swimming alongside the stream; puss jumped over the side of the boat one day when he wanted to go visiting.

Friends had asked "What about the mooring? Do you have to have a mate's ticket?" The answer was that this was unnecessary on all less fare-paying passengers were taken. Navigating "Adventure" was "the easiest thing in the world although negotiating locks was rather tricky." The main point in favor of "Adventure" was that the cost of living was far cheaper than in a house. Indeed the saving of about a hundred pounds a year. There were other economies in the many chores that had to be done but these drawbacks were easily outweighed by the contented, carefree atmosphere that came of living on a boat. "I have no intention of ever living in a house, all exactly the same, with their gardens all exactly the same, and feeling I'm in a house, all exactly the same, with their gardens all exactly the same, and feeling I'm all exactly the same, with their gardens all exactly the same, and feeling I'm all exactly the same, with their gardens all exactly the same, and feeling I'm

Frost May Be Asked to Order Judicial Probe

TORONTO (CP)—Premier Frost will be asked to order a judicial inquiry into entertainment costs At Scilo 1735 at the Royal York Hotel if city council drops the matter at its meeting Wednesday.

Ben Nobleman, president of the Tenant-Ratepayers Association of Toronto, said Monday night the association will ask for the inquiry if city council votes against a move for a judicial investigation.

Candidates for mayor in the recent civic elections charged the suite was being used as a headquarters by a clique running the city.

53 Canadians Die Violently During Holiday

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

At least 53 Canadians met violent deaths during the Christmas weekend. Last year the toll was 63 for the same weekend and 96 for the period in 1952.

A Canadian Press survey covering the period from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Monday lists 27 traffic deaths, seven killed in fires, seven asphyxiated, four drowned, three fatally injured in falls, two suffocated and one death each in a suicide, a fight and a hunting accident.

Ontario led with 15 deaths, Quebec had 14, British Columbia six, Manitoba five, New Brunswick four, Nova Scotia and Alberta three each, Saskatchewan two, and Newfoundland one.

Arson Suspect Shot in Legs Before Capture

MONTREAL (CP) — A 36-year-old arson suspect, who police said slammed himself headlong into a metal radiator and was shot twice in the legs during an escape attempt, was arraigned Monday in an ambulance on charges of criminal assault and attempted suicide.

Judge Armand Coutlee, police and court officials joined hospital attendants around the ambulance in the basement of the court house to hear Roger Deslauriers, strapped to a stretcher inside the vehicle, plead not guilty to the charges. He was released on parole pending preliminary hearing Jan. 4.

Deslauriers was being held in connection with a $100,000 fire Aug. 17 at the Canadian National Railways stockyards here when the incidents leading to the charges allegedly occurred.

Police said he was being taken to his cell when he broke loose from his guards, ran across a room and smashed his head against the radiator.

Deslauriers was taken to hospital where 15 stitches were required to close the wound. Then, according to police, he broke loose again in a hospital corridor, broke the glass of a medicine cabinet and used a silver of it to slash at a police officer. The alleged attack was stopped by two police bullets.

Hospital authorities said Deslauriers will not be able to walk for some time, although his condition is not serious.

Bill May Be Worth Far More Than Face Value

WELLANDPORT, Ont. (CP)—A dollar bill, discovered among some personal papers and old silver coins, may be worth far more than its face value though it can't be cashed at any bank.

The bill, issued about 100 years ago by the Zimmerman Bank in the village of Elgin, Ont., was discovered by Fred Donovan of this hamlet near Welland.

Engraved on one side only, it depicts a double-decker suspension bridge completed in 1855, the second span built across the Niagara river between the United States and Canada.

Across the top of the bill are the words "Province of Canada."

Teachers' Federation May Set Up College to Stimulate Competence

TORONTO (CP)—The president of the Canadian Teachers' Federation says the CTF is considering setting up a Canadian college of teachers for stimulus and recognition of professional competence.

Dr. L. P. Patterson of Montreal told the annual meeting of the Ontario Public School Men Teachers' Federation he couldn't enlarge on the plan because it is still in committee, but it would be roughly comparable to the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons.

The college, if established, would set examinations and require high standard qualifications. Fellows would be regarded as top men in the profession.

NEED BETTER TRAINING

"We teachers should be better trained," Dr. Patterson said. "I am quite aware that it is not always personally profitable to get training beyond certain accepted standards. . . but that is no reason for not obtaining more professional competence, both cultural and technical."

He said that in other professions a university degree and several years of post-graduate work is needed for certification.

"We require people with several years' training to look after the bodies of our cows and dogs, but for the minds of our children, six weeks is wonderful," he said.

"It is our opinion that the best of our young people—and these are the ones who should be picked out for teaching—will be attracted only if the standards are raised, not lowered."

SYSTEM IS BETTER

But he suggested that critics of the educational system "come out of their ivory towers" and realize that teaching today is better than it used to be.

Dr. Patterson told delegates that evidence dispersed critisism acted as levelled against pe ways of teaching.

"New methods of teaching are better and more in tune with the times than old, traditional methods," he said.

"The critics, I regret to say, do not always exhibit the virtues of truth and logic they profess to have obtained from their clinicism."

OFFERED TO ALL

Education, instead of being confined to an "elite," now was offered to all children, and it was up to teachers to see to it that each child derived the greatest possible benefit. The old idea of laying down a strict academic curriculum and applying it to all students, regardless of their individual abilities, just wasn't practical.

Dr. Patterson suggested teachers present a "Canadian" viewpoint, instead of a "colonial" one.

The federation set up a committee to investigate the position of rural teachers and seek ways to help them improve their qualifications.

FIFTY YEARS MARRIED

Mr. and Mrs. John O. Sager, residents of Tweed almost their entire life-time, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary at the home of their daughter, Mrs. James Goldie in Peterborough, Monday, December 27th. Mr. Sager started with the Bell Telephone Company in 1910 and retired a few years ago. He is still the active secretary of Tweed Fair. Both have many friends throughout the district, who will wish them many more years of happy married life.

Mr. and Mrs. John O. Sager, Tweed, Married 50 Years

Fifty years of happily married life were celebrated Monday by Mr. and Mrs. John O. Sager, of Tweed, who observed the anniversary at the home of their daughter, Mrs. James Goldie, of Peterborough.

A reception for Mr. and Mrs. Sager was held in Tweed today.

The couple was married at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Finley on their farm near Lodgerooch. Rev. L. Totten, Methodist Church minister in Tweed Lodgerooch circuit, officiated, and the attendants were Mr. Sam McGuire, of Belleville, formerly of Madoc, and Mrs. W. E. Tummon (Ethel Finley), sister of the bride.

Snow was piled high over the countryside that day, and guests at the ceremony had a fine sleighing. In those days there were no such things as snow ploughs —you just made a trail along the road dodging the drift.

Mrs. Sager, the former Jennie Finley, one of five children born to William and Elizabeth Finley, attended the old Farnsworth School. Following the death of her father, her mother later married James Elliott, of the same district, and three children were born of this marriage. Mrs. Sager has a sister, Mrs. Tummon, and a brother, William Finley, of Trenton; her two half sisters, Mrs. S. McCrea, Tweed, and Mrs. Ida Douglas, of Toronto, and a half brother, Robert Elliott of Toronto, to offer her family congratulations. A brother, Jack Finley, died in 1923.

Mrs. Sager has always been keenly interested in music and church work. She played the organ at the old Lodgerooch church for many years. Later on coming to Tweed, she was pianist at the United Church Sunday school until just a few years ago. She is a life member of the Women's Missionary Society, and has been a member of the Woman's Association for more years than she can remember.

Mr. Sager, although 75 years of age, is busier than many men twenty-five years younger. He has been "retired" for the past ten years, but he is one of the busiest pensioners in the village, and probably one of the happiest.

Born in Tamworth, on Oct. 4, 1879, of a family of eleven children (nine of whom are still living), his parents were the late William and Catharine Sager. When a young boy, he moved with his parents to Queensboro. He and his father later operated a bakery business in Madoc, and one year after his marriage in 1904, he came to Tweed and was employed by the late Sam B. Rollins in the bakery business. In 1910, he began his service with the Dominion Express Company, transfer clerk, and started as express messenger with the C.P.R. two years later. He was on the Tweed-Toronto "local" run for 19 years; then it was shortened to Havelock, he continued on the service. This train is still operating between Peterborough and Toronto and is still known as the "old Tweed local."

During his more than thirty years' service with the C.P. Express, he was on "runs" between Toronto and Montreal, Toronto and Ottawa, Toronto and Sudbury, and on the Pere Marquette line, as C.P. representative, in Western Ontario. He was in his first train accident just a few months before his retirement when on the "old local" again, the engine blew up on a cold January morning, killing the engineer and fireman. Mr. Sager started his career with the Express Company on the "old local" and ended his working days on the same run.

Since his "retirement" (again the quotes are necessary), he has taken an active interest in the affairs of the village, and has seen to it, that time does not hang heavy on his hands. He has been secretary of Tweed Fair Board since 1945; is an elder and member of St. John's United Church Board of Session; treasurer of the Missionary and Maintenance Fund of the same church. He has been a member of the Oddfellows' Lodge for the past thirty-eight years, a Noble Grand of the Tweed Lodge, a Junior Past Grand, and also a representative at the Grand Lodge. He has been a member of the Orange Lodge for fifty years; is a former member and chairman of the Tweed Hydro Commission; was a member of the Tweed Consolidated School Board for several years; and has been president and secretary of the Tweed Conservative Association.

Mr. Sager has been Tweed correspondent for the Ontario Intelligencer for a number of years.

The couple's only son, Finley, died in 1918 at the age of 13. Their daughter is Mrs. James Goldie (Dorothy) Goldie of Peterborough. Also attending the anniversary were three grandchildren, David, Betty Jane and Susan Goldie.

Choral Service By Candlelight Marks Christmas

The congregation of the United Church, Redneresville, enjoyed a choral Christmas service, recently, in a Christmas tree setting, and candlelight. The candle lighters were the Misses Marilyn Adams and Marjorie Roblin. During the lighting of candles the call to worship was given and the choir sang the "Christmas Salutation".

Mrs. T. F. Townsend was soloist in the anthem "The Birthday of a King". The senior choir also sang "The Christmas Glory Song", "Arise and Sing" and "Shine On, O Star."

Pictures of the Christmas story were shown, interspersed with the singing of several carols. Miss Marilyn Adams and Mr. Harry Mackay were the narrators for this continued story.

Ft. S. and Mrs. J. F. Hutchinson and small sons, Tommy, Johnny and Freddy were holiday guests of the Rev. and Mrs. T. F. Townsend of the Redneresville parsonage.

HITS WIDOW FOR MITE

NEW YORK (AP)—A blind and partly paralyzed widow was struck over the head by an intruder in her apartment Monday and robbed of all the thief could find—43 cents. Mrs. Helen O'Rourke, 56, said it was one of several attempts to rob her since she was given $500 on a quiz show last September.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

TODAY: ALL BRIDAL ATTENDANTS WEAR ONE COLOR

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I'm planning the color-scheme for my June wedding, and I'm having one particular problem. I like best the idea I've seen in most weddings I've been to lately, of having only one color for the attendants, the maid (or matron) of honor as well as the bridesmaids. But several years ago, when my only sister was married, she had a "rainbow wedding," each pair of attendants wearing a different color. She and my mother are trying to persuade me to make this multi-colored plan for my attendants. What is your advice? — Bride-to-be

I'm completely against multi-color dresses for the attendants . . . and am I'm delighted that this idea is not at all popular today. (It probably was in high fashion when your sister was married, but that's no reason why you should follow this today when it definitely isn't high fashion.) Today the smart and attractive idea is to have what you have observed at most weddings, one color for all the attendants. This means that the attendants form a unified (one color) background for the bride, thus high lighting the bride in her bridal costume.

BRIDE'S FATHER NEED NOT STAND IN RECEIVING-LINE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My father and I are devoted pals, he's been wonderful about cooperating with all of my wedding plans, all but one—he absolutely bucks at the idea that he must stand in the receiving-line at our reception. He not only doesn't want to, but insists it isn't necessary. Isn't it necessary, Mrs. Beeckman? — Myra S.

No . . . it isn't necessary for your father to stand in the receiving-line. He can do a very important host job by circulating among the guests, to make introductions, to direct the guests to the room in which the refreshments are being served, to see that the guests are enjoying themselves, that all is well with the reception-procedure.

GROOM'S MOTHER PAYS FOR HER OWN DRESS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am the mother of the groom-to-be, and the mother of the bride-to-be has written me just what type of dress she is to wear to the wedding and which she suggests I wear, and what color of dress she is to wear. Am I to judge from this that she is to pay for my dress? — Mother

No . . . no indeed! You pay for your own dress. The bride's mother wanted to help you about your choice of dress, which should be of the same type as her dress, approximately the same length as her dress, and of a color that will harmonize with the color of her dress.

ACCUSED OF SPYING

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—Egyptian police announced today they have arrested five men and a woman on charges of Communist activities and espionage for Israel. A government announcement said the accused, all Jews and foreigners, were engaged in Communist activities. It was alleged they helped Jews living in Arab countries to go to Israel, learn methods of espionage and return to the Arab states as Communist propagandists and spies.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

IMPROVING ON NATURE

Make-up is the art of creating illusion. Hollywood experts have developed this art to such a degree that many rather ordinary looking lassies have been transformed into spell-bind glamour girls.

No woman can afford to ignore the value of cosmetics. A woman may have a fine mind and possess nobility of character, but if she does not present herself at her best with the grooming that is so essential to modern living, she will be dated. There's no sense in not stepping along in the beauty parade. Makeup items cost little. It is just a matter of know-how.

More and more the tendency in make-up is toward natural effects. Hence the need of matching powder to the complexion. Having it slightly darker, using the faintest shade of rouge and soft-pedaling on lipstick, especially in the daytime. When the lights are on one can be bolder. Rouge can be darker, lipstick brighter and one can indulge in faint coloring on the eyelids.

Experts on this subject say that to impart a youthful and flattering appearance it is important to have the lines of make - up end with a definite rise. They refer to the ends of the eyebrows, ends of the eyes, corners of the lips. Something to remember when you are playing with the contents of the beauty box!

On the eyebrows the dark brown crayon can impart that slight uplift. After lipstick has been applied so that the borders of the lips carry as even, clear cut line as a good idea to pare a bit, pick lightly along the corners to give the upward curve.

Drooping lines signify age and must be avoided. Placing rouge low on the cheeks will give the face a drawn and sagging appearance. Placed high on the cheek bones it highlights the eyes and brings out the sparkle.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

LEARN EARLY TO BE SMART ABOUT SOME THINGS!

There's a lot of difference between being cynical and hard, and being smart enough to know when somebody is trying to fool you. And it's never too early to begin learning to be that smart.

One of the situations in which this applies is the one in which a married man tells a young girl that he is not happy with his wife, because she doesn't understand him, and has just as soon as he can persuade her to give him a divorce, he intends to marry the girl.

This is one of the oldest gags in history, and one of the most frequently used by men who are out looking for adventure. There is probably no woman who hasn't heard it at one time or another in her life.

The trouble is, of course—and this is where it's necessary to be smart—that the inexperienced girl is almost certain to believe what this type of man tells her. She not only believes it, but she is flattered to think that an older man will confide his troubles to her. If he has used this gag often enough, he has usually managed to build up quite a dramatic and tragic story about his unhappiness, which makes the girl feel very sorry for him.

Once he has succeeded in getting her into this state of mind, she is ripe for the next step, which is for him subtly to give her the impression that she can make up to him for his alleged unhappiness. Already trapped because he has confided in her, the girl is still more flattered to believe that he looks to her for comfort.

From there on, she is usually easy game, and, in all too many cases, is presently led into an affair, and more likely than not, very soon discovers that she is to have the man's child.

At this point, if not before, the girl begins to get very anxious about that divorce which was supposed to be coming along. And, if she presses the matter, she is apt to be told that a great many complications have arisen to delay the divorce. Meanwhile, of course, she was never intended to take place anyhow, in the end, if the becomes too importunate, or if, as is bound to happen sooner or later, the man has tired of her, she finds herself left to face her problem alone, while the "unhappy" married man goes on to tell the sad story of his marital difficulties to his next victim.

The obvious moral of all this is that when that handsome man in the office, or the one you met at a party, or a friend introduced you to when you happened to meet on the street, invites you out to dinner a time or two, and then, growing gradually more and more confidential, begins the old story of the wife who doesn't understand him, stop him dead in his tracks with five short words: "I've heard that one before!"

Now the Leftovers Take a Bow

By Mary Moore

Chances are pretty good that you had cold turkey for dinner yesterday and wonderful as it was your busy mind is churning around ideas for doing something glamorous with the rest that is left over.

Once Christmas has gotten a firm grip on you you can't curb your hospitable impulses. Spontaneously you invite people to the house, and even hear yourself saying "Come for dinner." Am I right? You have been doing all of that pre-Christmas baking. Somebody's got to eat it. Surely there is enough for all comers.

Would you welcome an idea for a glamorous turkey pie that will make another company meal almost as elegant as your Christmas roast turkey dinner?

TURKEY PIE FOR GUESTS

Note—Use the same method for large pie or for individual pies. The amount of pastry will line a 2-quart (8-inch) casserole and make enough for top crust.

ENGLISH PASTRY:

Put 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour in sifter over bowl and sift it with 2 teaspoons baking powder and 1 teaspoon salt. Mix together 2-3 cup shortening, 1-3 cup boiling water, then add 1 tablespoon lemon juice and beat in 1 unbeaten egg yolk. Stir this into the flour mixture and chill it. Roll out 2-4 of this pastry as lining for 2-quart casserole.

TURKEY FILLING:

(Chicken may be used instead of turkey—or it is good with duck.) If desired some pieces of cold stuffing may be laid in bottom. Fill lined casserole with alternate layers of small slices of cold turkey, sauteed mushrooms and very generous amount of turkey gravy (if it is giblet gravy all the better. Use as much as 2 or 3 cups gravy to each cup of meat. If gravy needs to be extended add 1 or 2 cups medium white sauce. You should fill the casserole to the top edge of the pastry lining, allowing only enough to attach the crust to, to protrude. Roll out remaining pastry to fit top, fold over and cut gashes in it, then place over filling and seal edges. Brush over top with slightly beaten egg. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. about 30 to 35 minutes.

Note—If this is made into individual pies you will need at least to increase the recipe for pastry by half. If individual pies are served individual cranberry jelly molds are pretty as a garnish on the serving dish.

Note 2—If you want to make individual turkey pies for a party they may be made the day before, kept refrigerated and reheated in very slow oven for 30 or 35 minutes just before serving.

TURKEY SOUP

If bones are to be made into soup be sure to keep them refrigerated until enough collect for a big pot full. Cover bones with 2 cups cold water. If desired add some of the left over skin. Simmer covered until all little fragments of meat will easily fall from bone. Strain, chill, skim off fat. To broth add any bits of turkey meat you care to—about 1-2 cup, 2 tablespoons each long grain rice, macaroni alphabets, pot barley, 1-2 cup each finely diced carrots and finely chopped onion, or celery chopped with some leaves, 1-4 cup finely chopped parsley, 2 or 4 tablespoons chopped onion, 1 cup tomatoes, 2 teaspoons salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon monosodium glutamate. Simmer gently until barley is tender. If you want to serve this soup as a main course, add 1 cup diced potatoes and serve with toast round floating on top of each bowl and pass grated old or Parmesan cheese.

Tom Knight and his community look back on a busy year

TOM KNIGHT'S home town will remember 1954 as a good year. Trade and industry thrived . . . and right in the thick of things was Tom himself, as Dominion Bank branch manager. Handling his bank's growing business took most of Tom's time—but, he declares, "The progress we made was worth it!"

Keeping pace with the town's expansion, Tom Knight's staff was increased to 7 persons, to meet the growing demand for the services of his branch.

The entire Dominion Bank showed important progress in 1954 . . . 10 new branches were opened, bringing the total to 193; personnel reached 2,832.

Local businessmen welcome the friendly visits Tom Knight often pays. They appreciate the financial advice and assistance he's able to offer.

The Dominion Bank helped thousands of Canadians with their financing problems in 1954. Nearly 50,000 individual loans amounting to $271 millions, were outstanding as at October 31.

Growth keynoted the progress of The Dominion Bank in 1954, with assets increasing by $31 millions to a record level of $538 millions.

Thanks to Dad's teaching, young Bobby Knight already appreciates the value of thrift. Whenever his piggy bank is full, he adds the money to his savings account "at Dad's office".

More and more Canadians have found The Dominion Bank a good place to save. In 1954, personal savings deposits rose by 10.4% to a new high of $282 millions.

Off-Post Salute Revived By U.S. Army

By RUSSELL KLEAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK (CP)—The United States Army has revived one of its oldest traditions—the off-post hand salute.

The salute—commonly known as the "highball"—came back into force for American soldiers late this year after having been abolished six years ago.

A 1st Army spokesman here said it had been decided to restore it because "the army has realized that more and more emphasis should be placed on the proven aspects of established military custom."

ANCIENT HISTORY

The "highball" has a long history.

Saluting was common practice in military circles among the Greeks and Romans.

In the "middle ages" knights raised their visors when they greeted each other to signify friendly intent.

Saluting, by raising the hand to the brow, indicated the soldier was not holding any weapon in his hand.

Off-camp saluting remained in force until 1922. It returned to the army rule-book in 1942, during the Second World War. However, often it was found expedient to allow soldiers and officers not on duty or on their posts to abandon the hand salute in crowded cities in the United States and abroad.

In 1948, the army department for the second time announced abolition of the hand-salute away from military posts.

On June 16 this year, the army once again revived the hand salute and the order came into effect Sept. 2.

In the American Army all soldiers and non-commissioned officers are required to salute U.S. and foreign commissioned officers. Commissioned officers must salute all senior-ranking officers.

The salute is required at all times except in such public places as buses, trains or theatres, or where a hand salute would be inappropriate and impracticable.

USED BY CANADIANS

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian armed forces have used the hand salute, both on camp and off, ever since they were formed and there has never been any intention of eliminating it.

A salute is given, not to the serviceman, but to the Queen's uniform. It is a military courtesy and is regarded also as an aid to discipline. Men salute all officers and officers salute other officers of superior rank.

From time to time, the salute off camp has not been used a great deal, though it never has been deleted from regulations.

Saluting naturally is not strictly adhered to under operational conditions. For example, RCAF officers and airmen did not exchange salutes continuously on combat squadrons during the Second World War.

At headquarters here, salutes often are exchanged in the corridors. If not wearing a hat while walking indoors, a serviceman salutes by giving "eyes right" or "eyes left." Otherwise the form of salute when not wearing a hat is to come to attention.

After the war, it was decided that headquarters officers could wear civilian clothes.

It was found, however, there was some tendency toward sloppiness when an officer had been out of uniform for some time so now officers are required to wear uniforms one or two days a week. The men are required to wear uniforms at all times on duty.

Why Can Eskimos Handle Metal In Bitter Cold?

By WALTER GRAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

FORT CHURCHILL, Man. (CP)—Ability of the Eskimo to handle metal objects in sub-zero weather is under study by scientists of the defence research northern laboratory at this Hudson bay military base.

Experiments have shown that an Eskimo can hold for several seconds a piece of metal that has lain indefinitely in the cold without having the flesh of his hands frozen. A white man's flesh freezes instantly.

Research is being carried out by Mace Coffey, head of the operational research section and Charles Eagan of Tottenham, Ont., biophysicist.

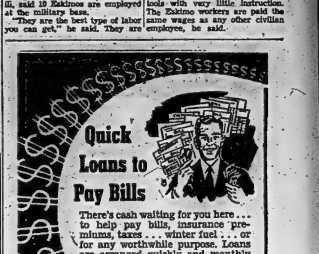
Information gained would be of tremendous value to the military forces in the handling of equipment by their men in Arctic weather.

Mr. Eagan said in an interview that tests showed the Eskimo could hold for several seconds a metal object while the temperature hovered between 35 and 40 below, with a wind blowing from 25 to 40 miles an hour.

Ten soldiers were brought to Fort Churchill recently to act as "guinea pigs" in this and other experiments.

Preliminary tests have been carried out on two Eskimos during the last two years.

Col. W. E. Bawden of Toronto, acting commander of Fort Churchill, said 10 Eskimos are employed at the military base.



"They are the best type of labor you can get," he said. They are mechanically inclined and can use tools with very little instruction. The Eskimo workers are paid the same wages as any other civilian employee, he said.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

A REAL SPORTS HOLIDAY

Well, that was a holiday of spills, thrills and grills, take it any way you like. If you sat in the television boxes Saturday night and witnessed that Red Wing-Leaf brawl, or on the Cleveland Browns-Detroit Lions 50-yard line Sunday afternoon, you had plenty to cause the vertebrae to vibrate.

If you took your life in your hands and hit the highways, you are lucky to be able to tell about it as another near record died from traffic accidents. However, there was little to complain about regarding the weather Saturday and Sunday. It fact there was little to do about it, even if that was possible.

Otto Graham, the starry quarter of the Cleveland Browns, did not have time to turn his profits on the TV camera's Sunday. The MVP of the National Football League, playing what is said to be his last pro game, came up with a scintillating performance to lead the Browns to a crushing 56-10 defeat of the champion Detroit Lions. Otto flattened the Lions with three dazzling T-D passes and shook the Lions' lair with three more of his own.

Furish brawl between the Leafs and the Wings with little damage and no blood scattered. Seen better in Memorial Arena with a lot less beef-keeping on the part of the officials. The grand opera act of teams aligning for face-offs with a goalie taken off gets monotonous after the 15th face-off and the 47th minute of play in the period.

And, incidentally, we heard a remark on TV that could apply to a district senior "B" hockey group. It went something like this: "Any team in the league can win a game from any other any day in the week including Saturday and Sunday." The remark was made by a National Football League official.

TOUGH LUCK, TONY

The Memos came up with another good game last night and although Wren Blaigs-boys threw a battle at them in the first period, the Memos looked superior in all phases of the game from the five minute mark of the period on. The forwards scored, the defencemen defended and Parisi looked great until that puck in the pons sent him to slumber land. And then there was Barclay who, as usual, was ready and able to guard the nets.

Parisi's upper lip was cut clean through and he was rushed to the hospital where he will more than likely spend today. Manager Bruce Smith reports that Barclay will probably tend the twine this eve against Brockville and should he come up with another one of his "clutch" performances, we might get ourselves a win.

Last night's victory puts a six-point spread between the Memos and the Whitby club and leaves Boucher's lads among the hot fight for the first and runner-up spots. If Peterborough pulled out another upset win over Cornwall last night, the Memos are tied for second just one point back of Kingston, while if Cornwall won they will be in first with 30 points, followed by Kingston with 29 and the locals with 28.

A win tonight and maybe even Mike Rodden would rate Belleville in the same bracket with his pets and the Colts from Cornwall.

FLASH

Cornwall came up with a narrow 3-2 victory over Peterborough last night, so we rest in third spot, two points back of the first place Colts.

Standings Same as Last Year If Two NHL Teams Switched

MONTREAL (CP) — A simple switch of the first two teams in the National Hockey League today and the standings would look just about as they did at the same time last year.

At Christmas in 1953, the Detroit Red Wings were eating high on the hog, although only two points ahead of the second-place Montreal Canadiens.

This year the Canadiens—with a four-play scoring punch in Bernie Geoffrion, Jean Beliveau, Maurice Richard and Ken Mosdell—who hold down top spot while Detroit lags along in second place.

SAME SPOTS

Outside of these two, the other teams are sitting in the same spots they were in at the schedule's half-way mark last year. Toronto Maple Leafs are third, three points behind Detroit and six behind Montreal, and Boston Bruins are 20 points back of the Habs in fourth place. New York Rangers and Chicago Black Hawks are in fifth and sixth place respectively.

Detroit, with three games last week to Montreal's one, picked up four points during the week on a win and two ties. The Canadiens were the only other team to-manage a victory. Toronto and Boston had a tie each and New York and Chicago had two ties apiece.

In the four-and-against averages, Montreal has scored 110 goals this season while allowing 74, 22 more than Detroit in the "for" column but only five more in the "against" lineup.

Last year, with 103 goals for and 64 against, the Red Wings were only slightly better off than Montreal, which had 100 goals for and 73 against.

MINOR SHUFFLES

There were only minor shuffles in individual scoring lineups last week. Only newcomer to the first ten is New York's Dan Lewicki, whose three assists in as many games pushed him from 12th to sixth-place tie, with the Leafs Sid Smith and Alec Delvecchio of Detroit. Each has 26 points.

Geoffrion and Beliveau each picked up a point apiece to keep their taking over second spot from Rocket Richard, who went pointless. Geoffrion, with a league-leading 22 goals and 18 assists, is five points up on Beliveau and six ahead of Richard. Mosdell has 30 points on 16 goals and 14 assists. Gordie Howe, pace-setter at this time last year with 16 goals 25 assists, is fifth big gun with 11 goals and 16 assists.

There's a three-way tie for ninth position among Chicago's George Sullivan, Toronto's Ted Kennedy and New York's Don Raleigh. Each has 25 points.

The assists leadership is held by Detroit's Doug Harvey, who has 22, but only enough goals—two—to merit a 12th-place tie with teammate Bert Olmstead.

Toronto still has the best scoring average, Harry Lumley and Gil Mayer, who played a single game, have let in only 37 goals in 34 games for a 1.08 average. Terry Sawchuk is next with 2.06.

Fern Flaman has spent the most time in the penalty box—74 minutes. Montreal is the most-penalized team, a total of 442 minutes.

Hoad and Rosewall Capture Only One Set, Carry Another Into Overtime Before 25,578

By WILL GRIDSLEY

SYDNEY (AP)—Vic Seixas and Tony Trabert returned international tennis supremacy to the United States today with a masterful doubles exhibition which clinched the 1954 Davis Cup challenge round a day ahead of schedule.

It was the darkest day of Australian tennis since 1949; one which finished in a never-say-die defeat for the Sydney twins—Lewis Hoad and Ken Rosewall, who went down fighting 6-4, 4-6, 6-2, 10-8.

The plucky Australians, down 4-5, and love-40 on Rosewall's service in the 10th game of the final set, fought off four match points with some brilliant volleying to carry it into an exciting overtime which kept a crowd of 25,578 at White City an hour longer.

But it was only postponing the inevitable because in the 18th game the Americans slammed to advantage again on little Rosewall's service and Seixas was the first to reach the cup on a brilliant forehand shot by Trabert down the sideline.

Trabert threw his racquet in the air and danced down the ground with a wild whoop. He threw his arms around Seixas and went over to shake hands with the crestfallen Australians, then accepted the congratulations of captain Bill Talbert.

Harry Hopman, the little Australian captain who led the successful campaign to bring the cup from U.S. shores and who has been the mentor in all subsequent defences, was a forlorn figure on the sideline as he watched his tennis stars crumble.

The challenge round which experts predicted would be perhaps the closest in history became a complete rout with the Americans leading 3-0 in the best-of-five series.

Talbert announced that he would ask Hopman for permission to substitute Hamilton Richardson, Jr., the Rhodes scholar from Baton Rouge, La., for Trabert in Wednesday's meaningless final singles matches.

He explained that Tony has blisters on his racquet hand. Originally, he intended to rest Seixas.

Talbert said the conquest was the result of a full year's planning. And, he added:

"I must give full credit to the boys. They had a pattern cut out for them and they followed it to the letter."

The young Wall street executive sat in the creaky attic of White City's press section and told of the time and effort which had gone into the campaign.

"Ever since we were beaten last year we set ourselves to the task of winning the cup," he said. "We felt we could do it."

"The boys knew the job ahead of them. I am proud of the way they set themselves out to get it done."

"The Americans were too good" Hopman said.

"I always thought our boys were still in the fight, especially when Rosewall recovered on his service in the 10th game of the fourth set when he had four match points against him."

"Seixas was the best player on the court—brilliantly and consistently. He made far fewer mistakes in his ground-strokes than usual."

Richardson is scheduled to play Rosewall in the first match of the final day, with Seixas meeting Hoad in the second, if the switch is approved.

Talbert, who was ridiculed for predicting a 5-0 sweep, took the triumph calmly.

"The Australians have had their days and it is only right we should have ours," he said.

Australia had ruled the tennis roost since Frank Sedgman and Ken McGregor, now pros, wrested the cup from American hands in 1950 at Forest Hills.

Football Raiding Rumors Fly on Both Sides of Border

TORONTO (CP)—Football raiding rumors are flying again, this time on both sides of the border.

And while players examine and ponder rumored stupendous offers from one side or the other, Canadian team officials are arguing publicly the pros and cons of importing pros.

Among the latest developments are these:

1. Tobin Rote, Green Bay Packers' quarterback, said he had offers of more than $20,000 from both Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four and Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

2. New York Giants of the National Football League in the United States have sent out offers to three Argonaut Canadian players.

3. Argonauts confirmed reports they had talked with quarterback Billy Wade of Los Angeles Rams.

4. Hamilton Tiger-Cats said they are not in favor of raiding the NFL for playing talent.

MOST ABOUT ARGOS

Most of the activity revolves around the Argonauts, who announced about a month ago they would go shopping in the U.S. for players to replace the 13 American imports employed during the 1954 season. The latter will not be invited back for 1955, Argo team director Harry Sonshine said.

Sonshine, commenting Monday on Rote's statement in Houston, Texas, said the Packers' quarter has been offered a $25,000-per-year contract by a Canadian team—but the team is not Argonauts.

In Winnipeg Monday night, J. T. Russell, vice-president of Blue Bombers, said that as far as he knows no offer has been made to Rote to join the WIFU club.

Meanwhile, two Canadians who played last season with Argos awaited letters from New York Giants, reported to be carrying offers to play in the U.S. professional circuit.

LETTERS SENT

Sonshine said Monday night that letters from the Giants had been sent to guard Jack McGee and tackle Danny Shaw in care of the Argo office. The letters were forwarded to the players.

Last week, the Giants offered halfback Johnny Fedosoff, who came out of Toronto high school ranks to join Argos three years ago, $6,200 to go to New York. Fedosoff said later he had not decided what to do about the offer. Shaw, who played for Toronto Balmy Beaches in 1953, said Monday night he wouldn't want to say anything "until I see the letter." McGee, 22, also up from the Football Union, played in high school with Fedosoff.

McGee, when asked if he would consider a Giants' offer, said: "I'd consider it seriously."

Sonshine had this to say:

"I don't know what they (the Giants) are offering, but I can't seriously imagine they'll be able to compete against some of the NFL boys I saw Sunday (in the NFL championship game at Cleveland). . . .

"It's just an open attempt to hit back at us—to cause us some concern."

On the question of Billy Wade, Sonshine said:

"We were interested in Wade until we found out he was on a two-year contract that doesn't run out after next season. Our policy has been not to touch players still under contract."

TICAT POLICY

And on the policy question, Jake Grdaur, president of Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four, said his club is not in favor of raiding the NFL. He said Ticats wouldn't reject players who have been waived out of the U.S. pro circuit as free agents, but:

"We're not talking to boys from the NFL at all. We don't believe in that.

"Argonauts can buy the Grey Cup anytime they want," he said. "They can go down and get the 13 best players in the NFL (Ticats have won the Grey Cup in it's wide-open."

Gaudaur's remarks were interpreted here as an indication Hamilton may vote with Ottawa Rough Riders at the Big Four annual meeting in Montreal Jan. 15 in a bid to limit American imports to those fresh out of college.

COULD UPSET PLANS

Rough Riders went on record some time ago that they favor only college graduates as imports. They wanted no more pros from the NFL.

If Montreal Alouettes joined this way of thinking, it could upset the Argo plans.

Sonshine couldn't understand a fast-the-NFL-players move.

"It would cost less," he said, "to sign the top 10 or 15 NFL stars than it would to sign a similar number of top college boys.

"I talked to Jack Ellena, the UCLA line star, and he wanted $25,000 because he could make that much at wrestling. Professionals who ask much, much better can be signed for far, far less."

Brion, McNeece Win Decisions To Get in Top 10

NEW YORK (AP)—The stats of boxing at the close of 1954 can be summed up in one short sentence—win two and you're a contender.

Cesar Brion, an oft - beaten heavyweight giant from Argentina, and Bill McNeece, a rough-and-ready crowd pleaser from Central Islip, N.Y., with only 15 pro fights are the largest examples.

Brion and McNeece threaten to crack the top 10 after Monday night's victories, both split decisions at that. Brion barely beat Rangy Dan Buccerosi of Philadelphia at St. Nicholas Arena. McNeece made his aggressive tactics pay off against experienced Bobby Dykes of Miami at Brooklyn's Eastern Parkway.

"We want Charley Norkus," chorused Brion and Hymie Wallman, his manager. Norkus, recent winner over Charley Powell and Roland LaStarza after many discouraging setbacks, is another who was rescued off the fistic scrap heap to become the No. 10 heavyweight.

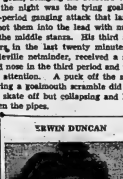
Belleville Memos In Solid Third Place With 7-2 Win Over Whitby

Tony Parisi Severely Cut Between Lip and Nose By Flying Puck in Third Frame

By GARRY ALEXANDER

The Belleville Memos broke a 1-1 deadlock with four second-period goals here last night and then went on to outplay the visitors by a wide margin as they racked up a well-earned 7-2 triumph over the Whitby Wrens in an OHA Senior "B" game played before 716 spectators.

Starry Erwin Duncan was the hero of the piece as he scored no less than four of the winner's goals, bringing his season's total up to 31. His first marker of the night was the tying goal in the first period, climaxing a mild-period pressure attack that lasted for five minutes, while he also shot them into the lead with number two in the third period of the middle stanza. His third and fourth came as insurance markers, in the last twenty minutes.



Tony Parisi, outstanding Belleville netminder, received a serious cut between his upper lip and nose in the third period and was taken to the hospital for medical attention. A puck off the stick of one of the Whitby players during a goalmouth scramble did the damage with Tony attempting to skate out but collapsing and Don Barclay finishing the game between the pipes.

TOO MUCH POWER

Whitby had two new players in their lineup, Buddy Ale and Johnny Scott, while playing without the services of playing-coach Bus Gagnon but the Memos showed too much power and finesse around the net to be turned back. Only six minor penalties were called, four of them going to the visitors, two of the Belleville goals coming with a Whitby man in the sin-bin and another with the locals a man short themselves.

Whitby jumped into the lead at 3.17 of the first period with Roy Trimm stranding on Parisi's doorstep, banging home Altersley's rebound. The Memo's took over most of the play from the five minute mark on and at one time held the puck in the visitors' end for three minutes, doing everything but score as the Whitby defence clustered.

Erwin Duncan knotted the game at 11.15, backhanding home the disc from close in on a scoring play with Wilson and Ed. Duncan drawing assists. Ed. Duncan missed a beautiful shot later in the period, when he went in all alone but shot just wide of the net, one of several good scoring opportunities missed by both teams. The team played it by the rules and officials Scrutton and Flannigan did not hand out a single penalty.

WENT TO WORK

The Memos went to work fast in the second period, pressing from the first faceoff, and Erwin chalked up number two at :58 seconds. Courtney had kicked out four fast shots in succession before the twin blasted it by him from close in to make it 2-1 on assists from Ed. Duncan and Doug. Day. Duke Doran paved the way to the Memos next marker, drawing a holding penalty at 3.08 when Red Dorran's screened drive from the blueline cleared a mass of players and dented the twine behind Courtney, who never saw it.

Jack Wade upped the score to 4-1 at 15.02 with Treen off for cross-checking, his goal identical to Doran's and Ted Degray completed the scoring for that period at 17.35. Ted took Pete Jones' rebound and backhanded it by sprawling Courtney shortly after Treen returned to the ice.

The ex-Oshawa club showed signs of coming back early in the final session as Altersley and Air led the attack on the local net. Parisi was kicking out rubber at a mile-a-minute pace, when the unfortunate accident happened, but Murkins came up with a fine effort in the last fifteen minutes although he did not have too much room.

Erwin Duncan had the hat-trick at 7.03, slapping one in the corner on a passing play with Hub Macey and brother Edwin Duke Doran caught the official's eye at 11.05 when he tripped Bettiol, the latter hurling his hip on the play and retiring to the dressing room for repairs, but the Memos did not threaten until 15.54 when Erwin got number four, his prettiest of the night. Day was off at the time for interference, when Vern Dorger fed the puck along the boards to Erwin who went in with one man back, and manoeuvred the defender and drove the disc by Courtney's short side for the final score.

Wally Samanski tallied the loser's final tally at 19.22, working his way in close after taking Air's pass and backhanding it to the far corner.

Erwin Duncan had assists on three of the Belleville goals with Ted DeGray picking up a goal and one assist.

The teams:

Whitby — Courtney, Sinden, McBeth, Samanski, Air, Williams, Altersley, O'Connor, Trimm, Edwards, Scott, Treen, Doran.

Belleville — Parisi, Wilson, Macey, Ed Duncan, Er. Duncan, Day, Degray, Wade, Muckler, Doran, DeGray, P. Jones, D. Jones, MacDonald, Bettiol, Barclay.

Referees — Stan Scrutton and "Moose" Flannigan, both of Kingston.

Hamilton Cubs Score 8-1 Win Over Barrie

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Cubs scored an 8-1 victory over Barrie Flyers Monday night to move into fourth place in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League.

Cubs have lost only one home game this season while winning eight and being held to a tie once.

Gary Sharpe, Bill Pirie, Bill Sinnie, Brian Kilrea, Lloyd McKee and Bob Robinson scored singles for Hamilton while Bill McNeil, who arrived five hours before game time from Edmonton where he spent Christmas with his family, counted twice.

Bill Hope got the lone Flyer goal. Dennis Riggin handled 28 shots in the Hamilton goal before missing Barrie's last shot of the game, a drive which rebounded into the Cub cage off a Hamilton skate. Cubs were also credited with 39 shots on goal.

Hamilton has now won eight of its last nine games.

Imports Spark Vancouver To 4-2 Victory

VANCOUVER (CP) — Three impressive imports sparked Vancouver Canucks to a 4-3 Western Hockey League victory over New Westminster Royals Monday night before 5,000 fans. It was the Canucks' second win in 17 games.

Newcomers Bill Eznicki, Phil Maloney and Hugh Barlow provided the offensive drive with Eznicki accounting for one of the goals. Veterans Jack Lancien, Bill Dea and Earl Lawson provided the others while New Westminster scorers were Max McNab and Doug Adam.

Eznicki, Maloney and Barlow came to the Canucks from Buffalo Olympics, Ottawa Senators of the Quebec League.

Glover, Olson Of Barons Still Leading Race

NEW YORK (CP)—Teammates Fred Glover and Eddie Olson of the Cleveland Barons still rank one-two in the tight American League scoring scramble.

Glover has accumulated 17 goals and 28 assists for 45 points, while Olson, with 24 goals and 19 assists, has 43 points. Their linemate, centre Jackie Gordon, rounds out the Cleveland domination by holding down third place with 37 points.

Olson's 24 goals give him the lead in that department. Gordon is tops in assists with 30.

Kingston Youth Wins Bonspiel

KINGSTON (CP)—Doug Frayn of Kingston Collegiate and Vocational Institute Monday night defeated Bill Laird of KCVI 8-7 in the finals of the eastern Ontario schoolboys' bonspiel.

Frayn's rink will represent eastern Ontario in the all-Ontario schoolboys' bonspiel at Guelph next month.

In the consolation event, R. Clarke of Prescott defeated J. Findlay of Ottawa 8-7.

Sixteen crews from high schools in Kingston, Brockville, Ottawa, Prescott and Smiths Falls entered the finals.

Coach of Lions Cannot Believe Team That Bad

DETROIT (AP)—Coach Buddy Parker still is finding it hard to believe his Detroit Lions were humiliated 56-10 Sunday by Cleveland Browns for the National Football League title.

But he says: "I've had time to think it over and I think it's an impossibility to win the championship three years in a row in this day and age."

"It was all psychology after the first few minutes," drawled the Texan, who had been aiming for a third straight title when his club caved in at Cleveland.

GOT BETTER

"After they got the start on us they just kept getting better. Then, by the second half, we had to play a different-type game than we wanted to because we were so far behind—we had to throw and anybody could see Bobby (Layne) just wasn't throwing.

"The ball bounced out of our hands more than any game I've ever seen.

"They say a cat has nine lives. Similarly, this was Brown's last-chance effort to even a multitude of old scores. In one savage 60-minute burst he erased three years of terrible frustration."

Parker took no credit from his rival.

"Cleveland played a great game —easily the best they've ever played against us, even when you don't count the two lucky breaks they got," he said.

Hopman Likely To Lead Team Next Year

SYDNEY (AP)—Harry Hopman was asked today if he would accept the captaincy of the Australian Davis Cup team next year if it were offered to him.

His team of Lew Hoad and Ken Rosewall had just lost the cup to the United States when they dropped the doubles match to Vic Seixas and Tony Trabert, and Hopman was crestfallen.

"I have no idea at all," he answered curtly, "I am looking forward to a good rest as of tomorrow."

When asked what he thought Australia's chances would be next year, Hopman replied: "We will have a good chance of getting it back."

Hopman said Hoad and Rosewall are a long way from being finished as players.

"When you have two 20-year-olds there is always a chance."

Courchesne Wins in Romp Over McGarrity

MONTREAL (CP)—Bobby Courchesne of Holyoke, Mass., Monday night punched his way to a convincing unanimous decision over Charlie McGarrity of Rahway, N.J., in the 10-round main event at Mont St. Louis Auditorium.

Each fighter scaled 128½. There were no knockdowns and neither man appeared in trouble during the action-packed bout. The match was a crowd-pleaser as both fighters lossed leather freely from the opening bell.

The triumph was Courchesne's 32nd in 35 professional bouts. McGarrity, a sparring-mate of world light-welight champion Carter, has won 20 of 40 bouts.

In a scheduled 10-round semi-final, Reggie Chartrand of Montreal, scored a technical knockout over Don Oates of Hamilton, Ont., at 2:14 of the fourth rond. Chartrand weighed 135½, and Oates, 140½.

Schmidt Confined To His Home With Virus

BOSTON (AP) — Milt Schmidt, who took over as full-time coach of Boston Bruins Christmas night, is confined to his home with a fever but expects to be on the bench when the team opens its game in a National Hockey League game at New York Thursday.

The Bruins may have to call on their Hershey, Pa., farm club for help in the Rangers' game. Center Flem Mackell is out with a knee injury while winger Real Chevrefils and defencemen Leo Boivin are questionable starters.

Sports Roundup

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK (AP)—They once called him Oakland Billy Smith. Now he's Boardwalk Billy Smith.

At 23, Billy is in top shape for clamoring for a title bid at light heavyweight champion Archie Moore. You'd think Billy would want to forget all about Archie since he failed to beat him in four previous attempts.

Smith takes on Paul Andrews in Miami Wednesday night and the winner has been promised a February shot at Moore.

"I'm looking forward to meeting Archie again," said Billy before he departed for the South. "This time I figure I'm going to take him."

Billy started sweating with Moore in 1946 when he held Archie to a 10-round draw. They resumed their rivalry in 1951 when Billy lost a 10-round decision, and then was keyed to four rounds.

Their last meeting was in Portland, Ore., Jan. 2, 1951. The fight was slow and about even until the sixth when Billy dropped Moore for an eight count. But he couldn't finish him off. In the seventh Smith was on the run.

Midway in the eighth Archie dropped Smith. He got up at nine but Archie caught him again and draped him over the ropes with a right.

Then, to the amazement of the crowd, Billy parted the ropes and went to his dressing room.

Billy said afterwards that he "just got disgusted with the whole thing."

Since then Billy has had seven fights and won them all, six by knockouts.

President Says Aussies Will Win Cup in '55

SYDNEY (AP) — Sir Norman Brookes, one of Australia's all-time great tennis players and president of the Lawn Tennis Association of Australia, predicted today that Australia will bring the Davis Cup back in 1955.

Commenting on America's victory in the doubles today which clinched the cup, Sir Norman said:

"We have two fine players who are only 20 years old and the Americans have a problem of replacing players who are getting old."

A talented left-hander back in the early days of the Davis Cup who once forced Bill Tilden to four sets, Sir Norman said he felt the Americans won this year because they were keener for the occasion.

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN

by Elmer Ferguson

And so passes the most amazing year in all the history of sport. Amazing, because of the shattered records that dot its trail. Amazing, because the British Empire, long an international doormat in sport, arose in its might to contribute to the saga of 1954 the most astonishing of all sports feats.

That was, of course, the double Miracle Mile. In fact, you might term it the double Double Miracle. First England's Roger Bannister crashed through the mental sound barrier with a 3.59.4 mile. But the ink had scarcely dried on the records page when along came slim John Landy, from the Empire outpost of Australia, to reduce the mark to 3.58. And then, the Miracle of Miracles, both these great athletes broke the 4-minute mark in their unforgettable battle in the British Empire Games at Vancouver.

These were the feats not merely of the year, but of the century. In a year when records fell like clay pigeons, these two stand out like beacon lights.

The 5,000 metres mark fell so fast and so often you could scarcely keep track. First Zatopek the Czech, then the Russian Valdimir Kuc, then England's great red-haired Chris Chataway, then Kuc again. And there was England's Fred Green, shattering the 3-mile mark.

And 1954 was a big year for Canada in sport. Marilyn Bell amazed the world as she fought icy waters to swim the 40 miles across Lake Ontario, an almost unbelievable feat. And Tom Parker, a chunky Canadian distance swimmer from Hamilton, Ont., thrashed across the treacherous Catalina Channel in the record-breaking time of 13 hours, 25 minutes, 41 seconds.

It was Canada's year on our golf courses, too. Both Canadian Open events were won by Canadians. Pat Fletcher of Saskatoon became the first native-born Canadian to win the Men's Open in nearly 50 years, starring the Seagram Gold Cup and its rich cash awards. On the distaff side, little Miss Marlene Stewart captured the Canadian Women's Open.

For Canada, for the British Commonwealth as a whole, 1954 was a fine sports year, indeed.

Astaire Patching Up Life Shattered by Wife's Death

By ROB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—On Sept. 13 the wife of Fred Astaire died. To-day he is still trying to put together the shattered pieces of his life.

Few stories in recent years have touched Hollywood as has Astaire's loss of his wife Phyllis. They were one of the happiest couples in show business.

The dancer's wife died of cancer after an illness of several months. Astaire is working in "Daddy Long Legs," and I paid, a call on the music stage where he was listening to the orchestra play a number from the film. He was dressed with the dash that helped make him famous—hat, sport coat, shirt with the tails tied in a knot and slacks with a four-in-hand tie for nails.

TWO FILM CONTRACTS

I asked him about reports he had two films to make.

"Oh no," he replied. "If I retire again, I'm not going to announce it. I don't know what I'm going to do. I have a contract for one picture here at Fox and another for one at MGM. But I don't know what the first will be.

"I'm not going to make a picture just to be making a picture. I had a lot of fun offered to me not long ago but I turned it down because it didn't sound exciting. After you've been in this business as long as I have and done as many musicals as I have, you don't look forward to the routine of eight or nine months of rehearsals and shooting. If I do another picture, it will have to be something really worthwhile.

"After my wife died, I didn't want to do this picture but they talked me into it, and I'm glad. I would have been a fool to pass it up."

Astaire said he isn't able to tell his future plans. He said that activity on the picture has helped him to forget his loss, but that merely postpones the day he'll have to face it.

"I've tried and tried to find a reason for it, but I am unable to," he said. "It might make sense if she had died a full life. But she hadn't. She was only 46, and as beautiful as the day I met her. I just can't figure it out."

Astaire and his wife were married 24 years and scarcely spent a day apart.

VICE-PRESIDENT AT BROWN

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (CP)—Dr. Bruce M. Bigelow, 51, vice-president of Brown University, died in hospital Monday evening following a heart attack. From 1926 to 1928 he was an instructor in history at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

DIAMONDS VANISH

NEW YORK (AP)—Two trays containing diamond jewelry worth $65,000 disappeared mysteriously from Fifth Avenue shop following a safe Monday during business hours. Edward Segan, manager of the Marchal jewelry store, said the diamonds were in the safe in the morning but were gone when a clerk looked for them at 3 p.m.

Conference Of Creditor Nations Is Requested

BELGRADE (AP) — Yugoslavia owing about $400,000,000 abroad, suggested Monday a conference of the creditor nations to ease the debt problem and help put the Yugoslav economy on a pay-as-you-go basis.

The proposal was advanced by Svetozar Vukmanovic-Tempo, vice-president in charge of economic affairs, in a speech before Parliament, which has under consideration a $781,366,000 budget and a social-economic plan for 1955.

He suggested a conference of creditors of Yugoslavia to find a "reasonable settlement and unburden the economic development of our country" by changing present short and medium debts into long-term notes, The United States, Britain, France, Germany and Israel are among the creditors.

Vukmanovic - Tempo attributed the red ink side of Yugoslavia's ledger chiefly to bad weather, which has given the country three poor harvests in the last four years.

As other contributing factors, he listed concentration on industrialization at the expense of agriculture, the high cost of maintaining defence, and an increase of prices on the foreign markets for essential imports.

On the other hand, he reported industrial production had increased by 15 per cent over last years and 27 per cent over 1952, with Plans for a 13 per cent increase in production in 1955.

Indians' Defeat Sports Upset Of Season

NEW YORK (AP)—The Indians had the pitching and they had the power so it was not surprising that the Clevelanders were made 18-to-10 favorites to win the world series from New York Giants.

It's baseball history now how the Giants massacred the Indians with four successive wins. And so it's not surprising that sport writer and sportscasters around the United State Monday named the sweep as the sports upset of 1954 in the annual year-end Associated Press poll.

Seventy of the 18 participating in the voting named the Giants' conquests as the No. 1 upset. On a basis of three points for first, two for second and one for a third choice, the sweep polled 251 points.

Purdue's 27-21 victory over Notre Dame—the Irish's lone defeat of the season—was the second choice with 13 first placers and 101 points.

AT THE BELLE

Berlin Delivers Season's Best in Wonderful "White Christmas."

The world's first VistaVision film that we've all been reading about, along with the songs we've all been humming, has come to town. Of course it is living Berlin's "White Christmas," the Paramount musical dance, romance and comedy picture, which made Sidney very happy last night at the Belle Theatre. This sparkling Technicolor package of delight is that kind of wonderful entertainment.

Starring Bing Crosby, Danny Kaye, Rosemary Clooney and Vera-Ellen, the frothy mixture of music and mirth has still a fifth and sixth star, these being VistaVision and the sensational Irving Berlin score. VistaVision is everything that was said about it. Never before has a picture been seen with such clarity and definition. VistaVision is definitely here to stay and a vote of thanks is due all who had a hand in its development." The Irving Berlin music nine new hit tunes especially written for "White Christmas" is tuneful and lilting in the genius of master tunesman, Mr. Berlin.

The inimitable Bing Crosby and warm-voiced thrush Rosemary Clooney sing songs and could-ask-more singing combination rendering the Berlin tunes in memorable fashion. Vera-Ellen turns in some stunning dancing, dresses and does everything. Kaye sings, dances, and when not engaged in these entertaining activities, he is up to some rib-tickling antics.

With all of the many songs and dances, "White Christmas" has plenty of time for a tightly-knit story development and the last night's audience chuckling from beginning to end. The story does to do with two G.I. buddies, Bing and Buddy, who form a show-business team and soar to stardom. During the course of their conventional quest and fall in love with a sister act, Rosemary Clooney and Vera-Ellen. They follow the girls to Vermont, inn that is owned and operated by their old army general, Dean Jagger. The fly in the ointment is that the general is going broke. No snow, no tourists and no cash in the register. (Bing and Danny decide to put on the show of the inn. After many problems that threaten both the show and the romances, all ends well with the right girl in the arms of the right guy and with the Vermont countryside covered with snow by Christmas eve.

"White Christmas" is truly a bright spot that shines and glitters like the most desirable of all Christmas gifts.

GIVEN AWARD

TORONTO (CP) — The American Association for State and Local History has given its award of merit to the Ontario Historical Society for its services to provincial and local history, it was learned Monday. President of the society is Leslie R. Gray of London.

ON THE JOB

OTTAWA (CP)—Most civil servants, denied a holiday Monday and Jan. 3 by cabinet, were on the job Monday. There were a number of absentees but officials said most were legitimate. Many had applied for the day as part of their three weeks annual leave.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE
By SAM GORDON
The Bridge Expert

The power behind the throne of an opening bidder is shown with an immediate start of two in a suit. This is a signal for partner to help keep the bidding alive until game is reached.

In a player opens with a bid of one in a suit he is playing Standard American bidding. "Partner, I can make it in something with my own suit. Even if you have nothing, and expects to make game, therefore, such an opening tells his partner, "keep it open to game while we find out what is our best trump suit, if any. We may even find enough between us to make a slam."

Actually, such an opener does not always have enough to make game by himself. If he always waited for that he would not live long enough to use the bid often enough.

So, he is willing to chance it with a hand that is one trick less than game. So, deep down in the heart of every system is a rule that says an opening two bidder promises nine tricks.

This means that he may need the help of one trick in the hand of his partner. But even if partner lacks that one trick the order still stands and the bidding must keep going to game.

Take the south hand you have here:

♠A 7
♥A K Q 10 9 7
♣K J 9 5

With such a powerful heart suit you may fully well expect it to become the trump. Even if partner has only one heart the suit is strong enough to become the trump, you may assume.

Your three top tricks may be counted as three tricks. With two other aces and a king you can count three more tricks. You should be able to puff two rounds of diamonds and a round of clubs.

So, with nine tricks, open with two hearts. If your partner is absolutely broke, your final bid of four hearts will go down one. But if this scare you, go back to your jacks.

Way of Living Is Changing On Grassy Islands in River

By GERALD FREEMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

GRINDSTONE, Que. (CP)—Progress is clumping through the Magdalen Islands in hob-nailed boots that sometimes trample precious things.

The way of living is changing in these grassy islands in the Gulf of St. Lawrence. Islanders whose houses dot the open fields between sea-gnawed cliffs and inland hills are still a bit behind their mainland cousins but they are catching up.

Progress here is electricity, the telephone, the motor car, radio, linoleum, artificial teeth, education, running water. Its victims are intangibles: some independence, self-reliance, good fellowship.

ISLANDERS HAPPY

The 11,000 Magdalenots, who brought this progress on themselves, would not trade it nor return to the life they knew 40 years ago. Winter ice still isolates them by sea, but there is airline service three times a week, radio-telephone and telegraph service.

It was not thus in 1912 when the islanders, almost cut off from the world from Christmas to Easter, decided to do something about it.

A group of men were sitting around Bill Sumarah's general store one February day. Someone suggested they write their member of Parliament and give him a piece of their minds.

A firm letter was drafted and as the idea grew other islanders brought letters to Bill's store which still operates although Bill spends his winters on the mainland. The letters were placed in a box inside a big moisture puncheon, rigged with a rudder and tin sail.

All the villagers went to the water's edge for the launching and for an official blessing by a priest. The puncheon was carried 100 miles to Musgrave, N.S., where it was found and eventually taken to a post office.

"WINTER OF PUNCHEON"

Grianders won't say their letters were the reason, but that fall a radio mast was built on Marconi hill and before many winters a small boat poked its prow into port. Magdalenois still remember 1912 as "The Winter of the Puncheon."

Islanders worked together, too, to bring electricity to the Magdalens. A co-operatively - owned generating plant was opened in Grindstone just before Christmas last year, ending an era of oil lamps.

The telephone and radio also have come to the islands. Still, on winter nights villagers gather in barns for square dances. There are no dance halls. Movies are shown three or four times a week in stove-heated theatres.

Driving along the island 100 miles of roads is a popular pastime. There are 600 cars and trucks in the 35,000 acres that make up the Magdalens' 16 islands not all of them populated.

Artificial teeth have been here quite a while. The man who makes them is said to be more of a blacksmith than a dentist but he is such a useful member of society the islanders keep his name a secret from outsiders so he won't get into trouble. Fillings are done on the mainland.

Little Benny's Notebook

We had chickin freckasee with dumplings for dinner, maney me feel lucky, and I was eating my 2nd helping and I said, I did a good deed today, and so did Puds.

Was it the same deed? pop said, and I said, Yes sir, but it was my idea. There was a lady in white around at the market, and she was cooking swell little sausages, only about an inch long, on a little electric stove. The name of them was Frizzy Fries, and she was handing them out for free sampels, I said.

That's where you and Puds got in your good werk, I suppose, pop said, and I said, Well, not rite away, because they generely wont give samples to kids. So we just watched a while, and all the ladies going past, just shook their heads and wouldn't take one. Some of them said they were dieting, and I guess the rest must of been dieting without saying so, and, the lady in white looked more and more worried, because she would probably lose her job if she couldn't make people take samples, I said.

Now I get it, you and Puds took pity on her, poo said, and I said, Yes sir, we told her we would take one if she wanted us to, and she gave us each one on a cracker and said she appreciated our help, and we kept on going back to help her till we had each ate 13, and she said that was all the help she needed.

Oh my goodness, when was that? ma said, and I said, Just before I came in for dinner, I think I'll have one more helping of chickin and dumplings, I said.

And I think you should of had one less, after all those sausidges for lanch sakes, ma said.

Proving I told about my good deed a little too soon.

VAST OIL RESOURCES

Four years ago crude oil was discovered on a farm at Tioga in the northwest corner of North Dakota. Since then more than 400 oil wells have been brought into commercial production in the area known at the Williston Basin, embracing parts of three states and two Canadian provinces. This map outlines the vast deposits but geologists say their full extent will not be known for 100 years. Note how the basin stretches up into Canada with oil fields at Midale, Sask., and Virden, Man. (CP from AP).

WHEAT AMONG OIL WELLS

Clarence Iverson, Tioga, N.D., farmer holds a sheaf of wheat which still grows among the oil wells on his farm. Drillers struck oil on Iverson's land four years ago, leading to exploitation of the great Williston Basin oil resources which cover parts of three states and stretch up into Manitoba and Saskatchewan. With Iverson are (left) Henry Ralph, editorial editor of Oil and Gas Journal, Tulsa, Okla, and A. D. Davidson, assistant district superintendent for Amerada Petroleum Co., which brought in the Iverson discovery well. (CP Photo);

Cold Cash Pumps Reality In Dakota's Dream of Oil

BISMARCK, N.D. (AP)—Industry's cold and carefully-measured cash is pumping reality into a fondly-held North Dakota dream of wealth through oil.

It is nearly four years since an evil-smelling greenish fluid known as crude oil was first drawn from the prairie in northwestern North Dakota.

The discovery rolled up a wave of enthusiasm in a strictly farm state whose wealth has stemmed from grain and livestock and where drought meant economic disaster. BIG REFINERY

On the banks of the muddy Missouri river at Mandan, Standard Oil of Indiana has built a refinery capable alone of processing most of the state's present output of oil. It has a 30,000-barrel daily capacity. Its cost is estimated at close to $30,000,000.

The Mandan refinery draws its crude oil by pipeline from the state's two richest oil pools 200 miles to the northwest, and sends the finished products—gasoline, fuel oils, lubricants—eastward through another pipeline. Now it connects with Standard's midwest distributing system.

Another fortress of tubes and tanks breaks the prairie skyline at Tioga—a $17,000,000 natural gas processing plant built by Signal Oil and Gas Co. of Los Angeles. This blue-chip bet in the North Dakota oil game was placed because a good flow of natural gas forces oil to the surface through most North Dakota wells.

The reliing North Dakota prairie has been punctured by more than 900 wells since oil was struck on a treeless farm near Tioga on April 5, 1951.

Of these holes, many of them two miles deep, 447 are producing oil in commercial quantities. Twenty-nine more are natural gas producers. More than 200 have been plugged as dry holes.

BUSINESS BOOMS

On the periphery of the oil boom, other small industry in North Dakota is gaining prosperity. Business and home construction in western North Dakota has gone on a building binge.

The derrick forest around Tioga is the heart of the oil development. The gas goes via pipeline to Tioga, where Signal squeezes from it commercial fuels such as butane, some natural gasoline and usable natural gas, which is to be marketed in eastern North Dakota.

IMPACT DRAMATIC

The impact of the oil industry on western North Dakota has been dramatic.

In northwestern North Dakota lies Williston, the town which gave its name to the oil-rich Williston basin embracing portions of three states — Montana, North Dakota and South Dakota—and Canada.

Williston is 40 miles west of the Tioga and Beaver Lodge oil pools, the richest of North Dakota's 16 known pools in seven counties. Williston was a community of 7,500 four years ago. Now its population is estimated at 12,000.

It has become headquarters for more than 90 oil-well servicing companies, those which furnish pipe and other materials and products needed in drilling.

HAMLET TO TOWN

Tioga has grown to five times its original population of 474. More than 500 traders provide temporary housing.

Dickinson, toward the south of North Dakota's present main oil area, has shown a population increase of almost 2,000 since the development began. Its chamber of commerce now claims for it a population of about 9,000. Oil has been struck west of Dickinson.

Bismarck, North Dakota capital, has become headquarters of the oil companies' legal departments, consulting geologists, map-makers and other technicians. Bismarck has grown from 18,640 to an estimated 22,750.

Many North Dakotans find it hard to realize they live in an oil state.

For many years geologists had eyed the Williston basin as a logical source of oil. The right kind of rock strata were there. But they didn't produce.

Just before the Second World War, oil companies were moving into the state in large numbers to lease land, map the depths of the earth by exploding dynamite charges and listening to learn how fast the echo travelled through the rock layers, and to plan drilling operations.

STOPPED BY WAR

The country's involvement in the war stopped this, but with peace the oilmen were back on the prairies. The state's most likely-looking areas were signed up solidly in a frenzy of leasing in the late 1940s.

In 1938, the California company has spent more than 10,000 feet into the prairie on the Nesson Anticline about 30 miles east of Williston, in what was regarded as the most promising area in the state. But the company reported the hole was dry and it was plugged.

On April 5, 1951, Amerada Petroleum Corp. of Tulsa, Okla., hit oil at a spot approximately nine miles northeast of the 1938 dry hole.

The California company gave up its block of leases after its 1938 venture. The Hunt Oil Co., armed with new geological information that later drilling had yielded, began exploration in the same vicinity and, ironically, now has a producing oil well near California's dry hole.

CONTROL OUTPUT

State law limits oil output sharply, gearing it to the current market situation and the long-range welfare of the wells and pools. The basic daily production limit for November, for example, was nine barrels per well to a depth of 5,000 feet. The deeper a well, the more it is allowed to produce.

Many of the better wells would flow up to 100 barrels an hour, but they won't be turned loose because this would confound the oil industry quickly through price-wrecking waste and quick exhaustion of the wells themselves.

There are farmers who have paid off the mortgages on their lands, settled all their debts for combines and tractors, sent the youngsters to college and perhaps bought a new automobile as the result of sale of mineral rights.

Of course, if a farmer sells part of his rights he gets no royalty on the sold portion from oil produced on his ground. Many prefer to hold their rights and take the royalty—one-eighth of production—on oil found.

FAT ROYALTIES

Some farmers now collect $4,000 a month or more in royalty revenues.

North Dakotans like to point out that Clarence Iverson, on whose land near Tioga the discovery well was drilled, is proud that he's still a farmer although he has moved into Williston. His sons look after the farm for him.

Friends of one northwestern North Dakota farmer on whose land oil was found grin and emphasize that he didn't buy a Cadillac when his well came in. He didn't particularly need it. He already had two Packards.

"You see," explains W. J. Hagen, business manager of the Williston Daily Herald, "our farmers were in pretty good shape before the oil discovery. They had had more than 10 consecutive years of good crops and good markets for what they raised."

Geologists agree that North Dakota's oil potential has been little more than tapped. There are a dozen geological strata from which commercial gas or both is or can be obtained. Armed with data obtained from their own tests and studies and that gathered in the drilling of wells for production, the geologists continue to evaluate additional North Dakota acreage.

One veteran geologist, asked if he believes it's true that it will be 100 years to complete the oil exploration of the Williston basin, replied:

"That's too short. It takes 100 years to explore any basin."

As for completing the exploration in North Dakota—and he himself has been working in this state 25 years—he says:

"Look at Oklahoma. It's been an oil producer more than 50 years and they're still finding new pools down there."

As of Nov. 1, there were 19 wells being drilled in North Dakota as development projects — wells in proven territory. Six more were being drilled in scattered areas as wildcat ventures—test projects undertaken in the hope of finding new pools.

How far the wildcating and, development will spread—or just where—nobody is sure.

HOMINY, Okla. (AP)—Mrs. Cecil Morgan, a 36-year-old grandmother, gave birth to triplet girls Wednesday, increasing her family to nine children. The astounded father, a laborer, exclaimed: "What in the world am I going to do with them?"

MAKE WELCOME KNOWN

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Motorists entering New York state henceforth will be greeted by signs reading, "Welcome to New York—the Empire State." Bertram D. Tallamy, superintendent of public works, said Wednesday that the state is erecting 90 of the signs along its borders. The signs are of steel, measure four by five feet and are painted in blue and gold.

Hollywood Has New Worry As Actors Get Independent

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—There is a new breed of actors in the movies and the studios are somewhat worried.

It used to be that most every young actor would almost break his neck to get signed up for a seven-year stretch by a studio. Some still feel that way. But rising to prominence is a modified kind of actor—the independent sort.

Marlon Brando is a prime example. Since the beginning of his film career, he has refused to sign with a studio for more than one picture at a time. Montgomery Clift is another who won't align himself with a studio. If a script is good, he'll do the film, but he doesn't mind staying off the screen for a year or two. Another member of this school is Jacobi Dean, touted as the newest acting sensation. Except for one picture a year at Warner's, he is a free agent.

KERR MAKES FILM

The latest to join the group is John Kerr, a good-looking 24-year-old who scored a hit in "Tea and Sympathy" on Broadway with Deborah Kerr, Lilia Brando, Cliff ton Dean, he is stage-trained and independent. Also like them, he has action-packed ideas about the career he'll take after his first film role, in Kerr the promoters it car' is here to be his first film role, in "The Cobweb." He admitted he had numerous offers to sign studio term contracts, but has turned them down.

"I grew up in the East," he reasoned, "All my roots are there, and I like living in New York. I see no reason to change."

But wouldn't he like the security of a studio contract?

"Who can ever achieve security in this business?" he replied.

John was born into the theatre being the son of actor Geoffrey Kerr and the longtime Broadway star June Walker.

He expects his next engagement will be a two-year tour with the United States Army. Married and the father of twin year-old girls, he's still draft-bait.

Are Cautious About Comment On French Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Top United States administration officials cautiously withheld today any vigorous applause for France's preliminary move toward accepting West Germany as a full partner in the West's defences against communism.

While several senators enthusiastically hailed Monday night's favorable French Assembly vote, President Eisenhower and State Secretary Dulles awaited new ballotting expected Wednesday before joining publicly in the rejoicing.

Some high officials were known to feel that even if Premier Mendes-France finally persuades French legislators to approve German rearmament, his government faces an uphill battle before it may cause a new crisis.

Through his press secretary at his Augusta, Ga., holiday headquarters, Eisenhower said only that he was "gratified at the turn the proceedings have taken."

U. S. diplomats, stunned by last Friday's setback to Mendes-France's drive to win assembly approval of the German rearmament proposals, were reported to believe much damage already had been done to Western unity which a favorable French vote could not entirely erase.

SAN JUAN HIT LIGHTLY

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—A strong earthquake was reported Monday night in the city of San Juan, about 500 miles west of here near the Chilean border. First reports said there were no deaths or injuries and that property damage was light. San Juan was almost totally destroyed by an earthquake Jan. 15, 1944.

Monkey Business With Mirrors Proves Confusing

Earl Miller, 28, was polishing glass in the Hall of Mirrors. An escaped monkey from a nearby cage dashed in.

Miller suddenly was confronted with 20 monkeys staring at him. The monkey saw 20 Millers staring back.

Concession workers, animal shelter people and police arrived in response to Miller's summons. Confusion was compounded and reflected in a maze of mirrors.

Finally the monkey leaped to the rafters and fled to the quiet of a rest room, where he sulked until captured.

OTTAWA (CP) — A Russian-born rooming house landlord who police say inflicted sadistic torture on a 72-year-old tenant was remanded to Jan. 3 today on a charge of causing grievous bodily harm.

The 65-year-old accused, Alex Kenisnki, stood before Magistrate Glenn Strike as the charge of inflicting grievous injuries on Iwan Onowichuk was read against him. He made no plea and was released on $1,500 bail.

Police arrested the heavily-built Kenisnki Tuesday night after piecing together a story of terror including burning with red-hot wires and a hot poker, the pulling of Onowichuk's teeth with pliers, kicking, beating and the hammering of the old man's fingers and wrists.

Police said the torture was inflicted over a period of several days after an argument developed between Onowichuk and Kenisnki over $800 in missing rent money.

IN FAIR CONDITION

Onowichuk is in hospital in fair condition. Police said that from his hospital bed he has slightly lucid moments during which detailed knowledge of the whereabouts of Kenisnki's missing rent money.

Kenisnki, his big frame bundled in a heavy blue overcoat, sat in court with folded hands and watched proceedings through dark glasses. His face remained expressionless when his case was called and he was ordered to stand.

Kenisnki was represented by Royden Hughes, one of Ottawa's top criminal lawyers. Mr. Hughes asked for a remand without plea and got it. Magistrate Strike set the $1,500 bail figure after considering the case privately in his office for 15 minutes at the end of the court proceedings.

2000 VANISHED

Police said Onowichuk, a slightly-built Ukrainian who immigrated to Canada about 30 years ago but speaks no English, was allegedly tortured in an effort to extract information from him bearing on the whereabouts of about $800 in rent money.

The 265-pound Kenisnki, police said, had collected about $800 in rents from the four properties he owned. They said he put the money in a brown paper packet and hung the pants over a chair in the bedroom he has shared with the old man for about 15 years ever since they met here.

The money was missing the next morning. Onowichuk was accused of stealing it. He denied it. Police said he then accused it from his hospital bed Tuesday night.

Police said the case came to light through an anonymous call to inspector Thaddi Blazey. Morality officer Leo Bryan and Kenneth Spratt said they found Onowichuk in "pitiful condition" in the second floor bedroom he shared with Kenisnki.

2000 ODD JOBS

Onowichuk had worked for a time as a policeman's orderly. Police said the latter operated a potato-chip vending wagon here. He had lived in the Kenisnki home for 21 years, lately performing odd jobs around the house.

Also residing at the same address are Mrs. Kenisnki and a few roomers.

Police said medical authorities told them the beatings suffered by the old age pensioner were consistent with his story.

FEDERAL TAX PAYMENTS WILL LIKELY DECLINE

Officials Estimate Drop at $5,000,000

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal payments under the federal-provincial fiscal arrangements likely will decline next year for seven of nine provinces.

Officials estimate the decline may total about $5,000,000, the first in the annual payments since the initial post-war tax pacts were signed in 1947.

The reason is the decline in 1954 national production. In return for renting certain tax fields to the federal government, the provinces receive annual payments based on provincial population growth and the annual value of national production averaged on a per capita basis.

EXPIRE IN 1957

Changes in national production in the preceding calendar year form the basis of payments for the following fiscal year. All provinces except Quebec have tax rental agreements with the federal government. The current pacts are for five years, expiring March 31, 1957, unless renewed before that time.

This year, national production is expected to be declined by about two per cent from the 1953 peak, the first drop in post-war years.

For two provinces, Alberta and Newfoundland, the effect of population growth is expected to more than offset the impact of a production drop. For them federal payments for the 1953-58 fiscal year may increase slightly.

7 REEN DIMINISHING

But payments likely will decline for the other seven: Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, British Columbia, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick.

During the current fiscal year ending next March 31, payments to provinces will total about $50,000,000 and likely will decline to about $300,000 in 1957-58.

Ontario, $141,900,000; British Columbia, $40,000,000; Quebec, $30,600,000; Saskatchewan, $26,500,000; Manitoba, $18,000,000; New Brunswick, $13,900,000; Nova Scotia, $20,400,000; Newfoundland, $12,500,000; Prince Edward Island, $2,900,000.

In 1955-56, payments to Newfoundland are likely to rise to about $30,000,000. Alberta, by a few thousand dollars. In comparison, Saskatchewan, which is likely to drop by more than $1,000,000; to Saskatchewan, $14,100,000; to New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, between $300,000 and $1,000,000; to Prince Edward Island, $2,900,000 and British Columbia, by less than $500,000.

CONDON GETS JOB

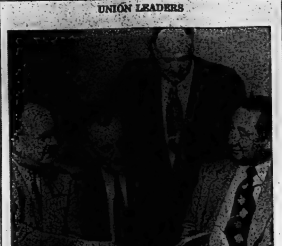
Blue-Green Algae Can Convert Air Into Fertilizer for Soilless Crops

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—Air can be turned into fertilizer by blue-green algae, raising the prospect of growing food crops without soil.

These one-celled plants which grow in water. One blue-green type of algae now is being used to great ability to take nitrogen out of the air and make it available for plant growth.

The first success in growing rice in paddies using nitrogen grabbed from the air by the algae is described in a paper prepared for the American Association for the Advancement of Science by Dr. Daniel I. Arnon, professor of plant nutrition, University of California, Berkeley. The finding offers a cheap, effective way of fertilizing various food crops. It could be of tremendous importance, especially in the hungry Orient.



It's long been known that certain algae can take or "fix" nitrogen from the air and secrete it in the water. Some of this air also adds it to the soil when the algae dies.

But the algae have been thought to be too slow to be of any real significance.

Arnon found that under proper conditions these algae can fix nitrogen from the air at rates almost 200 times faster than had been believed possible. Algae grow faster than credited.

The soil has been destroyed from its unique position as the sole medium for plant growth," Arnon said. "There is not to suggest that in the immediate future the soil will not remain as our most important natural resource. However, our age is the first in history in which it is possible to entertain rational alternatives for growing food crops without soil."

Mounted Policemen Mourn Death of Their Beloved Dog

MONCTON (CP)—Prince II, a sinewy Doberman pinscher who died of pneumonia while working on a case, was cremated today as his RCMP masters who swore by the glistening black nose that sought out many a wrongdoer.

The 85-pound black-and-tan police dog died Sunday, the day after his eighth birthday. He caught a cold Friday while on a job with constable Harold W. Birtwhistle, the Moncton who groomed, fed and exercised him for three years.

Prince II took his basic training at Sydney, N.S. He later served with the Newfoundland Rangers until that provincial constabulary was absorbed by the RCMP at the time of Confederation five years ago.

The Doberman was a busy animal before he was transferred to RCMP subdivision headquarters at Moncton a month ago. He was on call to all detachments in the Maritimes and his handlers took pride in the stolid, methodical conduct that never won any medals but never failed.

Once Prince II was pressed into the search for a two-year-old toddler who wandered into the bush from a logging camp in Nova Scotia. The searchers staked out an area extending no more than a mile of the camp but the dog stubbornly worked beyond this boundary.

He sniffed long for a faint track for four miles. At the end of it was the child, still walking. A drenching downpour started moments later.

A man disappeared in dense woods in the Irishtown district near here a few months ago. Prince II found him.

An RCAF Sabre jet crashed in the woods near Chatham air force base. Prince's unfailing nose found the body of the pilot.

An RCMP highway patrol from Sydney entered the woods near the Canso strait town of Port Hawkesbury with the Dobermann seven months ago. They emerged with the teenage assailants of an elderly North Sydney storekeeper. The youths had engineered a $15,000 robbery.

Prince also had to his credit the apprehension of a fugitive from the penitentiary at St. John's, Nfld.

He was always gentle — until ordered to be otherwise. His handlers said he did not know the meaning of insubordination.

After Prince caught a cold Friday he was treated like an ailing human, but the pneumonia virus had too solid a grip.

North Bay Plans To Annex 48,000 Acres Next Year

NORTH BAY (CP)—The area of North Bay will be increased more than 25 times if present plans for annexation of a large part of adjoining Widdifield township go through.

Mayor M. E. Dickerson said today long-talked of action for annexation of all or Widdifield township will get under way during 1955.

The city, now covering 2,100 acres, is planning to annex 48,000 acres. They call for the RCAF station to be in the geographical centre of the city. The land will also apply to annex a small adjoining portion of Commanda township.

Should the proposed annexation go through, North Bay's population will be increased by some 5,000 residents. Present population is about 20,000.

From its present over-built area of 3.3 square miles, the city would increase in size to 75 square miles, containing Joubhard, rolling farms and miles of waterfront resort area on Trout lake.

Forgery Charged

TORONTO (CP)—A bank teller who became suspicious brought about the arrest Tuesday of William Leach, 22, on a forgery charge.

Later when a second cheque of $1,450 was presented for payment the teller became suspicious and called police.

AFTER 4 YEARS, FRENCH REACH END OF DEBATE

Day of Decision On Arming of Germany

By HARVEY HUDSON

PARIS (AP)—The French National Assembly groped in discussions today toward its final decision about the problem of West German rearmament. The deputies convened at 4 p. m. (10 a. m. EST) for the showdown on the fate of both the Western defence alliance and Premier Pierre Mendes-France's government.

A heavy police force stood guard outside the assembly to prevent any mass demonstration while the deputies came to the decision which they have delayed for four years.

The deputies have been called on to vote twice today. An advisory vote either time would force the resignation of Mendes-France and might lead Britain and the United States to forge ahead with the rearmament of West Germany without respect to France's opinion.

The premier expected to be the win, but by even narrower margins than Monday's 280-259 ballot. He is pressing for total agreement into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Mendes-France made both votes questions of confidence in his government's life on their outcome. Final speeches were to come first at 4 p. m. today but a vote was not expected to start until tonight, maybe as late as midnight (6 p.m. EST).

KEY VOTE

The key vote was on ratification of the treaty admitting West Germany and Italy into the new Western European Union along with France, Britain, The Netherlands, Belgium, and Luxembourg.

Third pact—the one which actually spells out German rearmament—was defeated in the first reading in the assembly last February. Mendes-France then brought it up again as a new bill.

The second ballot was set on the question of whether Germany be given any role in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. Mendes-France approved this treaty's separate articles Monday night, but its ratification as a whole also was required.

In advance of the session, political observers predicted Mendes-France would win about 270 votes to the bare majority needed. But a far short of a majority of the 627-member assembly would be deemed to have expected to abstain to give him victory.

The assembly already had approved the other two key Paris agreements. A pact restoring German sovereignty was accepted, 280 to 80, last Friday. The same day the assembly approved by 360 to 145 the French-German accord on the Saar to be disputed Wednesday. The deputies also ratified, 517 to 100, a companion convention on the stationing of foreign troops on German soil.

Mau Mau Spare Woman, Babies

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — A gang of 40 Mau Mau terrorists spared the lives of a woman and her children Tuesday night and burned to the ground the home of the Briton's young wife and her two babies.

As the gang attacked the house 50 miles from Nairobi, Mrs. Lovat Carnelley grabbed her children, one and two years old, and fled into nearby bushes.

The drunken terrorist stumbled upon the three huddled figures in the darkness but the gang leader ordered him away.

Speaking in Swahili, he told the woman: "You must leave the country by plane if you do not want to be killed."

Strikers' Wives Will Meet To Discuss Issue

WINDSOR (CP)—The wives of the striking Ford of Canada Windsor workers will meet Thursday to discuss the strike which has kept their husbands off their jobs since Oct. 10.

Mrs. Ruth Lawton, chairman of the committee which arranged the meeting, said the wives will be asked to "give the public a true picture of their position in the strike.

She said they will be asked to compose a resolution, to be forwarded to the company and the Automobile Workers (CIO-CCL) which will clarify their position.

TO DECIDE

"Some people have been saying we're 150 per cent behind the union and others are saying we'd end the strike tomorrow if we could," Mrs. Lawton said. "We are not to decide what we stand for."

Mrs. Lawton, whose husband has worked for the company for 15 years, said she felt personally that the strike has gone on long enough and delayed negotiations unnecessarily.

"The unions have done a lot of good, but this strike has gone on too long," she said. "We've all lost money and been forced to live in an atmosphere of hate and suspicion."

Ford Wage Strike May End Early In New Year

First Big Step Taken By Direct Negotiations

TORONTO (CP)—Company and union officials were to meet secretly in contract talks again today amid gathering optimism that the long Ford of Canada wage strike may end early in the New Year.

They took the first big step Tuesday by starting direct negotiations in an effort to end the paralyzing walkout of 6,000 members of the United Automobile Workers (CIO-CCL) at the company's three plants in Windsor, Oakville and Etobicoke.

Although there was no report on how the talks went, negotiators were cheerful as they emerged from two meetings in a downtown hotel. The discussions are planned for several days. Each side has agreed not to comment publicly on the talks until a conclusion of some kind has been reached."

JOINT STATEMENT

Top company and union officials said: "Joint statements that a "mutually satisfactory arrangement" had been worked out in an exchange of letters and informal meetings for start of negotiations.

The statements added that the company will negotiate on the question of a province-wide agreement provided the UAW undertakes to negotiate provisions of seniority, job posting and hours of work existing in agreements at the Ford parts depot in the Toronto suburb of Etobicoke.

The problem of a contract covering all Ford workers in Ontario has been the main stumbling block in negotiations. The disputants had previously reached an impasse on the topic. Bids by both parties to promote a solution twice failed.

TWO PROPOSALS

The company, in its reply to a union letter, offered two proposals to pave the way for negotiations aimed at stopping the walkout, which started in Windsor Oct. 10 and later spread.

It suggested the bargaining units be set out a province-wide. The Oakville assembly plant workers and that it apply to workers in Etobicoke and Windsor. Eventually Etobicoke workers do not yet have an agreement.

The second proposal was that the company would negotiate a province-wide agreement if the union worked out something on the questions on seniority and other things.

NOT ACCEPTING

However, a Ford statement, signed by T. J. Emmert, executive vice-president, added:

"Does this mean unless it clearly understood that in offering its alternative proposal the union accepts the company's acceptance of the principal would automatically hold the union to accept changes in seniority, job advertising or hours of work.

"On the other hand the company is not making acceptance of the principle of a provincial agreement covering its hourly-paid employees a condition.

EXCLUDE WORKERS

The company said any provincial agreement would have to exclude office workers at Windsor because their working conditions and other problems are completely different than those of employees in the plants.

In his letter to Ford, Emil Mazey, international secretary-treasurer of the UAW, said the union believed it would be of mutual advantage to the company to meet representatives of all Ford workers striking locals at the same time.

"Negotiating a master collective bargaining agreement on a provincial basis would result in uniformity of collective bargaining agreements which would minimize the area of conflict between the company and the union," he said.

"Although the difficulties appearing in the press, the union has not insisted on a provincial agreement as a pre-condition to commencing collective bargaining. We do insist, however, that the Ford Motor Company meet with representatives of all of its local unions at the same time with whom it currently has problems in dispute."

Deportation Order Returns Stowaway to Great Britain

An English orphan who reached America as a stowaway on the Queen Elizabeth and is now in Christmas at Hastings County jail will likely spend New Year's on the North Atlantic under a deportation order that is returning him to England.

Meanwhile, a woman in Ottawa wonders if he is the son of her long-lost husband.

Derek Almond, 18, whose fantastic story of reaching America as a stowaway on the Queen Elizabeth came to light when he was arrested for theft of clothing of jurors at the trial of Mrs. Mary Bell in October, is returning to the land he strove so mightily to leave.

He left Belleville last night at 6.00 p.m. on the Montreal-bound CNR-CPR flyer escorted by a member of the Department of Citizenship and Immigration. It is not known when, or on what ship, he will leave Canada.

SERVED 30 DAYS

Almond is being deported after serving 30 days for theft and spending nearly six additional weeks in Hastings County jail, while Immigration Department officials checked the truth of his story.

While he was in jail Miss Alice Almond, of Ottawa, asked to see him in the hope that he might prove to be the son of her long-lost brother, Charles Almond.

Derek, who only vaguely recalls that his father's name was Charles, was not able to convince her of his identity one way or another.

Derek Almond does not know where he was born. His first recollection is that when he was about four years old he was living in Bristol, England, with a Mrs. Evans. Of his father, he remembers that his name was Charles. Of his mother, he remembers nothing.

He says he lived in London until he was about nine or 10 then moved to Bristol. He moved to Diss, Norwich, where he lived for more than a year with an elderly farm couple named Anderson.

At the age of 12 he left them and started a seven-year Odyssey through the British Isles.

"I wandered about the country doing odd jobs," he said, just before boarding the deportation train. "I did some farm work and lived in rooming houses and YMCA's."

At 16 he said he tried to join the boys' division of the RAF (Boys' Entrance Service he called it) and though he passed the aptitude tests he drifted away before taking the medical examination.

WORKED AS LABORER

He then began a program of working by day at a farm laborer or trucker's helper, and two nights a week at a theatre usher while trying to advance his education at night institutes."

He was last at Cambridge "so I could take evening instruction in chemistry at the Evening Institute of Cambridge," when he decided, about September 1st of this year, to try to come to Canada.

"I decided to take the quickest way out," he said. "I wish I hadn't now."

Trips to the Southampton docks as a trucker's helper provided a chance to him when he determined to stow away on the Queen Elizabeth.

"I lived near the docks for a few weeks and learned how to come and go without meeting the police," he said.

"The Queen Elizabeth arrived about 5 o'clock in the afternoon," he said, describing how he smuggled himself aboard either September 25th or 27th.

"Passengers started debarking about 8.00 p.m. Workmen were going aboard through a great hole in her side and I put on a pair of overalls and went aboard with them.

"As soon as I got aboard I went right to the top deck and hid my gear, two small valises containing a dark suit, a blue sports coat, a pair of heavy green striped pants, a few shirts, and some sandwiches, in an alcove for fire hose. Then I went into one of the washrooms."

Almond said he stayed in one of the washrooms for nearly 14 hours before venturing out.

MIXED WITH PASSENGERS

"After that I mixed with the passengers," he said. "I went to the shows on the boat, played the deck games and danced in the evenings. When the few sandwiches I took with me ran out, I would sit in the lounge and have the stewards bring me cakes and cookies. As long as you tipped them that was all you had to do for days."

He changed his money in the bar.

"I had about 18 pounds with me when I went aboard," he said. "I'm sure the barman thought his money he would give you American change.

"The only time I was afraid of being caught," he said, "was when they had boat drill and then I stayed below and hid in one of the washrooms."

"We docked in New York in the afternoon," he said. "They wouldn't let the people off immediately and there were lots of immigration officials so I went down to the cargo hold and went off with the workmen except as I came ashore I was questioned.

"I was very lucky," he added.

Almond says that he got on the quay with his two small valises and walked behind some sheds until he came to a railway gate.

"I was seen by two people on the railway track," he said. "They said 'to come back but I didn't."

STARTED FOR CANADA

Almond said he left New York immediately and started hitchhiking for Canada.

"As a British subject I thought it would be easy to get across and I was finally caught than if I was a foreigner," he said bluntly.

Almond says he was stopped and warned by New York State police that he was loafing in a non-hitch-hiking zone but was not detained.

He threw away the valise containing his dark suit when he scrambled into the back of a truck" at the Ivy Lea bridge to cross into Canada.

After successfully entering Canada he went to Montreal and got a train into the Maritimes under his own name.

"I went in an RCAF recruiting station on St. Catherine St. in Montreal," he said. "I took the aptitude test, about 80 questions, and they gave me a Grade 13 rating. Then they asked me for my birth certificate and of course, I didn't have one and I left Montreal.

Almond was on his way to Toronto when he saw an ad in the Belleville paper for a helper for J. T. Ransom, land surveyor. He applied for the job and was accepted.

He had been staying at the Queens Hotel and when he got the job he took a room at the home of Mrs. D. W. Adams, 67 Cedar St.

TOOK SUITCASE

However, the day he was leaving the Queens he took a suitcase of clothing from the room of a juror sitting at the trial of Mrs. Mary Bell.

"I don't know why I did it," he said. "I was taking it back about 6.00 p.m. that night (Saturday night, about the middle of October) when Mr. Scott, the manager, saw me. The following day Detective Reid came to speak to me about it and I decided to tell him the whole story."

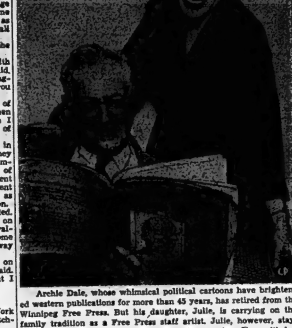
"I felt I might as well get it off my chest. Reid was fair with me and I felt someone would find out sooner or later."

Magistrate K. V. Wills sentenced him to 30 days on a theft charge. Almond has been serving up Almond was detained by a restraining order from the Department of Citizenship and Immigration. His sentence expired about November 20th or 21st. The 22nd. A board of enquiry from the department interviewed him in Belleville about November 26th or 27th.

The newspaper story of his stowing away attracted the attention of Miss Alice Almond, of Ottawa, who made some representation to the Immigration Department in Ottawa. She also came to see Almond in the Hastings County Jail.

She told local authorities that her two brothers, Charles and William Almond, had gone to England several years before and despite efforts on her part to contact them by mail, she had discovered no trace of them. She believes that maybe Derek Almond was her brother's son.

HAZY OF PARENTS



Almond's hazy recollection of his parents made it almost impossible for Miss Almond to be sure he was or was not her nephew.

While in jail Belleville Police Chief Walter Probert wrote to Scotland Yard requesting criminal record and fingerprints of Almond and was subsequently advised by them that there is no information concerning Almond.

Almond, escorted from Hastings County jail just after 5.00 p.m. Tuesday by local immigration officer G. H. McCuaig, was wearing his fil-filling blue sports coat and striped trousers. His few other belongings were carried in a Beg Hlue Corn Syrup cardboard box tied with string.

"I want to come to Canada again," said the 5-foot 11-inch, 170-pound Almond as he boarded the train in a light drizzle of

DAUGHTERS FOLLOWED DAD

Archie Dale, whose whimsical political cartoons have brightened western publications for more than 45 years, has retired from the Winnipeg Free Press. But his daughter, Julie, is carrying on the family tradition as a Free Press staff artist. Julie, however, stays away from political cartoons like dad. She examines Reeve with her sketch in a pretty glitter while the old man looks on with a trouble frowning. The book they are looking at, "Five Years of R. B. Bennett", is one of the bound volumes of Dale cartoons dealing with the era of Canada's former prime minister. The book was luckily sold out and now is a collector's item. (CP Photo).

Kiwanians Hear Report on Year By President

Belleville Kiwanians yesterday gathered for their last meeting of 1954 and heard president Lawrence Kelly report that, while it had not been a "revolutionary year" for the club, some "remarkably" good work had been accomplished through its service committees.

He pointed out the service the club had rendered through its child health centre on Dundas street and the Y.O.N. and other welfare agencies in the city who depend on the club as some place to meet.

He noted as "outstanding services" the National Kids Day sponsored by the club, the boy scouts and hockey team, which were well supported and promoted.

He stressed the Kiwanis work for underprivileged children and told the members: "You cannot underestimate what your club is doing in the field of underprivileged work."

Financially, the club is in a satisfactory position, Mr. Kelly observed, that unlike previous years, the club in 1954 had not "been dogged by bad luck," while its projects had gone through as planned.

Summing up he reiterated that while it had not been a "flashy or spectacular" year, club members had given a good job of service in the community and "have reflected credit on yourselves as a service club in this community."

President Kelly was introduced by presidential guest Staff Sergeants. The post-luncheon sing-song was led by Vic White and Bud Punchard.

Crown Queen Of Garbage Bowl

MONTREAL (CP)—A winsome 17-year-old brunette is Miss Garbage Bowl of 1955.

Amid the cheers of local residents and Montreal sports fans, Dixie Belfield Tuesday night crowned her regal robes of office—an imitation ermine cloak and corset—and presented her contagious laugh in green and white paper.

Miss Belfield was one of eight local candidates in the sedate Montreal west suburb vying for the title of queen of the annual benefit football game staged by local residents in aid of the Montreal school-for crippled children.

Started as a lark by a couple of teen-aged youngsters in 1950, the New Year's day "bowl" has become an annual classic. Two years ago only a scattering of householders turned out to watch the kids battle for victory on a snow-packed field. There weren't even any goal posts—only a few garbage cans to serve as markers. Now thousands attend the game.

"They have been good to me in Canada. Maybe if I can join one of the services in England they will let me come back again."

Mother, Two Children Sought By Police Dept.

City police have been asked to assist in locating a young Belleville mother and her two small children, who left home early Tuesday morning and have not returned.

The family have no relatives in the city, the nearest family connections being in Quebec, and it is believed by police, the women may have gone to visit relatives there.

Report Franco Meets Don Juan

MADRID (AP) — Generalissimo Franco and Don Juan of Bourbon, pretender to the throne of Spain, met today for talks which may decide the future of the Spanish monarchy, it was learned on good authority.

There was no official confirmation, and government spokesmen maintained their statements of Tuesday that no such meeting was planned.

Private sources with strong monarchist connections said all minor differences between the generalissimo and the pretender have been cleared up. They believed the talks would be a general discussion of Spain's future and the position of the monarchy in this future.

IMMUNITY REMOVED

Tuesday night Parliament voted to remove immunity for Dedijer so that he could be prosecuted, and he was stripped of all offices last week. Djilas, in an interview with the New York Times on December 23rd, argued for a two-party system in Yugoslavia. He also said "the political basis of our system is the essence close to Stalinism."

Dedijer was the only member of the Communist party's central committee to defend Djilas.

Mass Suicide of Lemming Is Legend Rather Than Fact

By WALTER GRAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

FORT CHURCHILL, Man. (CP) A government scientist claims the purported mass suicide of the lemming is legend rather than fact.

Dr. Jacques LeBlanc of Quebec City, a physiologist with the defence research northern laboratory at this Hudson bay military base, said in an interview that studies he has made of the little Arctic rodent lead him to believe the periodical mass death is due to starvation and not the urge to commit self-destruction by marching to the sea.

"No one to our knowledge has actually seen the lemming commit suicide," said Dr. LeBlanc.

Lemmings are kept in the Fort Churchill laboratory in connection with sub-Arctic research problems.

Studies have been made on the rodent's body heat and food transmission in relation to the human being.

At one time the laboratory had on hand 404 lemmings, believed the largest number ever held in captivity. The man responsible for their livelihood is 64-year-old Robert Blair, a former Toronto department store supervisor.

Mr. Blair came to Fort Churchill six years ago and for the last four years has been keeping the laboratory's lemming population alive.

Mr. Blair and a small staff of laboratory personnel travelled 500 miles north to Coral Harbor to collect the first 60 lemmings from the Arctic tundra.

The following year they collected a few more in the local area and from this group grew the large colony. The average life span of the lemming in captivity is 600 days. There are usually three or four in a litter.

"We had lemmings all over the place," said Mr. Blair. "We finally had to get rid of most of them."

Fighters Aided As Wind Drops

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP) Fire fighters aided by diminished winds hoped to gain control today over a blaze that burned nearly 3,000 acres of San Bernardino mountain timberland and menaced the Cajo pass community of Devore Heights.

The fire started Monday. A dozen families who evacuated late that day from the hamlet of Verdemont returned to their homes Tuesday. All the homes were saved.

The U. S. forest service said one ranch home and a guest house in Devore Heights were burned. A few others were scorched.

Approximately 1,200 persons in all were prepared for possible evacuation. But the fire fighters beat the flames back from the settlement.

Winds up to 75 miles an hour whipped the fire Monday but by late Tuesday had died to around 25 miles an hour and may be down to 15 today. Firemen working on 4,500 feet altitude had to contend with below freezing temperatures which caused icing of hoses and nozzles. Extremely low humidity, only eight to 15 per cent, was another hazard.

LIONS AND TIGERS

"Would you sooner be et by a lion or a tiger?"

Surely you have had that question asked you—or have asked it—in the days of your youth?

The new government of India, while not officially taking sides on the relative merits of lions and tigers as animals by which to "be et," has nevertheless pronounced itself an ally of the lion in his war with the tiger.

The Christian Science Monitor explains that India desires to preserve a certain number of lions within its borders and that these lions "have been disappearing at a rate which threatens extinction if the tigers, which are more numerous and said to be more crafty, are left to inhabit the same feeding grounds."

To help save the lions, the New Delhi government is paying men to stalk and kill the tigers.

A little knowledge is said to be a dangerous thing, but there are occasions when it proves to be a wedge in the door leading to a more complete understanding of a subject. Our first reaction on reading the Christian Science Monitor's editorial was amusement, for we considered the habitat of the lion to be Africa, while the tiger lives in Asia.

Consulting the Encyclopedia Americana brought more accurate information. The tiger is, indeed, found only in Asia, but in southern Siberia, Turkestan, Persia, Java, Sumatra, China and Japan as well as in India and Burma.

The lion, on the other hand, has a much wider range. "When men began to hunt in Europe in the Stone Age, they found lions," says the encyclopedia. "Within the time of written history lions dwelt in the mountains of southwestern Europe." The fondness of the Romans for lions soon exhausted the native supply, however, and lions had to be imported from the Caucasus and southward and from northern Africa.

"At the present day few lions exist north of the Soudan and Abyssinia," the encyclopedia says. "A few are left in the recesses of the Atlas mountains; British and Portuguese East Africa and Rhodesia are the chief hunting grounds left, and numerous specimens are in the civilized regions of South Africa. In 1850 the last lion in the vicinity of Cape Town was shot. They no longer exist in Asia Minor but are numerous in the tensive country along the lower Euphrates and Tigris, and thence occur at intervals to the valleys of the Indus, where a few still remain in the wilder deserts of Cutch and Gujerat. Formerly they were known over all northern and western India."

This would suggest that the tiger has already made considerable inroads into the lion population in India. The encyclopedia, however, suggests another reason for the tough time lions have been having since the days of the Roman Empire. Not the cunning of the tiger but the keenness of the lion that is the "royal lions' downfall—that and the failure of the king of beasts to match man in ferocity and deadliness.

"The natural disposition of all animals to get their food as easily as possible has led lions everywhere to prey upon domesticated cattle which, in a region where they are numerous, suffer mightily despoliation," reports the encyclopedia. "Lions thus discovered this comparatively easy method of supplying their wants soon learn that mankind is equally, or even more, readily obtainable and become man-eaters. . . . Beasts so sophisticated must be put out of the way. . . . The incessant persecution to which the lion is subjected whenever a region begins to become civilized has exterminated it over a large part of the former domain of the species."

So it appears only fair-that man, having harried the lion for centuries, should now aid him against his fellow feline, the tiger.

But perhaps let us aid only lions of the simple, artless type; those sophisticated babies deserve the worst the tigers can do to them.

Not, we understand, that we are yet positive that we would sooner be et-by a tiger.

A GOOD PROSPECT FOR DAIRIES

Out in Chicago, folks with nothing better to do are wondering how Premier Mendes-France is going to handle a post-Christmas gift.

As a token of appreciation for the French Premier's championing of the cause of beverage preferable to alcohol in any form, the American Dairy Association will present him with 48 quarts of milk, one quart from each state in the U.S.

The premier Mendes-France had better whet his appetite for milk, muses an Associated Press reporter in Chicago.

He can stop worrying.

If ever there was a likely candidate for a milk diet, it is the present premier of France. If his ulcers are not acting up, he must have a stomach of iron.

OLD HAT

This is not a common hat,
Though it's older than are most.
Since I first appeared with that
It has cost a pretty penny.

Those has left its ribbon frayed,
Everywhere that I have wrecked it,
But with cash for it I've paid
And it's mine, I have checked it.

When it first was new and nice,
Even with a box to hold it,

Fifteen dollars was the price,
Said the smiling clerk who sold it.

Though it's shabby now and flat,
If you should be interested,
Let me tell you in that hat
Ten times more have I invested.

Just to hang it on a rack,
Though it's old and weather-
beaten,
I have to buy it back,
Everywhere that I have eaten.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

December 29, 1934.

Mr. Earl W. VanBlaricom, K.C., M.L.A., a former Belleville boy and a former student at Albert College, has just been elected mayor of Estevan, Sask., where has been engaged in the practice of law for several years. He was elected by acclamation which is a tribute to his worth as public spirit. He is also prominent in Masonic circles and educational affairs. Mr. Van Blaricom is a son of the late William VanBlaricom of Sidney township and has taught school in the township for several years.

The city firemen delivered 200 baskets of food and Christmas treats to needy families in the city the day before Christmas. The baskets were made through their own donations and donations from citizens. A large number of discarded toys were repaired and painted and enclosed in the baskets for the children.

Mr. Fred Burrows is home from Toronto to spend the Christmas vacation.

Mr. Raymond Ross, student at Queen's University, Kingston, is spending the Christmas vacation at his home here.

Miss Retta Anderson, student at Queen's University, is spending the Christmas vacation at her home here.

Mr. Harold Moloney is spending today in Toronto on business.

Mr. James S. Johnson, an old Belleville boy, was in town today en route to his home in Boston after spending Christmas with relatives in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hick, Elmer St., observed the 50th anniversary of their wedding on December 24th, and received the congratulations and good wishes of their friends. They were married in St. John's Anglican Church, which stood at that time at the north east corner of Bridge and Isabel Streets, by the Rev. Canon Sargent. Both Mr. and Mrs. Hick were born in this city and have always resided here. Mrs. Hick was the former Miss Janet Nicholson. Mr. and Mrs. Hick have two daughters, Mrs. R. INSPIRING PROMISE

"Now faith is the giving sub-is alive and is capable, under conditions, of vast growth. This was our Lord's way of saying ::Start to live the faith you have; you will be amazed at the prodigious results which will follow."

In the act of faith, God and man become co-creators. It is a solemn and arresting fact that we, as weak, and faltering people can actually become partners with the living God. But the Bible declares that this is true. We can have within us a God-giving power which the Bible calls faith, and when we have this, then we are able to give substance to the things we have hoped and dreamed and longed for.

"Ask and it shall be given to you." This is a promise.

Lady Luck Calls Shots

("Public Safety" Magazine, Chicago, Ill.)

Lady Luck called the shots as she plunged in reeling off 1954's crop of odd accidents.

With her blessing, it was child's play for a pilot overboard in the stormy Atlantic or to fall off a high fire escape.

But caught in the wrong mood, she made hash of such things as sitting in a swivel chair or sticking the nose through a fence knothole.

Judy Combs, four, of Cincinnati, broke the family speed record for getting from the fourth to the second floor. She rolled off a fire escape, fell 30 feet, landed on a network of clotheslines and gently bounced back to the lower fire escape where she was unhurt and unruffled.

And the lucky were Lars Sele and Audun Jense, crew members on the Norwegian freighter Magnhild. They were washed overboard during a storm on the Atlantic only to be scooped aboard when the vessel dipped deep down into the swell.

But Peter Pan, seven, eleven, of Chicago, still runs the impulse that made him stick his nose through a knothole in a fence, just for the heck of it. An inquisitive dog, trying to get on the other side, sprang up and gave him a nasty nip on the nose.

In Korea, American Cpl. Gib Landell became the unwitting victim of a booby trap. He threw his back out of joint and had to be evacuated to a hospital.

The first rung of the ladder became the undoing of Morgan Wallace, circus daredevil who made his living by climbing up and out a scratch. He fell 18 inches at his home in Pueblo, Col., sprained his ankle. But his pride, the noblest fall of the year. He tumbled in front of visitors during dress rehearsal freely.

Dick Sergi, Chicago lawyer, of the Chicago police, was convinced the swivel chair is not the safest place to sit. He was right. He slipped during a quick turn-around during a social call. He got so hard he had to go to the hospital for cuts and bruises.

Edward Rudolph, of Philadelphia, got four blowouts during a 4,000-mile trip. But his luck was straight down. His car ripped through a guard rail on a bridge over the Delaware River, turned a somersault and landed wheels down on a railroad siding sixty feet below.

Ancient Court Sits Again

(Montreal Gazette)

The Earl Marshal of England, the Duke of Norfolk, strode into a London court last week clad in his forbears' full dress of purple ie, gold bradded blue trousers and cocked hat with white plumes. In similar costume, he was followed by Rouge Dragon Pursuivant, Rouge Croix Pursuivant, Lancaster Herald, Arundel Herald Extraordinary, Garter King of Arms, Norroy King of Arms and Clarenceux King of Arms.

The ancient court of chivalry, which had not met since some time in 1737, was to decide the case of the City of Manchester versus Manchester Corporation, over its coat of arms.

Although this court representing the College of Arms, which grants and certifies coats of arms and pedigrees, is medieval in its regulation, was to decide the case, its decisions are recognized by Lord Goddard, Chief Justice of Britain.

When the court last met, 217 years ago, such assistance was not required. The Earl Marshal had his own prisons and could render judgment himself. As the letters patent creating the court by King Charles II in 1672, were read and ancient regulations under which decision was made were outlined in their original Norman French, Lord Goddard was shocked to realize that the court's authority to punish for contempt had never been repealed.

"You would not suggest at this time that I should pass sentence of this court could be enforced by imprisonment?" he asked. The Manchester lawyer said he saw no reason why it shouldn't be.

But the court's authority was not required, however. The theatre which Manchester wished to accept the court's verdict. The verdict was that the theatre should no longer carry the coat of arms of the Corporation of Manchester on its curtain.

Chivalry was satisfied. It had won its case with the aid of a submission by John H. Gaunt in 1385. This fitted the pattern very well, because the theatre has been using Manchester's civic arms since its opening, since 1839. Considering the background, the case came to court very promptly.

Got All Toys He Could Take

(St. John, N.B., Telegraph-Journal)

Five minutes in a toy department store and everything his that he could carry out of the store in that period!

That was the wonderful opportunity awarded a 14-year-old Baltimore boy as the winner of an art contest sponsored by a toy manufacturer.

How did he make out?

Well, Frank Della Nocce managed to transport prizes worth $393 to the designated spot outside the store. First was $70 bicycle, and in four more trips such articles as a $70 train set, a $40 doll for his sister and a $40 building set.

The second prize winner, Darlynn Reindl, limited to four minutes, made off with $314 worth of toys. Third Diamant, aged 12, probably profiling by the experience of the first two, managed to pile up the best per minute average in loot with $333 worth in his three-minute period.

One Road To Discipline

(Windsor Star)

Classroom discipline is a desirable goal. Teachers are easily disturbed by a smarty-pants pupil and sometime beyond enforcement by one otherwise good teacher. But there is a way to obtain discipline," if educators can face the price.

This was demonstrated the other day in Windsor, where a teacher was called out of her room, and foresighted pupils left to their own toughest pupil to keep order. She returned to find the unaccustomed quiet and the toughest pupil was covering the class with a loaded revolver, and threatening to shoot any pupil who made a sound, through a mouth.

But there it is. This disciplinary stimulus could make an excellent subject for discussion at tail teachers' conventions, and at those Easter gatherings of trustees, but we suspect it won't. Trustees like to be re-elected, too, especially by acclamation.

Peace Price Proves High

(Ottawa Journal)

In the United States on Saturday they launched what is described as "the largest, safest and quite possibly the heaviest warship ever built," the 60,000-ton super-carrier, and they christened her the Forrestal (named after the late American wartime defence secretary who took his own life.)

The Forrestal may not be the biggest warship ever built, but she's the biggest. Her new flight deck alone is almost four acres; she is 18 feet longer than the Queen Mary and five feet longer than the Queen Elizabeth; her engines will be capable of 252-feet; her height from keel to top of mast the equivalent of a skyscraper 20 floors high and carry 90 planes.

The Forrestal cost $200,000,000.

Peace comes high. And what is disturbing is that coming as it does, only one such monster we have just had so distinguished an authority as Field Marshal Montgomery opine that the aircraft carrier is obsolete.

It is disturbing also at that on the very day we read of this great launching we also read in another item read that Russia has just constructed a string of 50 forts right across the Baltic coast from which a murderous barrage of anti-aircraft missiles can be launched against the West at the rate of one every 60 seconds—at least 40 missiles per minute platform.

"As some of the bases have up to 50 launching platforms each," says the report, "the theoretical capacity of these bases would be enormous."

Thus it goes. One day we read about an awesome U.S. ship like the Forrestal, or of another new and deadly type of U.S. hydrogen bomb, the next day we come upon word of these Russian new and deadly ones or Russia having bigger and better bombs, too.

Yet some people among us, or at least not far from us, talk about war with Russia and they might talk about war with Haiti or Dr. Barbados.

Actually we'll be lucky if we don't get destroyed in the mere process of trying to keep peace.

Explanation!

(St. Catharines Standard)

Then there is the story of the schoolmaster who asked the class what made the blood run in, he said. If he stood on his head, why it did not run to his feet when he stood on his feet. And the answer came quickly. "Please, sir, because your feet ain't empty."

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

GROWING PAINS

Florida lady writes: One of the most vivid memories of my early childhood is of the many times I cried myself to sleep while my mother rubbed my aching legs with witch hazel. Then a doctor said it was just growing pains and there was no treatment.

Dr. Brady

Well I have long since stopped growing but I still have the pains almost nightly . . . (Mrs. E. M.)

If it hurts to grow the doctors were right about it.

But so many kids today grow fast and tall without pain—except on special occasions when school interfers with one's plans—that we can't help thinking the diagnosis of "growing pains" is phoney, a convenient way for a doctor to cover his incompetence.

When Topsy was a colt a few physicians who dared to think for themselves voiced the opinion that so-called "growing pains" were perhaps premonitory of rheumatic fever. This gave the "rheumatic fever" idea and the medical profession continued to brush off "growing pains" as a meaningless term which there was no treatment, although recognized medical authorities at the end of this century maintained that "there is no doubt that 'growing pains' occur in healthy children, quite independently of rheumatism; but any complaint of growing pains should lead to careful investigation of the patient's history, and of the condition of his heart." A family history of past personal history of rheumatism or chorea (St. Vitus' dance) will often be made out; and not rarely evidence of harm to the heart will lead to the discovery of valvular disease."

Frankly, the statement, quoted from French's Index of Differential Diagnosis, 3rd ed., 1917, seems an attempt to make a factual case of it. In fact I'd say the theory that "growing pains" are related to rheumatic fever is nearly as far-fetched as the notion that such aches or pains are due to growing.

Much more plausible, in my judgment — and you folks know me well enough — is the theory that "growing pains" are a manifestation of calcium and D deficiency. The complaint is literary, and the diagnosis is an optimal daily intake of calcium and vitamin D. Not enough calcium. Good or. If the regular diet does not provide an adequate amount of calcium, it should be supplemented with the essential elements in concentrated form.

I forget how many Frenchmen can't be wrong, but a great many letters from mothers have encouraged me to believe my theory of the nature and prevention of "growing pains" is right.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Fidgety men are found to be far less prone to hypertension and heart failure than the calm, controlled type. A fidgety man is always moving, restless, exercising a thousand trivial actions.

Women are far less prone to heart trouble than men, and the supposition is that even the fussiest most pampered ornament of a woman is normally more active than the average man all day long. Whereas the men whose hearts fail, most of the business and executive world, except for spasmodic outbursts of golf or some other seasonal hobby, sit at desks most of their lives, getting not a fraction of the physical movement, that, for thousands of years was the basis upon which nature did its calculations for the design of the heart. In other words, desk work causes heart disease as needed. They are overengined.What would happen if you left your car engine idling all the time, and never drove the car?

Nature will require another thousand years or so to re-design the human heart to the needs of sedentary man. When a baby boy is born, how does nature know that he is going to be a lumberjer, a garage mechanic, or a bus driver, with all his muscles, large and small, all day; or a lodger keeper, order clerk or wireless operator, with his muscles, big and small, all day? Nature, in her wisdom, has endowed us with the telephone, which, when not in use hangs them all out of the same heart. Model 1,5,000 B.C. But when a little girl is born nature is completely at ease. She knows that she will grow up, that she will be on the go all day, dusting, vacuuming, cooking, twiddling, fiddling, tippy-toeing, jumping up, sitting down, looking out the window, talking on the radio, combing her hair, putting on lipstick, changing shoes, answering the door, running errands, running down, cuddling the telephone, posturing, gesturing, rich or poor, young or old. And the 5,000 B.C. model is just as good today as ever.

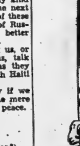
By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

CURATIVE POWER WITHIN

Each one of us may well become our own physician. The late Dr. John Harvey Kellogg, who made the Battle Creek Sanitarium famous, once said this: "The power in which we must have faith if we would be well, is the curative and restorative power which exists in every living thing."

There are fears, regrets, and resentments people harbor in their minds that are like the termites that eat into homes and eventually cause great destruction. We have it in ourselves to conquer these fears, regrets and resentments. The most valuable remedy for nervousness is a quiet and untroubled mind.



Have you ever seen a picture showing the intricate nervous system of the human body? What a thing of God it is. No wonder there is serious trouble when these nerves are abused. Be kind to them and they will be kind to you.

The power of the human mind over the body is recognized by but a very few. Many of the ills of mankind have their origin in the mind. It is a natural thing, not just something you've got to learn a method for. Our thoughts influence everything we do and they, in turn, are influenced by all that we are and experience. We hardly tap our potentialities. We drive ourselves do some people rise to the full height of their inherited powers.

Shakespeare put a world of meaning in these lines from his play Julius Caesar: "The fault, dear Brutus, is not in our stars, but in ourselves that we are underlings." How do any of us know either our power or influence until we are tested to the test? Many years ago a Frenchman by the name of Coue came to America, after having gained great fame at home merely by suggesting that everyone repeat a dozen times a day this line: "I am a healthy happy human being" It's still a good idea.

Budget Spending Will Continue At 10-Year High

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — The government's budget spending for 1955-56 likely will continue at its present high of about $4,500,000,000—virtually unchanged from the current year.

Treasury men are nearly finished compiling the annual book of estimates and it appears likely it will be ready for tabling in Parliament in late January.

Finance Minister Harris, preparing to present his first budget, is reported to be exerting pressure on various department heads to chop to the bone estimated financial requirements for the next fiscal year.

But as many of the government's annual expenditures are "frozen"—in the sense they either are written into law or that the government is committed to them by policy or long-term agreement—that there actually is not much room in which savings can be made.

WOULD NEED CHANGE

Frozen expenditures include those difficult to reduce without a major change in government policy—family allowances, pensions, payments to provinces, civil service and military pay and interest charges on the federal debt.

Mr. Harris is not expected to bring down his budget until the end of the first week either a week before or a week after March 31.

How the finance minister will spread any tax revisions is also undecided. Business men have urged him to reduce corporation income taxes and there are no close taxes on various commodities, particularly automobiles.

There are indications Mr. Harris will report a deficit of about $100,000,000, the first in four years. Experts feel such a deficit should not cause much concern compared with a budget of $4,500,000,000.

Cyrus Eaton Will Open Home To Leading Scholars

LAC BEAUPORT, Que. (CP)—Cyrus Eaton, Cleveland, Ohio, industrialist whose financial interests span widely separated points, is going to open his Pugwash, N.S., farm residence to leading United States, Canadian and British scholars starting next summer.

Mr. Eaton, here with four of his grandchildren for some skiing in his resort town 15 miles north of Quebec City, made the announcement at a chalet in the Laurentian hills.

The 71-year-old financier said in an interview he has asked universities from the universities of McGill in Montreal, and Princeton, Harvard and Columbia in the United States to form a committee to pick candidates to visit his estate.

Scholars in science, business, government, and history are to be invited with their families for periods of "relaxation and recreation" Mr. Eaton said.

NOT A SEMINAR

Pugwash is the town where Mr. Eaton was born and raised.

He frowned on any description of his plan as a seminar.

"It will be more along the lines of a get-together of leading thinkers in a variety of fields," he said.

There is to be no work, no study program, no stands to take and no report to draw up on these informal meetings.

By pooling their knowledge and experience in an atmosphere of relaxation, Mr. Eaton believes, scholars might go back to work with fresh ideas on some of the problems faced by mankind.

Mr. Eaton will call in periodically. Members of his family will also visit the farm during the informal meetings.

Cigaret Smoking Showed Increase

MONTREAL (CP) — A tobacco company spokesman said today cigaret smoking increased in Canada this year.

He was commenting on a New York report that Americans smoked 4.8 per cent fewer cigarets this year due to the "health scare associated with cigaret smoking."

The Canadian spokesman said federal government figures indicated that cigaret production was up five per cent in the first nine months of this year. Cigaret production now was running at the rate of 20,000,000,000 a year.

He added that "to a degree" filter-tip cigarets have become more popular during a time when some medical authorities link cigarets with lung cancer. He said he believes Canadian opinion does not "swing" as quickly as that of the United States.

Professional Register Will Be Set Up for Teachers

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation will set up a professional register to keep professional standards high.

Delegates to the federations' annual meeting Tuesday unanimously approved the measure, which would indicate professional acceptance of a teacher by his colleagues.

The move was interpreted as an attempt by the teachers to police professional standards. At present, only the department of education can deny a teacher a certificate. Other professions can deny a graduate membership.

It was decided the register will be governed by a council of seven to nine teachers. All teachers in good standing in the OSSTF for at least three years will be included in the register.

A provisional certificate would be awarded to those not entering the profession, to be made permanent after three years of good standing.

In another development, the education committee of the federation said it plans to institute a refresher course in Grade 13 science next summer.

The course will be designed to help non-specialists called upon in smaller schools to teach the subject. The institute will pay for the course.

The committee also was instructed to distribute typical examination papers for senior grades to all teachers. This is an attempt to maintain a standard of achievement in academic subjects throughout the province.

47 Persons Killed So Far This Year While Hunting

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Wild life and human beings were killed in average numbers during the fall and early winter hunting season in Canada.

Provincial authorities still are compiling reports on the season which continues to early 1955 in some parts of the Dominion, but Canadian Press survey indicates a normal bag of animals and birds and only slightly fewer human fatalities than in 1953.

Incomplete figures from fish and game departments, police and newspaper reports show 47 persons killed so far this season. This compare with more complete figures of 70 for the 1953 year and the total is certain to mount when the final reckoning is made.

MOSTLY UNCHANGED

Most provinces still are awaiting word from game wardens and other officials on the success of this season, but preliminary surveys indicate the 1954 game bag was little changed from 1953, although Quebec and Saskatchewan report better hunting.

In Quebec, where 90,879 hunting licences were issued in 1954 compared with 82,947 last year, more game was shot, although final figures are not available. It is estimated that 1,200 moose were killed.

The deer bag was heavy, too, with many poachers operating. Some 350 persons were arrested for violations of the game laws.

Ontario lands and forests officials have not yet completed their survey but say reports indicate that hunters had the success expected to be gross. In 1953 there were 250,000 gun licences and 90,000 deer and 3,000 moose hunting permits issued. This year's figures are expected to be slightly higher.

Colder Weather Ends Flood Fears In Toronto Area

TORONTO (CP) — Residents in Toronto suburban areas, keeping an eye Tuesday night on water levels, can relax. The wet weather has gone.

Intermittent rainfalls in the last three days had swollen rivers in Scarborough and Woodbridge close to the danger mark.

Late Tuesday night 16 families, marooned since two makeshift footbridges were swept away by rising water Monday, were preparing to evacuate.

Residents had to make a four-mile detour to get to the nearest shopping centre. Milk was being lowered down a 100-foot cliff and residents said if a temporary bridge isn't built by today other supplies will have to be delivered that way.

COOL AIR HELPS

However, the weatherman says it's going to be warmer and colder today and even colder Wednesday, which removes the threat of floods.

Fog brought traffic almost to a standstill Tuesday in some parts of southern Ontario, but the outlook today is cloudy with some sunny intervals. Visibility in some areas was reduced to zero, but there were few accidents.

Above-freezing temperatures saved highways from becoming treacherous when the rain ended in central parts of the province.

ROADS FLOODED

Floods were reported on No. 97 highway three miles west of Galt where three inches of water covered a 100-yard stretch of road. A 200-foot stretch of No. 47 highway was covered with two inches of water between Uxbridge and Goodwood.

Traffic was detoured at nearby Oak Ridges, the combination of fog, rain and melting snow brought floods to No. 8 highway.

Two Meet Death As Cars Collide In Heavy Snow

STURGEON FALLS (CP)—Two persons were killed Tuesday when their automobiles crashed head-on 14 miles from here while heavy snow was falling and visibility was poor.

Killed were Maureen Williams, 22, of Cache, Bay, a nurse at St. Joseph's Hospital, Sudbury, and Larry Belanger, 19, of Cache Bay.

Both were passengers in a car driven by Simmons, 19, of Cache Bay. Simmons was taken to hospital here with undetermined injuries. His condition was reported fair.

GUELPH COUPLE HURT

The second car was driven by Robert Harold Carr, 30, of Guelph. He suffered a fractured arm and shoulder injuries. Mrs. Ida M. Carr, 24, received a gashed forehead, facial lacerations and shock and remained injuries. Both are in hospital here in fair condition.

Investigating officer Const. Jean Lacroix said the rear of a third car as it swerved around. Provincial police said Mrs. Ida Moreau of North Bay and her 18-year-old son, escaped injury.

Police said Mrs. Moreau was travelling toward Sudbury, following a transport truck. Simmons' car pulled up beside her to pass when the Carr automobile appeared in the snow swerving behind the transport and they crashed.

Hunting Accident Toll Reduced In Past Season

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Safety campaigns and special legislation may be gaining ground in the bid to reduce the toll of human life the hunting season takes in Canada each year.

Guns are still booming in Newfoundland where the season has not yet ended and reports from other provinces are incomplete, but Canadian Press survey indicates 1954 may have been a slightly safer year in the woods than 1953, although last year's total was low in fatalities.

12 IN ONTARIO

Saskatchewan reporting its worst year on record, counted 14 dead and 34 injured in hunting accidents, far above the 1953 figure of two dead and nine injured. Ontario, with 12 deaths reported compared with 20 in 1953, was the only other province with a double-figure toll.

Figures from other provinces, with the 1953 total in brackets, were: Manitoba 6 (9); P.E.I. 0 (0); Nova Scotia 5 (6); New Brunswick 3 (4); Quebec 7 (10); Manitoba 0 (0); British Columbia 5 (10).

Alberta, where there were five deaths last year, has not yet compiled figures but Provincial game commissioner said there have been few accidents compared with other years.

Child Died Of Pneumonia Says Report

NORTH AUGUSTA, Ont. (CP)—Pneumonia and not malnutrition caused the death of a baby girl here Christmas night, it was reported Tuesday night.

Crown attorney Harworth Alkinson of Brockville said the undersized premature developed a lingering cold, brought about the death of Donna Marie Bell and contributed to the death of her 26-months-old brother, Paul. The child was taken to hospital Sunday and died Tuesday.

Origin of reports that the babies died from malnutrition couldn't be traced Tuesday and an autopsy on Donna showed no evidence to that effect.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Elliott, who have a farm near this village 13 miles northeast of Brockville, have six other children ranging from four to 13 years. Mr. Elliott is a transport driver.

Mrs. Jean Hutt, a neighbor, said Elliott made good use of his job and a system she had seen the family returning from "they'd have bags bulging with groceries."

J. M. Beavens, Children's Aid Society superintendent in Brockville, said one of the society's representatives visited the Elliott family when called by police.

They found the children in children in satisfactory physical condition. When deaths occur in the hours of admittance to hospital, the law requires police to be informed.

McCarthy Seeks Chance to Mold Foreign Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Joseph McCarthy is seeking a seat on the senate foreign relations committee in the hope of influencing Eisenhower administration policies in Asia which he regards as "disastrous."

A position on the committee would give the Wisconsin Republican a new forum in which to argue for tougher measures against Communist China than the Republican administration has thus far been willing to adopt.

No Republican vacancy on the foreign relations committee is in prospect, and McCarthy concedes his chances of winning a seat are slim. But he says that to attain one he is willing to give up his place on the coveted appropriations committee.

McCarthy said he will argue in public speeches for drastic steps—up to a naval blockade of the China coast to force Red China to release imprisoned United States servicemen.

BLOCKADE REJECTED

He said he believes an administration policy denying aid to any allied power engaging in commerce with China would force them to join the United States in a crippling economic blockade of the Reds.

Eisenhower has said a naval blockade would be an act of war, and has defended free-world trade in non-strategic goods with Red China by saying that if carefully controlled it is to the West's advantage.

LENINGRAD SYMPATHETIC

LONDON (AP)—Moscow radio Tuesday night said a Leningrad official has written the mayor of Hiroshima in response to what was called an appeal from that city's people "for prohibition of nuclear weapons. The letter, sent by the chairman of the executive committee of the Leningrad city soviet, said: "All inhabitants of Leningrad fully share and support your noble strivings and the strivings of all inhabitants of Hiroshima to achieve prohibition of the use of atomic and hydrogen weapons."

STONE TOSSERS FINED

STOKE-ON-TRENT, Eng. (CP)—Dominic Atoto, a 28-year-old Africa can, and Guiseppe Montarsi, a 23-year-old Italian, were fined Tuesday for injuring a girl while they were throwing stones at each other in the street.

Red Lands Boost Steel Production

NEW YORK (AP) — The Free World's advantage in steel production over Commist-dominated lands slipped in 1954 from its present lead to 4 to 1 to only 3 to 1, Iron Age, the national metalworking weekly, says.

Impressive gains in steel production by countries behind the Iron Curtain combined with a decline in output by the Free World are shown in a special world steel production study completed by the magazine.

The Soviet bloc produced 7.7 per cent more steel this year than in 1953 while output in the Free World sank nine per cent below the 1953 record, according to the study.

Says Democracy Develops Morbid Yen for Normal

TORONTO (CP)—Rev. R. S. K. Seeley says democracy has developed a morbid fascination for the normal.

Dr. Seeley, provost of Trinity College of the University of Toronto, said Tuesday night people become suspicious of persons with unusual thoughts.

He told the annual meeting of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation that people feel safer with those who will accept the current second-hand opinions and base their thinking on the regular literature which everyone is reading.

"We feel uncomfortable with the person whose house is of an unconventional architecture or whose furnishings show undue individuality.

LIVES STANDARDIZED

"The independent thinker is quickly labelled as subversive and standardization rules the pattern of our lives."

Dr. Seeley said democracy has brought innumerable benefits but that one result of the concept of equality of opportunity is that "we tend to think it is undemocratic to show any signs of differentiation from our neighbor."

"Having come to birth to the idea of freedom, we look with disfavor on those who dare to be free. We have turned equality of opportunity into the idea that no man must rise above the stature of his fellow men and we cultivate a desire to see written on our tombstone: 'He was just an ordinary guy.'"

Sixty Ontario Students Spend Week in Quebec

QUEBEC (CP)—Some 60 Ontario prep school and high school students are spending a week in Quebec sliding, skating and poring the sights.

The students are on a trip sponsored by Visites Interprovinciales, an organization backed by the Ontario and Quebec governments to promote student exchanges between the provinces. It is the first time a winter trip has been tried.

Mrs. Marguerite Cassels, Ontario secretary of the organization, and Robin Woods, prep-school master at Upper Canada College, Toronto, are in charge of the party. The students, aged 13-18, come from Upper Canada, St. Andrew's College in Toronto, and other schools in Pickering, Owen Sound, Oshawa and Kingston.

PAID $90

They each paid $90. Mrs. Cassels said in a telephone interview. About 15 of them are staying in private homes in Quebec while the others have taken over a ski resort at nearby Notre Dames des Laurentides.

They are scheduled to visit Quebec today for lunch tomorrow at the Chateau Frontenac slide, have dinner, and see a show. Ten of the Ontario students are French-speaking and Ontario schools. They leave Saturday for home.

Visites Inter - Provinciales, started in 1950, sponsors similar student exchanges at Easter and during the summer. The winter trip so far looks so popular it probably will be continued, Mrs. Cassels said. She hoped Quebec students will be able to make a winter visit to Ontario.

Colombo Power Premiers Invite China to Meet

JAKARTA, Indonesia (Reuters) The five "Colombo power" premiers meeting here have decided to invite Communist China to a conference of African and Asian leaders to be held in Bandung, a delegation source at the Asian leaders' meeting said.

The premiers, representing India, Pakistan, Burma, Ceylon and Indonesia, decided Tuesday to call the Afro-Asian meeting here in April. One of the biggest problems facing them then was whether to invite Communist China. The danger was that an invitation to the Communist regime might exclude many of the countries originally invited as possibilities for invitations.

The five Asian leaders today began work on the agenda they expected to give prominence to the problem of colonialism.

Other subjects on the agenda likely will be "moves to lessen World tension" in relation to cold war and development of economic and cultural ties between Africa and Asia.

Executive secretary Harry J. Talmage said the board still has pending an additional 374 claims seeking total reimbursements of $3,525,446.

Wight, and what secrets they were! The winners each received a Christmas corsage. These ladies on the panel were all celebrating their wedding anniversaries.

A special cake was made by Mrs. Young for the occasion. Then came a big surprise, a rap on the door, and old Santa Claus himself was there. Wight, and what fellow came in and distributed the gifts that were piled on and around the big Christmas tree.

Christmas Banquet and Pageant Greatly Enjoyed at Albert College

(Contributed)

Amongst the many and varied social activities sponsored by the Albert College Conservatory of Music, the Alumni Students' Council and the Drama Society in conjunction with the official standing committees, none quite surpassed the traditional Christmas banquet and pageant of the Nativity of Christ.

This year's banquet was held as usual in Ackerman Hall under the general convenorship of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene C. Irvine, assisted by a capable committee composed of Mr. Douglas E. Hoare, Miss Lois Harpell, and Mrs. Ann McInally.

The hall was attractively decorated in the traditional Christmas motif with original variations here and there. Two beautiful decorated trees were placed in prominent locations and could be viewed from every angle of vision. The tables were decorated in a white, red and green scheme with evergreen boughs in the centre forming attractive receptacles for fruit, nuts, and confectionery; the whole being enhanced by the glow of lighted tapers placed at strategic intervals.

MANY GUESTS

Among the guests seated at the head table were Rev. Andrew E. MacKenzie and Mrs. MacKenzie, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Ackerman, Hodge and Mrs. J. C. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Finkle, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Elliott, Mr. Lorne Wallace and Miss Jessie Tulle, Miss Madeline Young, Mrs. Ralph Morden, Mrs. Barnett Taylor, Dr. and Mrs. Thos. C. McMullen, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Simpson, Mr. and Mrs. Carman Irwin, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Morrison, Mr. and Mrs. T. K. Franklin, Mr. Joseph MacKay, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Irwin, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Kellett, Mr. D. E. Hoare, Miss Lois Harpell, Mr. W. A. Beach, Miss Loretta McDougall, Mr. John Mackenzie, Mrs. Jessie Gillis, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Jan Geneja, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Hudgins, Mrs. Ola Sharpe and Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Irvine.

Several children attended the banquet and were seated with their respective parents at the head table. The most junior guest was Barbara Dee Kellett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Kellett. This winsome Miss viewed the proceedings from a special throne —her highchair and contributed a few gracious remarks in regard to the headmaster's introduction.

CHEF HONORED

A feature of the evening was the boar's head procession led by Mr. J. H. Mackay and a male choir. Later in the program Robert Fleck, president of the Students' Council, made a presentation to the college chef, Hugh Brown, in recognition of his loyal service and culinary accomplishments.

Following the banquet the students' body, faculty and guests retired to the chapel where the pageant depicting the nativity of Christ was presented. The story, adhering faithfully to the Biblical narrative, was adapted some years ago by the then professor of elocution, Miss Jessie Tulle. The pageant is now under the direction of Mr. C. M. Irwin, who has added several notable changes without detracting from the original theme.

CHRISTMAS PAGEANT

The pageant presented by Albert College follows the well-known pattern of our Lord's birth; the shepherds, the wisemen, angels and Herod's court. The singing of carols and other Christmas music is interspersed at well-chosen junctures, enhancing the story by sheer imaginative suggestion. One rather beautifully performed feature in a program of charming sequences was that of the massed choir, gowned in blue robes and carrying lighted tapers. The effect created was one of heightened reverence. At one other point, as if to climax the age-old story, Miss Phyllis May gave a professional rendition of "Little Baby Jesus," a novel Christmas lyric written by a former Albert student, Barbara Clarke, with vocal arrangement by Mr. Irwin.

Another of the highlights was that of the singing of the popular classical hymn "O Holy Night" by Adolphe Adam. This delightful composition which lends itself admirably to the duet form of expression was sung by Miss Loretta McDougall and Mr. Joseph H. Mackay. Miss McDougall is deserving of high praise for her particularly fine rendition of the soprano part, which demanded perfect accommodation to the leading voice.

CAST OF PAGEANT

Heading the cast comprising the pageant and in order of appearance was Sandra Yanovey, as the Virgin Mary, Miss Yanovey interpreted both faithfully and reverently, a most difficult role.

Kenneth Pew assumed the part of Joseph, whilst N. A. Beach displayed rare histrionic talent in his portrayal of King Herod.

The supporting players were James Finley, William Perry, Eric Watson and James Earle as the bewildered but faithful shepherds. Paul Leman was the shepherd boy. The angelic theme was represented by Mildred Frost, Judy Hoag, Diane Grey, Meredith Mercan, Ellen Henderson and Elizabeth Beggs. The nine wise men selected from the theological class, Bob Peebles, David Gourlay and Bob Mellroy.

Others in the production included Gary Franklin and Bill Bucher as the prophets; Bobby Franklin, Joan MacKenzie and Donald MacKenzie as minor roles. The guards in Herod's court attained a degree of perfection in bringing to life a most realistic scene. Bob Fleck, Dave Scott and Peter Miller deserved the praise bestowed upon them.

The beauty of the pageant was further enhanced by the violin duets played by Barnett Taylor and his son, Raymond. Mr. Douglas Hoare was the organist and Ronald Purser, pianist.

A voluntary offering resulted in a goodly sum which is to be given to several approved charities.

The pageant closed with the benediction by the Rev. A. E. MacKenzie.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

MAYBE YOUR BOY FRIEND CAN HELP

Dear Miss Fairfax:

During my senior year at school, I went out with a boy who gave me a ring last Christmas. His mother was very much opposed to this, and did everything possible to make us stop seeing each other, so finally we broke up. After graduation from school, he entered college to study for the ministry, but later quit and joined the service.

About a week ago, I received a letter from him, telling me that he would like to start all over again. I would like this, too, but my father forbids me to write to this boy, because he thinks his mother would do the same thing all over again and he doesn't want me to be hurt again. I know he is only thinking of my own good, but how can I make him understand how I feel?

I am 18 years old. — H.P.

Dear H.P.: I suggest that you answer this boy's letter, tell him exactly how your father feels, and ask him if he will write to your father himself and seek his permission to resume your friendship. This young man is certainly old enough to make up his own mind what he wants to do, regardless of how his mother feels, and to work out his own problems. If he is not mature enough to talk such a stand, being considerate and respectful toward his mother while blindly insisting on his right to choose his own girl friends, then he is not worth a girl's serious attention.

So explain to your father that you are writing this boy to let him know your father objects to your friendship and then include in your letter the suggestion I have made and see what comes of it.

Beauty

By HELEN JIMIESON

"WEATHER-PROOFING" THE COMPLEXION

Keeping the complexion in top form, fine of texture, of pleasing color and soft, smooth surface is a year-around occupation with no time off. Each season brings its special hazards. If the good old summer season ails must be protected from blazing sunlight. When the "North wind doth blow and we shall have snow!" there is danger of chapping, coditions that cannot be camouflaged, however, by clever make-up.

If the skin is exceptionally dry, it may be a wise plan to change the soap one is using. All high grade soaps are bland nowadays, but one may suit your complexion better than another is a sensitive skin. Never have a soapy face washed just before expsure to cold winds or directly after coming into the house on a wintry day. Use a cream instead.

Overheated buses, shops and offices, with not enough moisture in the air, will often change the character of the complexion, causing the skin to become rough and unlovely. So that before-the-time beauty ritual must not be hurried.

Remove all make-up with a cleansing oil. Tissue it away and apply more. Then go full-steam ahead with your soapy washing, first with a wash cloth, then with friction wi your finger tips. Rise with warm water. Fold the towel around your hands and pat upward, slaging the flesh to stimulate the circulation.

More cream is necessary. Press it into thereot first; necks are usually neglected and, too often, the first evidence of birthdays appears there. In the morning dash on cold water.

Foundation cosmetics help to weatherproof the skin. Powders with anolly base are also helpful if the gin is inclined to be acid.

Dinner News for New Year's

By Mary Moore

What does the butcher buy, that's half so precious as the goods he sells? Turkey for Christm a and then ham or maybe roast beef or even a duck for New Years. Such wonderful meats they have ready for us to choose from.

My friend Muriel, who entertains on a lavish scale, says "Turkey is fine and everybody expects it, but when it comes to something to slice and slice and slice for a crowd, give me a ham every time. You are never afraid it is going to peter out before everybody is served."

That is why I've chosen ham for the New Years dinner I've been laboring over—it will stretch for any of those extra guests you invite—who live alone or are away from home.

Soup as filling as Oyster Bisque will not be included in the Moore New Years dinner menu, but we might have Oyster Bisque for New Y ar's Eve supper. However I know hosts who feel that a festive dinner is lacking something if soup is not on the menu, so I'll give you the recipe and you can serve it when and if you like.

NEW YEARS DINNER MENU

Oyster Bisque
Baked Ham with Pineapple
Candied Sweets
Broccoli with genuine or Mock Hollandaise
Finger Salad Bowl
Plum Pudding and Ice Cream
Mints Coffee

OYSTER BISQUE

These amounts serve six adequately, but if this is to be a main course or a midnight snack double the recipe to serve plenty to eight.

Drain the liquor from 1-2 pint of raw oysters and to this liquor add 1 cup water, 1 or 1 1-2 teaspoons salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 1-2 tablespoons very finely minced celery, 1-2 teaspoon grated onion, 2 teaspoons finely chopped parsley, and simmer these for 3 to 5 minutes, then add 2 cups whole milk or whole milk mixed with a little cream and heat through in top of double boiler. Melt 2 tablespoons butter and stir into it 2 tablespoon flour and stir into the soup until slightly thickened. Keep hot over boiling water until serving time then add the whole or chopped raw oysters and as soon as edges curl serve.

NOTE:

If desired flour thickening may be omitted, but butter should be added. One-half to 3-3 cup sifted cracker crumbs may be added instead of the flour.

To finish a baked ham, about 45 minutes before baking time is up remove from oven and take off rind. S ore fat in diamonds. Stud each square with a whole clove. Spread with paste made of 1 cup brown sugar, 1 teaspoon dry mustard, 2 tablespoons vinegar. If desired, place crescents of canned pineapple along entire length of ham and tuck halves of cherries in each little hollow. Return to oven to bake for 45 minutes—basting with a little fruit juice if desired.

The finger salad bowl contains carrots curls, celery sticks, radish roses or fans, cucumber fingers—and if desired a salad "dip" of mayonnaise with horseradish may be at centre of bowl. This is very popular in this house, especially when I add jumbo size ripe olives.

Last year, our friends Margie and Kay had four unexpected guests for dinner on the day after Christmas. Plum Pudding was on the menu, but one just large enough for their family of six. Margie, never a girl to be stymied by a mere bunch of dear friends dropping in just before dinner time, sent Kathryn running to the drug store for a couple of bricks of ice cream.

When dessert time, arrived the steaming hot plum pudding was served on one end of a large platter. The ice cold ice cream on the other end. On each plate Kay put a slice of each. Margie says that day she started something she has had to repeat ever since for her youngsters think ice cream is the best sauce discovered yet for plum pudding.

All alone here at my desk I'm grinning at what you dietery are going to say! Quit grumbling-ak Beulah to peel you a grape!

SHOULD 15-YEAR-OLD GIRL RISE FOR INTRODUCTION?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I'm a 15-year-old girl, and I thank you very much for answering questions I've sent you at various times during the past year. Now I have another question that bothers me: When I'm introduced to a boy, should I rise when I acknowledge the introduction?

—Bettie H.

I'm delighted my answers helped. Send along your questions!

Bettie, a correction about the wording of your question: You, the girl, are not introduced to a boy (i.e., a boy is always introduced to a girl.) And when the boy is introduced to you, you do not rise. Unless, of course, the introduction is being made, say, by an older woman who is standing. Then you rise, not to acknowledge the introduction of the boy, but to be courteous to the older woman.

SENDING WEDDING DATA TO NEWSPAPERS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My fiance told me that his mother told him that, when I send all the information about our wedding to the newspapers here, I should send exactly the same information to their newspapers there. Should I do this, or should his mother do this? — M.W.

Your fiance's mother is right . . . you are the one to do this. From your fiance or his mother get the list of the newspapers there, and send the wedding information to the society editor of each of these newspapers at the same time you send it to your local newspapers.

Three Measures of Basic Importance Written Into Books

By ALAN DONNELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Three measures of basic importance involving housing, criminal laws and the country's banking system were written into Canadian statute books this year.

In the new session opening Jan. 7 the Commons and Senate likely will deal with such diverse matters as changes in unemployment insurance payments, municipal grants, an income tax settlement with Quebec, procedural rules in the Commons and the entry of West Germany into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The new session is expected to continue into July and may come close to the modern record of 139 sitting days set during the last session—longer than any since the early days of the century. Sitting days in the 1903 session aren't recorded, and the present was in session 236 days without any long adjournments.

NEW CRIMINAL CODE

Canada's Criminal Code last session was redrafted for the first time since 1892, completing an overhaul that took five years. The new code will go into effect April 1. A parliamentary committee and two royal commissions, however, still are studying proposed changes which come under the code: Capital and corporal punishment, lotteries, the legal defence of insanity, and criminal sexual psychopaths.

The decennial revision of the banking laws brought chartered banks into the field of residential and chattel mortgages. Housing legislation provided for lower down-payments, longer mortgage terms and a system of insured mortgages on which banks could lend.

The session brought other measures which sparked considerable controversy: A one-cent-a-ounce boost in postal rates, and increases in parliamentary and cabinet ministers' pay.

OIL AND GAS LINES

The government's policy of supporting an all-Canadian gas pipeline from Alberta to eastern Canada was strengthened with a measure giving the board of transport commissioners jurisdiction over interprovincial and international oil and gas lines.

Another bill, designed to help Canada's lagging textile industry, provided a form of dumping duties to be imposed on imports of goods such as textiles and clothing which show marked seasonal price decline.

In the field of social security, Parliament provided for pensions to the totally disabled, based on a means test, to be financed jointly by federal and provincial governments.

One of the first matters to come before the new session will be ratification of the recent Paris agreements on West Germany providing for her rearmament and entry into NATO.

UNEMPLOYMENT STUDY

Changes in the unemployment insurance system, aimed chiefly at protecting pollsters in the winter, have been under government study for some time. The main change expected is an increase in the minimum period for which unemployed workers qualify for benefits.

The government last session postponed legislation to change the basis on which it makes grants to municipalities in lieu of taxes on federal property. The measure likely will be introduced next year, and is expected to provide for payments equalling full municipal taxes on federal property where its assessment totals two per cent or more of a municipality's total assessment. At present, payments equalling 75 per cent of taxes are made in places where federal property value totals four per cent or more of total assessment.

Current discussions between the federal and Quebec governments towards resolving their income tax dispute may require changes in federal tax laws. Quebec last spring levied its own personal income tax of about 15 per cent of federal collections but was turned down in its request that the full amount of the provincial tax be deductible from the federal levy. It is reported that the federal government may increase the amount —now five per cent—of federal tax payments which may be deducted by those paying provincial income tax.

RULES OF DEBATE

The Commons likely will have the additional task of revising its own rules of debate—a question bound to provoke extended arguments. A special committee last session made no headway on a proposal to cut the length of speeches to 20 from 40 minutes.

A proposed deal between the British Columbia government and the Kaiser Aluminum interests in the United States for using the water of the Columbia river may result in federal legislation blocking the plan. The federal government is dissatisfied with terms of the deal. As an alternative, the cabinet may use a 1907 statute covering export of electricity and fluids to enforce its position.

Other measures expected to come before the new session include:

1. A 25-per-cent increase in judges' salaries.

2. Establishment of a Canada council on development of arts and culture.

3. Increases in federal payments to a fund for removing railway grade crossings.

Ten Indicted In Alleged Plot To Kill Leader

HACKENSACK, N.J. (AP)—Ray White, Florida political and labor leader, and his brother Steely White, were among 10 men indicted Tuesday in connection with an alleged plot to murder Paul Hall, secretary-treasurer of the Seafarers' International Union (AFL).

The Bergen county grand jury, after deliberating three hours, returned the indictments charging conspiracy to commit murder.

They identified five alleged conspirators and listed five John Does—persons not identified by name but cited by the jury as involved in the case.

The indictments also list James E. Cobb, alias Frank Green of Tampa, 35-year-old reputed triggerman, who told police he was to be paid $15,000 by Hall, a labor official in the 60,000-member union.

Tonnage Down Only Slightly From Last Year

PORT COLBORNE (CP) — Despite the general shipping slackoff throughout the Great Lakes during 1954, tonnage shipped through the Welland ship canal was only 2,010,541 tons off the record total which passed through during 1953.

Last year's record total was 19,478,426 tons as opposed to the 17,467,885 tons shipped through during the last year, it was disclosed Tuesday in figures released by the transport department.

Not only was the total shipping down, but the average for each individual cargo dropped by over 17,000 tons. Last year's average load was 2,017,026 tons and the 1954 average was 1,999,305 tons.

Each of the major items—grain, coal, petroleum and iron ore—dropped slightly in total tonnage. Petroleum dropped the slightest—only 9,165 tons off last year—and coal felt the largest relapse, 982,-468 tons.

Last year's grain tonnage was 8,584,476 tons and this year's total was 8,391,881. Coal's drop from 5,-953,259 to 4,970,791 tons moved that type of cargo back into second place behind grain as the most common cargo on the canal.

Lowly Blooper Shot Back In Prominence In National Hockey League

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

PULLING AWAY!

It looks like the pick may be pulling away from the pack, but don't put any faith in that.

By the time you read this the Memos may be tied for top spot along with Cornwall, who leap-frogged Boddenville's Goodyears over the holiday, or they may remain solid in third spot with 28 points. Incidentally, Cornwall is now heading the pack with 30, while Mr. M. J. Rodden's choice for world honors from Kingston are a bare single in front of our side. How about that?

Yup! We're mixing up the business. The clubs are throwing protest and other silly ingredients into the loop cake and that makes a good smoke picture with possibly a basis of fire.

Looking over the loop circuit via the sports pages, there seems to be a little flare-up down Brockville way. It seems the fans just won't support the best hockey the downeast team has furnished in some years—and both team and arena management are showing concern at the poor turnouts..

Here is what the Brockville Recorder-Times says:

"Where have all the hockey fans gone, This year Brockville has a senior team for the first time in many years, we have the most comfortable (heated) Arena in the league, we have the lowest prices in the league—and also the lowest attendance.

"The seniors have a six win and two loss record for their last eight games and, even at this season of the year, one would expect a few more than 500 fans to support them by their attendance. People who never have missed a game in the past three years have not been in the Centre this year? Is Brockville fed up with hockey of all kinds?

* * *

"The Magedeons can not carry on with the present attendance and unless the fans or part they are interested in senior hockey start to attend, instead of phoning for the score, it will be many lean years for hockey in Brockville.

"Winning or losing the fans are still absent."

* * *

The Memos couldn't stand prosperity and the second-place Kingston Goodyears were jolted rather rudely in their tracks in senior "B" puck circles last night.

Our side went down to a 3-1 defeat before the Brockville Magedemas, who are trying staunchly to build up fan interest while the Roddenville rannies absorbed a 5-3 licking from the tails of the Clinton Comets.

Not deprecating the Brockville victory one iota, but the Memos got one of their rest breaks when Cornwall had games off their chests. The "Magpies" were full value for their win and took advantage of everything that came their way

The results did not affect the standing of the top three clubs, Cornwall, Kingston and Belleville, which are arrayed in this manner, with 30, 28 and 28 points respectively, but Brockville's win shot them into fourth spot over Whitby with 23 points, a one-point lead. Clinton's victory gives them 21 points, one behind Whitby.

MINOR HOCKEY

Doug Patterson, OMHA executive member, and district convener of Stirling, has called an important meeting Thursday night at his home town. Main item on the agenda is the drawing of group schedules for bantam, midget and juvenile teams of the district. Reps. are requested to bring home game dates. Sixteen centres of the district are expected to be represented.

Front-Running Canadiens Take on Toronto With Two Key Players Out of Action

By The Canadian Press

The lowly blooper shot is back in prominence in the National Hockey League.

The blooper is usually a lazy-looking shot from 50 or 60 feet out from the goal. The puck has a habit of falling in front of the goaltender and then bouncing weirdly into the cage.

The blooper has cropped up at least twice this season. Defenceman Herb Kelly of the second-place Detroit Red Wings blooped what proved to be the winning goal in Detroit's 3-2 victory over the third-place Maple Leafs in Toronto Saturday. A similar flip nailed New Leafs' Rudy Migay counted Toronto's only goal in Sunday's 3-1 tie against Wings.

MAY REAPPEAR

Its recent success probably means that it will reappear in today's game between the Leafs and front-running Montreal Canadiens in Toronto. It is the only game on ice.

Toronto netminder Harry Lumley blasted the blooper, he recalls the trouble he had with blooper shots.

"I just don't like handling them" he says.

Toronto coach King Clancy likes them even less—unless Leafs score on them. He has had bitter experience with the shot.

LOST CUP

"It was the last year I coached Pittsburgh Hornets," he said, "that I lost the Calder Cup in the playoffs on one of those lob shots in overtime of the seventh and final game."

Canadiens, who have 21 victories and five ties in 35 starts this season, may play without the services of lefthanded Billy Moore. The 22-year-old forward injured his right ankle against the fifth-place New York Rangers last Saturday and may be out for this one.

The Montrealers will also miss centre Jackie Leclair, still out with a cut throat. He is expected to start skating again this week.

Leafs, looking for their 17th win of the 1954-55 campaign, will have leftwinger Bob Solinger and centre Bob Bailey back in the lineup.

Two World Boxing Titles Declared Vacant

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Two world boxing titles are vacant and there are no logical contenders for the crowns in two other weight divisions, the National Boxing Association said Tuesday night.

The NBA, in its winter ratings, declared the featherweight and bantamweight titles vacant because recognized champions had failed to defend within specified time limits and said middleweight champion Carl (Bobo) Olson and light heavyweight titlist Archie Moore reign without logical contenders for their crowns.

Sandy Saddler was deprived of his featherweight title because he has not defended it since 1951, said Fred J. Saddy, chairman of the NBA championship committee.

LOGICAL CONTENDERS

Saddy said the NBA recognized Saddler and Redtop Davis of Connecticut as logical contenders for the championship and would recognize the winner of a 12-round bout between them as the division titlist.

A similar situation exists in the bantamweight class, Saddy said. "The NBA last week declared it had vacated the title. Robert Cohen of France "violated terms of a contract requiring him to meet Raton Macias of Mexico." However, said Saddy, the two men are the logical contenders and if they meet the NBA will declare the winner champion in the class.

Joe Medwick, St. Louis leftfielder, was named the Baseball League's most valuable player 17 years ago today. Medwick led the league batting with .374 and won fielding honors for outfielders with a .988 average. He tied Mel Ott of New York Giants for most home runs—31.

Sport in Brief

IMBROS WINS

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP)—Winter racing came back to plush Santa Anita Tuesday and with it victory for Andrew Crevolin's Imbros in the feature of the day, the $22,900 Malibu Stakes. Imbros, carrying top weight of 128 pounds, Imbros equalled the track record for six furlongs in time of 1.9—a record he shares with six other horses.

A crowd of 30,000 turned out for the opening of Santa Anita's 50-day meeting. Abe Hirschberg's Berseem, racing against Imbros for the 17th time, made a bid but finished second. Hour Bearer was third in the field of 13.

The winner paid $7.90, $3.60 and $3.10.

RCAF LOSES

DAVOS, Switzerland (Reuters)—Milano Inter beat the Royal Canadian Air Force 15-1 in the second match of a four-nation ice hockey tournament for the Spengler Cup here Tuesday. Several Canadian professionals played for the Italian team.

Second Time For Joey

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Boxer Joey Giardello got involved early Tuesday in another automobile mess with the police, was arrested on charges of disorderly conduct and interfering with an officer, then was discharged by magistrate Elias Myers who told him:

"Joe, I never saw anyone who threw a million dollars away before. You're a disgrace to boxing."

Myers didn't explain his remark, but appeared to be referring to Giardello's recent absence from the prize ring, where he was lined up a few months ago for a title fight with middleweight champ Bobo Olson, but was sidelined by a knee injury in an auto accident.

AFTER FRACAS

Since then he has been arrested on charges of assault and battery in connection with a fracas at a gasoline service station, suspended by the Pennsylvania athletic commission, and ordered reinstated by a court which held the commission did not hold a hearing before issuing the order.

Monday night police were questioning occupants of two cars which raced through a stop sign. One of the passengers was Joey's brother, Robert Tilleli, 22. The officers said Joey drove the car his own car, became involved in the argument and also was arrested. All defendants were released under bail pending.

"I was just along while they were taking my brother to a train," said Joey at the hearing.

Aussie Players Finding Sport Drudgery Instead of Pastime

SYDNEY (AP)—Strong demands, that tennis in Australia should be de-emphasized to improve the mental attitude of the players were heard today in the wake of America's convincing Davis Cup victory.

Some observers said criticism so far is just a ripple of what can be expected later when this country starts taking inventory of its 1954 setback.

There is sentiment that Australian players—in contrast to the Americans—are getting weary of discipline and finding the sport a drudge instead of a pastime.

The first open criticism of the Australian captain Harry Hopman came in a dispatch by Dinny Pails, Australian professional and not former national champion and Davis Cup player.

Pails said Australia can regain the cup next year "if Lew Hoad and Ken Rosewall get down to fundamentals."

He said Hoad needs coaching in ground strokes and concentration. His said Rosewall was the disappointment of the challenge round.

Both Frank Sedgman, a former Hopman protege, and Hoad have stated publicly they would resent any anti-Hopman sentiment likely to arise from the defeats.

The criticism came in the wake of wide speculation whether Hopman will remain as manager-captain of Aussie tennis forces.

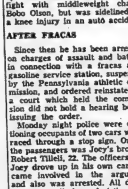
Now that the United States has recaptured the Davis Cup, some expect a change in command before next year, but high officials including Sir Norman Brookes, are remaining discreetly quiet.

Hopman himself was asked the question at a press conference Tuesday following the cup-clinching doubles triumph. A reporter asked: "Will you be back as captain next year, Harry?"

Hopman gave the interviewer a cold stare and replied curtly: "I haven't thought of it."

Hopman is reported to have been offered an American newspaper job during the world stop in the United States on a tennis tour, but no decision was made.

He has been criticized in the Australian press for his stern discipline and training measures. A few weeks ago one paper, in an "open letter" told him to "wake up" and let players find Hoad and Rosewall off "your apron strings."



Hopman, who writes tennis for the Melbourne Herald has never replied, although generally he is inclined to answer such criticism.

The issue of Hopman's future is not likely to be raised until the general meeting of Lawn Tennis Amateur Association in February. At that time the manager for Australia's world touring team will be named.

United States Beaten in Two Final Single Matches for Cup

By Will Grimsley

SYDNEY (AP) — Rex Hartwig, less than two weeks out of a sick bed, and Ken Rosewall, the slim little bomber from Down Under, saved Australia from tennis humiliation today by winning the final two singles matches of the Davis Cup challenge round from the United States.

Hartwig, making his debut as a singles player for Lew Hoad, who injured his right thigh in Tuesday's doubles, defeated Vic Seixas 4-6, 6-3, 6-2, 6-3, while Rosewall took the measure of Trabert 9-7, 7-5, 6-3.

But it was small comfort to the sellout crowd of 25,578. The U.S. already had safely wrapped up the second cup. The final count was 5-2. Both Seixas and Trabert made a fight of it, but as Trabert said when he finished:

"It's pretty hard to concentrate after you've won the cup."

PLAYED WELL

But both Aussies played well and Hartwig, especially, was impressive. His match with Seixas was a replay of the U.S. national championship last year when Vic soundly whipped him.

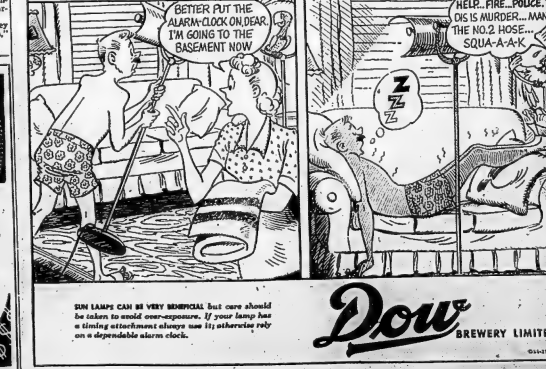
Hartwig, who was bedded down with the mumps for a couple of weeks, started poorly, but his game picked up with each stroke as he continually outrushed Seixas at the net. Actually, the 24-year-old Aussie beat Seixas at his own game.

Seixas won the first set when he broke through on the seventh and ninth games. The second set was weird in that neither could hold service for the first four games. Then Hartwig held after seven deuces and broke again in the eighth game.

The turf was extremely slippery and Hartwig donned spikes when showers began to fall. They let up for a while, then started again. But the spikers just kept going and the fans merely raised their umbrellas. A little rain doesn't bother the Aussies.

The third and fourth sets were all Hartwig's. He ran up a 4-0 lead in each and Seixas never had a chance. Nor did he seem to care.

Instead of an "I don't care" attitude, Rosewall came out on the court with fire in his eyes determined to avert a shutout for the home side. That he did and very nearly won.



Nor was trabert taking it easy. Two was smoking for all he was worth but there is no doubt that with the pressure off, he suffered a psychological letdown.

"Well, there goes my 5-0 prediction," said captain Billy Trabert. "But it's okay. The pressure is off and we're happy with the overall result. Tony naturally had a letdown. Rosewall played very well. The crowd was happy over it. So everything's fine."

SWEDEN BEATEN

STOCKHOLM (AP)—Russia defeated Sweden 3-2 in the second of two international hockey games between the two countries. The Russians won the first game Sunday 3-0.

GREY CUP HERO

Probably the greatest audience in Grey Cup history saw Jackie Parker, fiery-year-import with Edmonton Eskimos recover a fumble in the dying minutes of the classic football game November 27 and romp 83 yards for Edmonton's decisive touchdown. The underdog Eskimos edged Montreal Alouettes 26-25 before more than 27,000 fans at Toronto's Varsity Stadium. Parker shown holding the coveted trophy after the game, entered the game with a recently-chipped instep bone in his right foot. The victory for Edmonton was called the sports surprise of the year by sports writers and sportscaster across Canada. (CP Photo).

Mercurys Sail In First-Place Tie With Dutchies

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Owen Sound Mercurys sailed into a first-place tie with Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A league Tuesday night.

Mercurys pulled the trick on home ice, with a 3-1 squeeze over, of all teams, the Dutchmen. It was also a big night for Owen Sound's veteran centre star, Tom Burlington, who scored his first goal of the season.

In the only other game Windsor Bulldogs won a decisive 7-1 victory over Niagara Falls Cataracts.

Helping to snag the Owen Sound victory were Vern Gardiner and Buck Porsiund who scored a goal apiece. Jim Logan slapped in Kitchener's only tally.

Burlington, league scoring champion last season with 108 points snagged his tally while playing his fourth game of the season. Out with a broken leg since the latter part of last season, he has been used only sparingly in his four contests.

While there were 18 minor penalties during the game, most of them to K-W, all goals came with the teams at full strength.

A crowd of 1,200 watched at Windsor with Jack Peters lead them with three goals. Brown, Wilkie, Hasty and McLaglan collected singles. Eric Dagg managed the lone Falls marker in the second period.

Of the game 14 penalties, 11 went to Windsor and three to the Cataracts.

Beauty of Figure Skating Is Seemingly Effortless Glide

By BARBARA ANN SCOTT

The beauty of figure skating is in the seemingly effortless glide. The glide results from proper balance, and the secret of both is in the skating stroke. The secret is that the skating stroke goes from side to side.

A long push with your left leg and you will find your left hip straightens out behind you, while the knee of the right leg is bent as much as possible.

There are three basic positions in figure skating: The first; second, skating called the open or neutral position; and the third position.

In all three positions, the back is straight, the head held up, arms kept level with the waist and almost straight at the elbow and with the palms down. The free leg (the leg which is not touching the ice; the other is called the skating leg) is kept straight at the knee with the toe pointed out as much as possible. The free leg, whether held in front or back, is held over the heel of the skating leg on the ice and is less than one foot above the ice. The three basic positions are used in the figure eights, the simple figure eights, by the way, are the best way to practice to develop a skating stroke that is both strong and long.

One of the basic eights is the forward-outside figure eight, doing big-first circle clockwise and the second circle counter - clockwise. The "outside" means that first circle will be traced by the outside (or right hand edge) of your right skate and that the second circle will be made by the outside (or left hand edge) of your left skate.

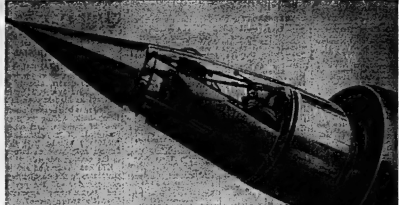
You push off with a sideward shove of your left foot—never with the hooked part of the toe. This one push must give you enough glide to carry you around the first circle, because the left foot will not touch the ice until you start the second circle.



For the first half of the first circle, you are in the first basic position. When you reach the top of the circle, you are in the neutral or open position. You finish the circle in position three, with your left foot now in front of you.

You make the second circle with the same basic position, but this time with your left foot tracing the circle and your right foot off the ice.

You won't be an expert at the beginning, but you'll soon feel the thrill of gliding through figures on ice. As you advance from one figure to another and then to jumps and spins, you feel the thrill of accomplishment. And that's the pleasure of figure skating.

DESIGNED TO TRAVEL TWICE SPEED OF SOUND

This is the new "022" jet plane, unveiled in Paris by French designer Rene Leduc, who says it will be ready for use next year. He claims that it is much faster than the recent "021", which reached 652 miles per hour while climbing at 50 degrees. He declared it will be twice as fast as the speed of sound.—Central Press Canadian.

High-Flying Magedomas Down Memos 3-1 in Senior B Fray; Take Over Group Fourth Spot

BROCKVILLE. — Brockville Magedomas, currently on the comeback trail in the Eastern Ontario Senior "B" Hockey League, tripped Belleville Memos 3-1 here last night, in an action packed hockey game which had the visitors retreating for the first two periods.

After the hosts had fired the third and clinching marker midway through the second stanza, they coasted the rest of the way. Only in the third period were the guests able to match shots on goal with the high flying double blue squad.

Memos chalked up a one goal lead at 6:37 of the first but were answered by two Brockville counters. In the Brockville zone directly in front of his own net, Hec Legris reached down and patted a slow moving puck between his legs with his hands and flipped it onto the outstretched stick of Doran. With rookie netminder Charron partly shielded by Legris, Doran swiped the puck into the left corner of the twine. TIE IT UP

Less than three minutes later, Dunnigan shovelled the tying goal in after Bill Rockburn and Gord Scott had poked at it, taking Barclay off balance.

Thompson, who was playing an aggressive game both ways for the hosts accounted for the winning goal when he climaxed a rink-long power play with Scott and Trainor.

It was at 13.38 of the first, a few seconds after Rockburn burst onto the ice from the sinbin, making it three defencemen going the same way. Scott, Trainor and a Memos defenceman piled into the net in front of Barclay, plugging the net with arms and legs and sticks and leaving Thomson an open shot.

A backhand shot from 15 feet out in front of the net by Marcel Legris accounted or the insurance marker of the evening at 7.55 of the second frame. Barclay couldn't see the puck coming as it slid between a defencemen's skates.

Brockville's defensive combinations were instrumental in the Belleville rout. In the first two periods Trainor and company let the attackers sneak behind them for only seven quick shots at Charron, one of which was counted. Meanwhile at the other end of the rink Brockville forwards and defencemen pelted 24 shots at the Memos' goaltender. The visiting forward wall came to life in the last period accounting for each of Brockville's eight shots.

Mueller KO's Durando Before Booing Crowd

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Peter Mueller, German middleweight knocked out Ernie Durando of Bayonne, N.J., at 1:43 of the seventh round Tuesday night before a booing crowd of 8,300 at the Milwaukee Arena.

Mueller, swinging like a whirlman with both hands knocked Durando flat on his back midway in the seventh round. Durando lay motionless for the nine-count then jumped to his feet and appeared ready to resume fighting, but referee Dauber Jaeger stepped between the two men and ruled that Durando had not regained his feet at the count of 10.

Durando's handlers stormed into the ring in protest but the verdict was announced as a knockout.

Mueller, of Cologne, Germany, weighed 158 and Durando 158½.

The fight was a two-fisted brawl all the way. Mueller was knocked down three times in the fourth round, taking a nine-count once and an eight-count the other two times.

Referee-in-Chief Predicts More Marathon Games

TORONTO (CP)—Carl Voss, referee-in-chief of the National Hockey League, has predicted more marathon hockey games unless coaches give referees more co-operation.

Commenting on last Saturday's game between Toronto and Detroit which Detroit won 3-2 after almost three hours of tough hockey, Voss said the game could have been shorter if the coaches had changed players faster and speeded up faceoffs.

"By my watch, it took 17 minutes to play the final minute and 44 seconds of the game," he said.

He also criticized the player shuffling before a faceoff which he claimed is "strictly stalling."

Voss blamed referee Jerry Olhaft for letting the game get away from him Saturday and not cutting off arguments by players concerning his decisions. He said there are rules to prevent that type of stalling.

Teams:

Memos—Goal, Barclay; defence, Mueller and Goyer; forwards, Doran, P. Jones, DeGray; alternates, Wade, Wilson, Dugan, Day, Ed Duncan, Er. Duncan, D. Jones, Bettiol, MacDonald.

Magedomas—Goal, Charron; defence, Trainer and Rockburn; forwards, Richer, Gibson M. Legris; alternates, Davidson, Godwin, Richardson, Prevost, Scott, Dunnigan, H. Legris, Thompson.

Hank Ciesla Back on Top Scoring Race

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hank Ciesla, husky St. Catharines TecPees captain, climbed back into the lead of the Ontario Hockey Association's Junior A scoring race Tuesday night, scoring a hat trick in a game against Galt Black Hawks.

TecPees got away to a flying start in the first period when they scored four times and moved ahead to an 8-3 victory.

Ciesla's three goals put him one point up on Danny Poliziani of Barrie Flyers, who has 48 points. DOWN CUBS

In another game Guelph Biltmores maintained their sole hold on second place by downing Hamilton Cubs 4-2 at Guelph.

Toronto St. Michael's Majors, also Tuesday night, took the league with 40 points. Biltmores have 32, followed by TecPees with 30. Hamilton has 26 points, one up on Toronto Marlboros. Galt is in sixth place with 21 points and Barrie 20. The cellar-dwelling Kitchener-Waterloo Canucks, with only four victories in 26 games this season, have eight points.

Clutched 47 to 24, Black Hawks were held scoreless until the last two minutes. Besides Ciesla, Mitch Plata scored a couple for TecPees and the two assists. Nels Bulloch, Malt Thompson and Cec Hoskins accounted for the others. Earl Cullen drew three assists.

COUNTED TWICE

Hec Lalonde scored twice for Galt and Lloyd Smith added the third.

It was Guelph's first victory over the Cubs in eight meetings dating back to last season.

Bill McCreary, Tom McCarthy, Bob Forhan and Ray Cave scored the Biltmores' goals, with McCreary getting two assists. Murray Oliver and Gary Sharpe counted the Hamilton goals.

Commission Rules Fight Was Double Technical KO

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The Miami Beach boxing commission has ruled the fight between middleweights Gus Rubicini of Toronto and Bobby Mayfield of Miami here last Tuesday night was a double technical knockout. Both fighters suffered cuts eyes when they butted heads in the fourth round.

Referee Petey Sarron stopped the fight and awarded Mayfield a technical knockout because of Rubicini's cut on the head. Later, Dr. Alexander Robbins examined a laceration over Mayfield's eye and said the fight also could have been stopped on that account.

ENDS CAREER OF THREE-LEGGED WOLF

Arthur Ship, who lost 26 sheep to wolves this season, has his revenge on the one he considers the worst killer of them all — a three-footed, 76-pound timber wolf which he shot after a 12-mile hunt through deep snow near New Liskeard, Ont. Three wolves had killed an ewe at the farm of Edgar Cook and 30 men organized a hunting party, determined to rid the area of the killers that have caused thousands of dollars' loss in livestock. Ship got the wolf first and hit him with his first shot, but the other two escaped.

Gambling Oasis of Las Vegas Will Get Big Push in '55

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Las Vegas, that gambling oasis on the great American desert, already making money hand over hand over dice, will get its biggest push in 1955.

Five new hotel-casino-eateries are being built, adding to the seven now in business, and others are projected. It is estimated that $20,000,000 will be paid to entertainers next year to lure people to the gaming tables.

Will Las Vegas find enough new customers to absorb this huge new expansion or will the new places and skyrocketing expenses kill Nevada's golden goose?

BOTH SIDES HEARD

You hear it both ways from the entertainment bookers for the Las Vegas hotels.

"I think we're creating a Frankenstein . . ." argues Jo Schiller, contact man for the Hotel Flamingo. "Where will it end? There isn't enough money in the world to pay the fantastic salaries that some of the places are offering."

Taking another view, Jack Entratter, major domo of The Sands, says: "I think the whole thing will level itself off after six months or so."

Whatever happens, the face of the desert is going to change radically. The flip is alive, and no struction.

Total cost of new building investments, including a huge downtown hotel, is estimated at $45,000,000.

AT THE BELLE—Danny Kaye, Rosemary Clooney and Bing Crosby sing, dance and romance in Paramount's first VistaVision production, Irving Berlin's "White Christmas", continuing Today, Thursday and Friday at the Belle Theatre, matinee daily.

AT THE CAPITOL—Dawn Addams and Richard Egan are in love with each other in the color film, "Khyber Patrol," in Technicolor, which will open Thursday at the Capitol Theatre. But true to form, the course of their romance was a stormy one. On the same program, "Southwest Passage", in Technicolor starring Rod Cameron, Joanne Dru and John Ireland. Both action hits, are first Belleville showing.

Screen Relics Add Flavor of Past to Film

Relics of great motion pictures of the past give the flavor of screen history to the props, sets, accessories and costumes used in Universal-International's Technicolor CinemaScope production of "Sign of the Pagan," currently showing at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre with Jeff Chandler, Jack Palance, Ludmilla Tcherina and Rita Gam in starring roles.

Among some 12,300 various items used in the picture were: Nine armored breastplates made originally for Roman soldiers appearing in "Ben Hur"; Roman short swords re-fashioned from bayonets used in the World War I picture for "All Quiet on the Western Front"; fur skins formerly used to decorate sets of "Call of the Wild"; were applied to dressing up the Hun camp; the shoulder pads ding once worn by the late Lon Chaney, Sr., in "Hunchback of Notre Dame" was used in "Sign of the Pagan" to pad a hunchback court jester for scenes with Emperor Theodosius in the palace at Constantinople.

Eighty per cent of the props used in the picture were manufactured, giving the studio its largest prop budget in history. So few films have been made of this 5th Century period that very few props were available anywhere to help give the required authenticity to the sets.

"Sign of the Pagan," the story of Attila the Hun and his barbarian hordes in their attempt to crush the Roman Empire and the Christian World, was directed by Douglas Sirk and produced by Albert J. Cohen. The featured cast is headed by Jeff Morrow, George Dolenz, Eduard Franz, Allison Hayes, Alexander Scourby and Sara Shane.

DEADLY KILLER SLAIN

GALT, Colombia (AP)—A notorious Colombian outlaw, blamed for more than 100 killings, was shot and killed Tuesday in a wild gun battle with a police detachment. Several officers were wounded. The 32-year-old outlaw, nicknamed "Pistocho," had escaped from several prisons. There was a 5,000-peso ($2,000) "dead or alive" reward on his head.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

What you must definitely consider about an opening bid of two in a suit is this: It is a signal that orders partner to help keep the bidding open to game; even if he has a hand without a trick.

But what about an opening two bidder promise in values? What are the requirements for starting with such a bid? Some of you may remember back when it was a mess of stuff that made your head swim.

You had to count so many and a half this and that; add a half for these and those; subtract a half for which and what; divide by two; and if the dog had fleas, or something, you had an opening two bid.

Some of the great inventors and teachers of systems still give you a flock of specific case needs. It is a different set of their foundation values for each different suit length or distribution.

Culbertson and Goren, for instance, still do. But somewhere in the books of each you will find the meat of it in a small parcel. It is that an opening two bidder promises to take nine tricks.

Accordin' to Gordon each high card or short card is counted as one trick. If your hand counts a total of nine tricks or more your opening bid should be two in a suit. This answers your purpose.

Put all the rules in a hat and shake them up, pull out a rabbit that says nine tricks make an opening two bid. Make hash or goulash out of all you have heard and it is still nine tricks needed.

You have the south hand shown here:

♠A K Q 8 2
♥K 8 7
♦K Q 10
♣A 7 4

No matter what system you follow, open this hand with a bid or two hearts. Why? It contains nine tricks. Say it in any language or in any kind of combinations it is an opening two bid.

Not because there is one for that many honor tricks or points. It is an opening bid of two in a suit because it promises nine tricks. Doing what comes naturally.

HONG KONG (Reuters) — Fire destroyed about 30 wooden huts in the Kowloon section of Hong Kong early this morning, leaving some 3,000 Chinese refugees from communism homeless. No casualties were reported.

Quads Prove Nice, Noisy And Normal

HOLLIS, N.Y. (AP)—The Cirminello quads are 10 years old now and four nicer, noisier, more normal youngsters you couldn't find anywhere.

Maureen, Eileen, Kathleen and Michael live with their parents, Joseph and Kathleen Cirminello, in a two-story, grey stucco house in this pleasant residential town in Queens, Long Island.

Their life is bounded by Queens public school 134, five blocks away, the neighborhood Methodist church, and evenings of homework, television and devoted parents.

To them the publicity surrounding their birth in a Philadelphia hospital Nov. 1, 1944, is apparently just as interesting as the adventures of Donald Duck, their only comic book—and not a whit more personal.

SPATTER OF FRECKLES

All are good-looking, thin youngsters with straight, dark brown hair and bright brown eyes. Michael has a spatter of freckles across his nose.

Shortly after, 3 p.m. on any schoolday except Thursday (when the Girl Scouts and cubs meet) the front door bursts open and the four children clatter in.

"Mamma, you've got to help me with arithmetic tonight. Got lots of it to do, besides some ..."

"Mamma, look what I did to my shoe."

"Mamma, I need 15 cents for ..."

"Hey, Mom, can I go play with ..."

Mrs. Cirminello, the former Kathleen Virginia Hatcher of Okmulgee, Okla., is a pretty, dark-haired, placid woman who can be fond and objective at the same time.

"I have a headache all the time they're home," she says as a matter of unregretted fact. "So help me, it starts when the front door's open and it stops when they go to bed. They get rowdier and louder every year. I sometimes wonder what we'll do when they're teen-agers, but my husband says he won't have any trouble, they're good kids."

EXPECTED TWINS

Joseph Cirminello is an accountant investigator with the securities and exchange commission. He was working in Philadelphia and living in Upper Darby, Pa., when the quads, their only children, were born to his 30-year-old wife. They moved here four years ago.

"Before they came," she recalls, "I used to think two would be about the right number of children. But you get used to four. The doctor didn't want to worry me, so he told me I would have twins. But he knew there would be four, so did my husband, and so did practically all of Philadelphia I guess. But nobody told me."

They were born in the morning, by cesarean, and not until afternoon did the doctor come in and ask me if I knew how many babies I had had. I said no, so he told me, I remember I said "Thank you." Kind of an anticlimactical thing to say, wasn't it?"

Since the quads' weights at birth ranged from 2 pounds, 14 ounces to 3½ pounds, their health has been a constant consideration.

LOTS OF STAMINA

"They've always been thin and wiry and with lots of stamina," Mrs. Cirminello says. "The last day of every month I line them up and weigh and measure them. They weigh from 54 to 59 pounds, and Maureen, the tallest, is 54½ inches. Kathleen was the smallest at birth and still is, but she's healthy.

Eileen wants to be a secretary, Maureen a nurse and Kathleen "a mother like mamma." Michael is all set to be a doctor, "because I think I can make a lot of friends that way; a surgeon."

Does Michael ever feel overwhelmed by so much feminine companionship? Diplomatically, he shakes his head no.

LIKE SPELLING BEST

"Michael doesn't," Mrs. Cirminello says, "but their father says he can't call his son his own. The girls are always rearranging everything."

The quads are in the fifth grade, but in different sections. Michael and Maureen are together, and so are Kathleen and Eileen. They all like spelling best, but Eileen is fond of reading. Arithmetic is an unspeakable subject.

For Christmas the only thing Mrs. Cirminello knows they want is another little green turtle. Their last one died not long ago and they miss him.

Specialists To Teach Grade 13 Subjects Needed

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario secondary schools face a growing problem of finding enough specialists to teach Grade XIII-subjects, Frank Sawyer of Petrolia, Out., president of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation, said Monday.

Addressing the opening session of the federation's three-day annual convention, he told the 170 delegates representing more than 3,700 federation members the situation could be reflected in a decrease in the number of persons entering university honors courses.

"To enter an honors' course, a student's scholarship must be high and we must have the teachers who are prepared to teach them."

Mr. Sawyer said a difficulty is that specialists in certain fields cannot be attracted into teaching ranks.

"Industry, expanding as it is doing, is absorbing these men and women as fast as they leave the university and they are attracted there because teaching means a year longer in college and, in all likelihood, a lower salary."

As emergency measures, Mr. Sawyer suggested allowing student teachers from other honors courses than those now listed in the university calendars to enter courses at the Ontario College of Education to qualify for a type A certificate; requesting that the universities operate summer courses to enable students and teachers to obtain standing in subjects required for the type A certificate; and conducting short courses during the summer under the direction of the federation's educational policies committee.

Regarding salary negotiations with school boards, Mr. Sawyer said:

"I believe we have come to a time in our relations with school boards where we must work out a system of negotiation with the Trustees' Association which will be satisfactory of its membership and to ours. I hope that during this coming year this matter will be given your serious consideration."

Mr. Sawyer said if teachers are going to negotiate with school boards they should have some acceptable procedure to follow.

"In the past we have conducted meetings with school board which have been termed meetings for negotiating differences but have eventually turned out to be sounding boards for eager, politician-

"Our appointed committees have had to listen to the unctuous platitudes of certain board members whose sole aim seemed to be the catching of a place in the column of the local press.

"It has been a waste of our time and of the time of those trustees who have attended with the intention of coming to a reasonable settlement of the difficulties."

TO EXTRACT OIL

The Alberta Government pilot plant at Bitumount, north of Waterways on the Athabaska river is conducting tests to determine the cost of separating oil from the Athabaska oil sands. The plant is operating on a round-the-clock schedule, averaging 250 barrels per day. In an area of 30,000 square miles, the oil sands have been estimated to hold between 100,000,000,000 and 300,000,000,000 barrels of oil. This is an Alberta government photo. (CP Photo).

Many Principles Considered To Separate Oil from Sand

By JAMES SHERIMTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP)—In a laboratory on the University of Alberta campus here stand two jars.

One is filled with black, sticky sand. The other contains nearwhite sand that might have come from a beach. The difference between the two materials may some day be the answer to the world's oil shortage.

The black grains, each covered with slimy bitumen, are from the Athabasca oil sands of northeastern Alberta. Covering up to 30,000 square miles, they have been estimated to hold between 100,000,000,000 and 300,000,000,000 barrels of oil.

That is enough to last Canada, at present consumption, for at least 500 years.

The white sand is what remains when the oil is separated from the sand.

Dr. Karl A. Clark started a study of oil-sand development for the research council of Alberta more than 30 years ago. Considered the top authority on the sands, he has watched and priced of oil are rising.

When they reach the price level at which it is estimated the Athabasca oil sands can be produced economically, large-scale operations likely will start in the area.

Most tests have sought a means of separating the oil from the sand. Dr. Clark believes a hot water process will be the one used in the end. Under this process, raspily-circulating hot water sweeps the sand through a separation plant which shakes the clinging oil loose from the sand. The oil goes through a coking operation then is heated in hydrogen under high pressure and temperature.

Only a fraction of the oil-sands deposits can be mined feasibly under known processes. The sands are found at various depth down to 2,000 feet.

Near the Alberta government's pilot separation plant at Bitumount, 275 miles northeast of Edmonton, they vary from a few feet to 200 feet in depth, with differing thicknesses, and oil content.

Digging is not the answer, Dr. Clark says, nor is black cave mining, although he had high hopes for this before conferring with American experts.

At present 11 oil companies are exploring 9 areas.

Imperial Oil Sands Development Co. Ltd., of Calgary and a sister firm, Mill Creek Oil Co. Ltd., have taken an option to buy the provincial government's Bitumount plant and lease nearly 6,000 acres of oil sands. Can-Amera is testing a separation process involving the centrifugal principle.

Christmas Concerts

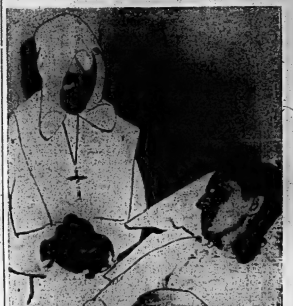
S. S. NO. 7 CENTENARY

CENTENARY — One of the best Christmas concerts was held in the new school at Centenary on last Tuesday evening, under the leadership of the two teachers, Mrs. Warren Spafford, principal, and Miss Bristol, primary. The chairman for the evening was the Rev. R. W. T. Middleton, with Mrs. Harold Hancock at the piano.

The program was as follows: "Welcome" by Wesley May; chorus (Jrs.) "Frosty the Snowman"; recitation by Jimmy Slavin; an acrostic (Jrs.) "Santa Claus"; a very humorous dialogue entitled "The Party Line"; drill (Jr. girls) "The Doll Drill"; piano solo rendered by Grant Hancock; dialogue, "The Night After Christmas"; two selections by the Rhythm Band; dialogue, "Sam Meets Simon" (Jrs.) "A Christmas Story;" dialogue "Madame Camellia's Beauty Parlor"; recitation by Robin Johnson; drill (boys) "The Circus Drill"; A Christmas Vision" given by the Srs., representing a choir with Gerald Murray as the minister. Dialogue (Srs.) "Reducing Cure" was followed by a "Skipping Drill" given by the girls. Piano solo by Eileen Hancock; song (Srs.) "Bells Are Ringing"; dialogue "The Missing Link."

Three choruses were rendered by the Seniors: "Christmas in Killarney," "Where Did My Snowman Go?" and "Santa's On His Way."

The superintendent of the Sunday School, Mr. Edgar Ray, extended grateful thanks to the teachers, Mrs. Spafford and Miss Bristol, for a truly splendid program, and introduced the latter to those gathered. Mrs. Hancock, the pianist, was also thanked.



Santa Claus then arrived, distributing bags of candy and nuts to all children, also presents; bringing to a successful conclusion a most enjoyable evening for everyone.

Gas Jets Open, Woman Rescued

TORONTO (CP)—Two police officers saved an aged woman from asphyxiation Tuesday night because they investigated a man they heard running and screaming in a church yard.

Constables Donald Murray and Stanley Bennett said they found Mrs. Murray Morrison, 89, asleep in a gas-filled apartment after her grandson, Donald Morrison, 34, was arrested and brought to police station charged with vagrancy. They said they found all five gas jets in the apartment were turned on when Morrison left. Mrs. Morrison was asleep.

Two Are Hurt In Halifax Blast

HALIFAX (CP)—The navy said today a minor blast at its sprawling Bedford magazine injured two civilian workers earlier, today but caused little damage.

Cause of the blast was not known but navy officials said a small fire that followed was quickly extinguished.

Buildings surrounding the $100,000,000 ammunition dump were not in danger.

The last explosion at the 220-acre magazine in July of 1945 and claimed the life of one man, destroyed or damaged 30 buildings and kept the city in fear for 36 hours.

Death Toll Near 20 In Snow-Swept Mid Continent

Coldest Weather of Season In Prospect for Most Areas.

CHICAGO (AP) — A blast of Arctic air, fanned by brisk winds, spread today across storm-swept sections of the midwest United States and snow-covered areas of the Rockies. The coldest weather of the winter season appears in prospect for most of the areas. It was below zero this morning in parts of Montana and the Dakotas.

Stormy and cold weather also is the outlook for many other parts of the U.S. Sleet, rain and snow today pelted northeastern sections. Colder air dipped along the east-ern coast to northern Florida and into the lower Mississippi valley. Freezing temperatures continued to plague southern California, threatening citrus orchards.

DEATH TOLL

The intense storm centre which Wednesday dumped snow, sleet and freezing rain over wide areas of the mid-continent, paralyzing travel in many areas, was centred in the southeastern Michigan today.

The death toll in the U.S. attributed to the storm reached at least 20 mark.

Fresh falls of snow have covered much of the central Mississippi valley and the central Great Lakes region. New snow measured nearly a foot in some areas.

But as the bitter air from Montana moved into the Midwest, snow ended in the hard-hit Southwest. However, the job of digging out of the season's biggest snow storm continued in parts of Kansas, Texas, Missouri and Oklahoma.

GRATEFUL FOR SNOW

Snowfall in the Southwest, a boon to wheat farmers who called the falls a "million dollar snow," ranged from 36 inches in Fort Scott, Kan., to nine inches in northern Texas.

Early today sleet and freezing rain hit in a belt about 150 miles wide through northeastern New York state and central New England. Light snow fell in northern areas.

In Kansas, some motorists still were stranded today in Fort Scott and the Pittsburg area in the southeastern part of the state. A national guard truck pushed through huge drifts to rescue a group of marooned motorists Wednesday night.

Hotels and motels at Fort Scott were jammed, with one hotel utilizing space in the basement of a house the overflow of customers.

COLD WAVE BREAKING

EDMONTON (CP)—The frozen fish of Saskatchewan and Manitoba may be casting icy and envious glances westwards New Year's Eve.

The weatherman came up with the first hint today of a break in the current cold wave Wednesday night but Albertans will have it all to themselves as storm centre developing in the northern gulf of Alaska will bring a change to southerly winds Thursday, the forecaster said, and the result will be a slow upward trend in temperatures.

Edmonton district is expected to enjoy a sunny five above zero while it may be 20 or 25 above in the south. Meanwhile, Manitoba and Saskatchewan will likely continue under extra-chilled weather.

Winnipeg's high Wednesday was 22 above around breakfast time but by lunch it was near zero. Forecast high for today was 10 below. In Edmonton and Regina it was the same. Throughout the three provinces lower figures were expected to be 30 degrees lower than normal.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: The cold weather which moved up from the Mississippi valley Wednesday is moving rapidly across southern Ontario today. Heavy falls of rain, snow and freezing rain is giving way to a few snowflurries. Cold polar air edging slowly eastward across northern Ontario will move down to engulf the entire province by Friday morning bringing lower temperatures and a few snowflurries. Temperatures will continue in the fall Friday night, and Saturday promises to be a very cold winter's day.

TORONTO (CP)—A mixture of snow and freezing rain fell Wednesday night over southwestern Ontario, coating highways with an icy glaze.

An inch of snow-fell in the Toronto area followed by hail and freezing rain. The sleet turned to rain Wednesday night when temperatures rose to 33 degrees, a jump of four degrees in three hours.

Highway sanding crews were on the job shortly after the snowfall turned to rain. Most main thoroughfares had been sanded by midnight. But officials were prepared to keep crews out all night.

WARN AGAINST TRAVEL

The Ontario highways department issued a general warning against unnecessary car travel. Traffic on the Queen Elizabeth Way between Toronto and Hamilton was reported unusually light.

Air traffic was brought to a virtual standstill throughout the province. All flights were cancelled at Toronto, London, Windsor, Sudbury and North Bay.

Trans-Canada Air Lines flew one-stop from Montreal to Winnipeg, by-passing Malton. The flight from Tampa, Fla., to Malton was diverted to Montreal.

The weather office said the storm bringing snow, freezing rain, sleet and rain to southern Ontario will move into Quebec by tonight. Meanwhile, an outbreak of extremely cold air is moving slowly eastward across northern Ontario and will cover the province by Friday evening.

Hubby Dozes, Wife Carves Midnight Guest

TOKYO (AP) —Hefty Mrs. Kayoko Yoshino tried to rouse her sleeping husband when a knife-wielding burglar broke into their home today. He dozed on.

So Mrs. Yoshino rolled out of bed and told the burglar she would get him money from another room.

Instead, she returned with a meat knife and slashed him first time.

Finally she stirred her sleeping husband and told him to tell the wounded burglar to a police station.

On the way the burglar broke loose from Yoshino and escaped.

Arthur Godfrey Is Into New Hassle Over Cupid's Capers With TV Cast

NEW YORK (AP)—The Columbia Broadcasting System denies that co-producer Larry Puck lost his job as producer Godfrey television show because he became engaged to singer Marion Marlowe, another member of the Godfrey staff radio and TV family.

Amid reports Puck was "fired" or "demoted" because Godfrey opposed the romance, CBS president Frank Stanton issued a statement Wednesday night quoting Godfrey as follows:

"I did not fire Larry Puck. He is a very valuable member of our setup and I regret his inability to handle his new responsibilities he has exercised for the past six years.

"I'm sorry I did not know about his engagement to Marion Marlowe or both of them my blessings and best wishes."

Wednesday night on his television show, "Godfrey and His Friends"—the program for which Puck has acted as co-producer—Godfrey made two references to the romance.

As he introduced Miss Marlowe for her first song, he took her by the hand, admired her 6½-carat engagement ring, and said:

"I sure do wish you and Larry all the happiness in the world. You are two wonderful people."

Toward the end of the show, as Janette Davis sang "If I Give My Heart to You," Godfrey added and Miss Marlowe and said:

"You know who I'd like to dedicate this song to? Larry Puck's going to be, I hope he's looking in."

Puck, 35, has been on vacation for three weeks in Florida and Nassau.

On Tuesday night, it was disclosed Wednesday, Godfrey told a staff meeting of Godfrey Monday night "Talent Scouts."

Godfrey's program has denied any interference in the personal lives of members of the troupe, but some cast romances have been followed by sudden changes. One such move most publicized was in October, 1953, when Godfrey fired singer Julius La Rosa, who was courting Dorothy McGuire of the McGuire sisters, still on the Godfrey shows.

Godfrey said he fired La Rosa because the young singer had lost his "humility." La Rosa, since then, has earned an estimated $200,000.

FEDERAL GOVT. RETAINS LAWYER IN TAX CASES

Properties of Firms, Individuals Tied Up

WINNIPEG (CP) — A Winnipeg lawyer has been named by the federal justice department to determine whether there are grounds for prosecution against eight Winnipeg residents and three firms in what has been reported to be Canada's largest case of alleged non-payment of taxes.

The department has appointed A. E. Hoskin to represent it in the cases.

The property of the firms and individuals has been frozen in certificates of judgment amounting to $2,230,253, filed with the Manitoba land titles office.

LESTER HUMES

The certificates list sums allegedly owing to the revenue department and prevent disposal of property by those listed. The action does not involve a court decision but enables the department to issue writs and collect. No charges have been laid.

Writs of seize and extent, a form of garnishee under federal income tax regulations, have been issued by the sheriff's office.

The firms named in the certificates, issued out of the Exchequer Court, are Provincial Auditor Ltd., St. Boniface, Man.; Slotin, Falkenstein and Trepel, Winnipeg livestock commission firm; and Boniface Hide and Wool Co. Ltd.

Individuals named are Leo Slotin, Moses Levin, Cecia Slotin, Moses Cohen, Sam Slotin, Louis Falkenstein, Elia Trepel, Harry Falkenstein and Bertha Ludwig, formerly Bertha Slotin.

LISTED AS OFFICIALS

Harry Falkenstein is listed as president of the firm, Slotin, Falkenstein and Trepel; Elia Trepel as secretary-treasurer, also is president of the Winnipeg Livestock Exchange. Mr. Falkenstein is listed as president of both St. Boniface Auditor and St. Boniface Hide and Wool.

Those concerned have the right to appeal against the action by the Exchequer Court preventing disposal of the real property which they own or controlled.

"A legal source said the federal government case may be the biggest income tax case ever prepared "proper" documents. The firms cannot use money or property for business once these "proper" documents are filed.

Largest certificate of judgment is for $817,197 against St. Boniface Auditor Ltd., largest certificate against an individual is $219,386 against Harry Falkenstein.

South-East Portion of City Blacked Out for Two Hours

Icing conditions that cut the 44,000-volt hydro line east of the city near the Bakelite plant were blamed for the power interruptions that blanketed out the east life south of Bridge St., from 10.38 a.m. to 12.35 p.m. today. Other parts of the city were not affected.

A "slim-down" preceded the black-out that affected household-ers, stores, industrial plants and the hospital and brought the operations of this newspaper to an abrupt halt.

The power interruption was caused by a broken wire on the 44,000-volt line feeding Belleville sub-station No. 3, said O. H. Scott, manager of the Belleville Utilities Commission. Sleet and ice and the effects of the storm were blamed for the wire break.

Everything south of Bridge St. and east of the Moira was without power.

Civil units featured main courses for lunch as household kitchens were without the facilities.

At the Belleville General Hospital one operation each for appendicitis was successfully completed during the blackout with the use of auxiliary, battery-powered lighting.

Kitchen stoves went off, but emergency meals heated food wagons, were carried to the patients rooms from the kitchen on floors of the hospital staff. X-ray and laboratory services were also carried on and flashlights were used for corridor lighting.

Workers at the Bakelite Co. (Canada) Ltd., the Houston Co. Ltd., and the Belleville Hydraulic amon Manufacturing Co. of Canada Ltd., were made idle when machinery shut down. The failure.

Trade Minister Says Full World Trade Policy Threatened

BY HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—The cornerstone of Canadian and other free world trade policy is being threatened by disagreement among major powers over moves to tighten international trade rules and reduce import curbs.

Trade Minister Howe, on his return from a month-long overseas trip, told a press conference Wednesday that a Geneva conference attempting to settle world trade disputes in the 37-country General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade is "going badly."

"The whole thing is not jelling," he said, adding that he cannot rule out the possibility that the seven-year tariff pact, on which Canada has built hopes of expanding world trade, may collapse.

Should that happen, all countries that signed the agreement to reduce trade barriers generally would be free to raise or lower them as they wish. It might mean, reports say, a return to the bad days when some countries attempted to boost their trade by threat-cutting tactics.

When reporters' questions regarding Canada's economy persisted, Mr. Howe, now acting prime minister in the absence of Mr. St. Laurent, cautioned them against painting too black a picture.

The talks, he said, could yet be pulled out of the fire. They continue until Feb. 1.

"The talks are not finished yet. I think there still will be a GATT."

On his return, Mr. Howe was in contrast to remarks of Finance Minister Harris, preceded him home from the first phase of the Geneva conference. He had expressed hopes that moves by Canada and other countries to lower barriers through which GATT countries could employ import restrictions to further their own trade policies would be accepted.

However, it now is understood that at least one major trading power is not willing to go any freer rather than tighter trade rules.

Mr. Howe did not name the country, but he said:

"Everyone wants more trade freedom, for himself and more restrictions for everyone else. . . . I wouldn't rule out that the whole GATT may collapse. . . . That is the worst thing possible that could happen."

Meanwhile, Canada was making plans to hold another economic conference with the United States.

This would be another meeting of the ministerial-level Canada-U.S. committee on trade and prices, possibly in Ottawa early next year. Mr. Howe said he discussed the proposed conference with U.S. Treasury Secretary Humphrey while overseas.

Should GATT collapse, he said, Canada-U.S. tariffs would be a major item on the committee agenda. Asked what other problems would be discussed, Mr. Howe replied "We always have problems. . . . there is no one issue."

Touching on other issues, he said:

He hopes the first leg in the $300,000,000 trans-Canada natural gas pipeline from Alberta to the East will be completed by November, 1957, despite slowdown in financing arrangements. The first pipe will be in Winnipeg.

World commodity prices are declining and he hoped Canada would benefit from the lower prices. But he said the decline would not affect Canada's wheat prices. They would remain steady. Exports likely would increase because of lower prices, he added.

Canada's mutual aid contribution to NATO for the current year will likely be as great or greater than the $300,000,000 allocated for the current period for the current fiscal year.

Police Trying To Find Motive For Stabbing

MONTREAL (CP)—Police today were trying to find a motive for the 70-year-old man who Wednesday night stabbed his landlady, set fire to her apartment in two back to cases and walked out of a window to his own home in the city sidewalk three storeys below.

Police said Carl Ross used a four-inch kitchen knife to stab Mrs. Ethel Handelman, 70, in the chest, right arm, back and head. Mrs. Handelman was taken to hospital where her condition was said to be not serious.

Mrs. Handelman told police she had argued with Ross. She said that after Ross stabbed her, he sprinkled lighter fluid about the room and then ignited it. Police said Mrs. Handelman told them Ross then jumped out, took his packed suitcases and walked out the window. Police found him dead when they arrived.

Hunter Shot In Chest While On Wolf Hunt

TRENTON, (Special) — Trenton man suffered a serious gunshot wound on an organized wolf hunt in Brighton Township near Codrington yesterday. Wilfred Orr, 31, R.R. 3, Trenton, was rushed to the Trenton Memorial Hospital by fellow hunter Bill Brown. He had been shot in the chest but never lost consciousness. He was removed to the Kingston General Hospital for surgery last night. A report from Kingston today indicated Mr. Orr rested comfortably last night.

The accidental shooting is under investigation by the Brighton detachment of the provincial police.

STRUCK BY LADDER

An elderly Trenton resident was struck by a falling ladder in front of the Odeon Theatre here this morning. Rushed to Trenton Memorial Hospital X-rays determined Mrs. Mary Tessel, 74, of 83 Queen, suffered severe leg injuries.

Caught by a gust of wind the 18-foot ladder toppled over while a theatre employee, working there, was changing the titles on the marquee. The sidewalk underneath the marquee was closed due to melting snow which packed down and formed ice. Mrs. Tessel was on her way downtown on foot passing the theatre when she was hit.

Her son, Samuel Tessel is the proprietor of a drug store in Picton.

FIRE CHIEF RETIRES

Trenton's 76-year-old fire chief is retiring on Friday after more than 50 years of service.

Fire Chief Harry Fillion joined the department as a volunteer more than a half a century ago and since 1939 has been in charge of the brigade.

Chief Fillion's loyalty and devotion to the Trenton Fire Department received a special tribute from Mayor Rost Bortt, and members of the town council.

Council has not announced the name of the replacement for Trenton's retiring chief.

All Provinces Will Join Plan To Aid Disabled

OTTAWA (CP)—All 10 provinces have said they intend to join a federal-provincial plan of allowances for disabled persons, the health department announced today.

The plan will cover those totally disabled contributors to the old age pension, including mental hospital patients unable to care for themselves.

The announcement said the date on which agreements will be signed by any province depends on the decision of the provincial governments.

Federal legislation permitting the sharing of half the cost of monthly allowances, up to a $30 contribution, comes into effect with the new year. A spokesman said signed agreements from the provinces are already starting to arrive here.

Allowances will be paid under means test to totally and permanently disabled persons between 18 and 65.

ROSS JEWELRY STORE

First Salvation Army Children's Village Opened

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—The first Salvation Army children's village in Canada was officially opened Wednesday.

The $222,000 community for orphans and under-privileged children was opened by Speaking pain by Commissioner William B. Dalziel, territorial commander for Canada and Bermuda. It was the commissioner's last official act before his forthcoming retirement.

Lt.-Col. H. Berry of provincial welfare department said the village fills a long-standing need in the pattern of Ontario's social service and that it will incorporate the best of the institutional and foster home care.

The village located in east London, is a memorial to the late Albert McCarvey, Londoner who made a fortune in Russia. Mr. McCarvey bequeathed $150,000 for a community home for children's home.

Cellmate Tells Inquest About Boy's Suicide

GUELPH (CP)—The reformatory cellmate of 19-year-old Lawrence Thompson said Wednesday that Thompson told him just before committing suicide:

"Don't bother me, I'm hanging myself."

Leonard Lake Morrow, 20, of Orillia told a coroner's jury he tried to talk Thompson out of suicide but the victim just said "it will be a short time now."

Morrow was testifying at the inquest into Thompson's death at Guelph reformatory Dec. 16. The jury absolved reformatory officials of any blame in the incident and recommended that all prisoners confined to detention cells be kept under close watch.

The jury decided that Thompson, from Toronto, died by self-inflicted strangulation. He was serving a term for theft when he apparently tied his shirt around his neck, looped it over a cell cross bar and jumped from his cot.

Superintendent Gerald A. Wright said Thompson, confined to his cell in a block reserved for troublesome prisoners, refused to work in the tailor shop, saying he would rather be locked up. The boy was sent to Guelph Sept. 30 and previously sent to Guelph Sept. 30 and previously was a ward of the training school at Bowmanville.

C.N.R. Suffers Business Decline During Year

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadian National Railways suffered a decline in business in 1954, Donald Gordon, CNR president, said Wednesday in a year-end statement to Canada's 100,000 railway employees.

Among other changes in 1954, CNR incorporated its hotel system as a wholly-owned subsidiary and pushed ahead with building of its new Queen Elizabeth Hotel in Montreal. Diesel units were phased down, except at the new Jasper Lodge which had a successful season.

Canadian National Telegraphs opened overseas radio facilities between Toronto-Hamilton - Kitchener and Montreal for radiotelephone television programs. A Montreal-Quebec link was being built. The Canadian National Steamships fleet completed five more vessels for Canada-West Indies service than in 1953.

Group of Wives Wants to Have Say in Disputes

WINDSOR (CP) — A group of wives of striking Ford of Canada employees were trying to organize a permanent organization to interfere in any future labor disputes between company and workers.

Mrs. Ruth Lawson, chairman of the group said Wednesday they have arranged a meeting here today (at 2 p.m. EST) in a downtown auditorium, said she felt the wives should have the right to take part in such talks.

"We are the first ones to feel the pinch when pay cheques stop coming in," she said. "We are the ones who have to plan menus and try to get food together and meet the bills."

DECLINE COMMENT

Officials of the United Automobile Workers (CIO-CCL) here declined to comment on the meeting.

Union strictly up to Ottawa, one spokesman said. "It's got nothing to do with us."

All wives of the Ford workers have been invited to attend the meeting. They will be asked to form a resolution, to be sent to top management and the UAW, which will clarify the position of the wives in the present 11-week strike.

Mrs. Lawson said some persons have said the wives are 100 per cent behind a back-to-work movement, and others said they whole-heartedly support the union.

ABOUT TIME

"It's about time we met to define exactly what we stand for," she said.

"We are not out to break the union, but we fear the union may break itself unless some settlement is reached soon. Something must be settled some day and it seems to me the men could continue working while negotiations are going on."

Mrs. Lawson said she hoped the meeting would create an organization which would go into action at the first sign of trouble in future disputes. She said the group could ask both company and union to be more responsible during negotiations, so strikes would not be necessary.

FIRE DEATHS 15

TORONTO (CP)—Fifteen persons lost their lives in Toronto fires in 1954, the fire chief's office alarms set a record for the Toronto fire department.

Fire department records show 164 persons were injured in fires including 102 firemen. Total property damage was $2,400,000. $400,000 below the figure for 1953.

Will 'Demand' Not Beg For Release of U.S. Fliers

U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold is shown as he told a news conference in New York that his "mission to Beijing" on Jan. 4 ruled out any "begging" approach to Chinese Communist Premier Chou En-lai and that he will limit himself strictly to demanding release of the 11 American prisoners sentenced to jail on spy charges and other U.N. personnel. Hammarskjold, who just returned from Stockholm, will confer with Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden in London and Prime Minister Nehru in New Delhi while en route to Peking, capital of Red China. Hammarskjold arranged to meet Chou En-lai after the U.N. condemned the Chinese for imprisoning the fliers and directed the secretary-general to make one personal attempt to gain their freedom.—Central Press Canadian.

Hammarskjold Starts on Mission To Release Flyers

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Dag Hammarskjold packed his clothes and his briefcase today for the start Jan. 4 of his mission to be handed a United Nations secretary-general—seeking the release of 11 United States fliers and other U.N. personnel imprisoned by Communist China.

Accompanied by a small party of aides and advisers, Hammarskjold was expected to leave New York's Idlewild airport (at 3:40 p.m. EST) this afternoon for London on the first leg of his trip to Peiping.

Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., chief U.S. delegate to the UN, planned to be on hand to bid the secretary-general farewell. It was Lodge who pushed passage of the UN assembly resolution authorizing Hammarskjold to take "unremitting efforts" for the prisoners' release.

4 COUNTRIES

Aircraft of four countries are lined up for the mission—a Super Constellation of the U.S. military air transport service in London, a British government plane to New Delhi, an Indian government plane from Bombay to Peiping and a Swedish plane on to Peiping.

Hammarskjold is expected to leave London Saturday. In New Delhi he is to confer with India's Prime Minister Nehru. He expects to arrive in Peiping Jan. 4 or 5 for his talks with Premier Chou En-lai.

Flying all the way with the UN envoy are Ahmed S. Bokhari, who becomes UN undersecretary beading the department of information Jan. 1; Per Lind, Swedish diplomat who is an executive assistant; Miss Asa Alm, Hammarskjold's Norwegian secretary; and William Hanalio, his personal aide and only American in the group.

Dr. Sheppard's Lawyers Move For New Trial

CLEVELAND (AP)—Dr. Samuel Sheppard's lawyers were due back in court today for a new trial for the osteopath who was convicted of killing his pretty wife, William J. Corrigan, chief defence counsel, filed a motion contending there were 41 errors in the 10-week trial at which Sheppard was found guilty of second-degree murder.

Judge Edward Blythin, who sentenced Sheppard to life imprisonment, was to hear the motion.

Corrigan, who contends that widespread newspaper, television and radio coverage made a fair and impartial trial impossible, Wednesday issued five subpoenas for the hearing.

3 MEMBERSHIPS

Called as witnesses were three members of the jury—foreman James A. Bird, Mrs. Stella Williams and Mrs. Louis K. Feuchter as well as the mayor of Bay Village and a newspaper reporter.

Mayor J. Spencer Houk, a close friend of Sheppard, was the first person summoned by the doctor after the killings. The body of Sheppard's pregnant wife was found on a blood-soaked bed. The mayor said the subpoena was a surprise to him.

Reporter Paul Holmes of the Cleveland Plain Dealer was the newspaper man subpoenaed. He is one of the few reporters to reach the suburban lakefront home of the Sheppards. He described the scene as a feature story about his experiences.

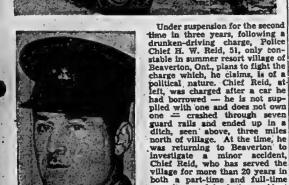
Hog Producers Want Marketing Agency Endorsed

TORONTO. Endorsation of the Ontario hog producers marketing agency by the Ontario Federation of Agriculture will be asked in a resolution to be discussed at the annual meeting of the Federation in Toronto early in January. (At present all hogs commercially slaughtered in the province are marketed by an agency hired by the Ontario Hog Producers Marketing Board.) The resolution asks the Ontario Federation to work with the hog producers marketing board and agency to improve the agency's methods so that agency marketing of hogs will become more efficient, effective and satisfactory to all producers. The resolution suggests that the outcome of this first experiment in agency marketing will influence the marketing of other farm products in the future.

The Ontario Federation of Agriculture includes as member organizations 33 commodity, co-operative and educational groups in the province as well as 49 county and district Federations of Agriculture. Between 500 and 600 delegates from these 82 organizations will meet in the King Edward Hotel in Toronto on January 5, 6 and 7 to discuss and formulate a Federation policy for the coming year. The Junior Farmers' Association of Ontario and the women in the Federation will meet on January 4.

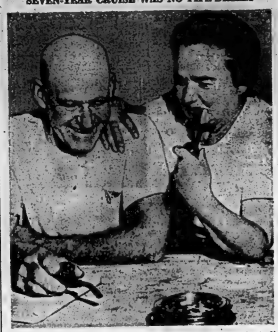
The agenda makes provision for a full afternoon's discussion (January 6) on farm marketing legislation and the meeting will be asked to endorse the Federation's request for new marketing legislation required by the principle of agency marketing.

Other resolutions to be discussed include requests for: (1) a new provincial government portfolio to provide for a full-time minister of marketing and co-operation; and (2) greater co-ordination between the existing farm organizations so that these organizations could more easily join in promoting specific projects.



Dazed By Visit From Death Over Xmas Holidays

Dazed by the deaths of two of their eight children over Christmas holidays, Mr. and Mrs. Gerard Elliott were shaken even more after hearing that a rumor attributed the deaths of Donna Marie, eight months, and David, 26 months, to malnutrition. "How can it be?" asked Mr. Elliott, who lives on a farm 20 miles from Brockville, Ont. "I make less than $50 a week as a transport driver, and I spend more than $30 a week on food. Perhaps the diet wasn't scientifically balanced, but it was all good food, the best we could give them." His grocer in Brockville was quick to back him up, describing the Elliotts as "just about our best customers." Always a "delicate child", Donna Marie died a few hours after she was taken to hospital in Brockville because she had no appetite. Rushed to same hospital the next day with a fever, David died the following morning. An inquest determined that death in both cases was caused by pneumonia. — Central Press Canadian.



POLICE CHIEF BLAMES POLITICS FOR SUSPENSION

Under suspension for the second time in three years, following a drunken-driving charge, Police Chief H. W. Reid, 51, only constable in summer resort village of Beaverton, Ont., plans to fight the charge which, he claims, is of a political nature. Chief Reid, at left, was charged after a car he had borrowed — he is not supplied with one and does not own one — crashed through seven guard rails and ended up in a ditch, seen above, three miles north of village. At the time, he was returning to Beaverton to investigate a minor accident. Chief Reid, who has served the village for more than 20 years in both a part-time and full-time capacity, explained the accident in which he was involved occurred when he was forced off the snow-covered road by an oncoming car. — Central Press Canadian.

SEVEN-YEAR CRUISE WAS NO PIPE-DREAM

Seven years ago, Harry Scott, a surveyor in Sydney, Australia, and his wife, Oceana, started out on a long sail in their 43-foot ketch, something they had wanted to do for years. Now with the trip just a memory, the adventurous couple smoke their pipes as they trace the course of their seven-year sea voyage after their arrival in their small boat in Port Hueneme, near Oxnard, California. — Central Press Canadian.

Twenty Officers Canadian Navy Given Promotion

OTTAWA (CP) — Commander Antony F. Pickard, who was navigator of one of two corvettes which accounted for the first German U-boat sinking by Canadian warships in the Second World War, has been promoted to captain, the navy announced today in its half-yearly promotions list.

Twenty officers, including 13 from the regular force and seven from the reserve, were on the list with three being promoted to captain, the navy's fifth highest rank.

The others to attain this rank were Cmdr. Patrick F. K. Russell, 38, of Vancouver, RCN director of the joint RCN-RCAF maritime warfare school at Rollfax since last September, and Cmdr. G. A. Victor Thomson, 39, reserve officer commanding HMCS Malahat, Victoria, B. C.

IN ON FIRST KILL

Capt. Pickard, 41-year-old native of Victoria, was aboard the corvette Chambly when it made the Canadian navy's first U-boat kill in September, 1941, with the assistance of the corvette Moose Jaw. Capt. Pickard was mentioned in despatches for his part.

Capt. Pickard received the OBE in 1944 for his services in command of various Canadian warships. Since the Second World War he has commanded the destroyer Haida, been executive officer of the training cruiser Quebec and director of service conditions and welfare at naval headquarters here.

Capt. Russell is an anti-submarine specialist who was born in Bristol, England, but educated in Vancouver.

He was one of 34 men of the 176 aboard the destroyer Margaree who survived its sinking after a collision with a merchant ship in the Atlantic in October, 1940. Subsequently, as commander of the destroyer Skeena, he was twice mentioned in despatches for actions with enemy forces in north European waters.

ANTI-SUB EXPERT

Capt. Russell took a specialist anti-submarine course before the war and since 1945 his appointments have included anti-submarine training officer at HMCS Somerset, naval attaché and commander of the torpedo anti-submarine school at Halifax.

Capt. Thomson was mentioned in despatches and received the Croix de Guerre for his work as commander of the corvette Lindsay in the English channel during the Allied invasion of the Continent.

All other officers on the list were promoted to the rank of commander for the Atlantic at Norfolk, Va. Both were made commanders.

Couple Charged After 2 of Their Children Die

BROCKVILLE (CP) — Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Elliott of North Augusta, Wednesday were charged with neglecting to provide the necessities of life for their 11-month-old daughter, Donna Marie, who died in hospital Christmas night after being stricken with pneumonia.

A son, David, aged 26 months, died Tuesday.

In an interview at their farm near North Augusta, a hamlet 22 miles north of here, the Elliotts said they usually spent $30 a week on food for their family. They have six other children.

Crown attorney Harworth Atkinson said a second charge may be laid in connection with David's death.

CAN'T DISCUSS IT

Autopsies were performed on the children and provincial pathologist Dr. W. D. Hay of Kingston reported the terminal cause of death was pneumonia. He said the case was important and that he was not at liberty to discuss it.

The parents were summonsed rather than arrested, so that they might look after their six remaining children, all reported in good health by Children's Aid Society officials. The parents are expected to appear in court next week.

Mrs. Elliott said Donna, always a delicate child, refused to touch her bottle of milk Christmas afternoon and she and her husband became worried. They asked a neighbor to drive them to the doctor and later Donna was taken to hospital.

BECAME FEVERISH

Next day, while the family was completing funeral arrangements, David developed a fever and was taken to hospital, Mrs. Elliott said. He died Tuesday morning.

Inquests were ordered on each child because of a rule which requires one when any person dies within 24 hours after admission to hospital.

The parents described as fantastic reports that the children had died from malnutrition.

"I make less than $50 a week as a transport driver, and I spend more than $30 on food," Mr. Elliott said.

GOOD CUSTOMERS

His grocer, William Henderson of Brockville, said the Elliotts were "just about our best customers."

Mrs. Elliott said David and Donna were delicate babies. She said they seemed to eat lots but didn't grow.

"David was in the hospital twice before, once because tinned milk didn't agree with him, and a second time it had something to do with his stomach," she said.

She said Donna had been sick for about a week before Christmas.

More Energy Harnessed During '54 Then Ever Before

The year's increase was equivalent to nearly 12 per cent of all power capacity previously developed and a year-end statement by Resources Minister Lesage promulated the end is not in sight.

New generating stations funnelled 1,758,450 horsepower into power lines to keep Canada among the world's top power producers. Canada stands next to the United States in the Free World in total hydro capacity, and second only to Norway in hydro available to each person.

TWO GREAT PROJECTS

Two new projects, at Niagara Falls and at the remote Kemano-Kitimat aluminum development on the British Columbia coast, provided two-thirds of the new power.

The year's increase brought the country's total hydro-electric power capacity to 16,684,200 horsepower.

That total represents less than 28 per cent of the country's water power resources and the statement said that "continuing improvement in the technique of long-distance transmission of electrical energy is tending to make more remote sites available for connection to existing generating systems."

Looking into the future, Mr. Lesage said plants under construction will add 3,000,000 horsepower by 1955 and a further 2,500,000 horsepower is in sight from projects planned to the end of 1958.

THREE BIG JOBS

In 1955, three major projects will go into operation, with a further 325,000 horsepower from Niagara, 158,500 from Quebec's Shawinigan Water and Power Company and 150,000 at Kitimat.

After that, Ontario is expected by 1958 to get its half share of the 2,300,000 horsepower to be developed in the St. Lawrence river's international section, and a new project at Niagara will add 240,000 more.

Major developments in Ontario include:

1. Sir Adam Beck-Niagara No. 2 — First three generating units in service by the end of August, four more expected in operation by the end of the year and five remaining in the initial phase of development due for 1955 service. Total capacity of 12 turbines will be 1,260,000 h. p.

NEW NIPIGON UNITS

2. Construction continued on the 1,550-foot control dam above Niagara Falls, partly in connection with the Beck-Niagara project. The work is expected to be completed to the first stage by next April.

3. Two additional units of 45,000 h. p. were to be completed in the Pine Portage station on the Nipigon river, bringing total capacity to 172,000 h. p.

4. Construction started on a development at Manitou falls on the English river. Plans are for three 18,500-horsepower units with a fourth when required, initial operation slated for 1956.

A QUESTION OF SALARY

Members of the Ontario Provincial Police are not threatening to quit their jobs because of dissatisfaction with their pay.

"That is not to say the men are satisfied with their pay," said a spokesman who denied a report that the policemen, impatient over delay in granting promised raises and bonuses, were talking of leaving their jobs.

Job-hunting would not be an easy task under existing conditions and at this time of year. Many a policeman has had little experience in other types of work and would find it difficult to obtain a job which would pay him a higher salary than that which he is receiving as a member of the Provincial Police.

That does not mean, though, that the present salary schedule is necessarily adequate or fair.

A new pay schedule established last year gives constables $2,640 to start, $2,740 after six months and $3,300 after a year maximum after three years of service. A $120 cost-of-living bonus is also paid.

After three years of service a constable thus obtains the equivalent of $65.77 a week.

It is not a starvation wage but—

A policeman works a long week, six eight-hour days or more nights.

He is out in all kinds of weather.

Often the nature of his job is unpleasant.

Not infrequently he is required to risk his life.

A member of the Provincial Police collects no witness fees—those must legally be levied by the magistrate and are retained by the province, the policeman's employer.

Some constables, of course, win promotions and higher salaries, but the nature of the work is such that promotions are not possible for every veteran constable, even though he has served with his patrol for many years.

Service pay is small—an extra $24 after five years' service, $48 a year after ten years, $72 after 15 years, $96 after 20 years.

Some provincial policemen are stationed in centres where $65.77 a week may be regarded as a high wage, but there are others, in larger cities, who must find it difficult to balance the family budget.

These are factors which ought to be kept in mind by the public which, in the final analysis, pays the salaries of policemen.

What is a fair wage to pay a man who must brave the worst storms; who is never certain, when he may be called on duty; who, on small detachments, may find himself working night and day during a steady stream of crimes or accidents?

What is a fair wage to pay to ensure that there is always an adequate supply of bright young men preparing themselves to fill important posts in one of the most essential services of the province?

NEW BRITISH UNION

The Trades Union Congress, Britain's biggest labor organization, has just admitted another-union. It is the Association Football Players' and Trainers' Union. There are 2,334 members.

"Small but mighty" could well be its official motto. There are "locals" of some unions on this continent—and almost certainly in British, too—which boast much larger memberships. But few unions have it in their power to mean so much to so many.

Of course, not all soccer players in Britain are members of the union. Some players are not professionals, but in the British sense; they are "gentlemen." Gentlemen in the British sense; they are "gentlemen." Gentlemen in the British sense; they are players who play but do not get paid. That does not mean that they are not good enough to command salaries. Some of them are amateurs in the best sense of the word. They do not, however, have to depend upon their ability to kick a ball for their livelihood. The Briton, even in this twentieth century, is such a funny animal that he does not demand enough pound notes to get many an amateur player happily with professionals on the same team.

The professionals are badly in need of a union.

Their first-class soccer player may be set for an era which is more than it is likely to receive in salary during his entire playing career. Top salaries would make many a cricketer on this continent curl his lip in sneering disdain. The world will await developments.

Will some Saturday afternoon, with stadia packed from the downs of Wessex to the glens of the Highlands, see a new demonstration of the might of organized labor? What effect would it have on the popularity of soccer in the Old Country? And what would gentlemen do if they found players staging a sitdown strike? Will a demand for a shorter week mean that it can get only so many hours to the crease for substitution? If a walkout occurs, will the Government call out the troops to take over the Saturday soccer shift?

THAT OTHERS MAY LIVE

In a rocket-propelled open sled, he travelled 632 miles per hour.

Stapp and acceleration subjected him to a pressure of nine G's, or nine times the pressure of gravity. Even more rapid deceleration placed his body under a pressure of 27 G's.

He risked his life, and escaped with two black eyes, suffered when his eyeballs became uncaged during deceleration; a two-second period of blindness and some small blood blisters.

If Stapp had merely been seeking to set a new speed record, one might be pardoned for observing that the man was a fool forgetting him.

Stapp, however, is not interested in speed records. He risked his life in order that he may be able to save the lives of others. His sled was a test to enable him to devise means by which airmen can bail out safely from planes travelling at supersonic speeds.

Today's knights still wear shining armor, although style has changed somewhat different than in those days of chivalry which some unthinking people maintain are dead.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

A GREAT INSTITUTION

In a free land there are scores of useful institutions whose worth I spell a universal welcome. There is one great institution, however, that has not been given its just due. I refer to the Second-Hand Bookshop. It is one of the most delightful of all institutions. Many are the treasures that I have purchased in these shops for no more than would be spent for a modest meal. One can spend hours in a Second-Hand Book-shop, hardly noting the passing of time. You will step into old fields and be introduced to new ones. You become a traveller in many lands, and if you visit one of those shops where the proprietor has a little den in the rear where he will tempt you with many a guarded gem, you have partaken of a rare intellectual feat. I have left many such a place a poorer but happier man.

In my town there are dozens of such shops as I have hinted about, and all are mines of literary wealth. Many a precious first edition has been discovered in the unpretentious stalls of books. The late Mitchell Kennerley once wrote a pamphlet called "My Textbook of Literary First Editions." You see, the real and genuine wealth of a book is priced deep in the heart of the one who buys it for his own. It is difficult for me to leave a Second-Hand Bookshop, even though I do not buy anything. I love to walk around and smell its book aroma, talk with the proprietor, and handle carefully volume after volume. You never quite know when one of them will silently whisper: "Please take me home with you!" How many an orphan book must look down upon me as I wrife from my desk, and how many a prospective friend I have taken to the library—just for company to the many others that fill my book shelves, like lines of friendly soldiers in their colorful garb and decorations. I would not last in a world with no Second-Hand Bookshops!

JUST FOLKS

DISAPPOINTMENT

Disappointed? Calmly take it.
Some small plan has gone astray?
Grumbling will not easier make it
Silent better 'tis to stay.

Vain it is to talk about it,
Other folks have woes to bear,
Even though you loudly shout it,
Little time have they to spare.

When they ask you how you're feeling,
"Well" is what they want to hear.
If you are in need of healing,
Try to get your doctor's ear.

Trouble? Since we all must face it,
Try to make the best of it.
Courage may with pride replace it
Whimpering will not help a bit.

More Books Than Time

... (London (Eng.) Times) ...

If one read 150 books a year for 20 years without ever reading any book twice—and who could ever contemplate such a thing?—then one would have read only 3,000 books. In 50 years of reading, day and night, that would be 9,000 volumes. The number of people who have read 10,000 books must be very small. Yet when one sees 10,000 books assembled in a library, they seem ed a mere corner of the whole field of literature.

Must Expose Crime's Kings

(Montreal Gazette)

The new administration at City Hall has undertaken to "clean up" the city. That is worthy aim. But it has become clear that nothing very much will ever be cleaned up unless those behind crime are reached and stifled.

In short, if the new administration is to do the job it says it intends to do, it must accomplish something in Montreal that has never been accomplished before. It must not simply seek and prosecute the pawns in the game of crime; it must reach the higher-up lily hands upon the principals. Unless it does that, it will be merely moving the shadows in the shadows, leaving the powers that be comfortably undisturbed in the seat of the crime world's mighty.

The Montreal judgment delivered by Mr. Justice Caron in October exposed the extent of crime in Montreal, but it did not expose the real source or direction of it. Mr. Caron himself was the chief adverse investigator. His judgment had to be delivered in accordance with evidence dealt with.

The evidence was quite sufficient to indicate clearly that the crime, which existed openly, was not secret. (I secretly, but not openly, for those behind the scenes to give protection to the gambler and prostitution should be closed, when there was danger of their exposure. Montreal is not at bounds during the war.

Who were these powers behind the scenes? Mr. Justice Caron said that the source of such control "would not be determined." But unless the source is determined, nothing will be accomplished.

Making raids is commendable, as far as it goes. But no city government has ever been able to deal with commercialized vice simply by raiding it. It is like treating symptoms instead of the disease. It can have no more than only temporary things appear better than they are.

The problem now is the same as it was when Montreal is not a modern problem. It is hoary with antiquity. Mr. Caron put his finger on it very pointedly, when delivering his judgment in an earlier vice inquiry of 1925.

He said: "The third party protectors on the wages of the city or two—it might be better to state that the fall of the one and the decision of the other would have been brought that third party scandalous practices. These practices have been made in Montreal for nearly a century, and they will continue as the city has had a police force . . ."

The answer, certainly, will not be found by only dramatizing police methods. No answer lies in rooting to the ranks of the city courts of police cars, and descending like eagles upon nests of neighborhood only resulting in a line of-familiar characters before the bar of justice on the following morning.

It is in the "undetermined source" that the evil lies. The determination of the source was proved in the vice probe. Its identity was not determined.

The real challenge before the new administration is not only to dig deep in it is prepared to delve. It is, even more, the challenge of how high it is prepared to reach.

Big Business Can Err, Too

(Ottawa Journal)

It leaked out in Wall Street the other day that the New York Stock Exchange had sold for $74,000 a seat that didn't have even the exchange governors set out to buy a seat so they could resell it at a profit. Those who already sold they were shocked to find the going price was $50,000. Which just goes to they finally got one for $75,000, at a loss to the Exchange of $1,000.

What does this prove? Simply that the big boys of business can make mistakes, too. Also that not all the intelligence in administration is with the government.

If one of our government branches had made a mistake such as these Wall Street wizards did a lot of businessmen would be declaiming against the levy to lower bureaucrats, insisting that the best business brains could cut out such inefficiency and should be given a chance to do so.

And — let's out with it — there are times when we wonder whether all the "waste" we hear of in government isn't matched and perhaps more in the private big businesses and industries!

Shrunken Head In Santa's Bag?

(Wall Street Journal)

Time was when the Christmas gift list was limited to candy, toys and ties. Now reports from Chicago in a round-up of offerings by local merchants show that shrunken heads, live barros and dinosaur tracks have joined the jingling bells.

Well, we never were among those who oppose progress, nor who look a gift horse in the mouth, even at feeding time. The thing to remember on Christmas day is not the gift but the sentiment. And the dinosaur tracks, a reporter tells us, are quarried slabs of rock that can be used to decorate fireplaces, gardens or even as calling-card trays placed appropriately beneath the knocker. In particular, we like the shrunken head, especially when it comes to New Year's morning.

We're a little disappointed to report that the most interesting gift we've seen on the market this Christmas. A carpet company has produced a line of rugs which has two phosphorescent bands on each side that enable you to find them in the dark. This, of course, allows the thoughtful husband to navigate to the kitchen without waking the whole family. Our information is that the phosphorescence is entirely harmless, even with your shoes in your hand.

We'd like to suggest however, that the manufacturer's matrimonial tranquility may need one further improvement. He should have them cut out some phosphorescence for the front door keyhole, if they haven't already done so.

All these gifts are unquestionably useful. But if you're old-fashioned, you may find the old-fashioned ones the best. They're much easier just to rewrap last year's Christmas ties.

Real Aims Of Education

(Hamilton Spectator)

We cannot claim any special knowledge on the subject of education, but sometimes feel that we were quite frank we would admit that th whole business is a bit of a mystery, not at the Cabbala. It was then, with some interest that we read in the London Daily Express of an English headmistress in a girls' school who has thrown some light on—for us—unrodden path she has defined the aims of her institution. Briefly, the school. These aims have so much sound sense in them that they ought to be a wider notice.

These aims are: "Read well and understand what you read; speak so that your speech is pleasant to hear; keep your body strong and healthy; be trained to run your future homes; and have as wide a knowledge as possible about the world you live in as is possible by the time you leave school."

In the end, education can be reduced to simple terms, to these terms of the least in part, within the reach even of those for whom the aim is a distant and dreadful. To read, to speak pleasantly, to gain an understanding of the world, to excel in the "examination mind," and if the practices pass muster, to be trained to add to these qualities, a person possessing them needs no longer fear of being considered "uneducated" anywhere in the world.

The object of school is to train you to be educated citizens of the country to which you owe so proud a belong—educated citizens who we hope will play a part in the future to help the world a better for and finer place," says this headmistress.

In this mechanical and scientific world, the aims of liberal education are apt to be overlooked in the almost frantic desire to equip youth to grapple with technical problems of the age. Utilitarianism is the enemy of humanism. It is pleasing to find the aims of a school education stated, and without a single reference to an examination or a career.

Bachelor Editor

(Millaway Gazette)

We like these letters and like to publish them. We like them so much that we like one we received the other day from a bachelor in rather uncomplimentary terms. We think this is taking rather unfair advantage of a situation over which we have no control—so far this editor hasn't found the girl who would be darn fool enough to marry him.

Personal Health Talks

THE BUREAUCRATS CRACK DOWN

No telling how long it will be till the paternal federal government bureaucrats decide to co-operate with the nostrum quacks in the interests by cracking down on still another home remedy which I recommend to you poor soul I have, namely, chamomile tea. And I'm sort of glad now I expect you will begin telling me that when you try to replenish your supply of chamomile flowers (English, Roman, German, Hungarian, whatever fancy name you prefer) the druggist now informs you that you'll have to get a prescription, and if you try to make out you needed no prescription when you bought it before he'll squelch you by showing you the law on the subject entitled "Not to be dispensed without prescription." No, you won't have to give up, hand over $5 and get the prescription as the "law" demands.

Dr. Brady

Chamomile tea moistened dressings to soothe and speed the healing of leg sores.

In Little Lesson No. 5, Call It C R I, I mentioned household use, for children or adults, of a home made cough medicine, made of a teaspoon of which is citrate of soda (sodium citrate). Many thousands of readers have who helped up and used batches of this for the relief of cough and they have found it highly satisfactory, particularly for young children and for elderly folk with hard cough.

Too many thousands. I'm afraid, hence too many sales of dope prevented. Anyway, all of a sudden it became difficult or impossible to get sodium citrate —the usual dodge, printed on the side the familiar warning "To be sold only on prescription." Yet there are dangerous chemical sodium citrate, was for many years used in modifying milk for infant feeding—one to two grains of the salt was added to each ounce of milk used in the mixture, to prevent the formation of large hard curds. Although this practice has been superseded by the use of lime water, cereal gruels etc. it seems odd that what was harmless enough to feed babies every day has suddenly become unsafe to entrust to plain people to cook up for occasional use at home.

But wait. You haven't heard the half of it yet. For years I have recommended a corn remedy (collie, please, I do not call it a "cure") which was an old standby long before I began calling folks names. Composed of a mixture of thirty grains (30 grains), about one-half teaspoonful of powdered borax in enough fluid-ounce, (about a tablespoonful) of flexible collodion. This is painted on corn, wart or callus once a day for a week, or longer time it will have softened so you can wipe it away. Yahuh!

Now a Washington scientist tells the world that a druggist cannot legally sell 30 grains of salicylic acid without a prescription, and there you are again.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

If an intruder enters your home, don't waste time facing him. As he comes in one door, you go out the other and skip into the house next door and dial police.

Two women were watching television when a burglar broke in. When they came a ring at the front door. One of the ladies answered, and a tough stranger simply pushed in and shut the door. It transpired later, from footprints in the snow, that the intruder had come around the side of the house and looked in the window long enough to figure the risk that nobody but the two women were home.

He picked a candlestick off the mantel, and when this fact was reported to the police, he threatened the women into going ahead of him from room to room as he searched the house for articles of value he could put in his pockets, and for money he got from purses. He then locked the two in an upstairs room and made his escape at leisure.

"What you should have done," the police explained to the ladies, "was, the minute that stranger opened the door, you should have darted for the back door or side door, the locked it behind you and skip into the next door."

"If he chased me . . ?" enquired the lady who had been robbed.

"Then the other should have darted out the front door," said the police. "I know most ladies are paralyzed when things like this occur, but there are always two good rules to remember about crooks. They are terrified of noise and they are terrified of sudden action. If you had suddenly run, he would have assumed you were running for the man of the house, who might have been in the kitchen. He would reasoned, he would have gone out that door like a bat, and he would suppose the man of the house, weighing three hundred pounds and carrying a shotgun, was hotly pounding down the stairs."

"Crooks," said the police, "are more scared of screams and women running in all directions than they are of us cops."

Strength for the Day

BRACE UP

Life retains its relish just so long as we have something to look forward to. If there is one thing that lifts life up and makes it worth the living, it is just that—having something to look forward to.

One reason why old people are often unhappy is because they don't believe they have nothing to look forward to. Young people very frequently, after they have met setbacks, reverses, throw up their hands in despair and say that because they have been disappointed in love, or flunked out of college, or failed with something, or lost their savings on a horse race, they have nothing in life to look forward to.

But of course we all have something to look forward to. Youth has a whole life to look forward to. It is utterly ridiculous for any young person to give up in despair and declare himself a failure. He has at least long enough either to succeed or fail. Even old people have a right to expect that any that they have nothing to look forward to. They usually have quite a number of reflection. One cherished such a few decades ago. Many cherished memories and enjoyment.

But old and young alike, we have this to look forward to, too. Life here is not all a little segment of an eternal destiny. Thank heaven for that. There is a future and wonderful one who will have it so.

Don't say you have nothing to look forward to. If you are a child of the Most High God, who will never let you down and who goes to you the thrilling adventure of eternal life.

Such a little egg . . . such a large man . . . and such consternation on the face of BFC Gordon R. Wille, of Springfield, Ohio, who weighs 320 pounds and is six feet, seven inches tall. Why the consternation? Well, U.S. army authorities in Germany have decreed that some soldiers are getting too fat and that they will have to diet. That one egg is all that the horror-stricken Wille can have for breakfast. And to make matters worse, Wille is a mess sergeant having easy access to the army's kitchens in Hanau. —Central Press Canadian.

New Courses Charted in '54 By Commonwealth and Empire

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — The British Commonwealth and Empire "that tremendous and hazardous experiment," started new courses in 1954 and faced ominous new problems.

The "experiment" so called by Oxford history professor Vincent Harlow among others, produced good news and bad, including a forewarning about the Union of South Africa.

Late in the year ultra-nationalist Johannes Strijdom was named premier succeeding Daniel Malan. Strijdom gave prompt notice of his ambition to make the union a republic, to enforce the segregation principle of apartheid, and to extend that quasi-religious creed to the state of white domination—or baasskap.

TROUBLE AHEAD?

Observers saw trouble ahead for the British protectorates of Swaziland, Basutoland and Bechuanaland, the first two of which are located within the union. There might be trouble ahead, too, regarding further political evolution for other British territories in Africa.

Presumably, British policy regarding the protectorates remained unchanged from that announced earlier in the year—no action to be taken on any governing change without the consent of the white and black peoples of the three.

Pakistan, that seven-year-old nation spilt by 1,000 miles of India, added a constitutional crisis to its problems of poverty and dissension with India over Kashmir. Preparations were afoot to form a two-province republic, it was reported in December.

MEET IN JANUARY

These and other matters seemed certain grist for discussion at a meeting of Commonwealth prime ministers here in January, first since the Coronation.

There would be a progress report—a favorable one—on the cautious approach toward convertibility. The pros and cons of imperial trade preference, and a strong international trade machinery, would come up probably, too, in view of the continuing session of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

Major security steps during the year were the Western European Union, moved into existence with the help of Britain and Canada, and the Southeast Asia Defence Agreement (SEATO), signed by Britain, Australia, New Zealand and Pakistan. Presumably, the neutralist or non-alignment views of Premier Nehru of India would be outlined anew, in contrast.

UNEASY AREAS

In colonial areas of the family, blood continued to flow in Malaya and Kenya, both of which however reported progress against terrorism. Malaya, scheduled to have its first representative assembly next year, was confronted with the problem of waging a costly war single-handed against the Communist-inspired raiders.

But Britain, which spent £855,000,000 on defence forces there last year, probably was not prepared to let the territory meet much burden, far more than its total income.

Bright spot in Africa was the Gold Coast, embarked on a dress rehearsal of independence. The all-African government wielded virtual full powers in what amounted to the last step before choosing whether to continue within the Commonwealth.

It was made plain by the Sudan, in a state visit by the premier, that the Nile territory, to choose its future course of action next year, would elect to abandon Commonwealth ties. Britain reported that funds involved in colonial development now are about £500,000,000. Britain had a large share in this. The colonial goal continued to be self-government.

Total Grain Exports Show Sharp Decline During Year

By A. B. GARRETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP)—Smaller exports, lower prices and a continued tight rein on farm deliveries featured the marketing of Canada's grain in 1954.

In the main, the marketing system remained unchanged. The Canadian wheat board continued to make all purchases of wheat, oats and barley. It controlled all sales of wheat and for the 11th year there was no trading in wheat futures on the Winnipeg grain exchange. The board sold oats and barley through the Winnipeg market Plan and rye trade was open.

Total grain exports showed a sharp decline in the 1953-54 crop year compared with the record levels of 1952-53. A one-third cut in imports by the United Kingdom was the biggest factor in a big reduction in Canadian wheat exports to 353,-100,000 bushels compared with the previous year's 385,250,000. The total grain total was 437,200,000 compared with 583,300,000 the previous year.

BIG WHEAT STOCKS

Heavy world supplies, especially in normal grain marketing areas, exerted downward pressure on export prices for wheat.

The crop year ended with the biggest grain carryover in the world and the wheat board held a tight check on deliveries from the new crop.

At the outset, deliveries were based on a unit grain quota which producers could deliver 300 bushels of wheat, 300 bushels of oats or 500 bushels of barley or rye.

The board abandoned plans to develop this system and October began to feel the pressure of delivery quota based on cultivated acreage. Farmers were allowed to deliver all grain where space was available—on the basis of two bushels per acre—and also to market land on their farms. By late December, this system was in effect at all delivery points except a four-bushel quota was in effect at Lakehead.

LOWER DELIVERIES

Deliveries lagged far behind the previous year's total. By 15, farmers had delivered to country elevators 293,200,000 bushels of grain, compared with 384,800,000 at the same time the previous year. Wheat deliveries totalled 87,500,000 against 188,400,000.

As in the previous year, farmers received an initial price of $1.40 a bushel for wheat on the basis of Lakehead storage. The balance was to be paid later on the basis of the whole year's pooled sales. Final payments on the 1952-53 crop had not been made at year's end. The interim payment of 10 cents a bushel in November had raised the basic receipt to $1.50 a bushel.

The wheat board, which either sells Canada's wheat itself or approves sales by exporters and shippers, announced prices at the close of trading each day for sales under the International Wheat Agreement, sales outside the agreement (class two), and sales to domestic consumers.

The board of grain commissioners reported the annual average prices of the basing grade of each grain as follows (the previous year average in brackets):

Wheat (1 Northern): IWA 81.86¢ (1.75½); class two 1.36⅝ (2.16½).

Barley (2 cw 6-row): wheat board 1.12⅛ (1.39⅝) grain exchange 1.06⅛ (1.33⅝).

Flax (1 cw): grain exchange 2.83¼ (3.28⅝).

All prices are those based on lakehead storage.

Annual average prices for No. 1 Northern wheat at Vancouver under the new pricing policy were: IWA 1.81⅛; class two 1.85¼.

Mrs. Butler, who will receive British citizenship by marrying Jenkins, said she does not want to return to the U.S. because of former trade union affiliations.—Central Press Canadian.

Although most of the 31,000 residents of the Magdalen Islands in the Gulf of St. Lawrence get their living from the sea, they claim they are just ordinary people with the same problems of other French-Canadians living in seaside Quebec villages. Sheep graze on the hills of the pastoral, sea kissed islands. Many of the fishermen have small farms of 10 to 20 acres. (CP Photo).

Magdalenots Do Not Like Things Mainlanders State

By GERALD FREEMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

GRINDSTONE, Que. (CP)—Mainlanders, say the Magdalenots, are always going back and saying things that make us look like some-kind of savages.

Dwellers in a pastoral, sea-kissed Shangri-la; weather-beaten fishermen fighting for survival on isolated piles of sandstone.

These are versions of the 31,000 residents of the Gulf of St. Lawrence Magdalen islands consider silly. In reality, they claim, they are just ordinary people whose lives are similar to those of other sea-spray-pickled Canadians living in seaside Quebec villages.

NICE PEOPLE

The Magdalenots are "a nice people," says Msgr. Andre Arsenault, spiritual head of the predominantly Roman Catholic islands. He includes the 500 English-speaking Protestants in that tribute.

A strongly-built, jolly man, Msgr. Arsenault likes to talk about his flock. He'll tell how the 1,700-member temperance movement known as Les Cercles Jeunesse et Jeanne d'Arc—or more popularly Lacordaire—has cured many alcoholics and brought peace to families.

Speaking in English with only a trace of an accent, he will explain why houses in the islands are so scattered. . . a man has 10 or 20 acres of land he has to divide in case his sons marry—actually, every son can't get his piece of land next to the road."

Or he will tell why low co-operative movements freed fishermen from the clutches of store-keepers who kept them during the winter and took their fish in summer in payment for debts run up on credit for this change, he says, goes to Rev. Paul Gallant of Fatima parish.

HOCKEY BIG SPORT

Father Gallant doesn't talk much about his achievements. He would rather discuss hockey. Every parish has a team and there is a league that plays in the indoor rink built by Sir Grindstone's only street.

Father Gallant says the six teams are almost up to professional standards. One or two play here gone to mainland leagues.

"Of course you know that Maurice Richard's parents are from the Magdalen islands," he said. The father and mother of the Montreal Canadien ace lived at House Harbour.

Hockey helps keep the young people out of mischief and the two provincial police who patrol the islands by leap year's overweek.

FEW LIVESTOCK

Islanders have few livestock farms; few cattle survive the climate. Most is stored in square cribs with boarded-in sides and roofs that let the wind blow.

Islanders hold few formal celebrations. Christmas is a feast day and Easter is a religious observance. New Year is the day for parties and visiting.

The professional class here consists of eight priests and four doctors. There are two lawyers but they couldn't make a living and left.

Simulcast Survives on Seven Network Shows at Present

By WAYNE OLIVER

NEW YORK (AP)—The simulcast, fairly prevalent as an expedient in the early days of television, survives on seven network shows still broadcast on TV and radio at the same time.

Except for few types of shows, it was found early that TV turns a camera on a radio show and it make good television, and that if TV were used properly the second portion wasn't enough for good radio.

However, as Herb Shriner explains in the case of the simulcast of his Tea for Two Monday, "I'm basically an aural comic—the viewer doesn't gain much by being able to see my puss."

Comics who appeal basically to the aural, musical programs and discursion panels are the principal types that make fairly good simulcasts.

WINCHELL ON SIMULCAST

Surviving network simulcasts are Tony Martin's Monday 7:30 Chevrolet and Breakfast Club on ABC, Arthur Godfrey's Talent Scouts and his Monday-through-Thursday daytime shows, plus Two for the Money on CBS, Fourth Network Next to Know on NBC.

Sponsors and networks find the simulcast cheaper. It avoids duplicate fees and production costs for the same performances but it's debatable how effective it is from the audience standpoint. The radio audience for Godfrey's Talent Scouts often must be puzzled by the gales of laughter from viewers, thing seen by TV viewers but which doesn't register the same because Godfrey sometimes gets his biggest response by a raised eyebrow.

More questionable from the radio listener's viewpoint is giving him the camera-conscious TV program. A number of radio programs are delayed broadcasts of simulcasts for the sound portion of TV shows. This tops the famed Fibber McGee effectiveness of packing plants that can everything about a pig but the squeal. In this case, even TV's squeal is served up to the radio public.

The Dorsey brothers, who will have their own Glenn Miller on CBS-TV the next two weeks, will have Johnny Ray, Duke Ellington and Rosemary Carson as guests this Saturday.

Jack Benny, pride of CBS, crosses networks tonight to be guest of Bob Hope on Hope's NBC radio show. The experimental program "Princeton '54," telecast from Princeton, N.J., here last spring, will be introduced on the full NBC TV network Jan. 8 with the updated title "Princeton '55."

Richard Scores 401st Goal As Maple Leafs Tie Canadiens 1-1

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

BRILLIANT YEAR

A year of palzy-hammering sports events, 1954 stands out as being productive of some of the most amazing feats in history.

For sheer guts and a will-to-win spirit, endurance and whatnot, Marilyn Bell's brilliant effort in swimming Lake Ontario stole the hearts and acclaim of Canadians.

But as loyal as we are to the good old Union Jack, the dazzling effort of Roger Bannister in breaking the four-minute mark for the mile, stands out in this corner's opinion as the feat of the year, not forgetting Rich Ferguson's heart-thumping mile effort.

John Landy, Aussie sorint ace, subsequently clipped 1.4 seconds off Bannister's mark, but it was a bit anticlimactic and for enduring drama doesn't touch Bannister's "first," and his subsequent match race victory on Landy is 2.58.8, the world's second best time, at the Empire Games.

Bannister stands out as the man of the year because he was the key figure in two world-startling events.

Marilyn Bell is the top femme athlete of the year, in this corner's opinion, overshadowing the supreme effort of Babe Zaharias, who won the U.S. Women's Open Golf title after a remarkable recovery from a cancer operation.

Third to the Bannister-Bell duo effort was the New York Giants' scintillating four-game shutout of the Cleveland Indians in the World Series. The next from our point of view was the Toronto Maple Leafs winning of the International Baseball League.

Sportswriters' mills and sportscasters' tonsils had plenty to talk and yak about in 1954. There was the Athletics shift to Kansas City, dumped Ed Furgol winning the U.S. Open, Babe Zaharias, Sam Snead's win over Ben Hogan in the Master's playoff, Determine's win in the Kentucky Derby, Rocky Marciano's iron curtain, Jim Peiss winning the Mann Cup, Red Wings edging Canadiens for the Stanley Cup.

There were a lot of other good ones. These included the victories of Vic Seixas and five-time runner-up Doris Hart in the U.S. amateur tennis championships; Baltimore's return to major league baseball; veteran Jaroslav Drobny's triumph at Wimbledon; UCLA's dramatic rise to the national collegiate football championship; Native Dancer's win in the Metropolitan Handicap; Bob Toski's triumph in the world golf championship; Bill Vukovich's three-time triumph at Indianapolis; Chick Harbert's PGA victory, and continuation of Milwaukee's baseball miracle in setting a new National League attendance record.

Here at home the city enjoyed one of the better sports years in history.

The Batas, senior baseball club, brought home a co-championship while a battling senior "B" hockey club in a too-little-and-too-late finish drive were nosed out of the playoffs.

Softball enjoyed its best season in years with no less than six teams representing the city and district in provincial playdowns. While no titles were brought home several of the squads reached the finals and many proudly wear Eastern Ontario titular crests.

Soccer, too, enjoyed a good year and is one of the more expanding sports in the city calendar. Thanks to the efforts of Les Digby and his cohorts the game is gaining in popularity, especially among the smaller fry of the district.

Minor sport attracted hundreds of youngsters and men like Fire Chief Gerald Vance, Frank Grandame, "Red" Doran, "Boiler" Lloyd and many others deserve accolades for a fine job done in hockey, softball, baseball, soccer and other minor activities.

The Bay of Quinte Senior Tennis League had one of its most successful seasons in 1954. The league was composed of five teams: St. Andrew's, Quinte Country Club, Belleville, Trenton and Point Anne. The Quinte club of Belleville succeeded Trenton as league champions and then won the Canada Cement trophy. The Point Anne Tennis Club swept the playoff competition and captured the Corby trophy for the third time in four years. Ken Woodley and Dr. Tom Woodley, of the Point Anne club, captured the league men's doubles championship, while Thelma Monk and Fleming Hunter of Campbellford, were the mixed doubles competition. The Bay of Quinte Intermediate Tennis League was composed of young players from the above mentioned senior clube and all games were of an exhibition nature.

City and district golfers had a banner year at the Bay of Quinte Country Club with close battles marking championship flights. Several highly successful tournaments were held, thanks to the organizational abilities of club officials and the fine work of club pro Charlie Pidutti.

Bowlers, both lawn and five-pin, marked 1954 as one of the better years. The now famous Corbin Gold Trophy, emblematic of the men's rinks championship of Eastern Ontario, again attracted capacity entries from all parts of the province. Nearly 200 of the best lawn keglers enjoyed play under ideal weather and lawn conditions. Oshawa took the coveted trophy.

The Quinte district of the COSSA found plenty to cheer about in football and track circles. The highlight of the gridiron season was the remarkable feat of Coach Jack Sisson of Quinte Secondary School, who piloted the school's first junior football entry to a championship. "Pete" Beach's black and gold warriors of Albert College were nosed out by Holy Name School of Welland for the senior "B" title.

Weightlifting, a comparatively new sport in the city, got away to a fine start this year, thanks to the efforts of Tommy Pedder, and Di Diamantides of the YMCA. A highly successful titular meet was held with many new district champions named.

But as good as it was, 1954 was not without its disappointments. The biggest surprise was Russia's victory over Canada for the world hockey title. Stunned Canadians could scarcely believe their ears when the news arrived of Canada's crushing defeat. It should be different in 1955.

In the upset department was the Edmonton Eskys point victory over the powerful Montreal Alouettes in the famous Grey Cup classic. From an Oshawa viewpoint, another upset was the defeat of the baseball Transporters by the Belleville Batas in the OBA senior semi-finals.

Rocket Runs Wild in Third To Get Major, 2 Misconducts And $50 Fine for Hitting Bailey

By JIM BASTABLE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

It was a typical Maurice Richard night.

There he was, 180 pounds of great hockey talent, scoring the 401st goal of his brilliant career with Montreal Canadiens to bring wild cheers from 14,051 National Hockey League fans. Then he ran wild in a late-game fight that cost him a major penalty, two misconducts and $50 in fines. Those sanyr 14,051 fans booed hutily.

It happened Wednesday night in Toronto when the third-place Maple Leafs and Canadiens battled to a 1-1 deadlock. The fact that Canadiens extended their league lead to four points over the second-place Detroit Red Wings and the Leafs picked up their 10th tie of the season was somewhat incidental.

WAS HEADLINER

Maurice the Rocket was the headliner.

The 33-year-old rightwinger received a great ovation back from the partisan Maple Leaf Gardens crowd at 19:02 of the first period when he scored his 401st goal on goaltender Harry Lumley, fired the puck home with the flair that is his and then tumbled head over heels into the nets because of his momentum.

The goal didn't stand up. Eric Nesterenko put it back for the Leafs at 10:51 of the second period.

Maurice blew his top early with more than five minutes remaining in the game after he was crashed into the boards by Leaf rookie Bob Bailey.

FISTS FLY

Richard jumped to his feet and took off after Bailey. Fists flew. Both players ended on the ice with Bailey on top holding the Rocket's legs.

After they were parted by referee Red Storey and linesmen Bill Morrison and George Hayes, Richard attempted to get at Bailey again. He was restrained but broke away. This time he raised his stick, smashing the alleged Leaf centre.

Both players were cut and bruised. Bailey, who was automatically fined $25 for drawing a misconduct penalty, lost two teeth and received a wet cheek the right side of his face and neck. As he fell on Richard, Bailey was scratching and clawing at his face. There were scratches about the Rocket's eyes and forehead.

That's when Maurice went slightly berserk. He grabbed his stick and waved it at Bailey, a big 183-pound native of Kenora, Ont. It took 10 minutes to restore order.

CUFFED HAYES

For his actions, during which he twice cuffed Hayes on the face, Maurice was assessed a fighting major and the two misconducts, carrying a total $50 fine. Bailey received a major for fighting plus a 10-minute misconduct for not leaving the ice when ordered by Storey.

Just before the incident, Storey had assessed fighting majors to Toronto defenceman Tim Horton and Montreal lightweight Bert Olmstead when they mixed it up.

The fans had seen Richard score one of his finest goals. The Rocket ended up behind Lumley, upside down and his stick caught high in the mesh. Kenny Mosdell and Doug Harvey received assists.

Canadiens, with their victories in 36 games, have 48 points, four up on the Detroiters and six ahead of the Leafs.

Dutchies Take Over First Place With 5-3 Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen took over sole first place in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A League Wednesday night with a 5-3 victory over Stratford Indians before a 3,000 hometown fans.

In another game Chatham Maroons climbed over Indians into fourth place when they defeated the last-place Niagara Falls Cataracts 3-2 at Chatham.

Dutchmen's win broke a two-way tie with Owen Sound Mercurys for first place. Each team had 37 points. Windsor Bulldogs, not scheduled to play until Sunday, are in third place with 32 points. Chatham has 24, one up on Stratford. The Cataracts have 15 points.

Two third-period goals, breaking a 2-2 deadlock after 40 minutes, gave Kitchener the game.

Ken Kenny, Jim Logan, Rio Caron, Don Oberholzer and Mike Tommy Walker scored twice for Kitchener. Geroy Roth added the third.

Maroons led 2-0 at the end of the first period. The second was scoreless.

Schmidt Unable To Handle Team Due to Cold

NEW YORK (CP) — A heavy chest cold has laid up Milt Schmidt the new coach of Boston Bruins, and he'll turn the reins back to general manager Lynn Patrick for tonight's National Hockey League clash with the Rangers in Madison Square Garden.

Schmidt, under his full-time coaching chores only last Sunday night in Boston as the Bruins tied Chicago 2-2. Now team physician Dr. Thomas Mackey has ordered him to "stay home for a few days."

Tonight's game is the first of three in a row between the Rangers and Bruins, due to a quirk in the NHL schedule, and fourth place — last playoff spot—is at stake. After tonight's clash the teams go to Boston for a Saturday meeting and return to New York Sunday night.

The Rangers, anxious to break out of their December slump during which they haven't won in 14 straight starts, will present hockey's newest brother act for the opening game. Ron Howell, 19-year-old recruit from Guelph, Ont., arrived Wednesday to join the club. He is the younger brother of the Rangers' star defenceman, Harry Howell.

Paul Andrews Earns Title Shot By Knocking Out Billy Smith

By BEN FUNK

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Cold, methodical Paul Andrews earned a light heavyweight title fight with a spectacular sixth-round technical knockout of Boardwalk Billy Smith Wednesday night, but his new trainer, Joe Louis, says he isn't ready for it.

"He's got to learn up here," the former heavyweight champion said pointing to his head. "Paul needs a lot more work and experience before he'll be ready for a champion like Archie Moore."

It was a new Andrews who broke Smith's eight-fight winning streak with a smashing victory in 2:49 of the sixth round. The 24-year-old Buffalo, N.Y., fighter flattened Smith three times before the referee halted the slaughter.

Andrews gave full credit to Louis. It was his 29th victory in 33 professional fights.

"He taught me how to deliver my punches," Andrews said. "He told me I was too timid and I had to get more vicious if I was going to get some place in the fight game."

Andrews, the fifth-ranking contender in the division, fought much like the old Louis as he shuffled dead-panned, after the veteran Smith, driving home punches so devastating that once Smith, dazed by a left to the jaw, turned and fled. He was given an eight-count as he cowered against the ropes.

The International Boxing Club had promised the winner a Feb. 4 title and Andrews' manager, Marshall Miles, who once handled Louis, said he thought his fighter was ready. Louis disagreed.

"Miles is only the manager," Louis said. "I'm the trainer. It's the trainer that knows when a fighter is ready."

Smith, No. 1 title contender, said he had Andrews "analyzed wrong. I thought he was a meek and timid man and he turned out to be a tiger. I was mighty surprised."

Edmonton Eskimos Team of Year In Annual Canadian Press Poll

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Any way you care to figure it, Edmonton Eskimos are the team of 1954 in Canadian sports.

The country's sports editors and sportscasters took a good look at Edmonton's 26-25 Grey Cup victory over Montreal Alouettes and voted the Eskimos the outstanding team in the country. And the manner in which the Eskimos wrenched them No. 2 behind Penticton V's as the comeback team of the year.

But that's not all. The voters, participating in the 20th annual Canadian Press year-end sports poll, received their greatest surprise and greatest thrill when Edmonton came from behind in the last 3½ minutes to edge the highly-favored Alouettes in the Nov. 27 classic.

CLOSE VOTING

The voting was close all the way except in the surprise category where the Eskimos polled 75 and the Alouettes 7 for behind with only 10 votes was the third-place finish of Toronto's Rich Ferguson behind Dr. Roger Bannister and John Landy in the miracle mile at the British Empire Games.

Marilyn Bell's feat of finishing the gruelling Lake Ontario swim was the surprise of the year for nine voters.

Other surprise ballots went to the drawing power of British Columbia Lions in the Western Interprovincial Football Union despite their record of five victory in 16 starts; Canada's loss to Russia in the world hockey championships; Penticton's Allan Stanley's annual kos of the highly-regarded King Maple in the Queen's Plate and Toronto Varsity winning the senior intercollegiate football title.

Alouettes, second choice on the disappointment list to Canada's hockey loss, were also No. 2 on standing team. Penticton was No. 3 and Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League No. 4. Votes in this section of the poll were computed on three for first choice, two for second and one for third. Edmonton's total was 186 against 134 for the Alouettes, 76 for Penticton and 63 for the Canadiens.

Toronto Maple Leafs of the International Hockey League followed with 48 points and from there the list of 20 teams and individuals mentioned ranged from 15 for the B.C. Games-winning University of British Columbia rowing eight to single points for nine others.

The experts drove the nod to the Grey Cup final and Jackie Parker's 85-yard game-winning touchdown run for the thrill of the year, but it was close. Next was the Bell swim and third was the miracle mile. Point-totals were: Grey Cup, 41; Miss Bell's swim, 31; miracle mile, 26.

The 400th goal by Maurice Richard of Canadiens provided the greatest thrill to Marcel Doucet of CHEF Granby, Que., and Edward Finn Jr. of the Corner Brook, Nfld., Star. Penticton's Allan Cup victory was the big thrill for Don Warner of CJIB, Vernon, B.C.

Vern DeGeer, sports director of the Montreal Gazette, voted for the Oct. 16 Hamilton - Montreal Big Four game. Vern's Als were 46-14, the highest total score in the Big Four and WIFU to 1954. DeGeer recalled the spectacular 95-yard touchdown run by end Hal Patterson of the Als to start the third quarter and his 110-yard touchdown on a pass from quarter Sam Etcheverry who completed 26 of 36 forward for a yardage gain of 336.

The "greatest disappointment" vote was close—41 for Canada's hockey loss to 44 for the Als' Grey Cup loss. Western Canada voters balloted almost solidly for the hockey loss and only four from the West thought Montreal's defeat was a disappointment.

It was a 33-25 Penticton-Edmonton vote for the comeback of the year. Ken Mosdell of Montreal Canadiens was next with eight votes. Danny Lewicki of New York Rangers received three and Herb Trawick of the Als received two.

Bill Westwick of the Ottawa Journal gave his vote to Andy Tommy, Ottawa, skier for his comeback after suffering a shattered thigh bone while practising for the United States national championships at Stowe, Vt., in 1952. Doctors said he would never ski competitively—if at all—again but he was back on skis in 1953 and again in 1954 and won more than his share of races.

Smythe Requests Meeting To Talk Over Rules

TORONTO (CP)—Conn Smythe, chairman of the National Hockey League club owners' committee, said Wednesday night he has asked league president Clarence Campbell of Montreal to call a meeting of officials to talk over enforcement of rules in the game.

Smythe, president of Maple Leaf Gardens, Ltd., sent a telegram to Campbell Wednesday asking referee-in-chief Carl Voss, club owners and referee representatives to attend the meeting.

The action apparently stemmed from recent games in which brawls had broken out. Some referees were criticized for not calling stiffer penalties against the offending players and overlooking some rule infractions.

Smythe said he thought Campbell would call the meeting for next Tuesday in New York, preceding a scheduled meeting of the league's publicity men. The club owners wanted to know why some rules weren't being called to the letter.

The telegram was sent hours before Wednesday night's game between the third-place Leafs and Montreal Canadiens, when Maurice Richard of Canadiens and Bob Bailey of Leafs engaged in a fight.

Teams Start Downhill Glide To Bowl Game

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Ohio State and Southern California started the easy, downhill glide today toward Saturday's 41st Rose Bowl game.

Only tapering-off and loosening-up drills were on tap as the clubs wound up two weeks of intensive twilight - shedding and precision priming workouts.

After Wednesday's sessions coach Gen Hill of the Trojans and Woody Hayes of Ohio's Big Ten and national champs observed: Well, that's it. We're as ready as we'll ever be."

Both coaches said they would field practically full-strength clubs.

Southern California, boasting a 9-2 record in the Rose Bowl—and the only Coast Conference club to win there in the past 12 years—is a 13-point underdog.

Informal Talks Will Be Held Before Annual

MONTREAL (CP)—Leo Dandurand, part owner of the Montreal Alouettes, said Wednesday night he has invited executives of all Big Four teams to meet here Jan. 16 for informal talks prior to the annual league meeting.

Dandurand said no agenda has been drawn up for the meeting and it is aimed principally at getting things in order for the annual Big Four meeting which opens Jan. 23.

"A number of important topics probably will be discussed," Dandurand said. "However, there's no way of telling what they will be since there is no agenda and the talks will be informal."

"Two topics which probably will come up for discussion, however, are the appointment of a commissioner for the Big Four and possible arrangements, contract agreements with AL Football League."

"Anything we agree upon will come up again at the Big Four meeting."

Star Soccer Player Uses Outsize Shoes for Comfort

By JEFF RYAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Len (Long Toes) Shackleton, the 31-year-old Sunderland soccer player with a reputation for dazzling ball control and clowning, figures he may have licked his footwear problem after 18 years.

Inside forward Shackleton first seriously donned soccer boots at 13 and they've never stopped bothering him. He has outsize toes—said to be almost as long as his fingers—and just any old pair of boots won't properly allow those supple, extra - lengthy digits to stroke the ball goalwards.

Team manager Bill Murray has had the headache of fitting the temperamental toes with leather to their liking.

PLASTER CASTS

"I should think mom plaster casts of Shackleton's feet have been made than you see footprints outside Grauman's theatre in Hollywood," said Murray.

"I can remember him playing one match with a composite boot made up from specifications submitted by four different manufacturers."

At last, after 19 specially-made failures since 1948, when Shackleton joined the club, Murray thinks he's found a pair of boots to suit the super feet.

Shackleton says they're "by far the best pair" he's worn.

LIKE GLOVES

The new boots are made of soft calf belly leather, fitting the feet like a pair of gloves. No strengthened toe-caps for "shock," but new type screw-in studs are featured on the sole.

Is football's funnyman worth all this bother? Most fans seem to think so. And his two professional transfer deals netted a total of more than £33,000.

England team selectors, however frowned on his teasing tactics and dropped him for four years.

Shackleton, an individualist, may decide to play a one-man game, practically making the ball talk with his toes. The crowds love it, although it can be dangerous.

ON NATIONAL TEAMS

But November, 1954, saw him back on the national teams that played Wales and Germany.

Although he didn't score any goals against Wales, it was an intricate Shackleton passing movement that made the score 1-1 and turned the tide. The final score was 3-2.

Against Germany, Shackleton, together with veteran soccer wizard Stanley Matthews, was lauded by sports writers as largely responsible for England's 3-1 victory. Shackleton scored once.

Miss E. Russell, Rich Ferguson Are Honored

MONTREAL (CP) — Ernestine Russell and Rich Ferguson were honored Wednesday night by the National Amateur Athletic Union as the top athletes in Canada in 1954.

Miss Russell, pretty, 16-year-old gymnast from Windsor, Ont., was awarded the Rose Bowl as top woman athlete of the year. She also won the title in 1953.

The presentation to Miss Russell was made by Myrtle Cook, sports writer for the Montreal Star, and former member of the Canadian Olympic team.

Ferguson, who plans to end his track career next spring when he graduates from Iowa University, received the Crowe Medal as the top male athlete.

The 23-year-old Toronto youth won the medal mainly on his performance in the British Empire Games mile race, which he ran in 4:04:6, the fastest time ever recorded by a Canadian. He finished behind Roger Bannister and John Landy.

Both presentations were made on the Vic Obeck television show.

Bannister Chosen 'Sportsman' Of Year by Paper

NEW YORK (CP)—Roger Bannister of England, who ran the first four-minute mile and then defeated Australia's John Landy in the great mile race at the Empire Games in Vancouver, has been chosen "sportsman of the year" by Sports Illustrated.

The current issue of the magazine, which carries a picture photograph of the Vancouver race on its cover, says:

"When it came to picking the sportsman of the year, the compelling choice was the man who set himself an athlete's severest challenge, the four-minute mile, who met the challenge superbly (in exchange for a couple of small medals), and then turned to the next challenge, that of a strenuous profession: the miler-turned doctor, Roger Bannister."

Indians Beat Barons to Go Seven Points Up

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The other teams in the American Hockey League may continue to change positions almost daily but not the percentage Springfield Indians. They just continue to increase their lead.

That's what happened Wednesday night when the Indians scored two last-period goals to defeat the Cleveland Barons 5-4 and go seven points out in front of the pack.

At the same time, the Hershey Bears beat Pittsburgh 3-1 to move into a second place tie with the Hornets. Cleveland's defeat shoved the Indians down to fourth place, a point back of Pittsburgh and Hershey.

Walter Atanas and Elliott Chorney scored the final-period goals that gave the Indians their victory. The Bears' scoring was divided among three players in as many periods. Stan Parker tallied in the first, Orie O'Brien in the second and Skip Teal in the third.

Queen Assents To Changes In Race's Conditions

TORONTO (CP) — The Queen has agreed to permit persons other than Canadian residents to race their horses in the $20,000-added Queen's Plate, Canada's richest turf classic, it was announced Wednesday.

The Ontario Jockey Club said the Queen had assented to changes in the race's conditions. However, the field will still be confined to three-year-olds foaled in Canada.

Until now, horses could be raced in the 1¼-mile event by British subjects resident in Canada. The OJC petitioned the Queen to change the conditions so "that horsemen from any part in the world could enter horses in the classic, the oldest continuously-run turf event in North America.

The new conditions will go into effect in 1956, when, for the first time, the plate will be contested at the OJC's new $50-acre track being built about eight miles northwest of Toronto. It will be the fifth consecutive running of the race.

George G. Hendrie, OJC managing director, said:

"This will permit Her Majesty or Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt or the Aga Khan, or any of the other great racing figures, to purchase a Canadian-bred colt or filly for the race. It will provide a great stimulus for the Canadian breeding industry."

Obeck Reaches Verbal Contract With Etcheverry

MONTREAL (CP)—Vic Obeck, vice-president of the Montreal Alouettes, said Wednesday night he has reached a verbal contract agreement with quarterback Sam Etcheverry, voted the player most valuable to the club in the Canadian last season.

"I know what Sam wants and he knows what I want," Obeck said. "There doesn't appear to be any problem."

Obeck said he has an agreement with Jackie Parker that no players will be signed until the two Alouettes officials confer in New York next week.

Graham, Perry Top Men In All-Star Team

NEW YORK (AP) — Otto Graham, whose brilliancy paced the Cleveland Browns to the National Football League championship and Joe Perry, ace fullback of the San Francisco 49ers, are the top men on the Associated Press 1954 all-pro football team announced today.

Graham was chosen as quarterback for the mythical 23-man two-platoon team for the sixth season while Perry, an all-pro in 1953 as well, as the top vote getter in the poll of AP member paper football experts and AP staff men.

The Detroit Lions, trampled 56-10 by the Browns in last Sunday's playoff, placed six men on the squad. The Browns gained three positions as did the Philadelphia Eagles and 49ers. The Pittsburgh Steelers had two men voted to the squad while the Los Angeles Rams, New York Giants, Chicago Cardinals, Green Bay Packers and Baltimore Colts each placed one.

Three passers were halfback Dick Walker, tackle Lou Creekmur and guard Dick Stanfel on the offensive unit and safety Jim Christiansen, linebacker Joe Schmidt and guard Les Bingaman on the defensive setup.

Browns' tackle Graham who were chosen are Lou (The Toe) Groza, a fine tackle and an expert on placements, and Len Ford, great defensive end.

Obeck Reaches Verbal Contract With Etcheverry

MONTREAL (CP)—Vic Obeck, vice-president of the Montreal Alouettes, said Wednesday night he has reached a verbal contract agreement with quarterback Sam Etcheverry, voted the player most valuable to the club in the Canadian last season.

"I know what Sam wants and he knows what I want," Obeck said. "There doesn't appear to be any problem."

Obeck said he has an agreement with Jackie Parker that no players will be signed until the two Alouettes officials confer in New York next week.

Trabert, Seixas Praise Captain Billy Talbert

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Tony Trabert and Vic Seixas, whose conquests won back the Davis Cup for the United States, said Wednesday their Australian campaign would probably have not been successful without captain Bill Talbert.

"I don't think we could have done the job without Bill," Trabert said. "No one knows how much credit he is due for our winning of the Cup.

"We have been hearing for years what a genius Harry Hopman is," added Seixas. "We thought Talbert did the finest captain's job possible. He is trying to pass all the glory over to us but he deserves plenty himself."

After four lean years, the U.S. are getting back the gleaming symbol of international tennis supremacy as a result of the 3-2 challenge win over Australia.

Both Talbert and Seixas detailed the duties to show that Talbert not only had brought his athletes along properly to peak at the right moment, but gave them strategic tips.

"One thing he did for me," said Seixas, "was to slow down my training. He knew I was getting too fine so he cut my practice to one workout a day. On the other hand he knew I'd needed work and he gave it to him."

By SAM GORDON

The Killjoy

Some people criticize me severely for daring to criticize the main teachers with whom I am in direct competition. Think you it is one-sided? If so, you are no! well-read in bridge matters.

Each of us is a friend of the other. But we fear not to speak our minds. And each is fully capable of defending himself and has the facilities and backing for doing so, if either misquotes.

Culbertson's bridge magazine spent four precious pages trying to find something wrong with my Horse Sense rules. No- did he pull his punches in denouncing the ways of earlier competing systems.

In his latest-book, how does Goren introduce his rules for an opening bid of two in a suit? By taking a slap at the Culbertson honor trick use for determining such an opening.

He says the 5% honor trick superstition was born in the early thirties and has persisted for a generation. That despite the evil it is known to have wrought, some players will carry it to the tomb.

Of his own method he admits: If the point count has accomplished nothing else He would have justified its existence by reason of having simplified the problem of what constitutes an opening demand bid.

Then he goes on to give his formula with five different groups of opening two bid requirements; later adding a couple of exceptions. His list, by the way, is about as long as Culbertson's.

My next space here will show the specific requirements used in Culbertson and Goren rules. Meantime, you know what they mean if you know you need nine tricks to open with a bid of two in a suit.

Open with a bid of two spades when holding this south hand:

♠ A K J 8 4
♥ K Q 10 6
♦ A K 9
♣ A

You can see seven tricks with your high cards and can ruff two rounds of clubs (short cards); total nine tricks.

With nine tricks you can forget all the different rules.

IVANHOE

Candlelight Service Held At Beulah Church

IVANHOE — A candlelight service was held in Beulah United Church on Christmas Eve. This service was conducted by Rev. T. Hagerwaard and members of White Lake, Salem and Fuller United Churches joined in the service.

Following a warm welcome extended by the pastor, the congregation joined in singing a number of carols. Mr. H. Burke read the Christmas Story, Luke 2:1-20.

Mr. Hagerwaard chose for the subject of his Christmas message "Jesus Christ, King of Kings, and Lord of Lords."

"The night of Christmas is the start of the ecclesiastical year. With gratitude and joy we celebrate Jesus' birth, in our imagination we see the little boy in the stable in Bethlehem with Mary and Joseph, the shepherds and the wise men.

"The history of our Lord does not begin in the second chapter of Luke that has just been read to you.

Oh no, for in the prayer of our Lord in the night when He was betrayed we hear: And now Father, glorify Thou Me in Thy own presence with the glory which I had with Thee before the world was made. Jesus was already God's begotten Son, before this universe came into being.

"Moreover the creating was by no means something that took place without Christ, for the Apostle Paul writes: "He is the image of the invisible God, the first born of all creation.

"Jesus Christ is the one by Whom God created the universe; Jesus Christ is the one by Whom we are reconciled to God; Jesus Christ is the one Who will come to judge the quick and the dead.

"As our Lord Himself has said: "The Father judges no one, but has given all judgment to the Son, that all may honor the Son, even as they honor the Father."

"He decide the course of world history pushing nations apart from His will; all power on earth, all forces of evil can only exist so long as Christ allows it. Nothing can resist His holy will."

SPECIAL MUSIC

Special music under the direction of Mrs. S. Prest, organist and choir leader, included an anthem, "High Over the Hills," with Mrs. R. Barnard and Mrs. Roy Demille singing the duet part; a quartet, "Loveliest Night," by Mrs. Elwin Holland, Mrs. R. Barnard, Mrs. George Wood, Mrs. Keith Bray; two Christmas numbers given by Salem choir; Christmas hymns were sung in Dutch, Malay, and the Paplamento languages by Mrs. T. Hagerwaard, and daughters, Tina and Elsie. A solo, "O Holy Night," was given by Mrs. Hagerwaard.

The church was beautifully decorated with white candles, colored lights, pine boughs, two Christmas trees, a nativity scene on the communion table.

A white envelope offering was presented. The purpose for which this collection will be used will be decided later by the official board.

Little Benny's Notebook

The letter carrier rang the bell while we were eating breakfast, and I ran and got the letters, I being bills for pop and one being a reguler letter for ma, and she colored at the envelope, saying, My this looks like my own stationerry. Goodnes, who do I know that writes such a gassly scrawl? she said.

And she turned the envelope over,saying, Why, it really is my own stationerry, here is my own address printed on the back.

Aw of ma, open it, I said, and ma said, Why are you so intristed? Oh, I begin to see the lite, she said.

For Peet sake, let's all see the lite, pop said.

Meaning to open it, which ma did, and she looked at the letter, saying Now what nonsents is this?

What's it say? pop said, and ma said, It says, Honesty is the best policy, honesty is the best policy, Your loving son, Benny Potts.

The lite comes flooding in, but it's a bit murky, pop said, and I said, I can explain it, pop. Do you want me to explain it, ma? I said.

However you explain it, this is my good stationerry, ma said, and I said, I can explain it by the stamp. It was on a used envelope, but it didn't have any cancel marks on it, because the man at the postoffice must of missed his shot. So I tore it off, but it would have been cheeting to use it for my own profit, so I just used it on a useless letter, and that's it, I said.

Mother, we are blessed with a young man of splendid moral caracter, pop said, and ma said, Well, I suppose so, but still, my good stationerry.

Proving what her real feelings were.

AT RECORD HIGH

This year's booming market saw some averages on the Montreal Stock Exchange shoot well ahead of the highest figures reached before the 1929 crash. Paper, utilities, banks and industrial averages all hit record highs during the last two months of 1954. All four averages also gained. Papers had one of the steepest climbs and the average moved up about 400 points. (CP Photo)

The industrial index climbed about 63 points in 1954 during the great industrial boom of the Toronto Stock Exchange. It was only 20 points behind the record year of 1950. Early last October the index was 1951 and ended the year more than 10 points above this index shot past the previous high set in 1951 and ended the year more than 10 points above this previous mark. Other indicators of market strength also gained and the base-metal index closed about its highest level of the year. (CP Photo).

Stock Prices Neared '29 Levels But No Voices Cried 'Danger'

By GEORGE LINTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Stock markets scaled their Mount Everest in 1954 and looked for new worlds to conquer.

Until this year, investors threw cold water on the idea prices might again reach 1929 heights. "Memories of fortunes lost in the 1929 crash are too fresh," they said.

But in 1954 the thinking changed. Prices neared 1929 levels, in some cases soared beyond them. And voices crying "danger" were hard to find.

SUBSTANTIAL CLIMB

By the year's end the Toronto Industrial index, based on prices of 20 key stocks, had climbed about 63 points to around 375, an advance second only to the 83-point climb of 1950.

Here are gains for the year in some of the issues most in demand: Ford A 21 per cent, Abitibi 63, International Nickel 60, Canada Cement 56, Consolidated Paper 49, Canadian Pacific 48, Imperial Oil 39, Walkers 36, Massey Harris 28, Canadian Bank of Commerce 22, and Loblaw A 18.

The break-through to record levels came in November and December. At Montreal the averages of bank stocks, utilities, papers and industrials all touched new peaks.

At Toronto the industrial index climbed to new high ground in early November and by Christmas eve neared another 5 points.

Exact comparisons with 1929 highs on Canadian exchanges are difficult, but exchange officials say present levels are around 1929 heights and in many cases higher.

HUGE TURNOVER

The Toronto market did a greater dollar volume of business this year than ever before at $1,300,000,000, about $26,000,000 more than the previous high of 1951. Montreal's estimated value was a heavy $765,000,000, compared with the 1951 record of $805,000,000.

Probably the biggest boost to prices came from investment funds mass set up in the United States, which purchased an estimated $90,000,000 worth of Canadian stocks. Insurance companies and pension trusts did additional buying.

Brokers said, too, that more "little men" were buying high-grade issues.

RECORD DIVIDENDS

Dividend payments supported the optimism. In 1954 they totalled a record $570,288,654, about $21,000,000 greater than in 1952, the previous peak year.

Stock yields, while declining to an average 4.56 per cent in December from 5.73 per cent a year ago, were still above the average yield of 3% per cent on industrial bonds.

Base metals, western oil and gold stocks at Toronto had smaller gains than industrials but their returns ranged from 20 to 30 per cent, highest levels. The base metal figure was about 150, golds 81 and western oils 96.

PEARSON SAYS PEACE COALITION STRONGER NOW

Hell of H-Bomb War Not Out of Picture

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Pearson said today the free world's coalition for peace became stronger in 1954 but that the hell of an H-comb war is not yet out of the picture.

He said the growing power of weapons and new methods of delivering them have made total and calm, steady strength more essential than ever to prevent the terror of such a war.

"At the year ends, our coalition for peace seems more necessary than it was at the beginning. We are learning to live with the situation that exists, without panic but without illusions."

Mr. Pearson added his statement to year-end messages made Thursday by Governor - General Massey, Prime Minister St. Laurent and Opposition Leader Drew.

Mr. Massey's message, filmed for television broadcasting tonight, said Canada has grown in strength every year.

"So tonight a backward glance can bring us even deeper satisfaction and a forward one still greater confidence."

Mr. St. Laurent said in 1954 Canada faced problems "great and without end, and the New Year would bring more.

"But with God's help and with goodwill and a desire to live in friendship with our fellows, I am confident that we shall meet the problems that it brings."

Mr. Drew framed his statement in Sir. Adele, Que., where he is recovering strength after his recent meningitis infection. He said Canadians have more hope now than at any time in the past.

"There is more reason than we have known in a generation to hope for peace, and we can wish each other with full sincerity a happy and prosperous New Year."

Mr. Pearson's 1,000 - word statement reviewed the year's international developments of 1954, which he said had brought both successes and disappointments.

He said the disappointments were, of course, not as serious as the lack of cohesion shown at times among democracies.

At times Western unity had been threatened by tendencies of individual leaders to "polish off the Atlantic "to find for frustration and failure the easy refuge of mutual recrimination and exasperation."

On the whole, however, the critical periods had proved "sobering, rather than shattering to our coalition."

Ford Strikers to Be Told About Progress of Talks

WINDSOR (CP) — Representatives of employees at the strike-bound Ford of Canada plants here will be told today about the progress of talks union officials have been holding with the company in Toronto this week.

Union leaders will meet stewards, picket captains and the executive board of the Windsor plants to talk over subjects raised at four company-union sessions held since Tuesday. The Toronto talks have been adjourned for the holiday weekend.

The third day of the talks ended Thursday with company and union leaders emerging in an apparently jovial, friendly atmosphere. The meetings, between a three-man company team and a five-man team from the United Automobile Workers (CIO), were self-described until 2 p.m. Monday.

The recess puts over a possible settlement of the 51-day-old strike to the New Year. The strike started as the Windsor plant Oct. 10 followed by the Oakville plant five days later and the Etobicoke plant Nov. 15.

At least 9,400 workers are idle at the three centres because of a walkout over a contract dispute. The meetings were called after the company agreed to negotiate concerning a province-wide agreement, instead of separate agreements with each local. The union also agreed to open up certain matters related to seniority, job advertising and hours of work.

The strike started when the union asked concessions with an estimated cost to the company of 10 to 11 cents an hour while the company offered concessions amounting to three cents an hour.

Meanwhile, officials estimated Ford workers will not become available in Canada for at least six weeks after the strike settlement.

Suez Bridge Falls on Ship, Canal Will Be Closed 8 Days

SUEZ, Egypt (Reuters) — A steel railroad bridge over the Suez canal collapsed today and fell on a passing merchant vessel in what is described as the worst accident in the history of the waterway.

The Liberian tanker World Peace, bound for Gibraltar from Al Kuwait, on the Persian gulf, was reported severely damaged. Conveyor, a British tug, was towing canal which links the Mediterranean with the Red sea were halted.

The accident caused heavy damage but no casualties. It occurred at a point 10 miles north of Ismailia. Canal officials said traffic will be held up at least eight days.

The World Peace, an 11,000-tonner owned by World Tankers Corporation, was carrying a cargo of crude oil. It was second in line of a northbound convoy of ships. Behind it, 30 more piled up, and shipping circles estimate the total will swell to at least 300 in a short time. Some traffic may be able to escape the tie-up.

Curvy Con Girl Almost Wins Control of Polish Factories

LONDON (Reuters) — Communist Poland has roefully revealed that a fast-talking girl can almost bamboozle a whole town into giving the country's production machine to a foreign adventurer, it was revealed recently.

Beautiful Lucyna Hartman hadn't a credential to her name, but she did have a shapely figure, pouty clothes and enough brass to convince one smitten factory manager after another that she was really a "senior inspector of the ministry of control."

The Polish newspaper Zycie Warszawy tells how the glamorous "inspector" bulldozed the state-run factory to another in official cars furnished by managers. More often than not the managers were more than willing to make hefty cash loans to Lucyna after she had finished discussing the drawbacks in the production setup—or alternately had offered to intervene personally to see that the red tape governing Polish production.

In this way, says Zycie Warszawy, she virtually "controlled" a textile factory, a silk mill, a velvet factory and a communications equipment plant, two foundries, the central heating and decorative fabrics and a building union.

When security police finally caught up with her she was on the verge of a mercial trip, accompanied by two red-faced factory managers who were still trying to butter up their charming "boss."

U. N. Secretary Talks With Eden, On Way to China

LONDON (Reuters)—Dag Hammarskjold, United Nations secretary-general, arrived today for talks with Foreign Secretary Eden before going to Peiping and Saigon on a mercy mission for the 11 American airmen jailed in Communist China.

Hammarskjold was charged by the UN General Assembly with the release of the 11 airmen whose trial and imprisonment, on espionage charges, the assembly condemned as a breach of the Korean armistice.

But he is also taking data about 2,700 UN soldiers who fought in Korea and about whom there are some doubt persists. Some of these sent letters home or were named as prisoners in Communist broadcasts, but were not repatriated at the armistice.

Hammarskjold leaves for Paris Saturday, where he is to meet Premier Mendes-France. He will also visit India for talks with Premier Jawaharlal Nehru on his way to Peiping.

Teamsters' Strike Set for New York

NEW YORK (AP)—A teamsters' strike set for midnight tonight threatens to cut off almost two thirds of the city's supplies of fresh fruits and vegetables.

Mayor Wagner announced their efforts Thursday night to settle the contract dispute between the International Brotherhood of Teamsters (AFL) and the 56-firm United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association.

Full effects of the tieup will be felt Sunday night when retailers normally pick up their stock for Monday sales. But the association spokesman set the possible reduction in supplies at 60 per cent. The chain stores have their own transport systems and would not be affected.

SPIDERS TAKE TOLL

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—Spiders, particularly black widows, poison thousands of people every year and kill five out of every 100 persons bitten, says a California physician with 30 years of experience with insects. The black widow is the male offender in the United States, Dr. Emil Bogen told the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

WIVES OF FORD STRIKERS FAIL TO ORGANIZE

Pro-Union Songs End Brief Meet at Windsor

WINDSOR (CP)—An attempt by a group of wives of striking Ford of Canada Windsor workers to organize a committee to have a voice in future labor disputes here ended in boos and cat-calls.

The meeting, held here Thursday, erupted with jeers and profanity only minutes after it started.

Several would-be speakers were forced to sit down when they could not make themselves heard over the shouts of the women.

About 50 women attended the meeting, arranged by Mrs. Ruth Lawton, 36-year-old wife of one of the strikers who have been out since Oct. 10. She said before the meeting began she hoped to get "constructive ideas" for settling the deadlocked strikes, which spread from here to plants in Oakville and Etobicoke.

CRITICIZE MOVE

Mrs. Lawton was criticized by many of the wives from the floor for calling the meeting. One wife said the meeting would have an adverse effect on negotiations now going on in Toronto.

"Why don't we leave the men carrying on the negotiations to the business to the men."

Another woman told the wives should stand behind their men, and "not give the company the idea we're weakening. Because we're not."

She said all the women at the meeting should go down to the strikebound plant, and join the picket lines.

Mrs. Lionel Laport, whose husband has worked at Ford's for 14 years, said she would like to get a full pay cheque every week but didn't want to see her husband "crawling on his hands and knees to the company" to get it.

SHOULD SUPPORT

One wife said the union should be supported because it was the only way of insuring the future of the workers, and it was the only way the working class could win security.

Various resolutions were placed before the meeting, but neither was put to the vote. The floor asked the wives to vote full support to the strike and union.

Mrs. Lawton sought approval for a measure asking the government of virtual sovereignty to west Germany and a companion convention on stationing foreign troops on West German soil.

But the WEU pact was the key issue, for it actually spelled out the process of German rearmament. The assembly voted it down, 280 to 259, on its first appearance for the conclusions last Friday. But Mendes-France brought it back again and demanded a vote of confidence failing his government's life on the result.

The EDC votes for the treaty meant that only 45 per cent of the assembly's 627 members supported the treaties. In addition 24 of the 260 opposed, 74 abstained.

Government officials in Britain, Italy, Canada, Norway, West Germany and many other countries had predicted approval of the pacts today

Sightless People Guests Of Rotary Club

Members of the Rotary club were hosts to the blind persons of the city and district on Wednesday evening at the annual Ladies' day dinner prepared and served by the Friendship group of the St. Andrew's Presbyterian church. Representative Rotarians, members of the Hastings County Advisory Board, guests from Kingston, and sighted escorts were also present to aid in the festivities.

Mr. Everett Fairman was chairman for the evening and introduced the guests at the head table. Mr. Adsett, president of Rotary, in turn introduced Mr. Rotarian present who had provided transportation for the blind.

Field Secretary P. I. Timmins spoke briefly and expressed the appreciation of those present to the ladies who had prepared the delicious dinner. President of the White Cane Club, Clarence Morris, thanked the Rotary club for their thoughtfulness in arranging the party and providing cars for transportation.

The dinner looked gay with red streamers and Christmas decorations and when the Christmas crackers had been exploded and paper hats donned the party spirit pervaded the hall.

The program arranged by Mrs. H. Rollins and Mrs. with a guessing game conducted by Bob Padden based on names of members of the White Cane club and were liberal. The choir of Queen Alexandra School added much to the musical part of the evening. Their numbers included "Three Shepherds," "Hymn to Son of Heaven," "Santa Lucia," "Leathering Bat," "O Come Emmanuel," "Jack Halls" "Barnabas Harbor," "One Morning in the Meadow," and "Silent Night." They were directed by Mr. W. Burgoyne and accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Burgoyne.

Principal M. M. Hackett spoke of his pride in the fact that they have contributed many hours to entertaining the sick and shut-ins. Visit to the County Home for the Aged.

Judith Mott gave a fine reading of the "Little Clockmaker," Ali joined in singing favorite Christmas carols.

Mr. Fairman thanked all who had contributed to the success of the evening. The guests singled for a few minutes to wish one another a new year of happiness and then were escorted to their homes.

Insp. McDougall Asks Motorists To Use Caution

New Year's Eve calls for a celebration. And a celebration on New Year's Eve also calls for caution.

Tonight there will be many people going to bed early after the birth of the New Year, and eventually coming from them. In many cases the big conditions of highways and roads could be matched by the bad conditions of motorists. This leads to trouble - - - something all of us should every one wants to steer clear.

A warning to this effect was issued today by Inspector Jack Dougall, head of the Belleville detachment of the OPP.

"I hope that we will receive the same co-operation from the motorists for New Year's that we had at Christmas," he commented. "We greatly appreciate the co-operation that gave us at Christmas. However we shall be out in full force again tonight."

"But we hope we will not have occasion to spoil anyone's New Year's celebration by having to enforce the law on careless or obstreperous drivers."

TRENTON (Special) — The Parks Board decided no action be taken on the resignation of board member Miss Helen Goodfellow. They agreed to use every method to persuade her to reconsider her decision.

The board decided to purchase the park for early benches, in order to be split between W. B. Maybee of Smithfield, and R. Whittey and Sons, of Trenton, provided each agreed to the same price.

Authority was given member Sid Pouquett to secure a plate or stencil so that each seat can be marked with an offer of a reward for the conviction of vandals found destroying the parks' board property.

The board sent a request to council pointing out that the laying of tile in Dixon Drive Park should be completed as soon as possible in the new year so that the board can finish the work of levelling off the property as a playground.

The board authorized medical treatment and hospitalization insurance for parks' employees.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

I Love to Hear The Story

I love to hear the story
Which angels' voices tell
How once the King of Glory
Came down on earth to dwell!
I am both weak and sinful,
But this I surely know;
The Lord came down to save me,
Because He loved me so.
I'm glad my blessed Savior
Was once a child like me,
To show how pure and holy
His little ones might be;
And if I try to follow
His footsteps here below
He never will forsake me,
Because He loves me so.
To sing His love and mercy
My sweetest songs I'll raise;
And though I cannot see Him,
I know He hears my praise.
For He has kindly promised
That even I may go
To sing among His angels,
Because He loves me so.

Only one who loved and understood children as did Emily Huntington Miller could have written this beautiful Sunday School hymn.

Miss Miller was born in Brooklyn, Connecticut, in 1833. Her father was a Methodist minister. One day in 1867, six years after she had graduated from Oberlin College, she lay ill in her room worrying about the many poems she had promised to write for a children's magazine of which she was co-editor.

As the deadline for copy neared, she mustered every whit of her strength and courage, and began composition. Once begun, the writing went along astonishingly well and in about a quarter hour, according to her own story later, she had finished her poem, "I Love to Hear The Story".

The verses which she wrote that day have never been altered or improved in any way. They stand today, in all of the hymnals, just as they were written. That is a fair test of quality and popularity but if another is needed it is found in the acclaim which greeted Miss Miller's song in England when, in 1875, it was given a place of honor in that distinguished English collection, "Hymns Ancient And Modern."

For Parents Only

Resolutions For Parents

"The world is so full of a number of things
I'm sure we should all be as happy as kings!"

Robert Louis Stevenson wrote these lines for boys and girls. To a little child, it seems quite impossible that such a great person as a king should be miserable! A child's life a full of many things but these do not guarantee happiness.

Children live in the present and sometimes they are far more miserable than adults realize. When he is in pain, or uncomfortable or fearful, he suffers acutely. A mature person realizes that a disagreeable experience cannot last for ever, and this helps him. A child has no such re-assurance!

A boy or girl can collect against unfairness. Some adolescents are acutely unhappy. Their state of mind can usually be traced back to their earlier training. The happy, well-adjusted teenager does not frequently upset his family nor get into trouble with the law. Parents are eager that the New Year which stretches ahead should be a truly satisfying one. What are some of the resolutions which parents can make which will help their child be a happy individual?

MAINTAIN HAPPY HOME

"We will do all we can to maintain a serene and happy atmosphere in our home." Times of crisis do come to every family when it is natural to be anxious and sorrowful. These trials must be faced with courage and faith.

It is the rush and hurry of every day modern life which leaves dad exhausted when he comes home to supper and makes mother so weary at the end of her day. Fatigue and ill-health are both enemies of happiness which need to be combatted in most homes. But if mother and dad form a real partnership, if they enjoy each other's company, their children will grow up in the kind of home which encourages a cheerful attitude of life and a sense of security.

NOT SUPERFLUOUS

"We will accept our child as he is." Think his may seem a superfluous resolution for mothers and fathers—but is it? How many parents would like to change their child's sex? They would rather have had a son or a daughter than the daughter or son who were born to them in every community there are parents desperately trying to turn children not particularly gifted in music, or athletics, ito musicians or athletics. There are also unhappy adults earning their living in ways distasteful to them because their parents insisted that they do so. The resolution of accepting a person as he or she is, forms the foundation of mental health for both children and grown-ups.

"We will help our children to think well of himself and encourage others to have a good opinion of him." A child needs desperately to be on good terms with himself. He needs, too, to have his sense of his own worth bolstered from time to time.

The praise and appreciation of his family, his church, and the townsfolk in his small world is precious to him. Psychologists tell us that among the most emotional hungers of mankind is this striving for assurance of one's own value.

"We will try to find greater satisfaction in our own daily work and leisure and help our child to enjoy his work at school and his play time." Let us show our children that abiding happiness comes from work well done and leisure time well used.

Some children, like the blue book in Masterlinck's play, cannot be captured by direct pursuit and put into a cage. Happiness is a by-product of worthwhile achievement. It is not dependent on luck or circumstances. If we can demonstrate to our children that happiness is a state of mind and heart which we share with those around us—then we have gone a long way towards giving them "A Happy New Year"!

A Lift For Living

Deceiving Ourselves

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

Over the gate of a certain university is inscribed this old Greek motto, "Know Thyself". Those are good words to put over the threshold of the New Year. We face in many unknown factors in the year ahead, but at least we should start by trying to know ourselves.

The reasons for self-deception are various. For one thing, we deceive ourselves by viewing situations from the angle of our own self-interest. Our judgments are colored by our desires. We talk ourselves into believing almost anything about ourselves.

Recall the fox in the old fable. The fox tried to reach the grapes and failed. Instead of facing up to the fact of his failure and trying harder, he said to himself, "I don't want the grapes anyhow. They are sour." And thus by failing to be honest with himself, he forfeited his chance of gaining strength.

Sometimes we deceive ourselves by trying to deceive others. A number of years ago, a young member of the staff of a daily newspaper was told that a paper in a distant city was seeking a capable illustrator. The young man decided to apply for the job. The art director of the staff to which the young fellow was working was a skilled draughtsman.

OUT OF TWO JOBS

One day the young artist asked the director if he could borrow some of his (the director's) drawings for a few days. Of course, the young man stuffed those drawings in a portfolio, caught a train, and presented them to the art editor of the other paper which had been searching for just that kind of talent.

The applicant had erased the real artist's name and pasted the pictures as his own. He was employed immediately, in less than a month the art editor detected the hoax. The young man was fired. He could not return to his former employer and was out of two jobs. By his deception he had fooled himself.

Such crass deception is abhorrent to every decent person. But to stop fooling ourselves is often more difficult than to keep from deceiving others. Yet if we are ever to have a clean feeling within and a clear outlook on life, we must open our eyes to see ourselves as we really are.

The late Abbe Dimnet, the French writer, once declared that we must be ourselves if we are to create anything original. And he added that the two chief obstacles in the way of a person being himself are pretense and diffidence.

USES UP ENERGY

When a man uses up his energy in pretending to be what he is not, he cannot give his whole self to being what he is. So many of us spend much of our effort posing as more clever or more artistic or more important than we really are. We put up a bold front to conceal our lack of backbone and our inferiority. Alas, this strain of pretense! It keeps us from being the worthy persons we could be.

In his plea to avoid the hypocrisy of the Pharisees, Jesus uttered a very arresting warning: "Nothing is covered up that will not be revealed or hidden that will not be known. Whatever you have said in the dark shall be heard in the light, and what you have whispered in private rooms shall be proclaimed upon the house-tops."

An act, we are told, never stops with itself. When a thing is done it is not done with. Action is followed by reaction, either direct or delayed. Even thought leaves a trail.

In "The Bridge of San Luis Rey," Thorton Wilder told how a singing teacher took a talented but rather vain and superficial girl from a South American music hall and tried to develop her into a genuine artist. She became a popular singer, but fed her pride on the crowd's applause and was quite content with mediocre performance if the public seemed pleased. But each night when she turned from the footlights, she found her singing master standing in the wings. He was not fooled by the applause.

So with us on the stage of life. The crowd may applaud and condemn. But the Master of Life is always in the wings. Face to face with Him we must be our real selves.

New Year's And Superstition Go Hand in Hand

Mankind has always been superstitious about New Year's.

In olden times families south a glimpse into the future by the "dipping" custom. The head of the family, with his eyes closed, spread on the family Bible and indicted a passage with his finger; the text, solemnly read and interpreted was indictive of the luck—good or bad—that was in store for them.

Probably one of the most widespread superstitions concerned the first person to cross the threshold on New Year's morning. Women and lightskinned men were considered unlucky, as where people who walked pigeon-toed.

In some villages, the superstition was taken so seriously that a dark-haired man was hired to be the first-footer. Going from house to house, he would be the first person to cross the threshold, thus preserving the good fortune of the community.

Anglow-Saxons, believing that something might happen when the New Year occurred often climbed upon the roof on New Year's eve in order to have a good start on such event.

We moderns make as much noise as possible, presumably because our primitive ancestors believed that noise would keep evil influences at a distance.

OFF THE RECORD

By Ed. Reed

1955 — HERE WE COME!

The year founders in the Sea of Time.
When it starts it can't carry with it many of the hopes and fears, expectations and resolutions, promises and threats with which it was launched, commissioned and sent out on its history-making voyage.

Another year rests on the ways, ready for christening. Its holds are already nearly filled with cargo transferred from its predecessor. There is still time, though, for us to make minor changes in its manifest.

What shall we take aboard with us when 1955 pushes its prow toward the ever-approached never-reached horizon which is the Future?

* * *

There are those who scoff at New Year's resolutions.

A beginning, however, is as necessary as an end. No task is undertaken if it is interminable.

To be granted the privilege of starting anew would be the greatest boon that most of us could imagine. It would be spurned only by those so conceited as to believe that they have attained perfection or by those so timorous as to doubt their ability to improve on past performances, however imperfect though they recognize those to be.

Most people, however, few of us are completely blind to our faults and rare, indeed, is the man or woman who does not believe that, if fanned by a favorable wind, there is not within him a spark of greatness which will glow so that all may see.

Most of those who scoff at New Year's resolutions do so not because of conceit or timidity, but as the result of wisdom. The past, they know, will shape the future. What has been determines what is to be. Not the desirability of a new start but the possibility is what they doubt.

* * *

Yet the Future must be granted some independence from the past, unless one believes in predestination, fate, Kismet—call it what you will, by any of the many names of varied tongues, in the guise of doctrines of diverse philosophies. The ingredient which breaks the future's bondage to history alone is man and his ability to make himself something which he is not. For man is not only what he has been, but also what he would be—and the respect he has been, but also what he would be—and the respect-ful attitude he has shown toward his resolutions. Future influences of past actions and present aims in the future really depend upon the individual's courage, integrity and perseverance. All these qualities of heart and mind are strengthened by a resolution made at any time. A start must be made. It can be made at any time. The changing of the calendar is merely a convenient time to make a change in character. It helps, though, to realize that many another year is starting out anew at the same time; that the challenge offered by the future is shared.

* * *

If many resolve but few achieve, the fault lies not in the desire for achievement but in the nature of the objectives. Too many people cry for the moon, when they should be content with picking out a star by which to steer. What we can become is already limited by what we have been. We must refrain from lifting our sights too high; must be content with the possible. We must abandon indulgent dreams and forget other resolution still intact. Therefore be wary of asking too much of yourself. To know what you can become you must first learn what you are. To chart the path ahead, first look back.

* * *

What is good for the individual is good, too, for organizations. Every business needs a goal and that goal is not determined with reference to the annual audit. A newspaper, because it is at one and the same time a business enterprise and something more than a business, does well to inquire occasionally into its past and set its course for the future.

There are almost as many views on journalism as there are journalists—and I suppose it's a safe bet that because there are so many varied types of journals. One newspaperman, however, from the knowledge bred by a lifetime in the craft, has divided all newspapers into two types. He says, he says, that they are either the "What?" newspaper which is continually being amazed, amused, alarmed; to which every event is the occasion for jubilation or tribulation. At the other pole is the "What?" newspaper, which is placid amidst turmoil, dubious of threats, questioning of promises.

Few newspapers, of course, have pure blood lines. There has been much cross-breeding. The same newspaper may be "Gee Whiz" on its front page and "So What?" on its editorial page, or vice versa. But these are the two approaches to news and the manner in which they are blended determines the character of the paper.

* * *

There is color, there is glamor, there is excitement in the land of "Gee Whiz." There also dwell exaggeration, misinformation and intolerance.

"So What?" people and institutions tend to be calm, reliable, persevering. They can also be cynical, dull and even stodgy.

Few people are good judges of their own character. We shall not endeavor to classify The Ontario Intelligencer with either the "Gee Whiz" or "So What?" papers.

This does, however, seem to be the point at which to resolve that during 1955 the editorial page of The Ontario Intelligencer, as one of the several facets through which a newspaper shows its character, will endeavor to be neither sensational nor cynical, intolerant nor dull. Above all, we resolve not to play dead.

* * *

And a Happy New Year to you, too.

JUST FOLKS

(Copyright 1954, Edgar A. Guest)

By EDGAR A. GUEST

NEW YEAR'S EVE

I won't be up when the New Year comes,
I'll blow no horns and I'll beat no drums.
When the New Year crosses our welcome mat,
I won't be wearing a paper hat.

When "Happy New Year," to them all I've said,
At ten o'clock I'll go up to bed.
What my wishes are for them all
I'll keep to myself.
But they won't be kept for the midnight bell.

I've had my share of the merry din
That always ushers a new year in.
I've worn enough of those paper caps
And I'm leaving them for the younger chaps.

Let the whistles toot and the gongs clocks chime,
I'll say the year when it's ticklish time.
Let the young folks wait for the year to come.
They can have my horn and my cap and drum.

The Old Couple Smiled

(Montreal Gazette)

"Strange to say what delight we married people have to see these poor fools decoyed into our condition."

So wrote Samuel Pepys in his diary in 1665, after seeing some young people, who were about to become caught in the marriage net.

His attitude is by no means unusual. The married state has probably given rise to more cynical wit than any other topic. William Congreve wrote in his play The Old Bachelor:

* * *

"Courtship to marriage . . . is very witty prologue to a very dull play.

* * *

And George Meredith, writing very seriously, apparently agreed. In a letter to his friend, J. A. Hammerton, he wrote: "The dreams of courtship have to be dispelled. The couple have to become hardened to the married life."

It would all seem a strangely grim picture, so that wit may be called in to give sparkle to the prevailing tragedy. And what is the answer? The answer is likely to be of a kind that the cynics would find difficult to understand.

For the heart that is happy in marriage is not hardened but softened. Little things, otherwise the very stuff for satire, become the very substance happiness itself.

* * *

Thomas Hardy put the reply well, in his poem, "The Long-Trail-Pair." It is a poem on the infinite comfort and meaning that marriage gives to the ordinary round of life.

And petty seemed the happenings
That ministered to their joyousness,
Simple things,
Onerous to single souls, increased their buoyance,

Who could these common people be,
Of daily the plainest, barest?
They were we,
Yes; happier than the cleverest, smartest, rarest.

This is not an answer that will mean much except to those who know how deeply true such happiness may be, the secure pleasures of the privateness of private life, sheltered from the world's uneasy ways.

* * *

Dr. Samuel Johnson would have known the truth of these lines. Writing in later life, many years after his wife's death, he said: "This is the day on which in—52, I was deprived of poor dear Tetty. When I recollect the time in which we lived together, my grief for her departure has abated, and I have less pleasure in any good that befalls me, because she does not partake it . . . When I saw the sea at Brighthelmston, I wished for her to have seen it with me."

Five years later, in a diary kept during a visit to France, he wrote of his feeling in visiting the Bourbon Palace: "As I entered, my wife was in my mind; she would have been pleased. Having now nobody to please, I am little pleased."

Writing at the age of 71, in a letter of confidence, Dr. Johnson wrote: "He that long loved, sees himself disjoined from the world, and feels his hopes, and fears, and interest; from the only companion, with whom he has lived in unity with good and evil; and with whom he could talk away the hours of infirmity or the past, or anticipate the future."

* * *

But discovered truth is never anything like as spectacular as the realize of its pursuit. Mark Twain, Turner, ridiculing the tender bonds of life long-shared, calls them

Ring the merry marriage bells,
That most melancholy sound!
When the bridegroom and the bride
Go to find what none has found.

What is the answer? The answer is not made by those who feel no interest in making it. For it is made by those who have a hunger for happiness, the security happy wish only to keep their happiness in safe custody.

So the best answer might be found in a passage in one of the novels of Henry Fielding. The young cynic or pessimist who persistently declaredhe break color schemes to don sweaters under jackets, when sleam and collars go up, winds and small boys whistle, when cheeks are rosy, lips and motor blocks cracked, when leaves are gone and logs are burned, when grass is brown and white, when days are pigeon-toed, when cats sleepy, when displays are trees turn black, when ponds are as hard as earth and as hard as ice, when coasting sleds and ponds replace backward sway from the sun—It's to be expected. It's December, remember!

Aviation Big Business

(Avro Canadian News)

Canada's aviation business has topped the half-billion dollar mark, and is the single biggest employer in Canada in terms of both employment and salaries and wages paid.

Of particular significance is a 575 per cent increase in the last three years in total goods carried by non-scheduled air carriers, compared with a 58 per cent increase for scheduled carriers.

Passengers carried in 1953 reached, an all-time high of 2,795,837, and passenger miles flown were 988,053,923.

How to Get Time to Read

(Niagara Falls Review)

Concluding a graduation address, a professor said to be highly married, spoke as follows: "Gentlemen, many of you will marry. Let me assure you to be kind to your wives. Be patient with them. When you are going out together, do not worry if your wife is not ready at the appointed time. Have a good book nearby. Read it while you wait. And, gentlemen, when you read you will be astonished at the amount of information you will acquire.'

December Description

(New York Times)

When breath comes short and cheeks ruddy white, when gloves are furlined and scarves all of wool, when eyes and ears are red, and eyes and noses wet, when fingers are numb and color schemes to don sweaters under jackets, when steam and collars go up, winds and small boys whistle, when cheeks are rosy, lips and motor blocks cracked, when leaves are gone and logs are burned, when grass is brown and white, when days are pigeon-toed, when cats sleepy, when displays are trees turn black, when ponds are as hard as earth and as hard as ice, when coasting sleds and ponds replace backward sway from the sun—It's to be expected. Take a Nap, Not a Pill

(St. Catharines Standard)

Naps instead of pills is the suggestion of the "family doctor of the United States of 1954," Dr. Karl Pace of Greenville, N.C. The formula of this honored physician for happy and healthful living is so simple that everyone can follow it. Said Dr. Pace:

"Live today, let tomorrow take care of itself. Don't try to get rich. Try to help everyone you meet, spend more time at home, and take a nap in the middle of the day as a means of relaxation." The family doctor today, he says, must be a counsellor rather than a physician and give advice instead of pills. The average doctor, however, will tell you that the public do not want advice that will cure their ailments, they want the pills. It would seem that people are always looking for something to take the place of common sense. They do not have time in the whirl of today's activities to take a nap during the afternoon.

The present generation, suffering from nervous tension and emotional troubles, would do well to heed the advice so freely given. But because it is good advice, and because it is free, those needing it most will continue to go to the doctor's office for their variety of pills.

Honor Memory Of Ralston

(Halifax Chronicle-Herald)

The decision taken by Acadia University to institute a School of Public Affairs in memory of the late J. L. Ralston will meet with widespread approval and support throughout the province, an approval enhanced by regard for the purpose which the school will serve and by respect for the memory of a great Nova Scotian.

The aim is not limited to the production of civil servants or of those who seek public life on a professional level. It is as much concerned with provincial government as with Federal, with municipal and local service as with, that, rather higher plane of endeavour, whether professional or voluntary, which makes for the good and wholesome government of the country at every level.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

FONDER A LESSON FROM THE PAST

Most right-minded people today are loyal to the United Nations. Its very existence is at mankind's only hope for peace. They are not too sure as to the outcome. If they had the faith of the early builders they would not give even money on the chances of victory. Fear, doubt, cynicism and its devility at work as leaven in the world, and with many nations — in fact some of the most important—believing that they can escape the evil they fear and stave off the evil day, the chances for peace sometimes look grim. This does not mean that all is inevitable. It certainly is not inevitable, but our position is not comfortable.

The huge modernistic building which houses the United Nations look terrifyingly like the picture we have seen of the ancient Tower of Babel and you recall what happened to that tower. The ancient idea men believed that they could build a tower, the top of which would reach to heaven, and make themselves a name. And God came down and confounded their language and scattered them into the ends of the earth.

Men are not attempting to find peace through economic advantage and military power instead of finding the true and eternal things of the Spirit upon which the soul of man subsists? There is a decided limit to what organization can do. Only the Spirit counts in a spiritual universe.

Double Duty Bird

(Look Magazine)

Gen. Matthew B. Ridway says the signal corps is developing a bird "that is a cross between a homing pigeon and a woodpecker. This bird will not only deliver the message but knock on the door.'

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

ANYBODY SUBJECT TO CROUP?

A few years ago I commented here upon the rarity of croup nowadays. Guided by the frequency of croup in my own practice — It was a common cause of emergency calls, frequently at midnight when the spasm of throat muscles causes crowing breathing — I had prepared for distribution a pamphlet on croup. The first decade or two readers asked for information and advice about croup. But after that months and years passed without any inquiries about croup. I inferred that children just didn't have croup any more. Moreover, I had not come across anything about it in medical literature in recent years. Even medical textbooks of the present era are as vague about croup as they are about diphtheria, infantile colic and the gout. So I opined in this column that croup was no longer a hazard of childhood and (you know me, folks) it supervened on a disease why — children nowadays get more fresh air, less coddling.

Dr. Brady

That brought prompt and vigorous refutation from mothers whose children were subject to croup. But I realized it was useless to argue with them about it because in most instances their children were attended not by an ordinary doctor like myself but by a pediatrician, if you please. Another one only rebuked me for trying to impose my quaint views on intelligent people. Her young son, she informed me, got the croup if something went wrong with the thermostat and the temperature in his bedroom dropped below 63 in the night. That stopped me.

Aside from the last chapter in the booklet Call It C R I, I have nothing more to say about croup. C R I, by the way, pronounced kree, means any common respiratory infection in the early stage before you are even the doctor, if you consult one, can tell what you are coming down with. The commonest respiratory infections account for three-fourths of the practice of the usual doctor, medical and surgical. So, my dear kmucks, everyday use of knowledge of the prevention of the C R I is a kind of health insurance that is easy on the pocketbook.

And so Healthy New Year!

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

PEOPLE WHO NEVER DIE

There are names in human history that never seem to fade out. Generation after generation passes, with one after the other, each growing in lustre the influence of their lives ever widely spreading. In reading the autobiography of Ellen Glasgow I came across this sentence written about her visit to the little Cemetery of Picpus in France, there to "stand reverently by buried here, but, for me, Jean Valjean, who was never buried, lives forever vividly."

I believe that many of us carry in our hearts the memories of influence of those who have lived and enriched all mankind. It matters not if we are personally known joy of personal acquaintanceship, to have fathomed the secrets and grasped the spirit of such characters is quite enough.

I have made two visits to that uncomparable of all earthly places — Hawaii. Under the glass of my work desk are these words: "To leave Hawaii is to die a little." I have that same feeling of separation when a loved one is taken away from all the wonderful things in something in us dies with the death of a friend or loved one, but that is only supposition, for nothing is so immortal as love and influence! No one can read "Les Miserables," by Victor Hugo, without being forever influenced by the character referred to—Jean Valjean. A college mate of mine said, "I thought the book changed the course of his life.

I have sympathy, understanding, and humility of Abraham Lincoln are what draw people to him in life and which have contributed to his immortal spirit. Simplicity of character and a sense of justice ruled all his grave decisions. The shadow of the cross enveloped him. Could any writer live more convincingly than William Shakespeare? Think of the wonderful influence of Christ over the centuries.

Getting Things Done

(Sudbury Star)

A Sudbury business man says the best way to get something done is to give the job the person you know when he'll have his secretary do it.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In the new office building, the walls and partitions were of aluminum. Aluminum and glass. The effect was slightly breathtaking. The effect of opulence or splinter the strange chill of aluminum, the designer of the building had chosen the modernistic chairs with bright-colored cushions; the stately spaciousness of the benches were upholstered in orange, light green, rust red, gas blue, and the fluorescent tone of the tall aluminum walls was broken, at strategic points, by areas of soft beige and cocoa and ground white pepper.

"Ah!" said the client, "Ah!"

"Tremendous, isn't it?" said the architect.

"It must be hard to work here, in these offices," I ventured, "at first?"

"Do you know," countered the architect, "that the workers' efficiency of the junior staff in this office has been stepped up as high as thirty per cent, in the unquestionable result of these surroundings?"

"How," I asked, "about the old boys? What as been the effect on them?"

We went into the manager's office. It was terrific too. His window gave him a panorama of half the great city. His walls were nearly all glass. His desk was of aluminum. draped with long shrouds of liver-blue, spleen-green, velvet.

"It's marvellous," said the manager, "I can't keep my mind on my job. I keep looking out the windows all day. If I don't, I get the most terrible headaches."

"There, now," soothed the architect, presiding the manager back into his lovely soft functional fungus-colored settee, "it's terrific," sobbed the manager.

"To be modern, you've got to be young.

Then He Tells

(National Food Distributors' Journal)

If George, your driver, seems a little slow in getting behind some car that you want to push, send out a teaser postcard to his stops. On the card say, "It's wonderful here. There! That's ask him. Then he'll have to tell.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Western oils shot ahead on the stock market today and most other sections gained narrowly.

Calgary and Edmonton was the leader, touching $15.75 on a $1.50 climb. Bailey Selburn A hit $7.45 on a 45-cent gain, and Charter touched $2. Also strong were British, Merrill, Home Oil and Scurry-Rainbow.

Gold and base metal gains were mostly small. Normetal and Pato Consolidated made the best climbs. Industrials were mixed with papers, utilities and liquors strong but steels and textiles lower. Yearly highs went to Minnesota and Ontario and Gypsum and Industrial Acceptance climbed $1 in the first hour.

Ontario Pyrites, National Exhibitions and La Luz were active and strong among low-priced issues. Lorado climbed 20 and Algom gained 25 cents.

First-hour volume was 1,250,000 shares.

Carrying Place Seaman to Take 'Sub' Training

Leading Seaman William K. Seward, 20, of Carrying Place, will be among the second group of Royal Canadian Navy personnel to take submarine training in the United Kingdom starting early in January.

The Carrying Place seaman is among a draft of 80 volunteers drawn from ships and establishments across the country who will fly from Montreal in two groups, the first leaving on January 2nd and the second a few days later.

On arrival in England they start training immediately at HMS Dolphin, the Royal Navy's submarine training base near Portsmouth.

Training periods vary from three months to a year, depending on rank and duties involved.

Eventually, nearly 200 Canadian naval personnel will be trained for duty in submarines.

On completion of training, the Canadians will be assigned to duty in submarines of the Royal Navy, the majority going to the three undersea units of the Sixth Submarine Squadron which will be based at Halifax to provide additional training facilities for the anti-submarine vessels and carrier-based air squadrons of the Royal Canadian Navy.

Under an agreement recently concluded between the British Admiralty and the Royal Canadian Navy, three "A" class submarines, the Astute, Ambush and Alderney will form the Sixth Submarine Squadron of the Royal Navy.

Canada Continues to Stand Out As Good Field for Investments

By Joe Docter.

Fundamentals have always been the safest guide for securities. While stocks have to some extent, discounted fundamental conditions, many stocks will still look high, but there has never been a boom in stocks that has not ended in a boomerang.

Both domestic and international politics and labor should be given serious consideration when selecting securities.

Companies with large natural resources offer possibilities, especially the ones whose products go into atomic energy, electronics, chemicals and other advanced products.

Canada continues to stand out with its large reserves of proven and potential mineral resources. Its economic, political and labor conditions in Canada appear especially propitious for investment.

Mr. Docter, formerly of Belleville, has earned an enviable reputation for himself as a shrewd investment counsellor on Wall Street in New York. He is at present a customers' man in Laidlaw and Co., 25 Broad St., N.Y. His annual forecast for investment possibilities in a New Year's feature that the Ontario Intelligencer has been pleased to publish for many years.

Business and Financial Forecast for 1955

By Roger W. Babson

1. GENERAL BUSINESS. Despite walls from some quarters, 1954 saw a drop in the average Physical Volume of business of only 5% from the record year 1953. 1955 could see a rise of about the same amount. Certainly, the direction of business until mid-1955 will be upward.

2. BUSINESSMEN WILL WAKE UP. During 1954 many businessmen rediscovered the meaning of the word "competition." Sales will continue to be made only with real effort in most lines.

3. CONSUMPTION OUTLOOK. Consumption in a number of lines has been proceeding at a more rapid rate than basic production. I forecast a better record in early 1955 for both steel and automobiles.

4. TEXTILE INDUSTRY. Textile industry operated at extremely low levels throughout most of 1954. Coal and railroad equipment also entered a period of downpull. I forecast that the textile and coal industries will be in a recovery phase after their long stay in the doldrums.

5. PRIVATE CONSTRUCTION. I forecast that home building and general construction will be somewhat lower in 1955 than in 1954, but this important industry should still operate at high levels next year.

6. PUBLIC CONSTRUCTION. I forecast that public construction will increase during 1955. This should be a big factor in the output of cement.

7. AGRICULTURAL EQUIPMENT. This industry has been suffering from a decline in demand, but should improve. Government - sponsored plantings following the crop loans have reduced free supplies, and may make for higher agricultural prices later in 1955.

8. ARMAMENT INDUSTRY. The armament industry will still be one of the main floors beneath the inflation. The electrical and chemical industries will move at a rate close to that of 1954.

9. OTHER INDUSTRIES. I am not ready for me to attempt to forecast rains, droughts, frosts, etc., for any special section. However, taking the nation as a whole, I look for better weather in 1955.

11. RETAIL SALES. I forecast that the outlook for retail sales is encouraging, at least through the first half of 1955.

12. PROFITS. Stiffening competition is chipping away at the profit margin. Return on invested capital is in a long-term downtrend. The first few years after World War II were the golden years for the novice in business. Now it is the inefficient. Those days are gone for awhile.

13. SELECTIVITY. Right to labor and other costs, plus intensified competition, will continue during 1955. I forecast a high degree of selectivity in the effect of this trend on individual activities and companies. Victory will be for the nimble and for the strong.

14. DIVIDENDS. Recent high expenditures for new plant and machinery have left some concerns with very high depreciation charges. As new capital investments are cut and depreciation remains high, cash inflow could expand. Many companies should be able to pay out in dividends a higher percentage of earnings in 1955 than in recent years, notwithstanding a moderate profits shrinkage.

15. INVENTORIES. Inventories have been permitted to run down during 1954. As total business expands, there will be a tendency to replace reduced stocks, especially during the first half of 1955. Total manufacturers' inventories, however, may build up more rapidly than total business inventories. I forecast that wholesale and total retail inventories will show little change from 1954 levels.

16. PRICES OF MANUFACTURED GOODS. Even with this expected pickup in demand, I see no sharp markup in industrial prices next year. Over-all supplies are generally ample. Hence, I forecast that industrial prices in 1955 will show little change from recent levels.

17. FOOD PRICES. Food prices may firm later in 1955. The strong move into Government crop loans this year has made free supplies of most agricultural items less bountiful. I forecast that new advertising programs by farmers and other great food distributors will help farmers, stock raisers, and fruit growers.

18. CONSUMER INCOME. Consumer income will hold at satisfactory levels. Most goods should move readily into consuming channels.

19. LIVING COSTS. I forecast that during 1955 living costs will show little over-all change from present levels. There may be some firming during the first half, but the months may again witness a minor softening.

20. RENTERS. The housing rental expenses may edge somewhat higher; clothing costs should be steady to firm slightly. There is small chance that food expenses can go much lower.

21. MONEY SUPPLIES. I forecast that money supplies will be ample for all legitimate business needs during 1955. With little likelihood of business activity to run hand on the upside, credit easing is more likely than credit curtailment in 1955.

22. INFLATION. Fears, or perhaps hopes, for an inflationary boom should be buried. Barring outbreak of war, productive capacity is sufficiently large to meet all demands for goods. I forecast that no runaway inflation is probable, even if the money managers increase the supply of money or ease credit.

23. INTEREST RATES. Until the Treasury finds it easier to balance the budget, hold business at high levels and unemployment to a minimum, I forecast little likelihood of higher interest rates.

24. BOND PRICES. With the possible exception of tax-free bonds, I see no reason for increased bond prices in 1955. I forecast an increase in the issuance of tax-free revenue bonds.

25. STOCK PRICES. After a sharp a rise, the market could have a reaction; but I see declining no certain as 1953 such as we had in 1929. In fact, the situation changed for the better October 11, 1954.

26. WAGES. I forecast that the wage trend in organized industry will continue to move higher at least in the first half of 1955. During the first half year, when business will be improving, labor challenges will also be quick to resort to the strike weapon.

27. CYCLICAL MARCH GAINS. I forecast that the heavy guns of the labor leaders will be trained on the guaranteed annual wage, shorter work week, and more pensions. Following a congressional control of appointments to the National Labor Relations Board, the decisions of that body will swing more toward the side of management.

28. NEW INVENTIONS. These will mostly be a labor-saving type. I forecast a marked increase in atomic and cybernetics, and other marvelous changes in production methods.

29. EMPLOYMENT. Unemployment outlook is brighter, since business will be on the upgrade during the first half. I forecast that local and seasonal unemployment will still prove a knotty problem.

30. FAILURES. The salient business characteristic of 1955 will be bitter competition. Many companies already weakened by competitive conditions will no longer be able of keep afloat. I forecast a rise in both the number and the total value of failures during 1955.

31. MERGERS. I forecast that mergers and consolidations will be encouraged by federal officials, if by nothing a weak company can be saved. But while every effort will be made to prevent liquidations, Washington will frown on large mergers and consolidations.

32. GENERAL REAL ESTATE SALES. The time is already past due, when real estate prices should have been falling. Only a fear of World War III and easier credit have prevented this. Therefore, I forecast that a downturn in prices cannot long be postponed.

33. URANIUM CRAZE. The greatest speculation will take place in the seeking and trading of land with uranium prospects. This is now centred in Colorado, Utah, and vicinity; but I forecast it will spread in a limited way to many other states and even to "stubborn" properties. It could exceed the gold rush of 1849. Another demand will be for woodlands which will sell for a few dollars per acre.

34. INDIVIDUAL FARMS. These have suffered a decline in price as a result of the slump in agricultural prices. But as World War III comes, Unless more will be done politically, by the end of next year, I forecast that the recent decline in commercial farm property values will continue into 1955.

SUBSISTENCE FARMS ON THE FRINGES OF LARGER CITIES SHOULD HOLD UP WELL IN PRICE AS MIGRATION TOWARD INDUSTRIAL CONCENTINUES.

35. VACANT LAND IN CITY AREAS. With the exception of parking lots, city vacant land should experience a continued slow reduction in price during 1955; but no marked change in suburban vacant land, except for parking. I am very bullish on land anywhere suitable for parking.

36. BUSINESS PROPERTY. I forecast little hope for improvement for such property in the large cities during 1955. Business property in the suburbs has not been so inflated, and therefore will not be so vulnerable to declines and high taxes.

37. INDUSTRIAL BUILDING. The construction of new industrial plants gives every indication of continuing to mark out a downward course during 1955. I forecast that the brightest spot on the construction horizon for next year is the prospect for increased municipal construction, schools, hospitals, etc.

38. RESIDENTIAL CONSTRUCTION. The building of new homes has held at very high levels during 1954. Although I expect the trend of new home prices to be downward during the year 1955, they will still persist at very high levels. At least during the first half of the year. New homes will continue to be the best hedge against inflation though older homes give better values.

39. TAXES. The Eisenhower Administration has clearly emphasized that encouraging business and increased expenditures for defense and expansion are the true sources for rising employment and more jobs. I forecast that no substantial tax cutting 1955 will be to have taxes aid business—and thereby help everyone to more and better jobs.

40. INCOME TAXES. I forecast that there will be no further relief, in 1955, of the double-taxation feature of dividends. Any relief for the individual "small" taxpayer will be saved until the election year, 1956.

41. POLITICS. The really big political news in 1955 will not be made by the laws that will be enacted, but by the tremendous preparations for the 1956 presidential campaign. Those who claim that President Eisenhower is at heart a liberal and will get along well with a Democratic Congress should remember the lessons of politics.

42. WORLD WAR III. In my opinion, the initiative in international affairs still rests with Russia. Her next move is not yet ready for an all-out attack and no one in the West wants World War III.

Malenkov is now pushing a "Peace Offensive." I am referring here to the year 1955 over the long term. I still feel that a major holocaust is inevitable, but I forecast no World War III in 1955.

43. FOREIGN AID. Our foreign efforts during the year will continue to aim at plugging the leaks and building up dykes against the flooding tides from the East. I forecast more hard work to build up Europe, with Germany as the core; but Russia will make spectacular gains in the Far East, particularly in India.

44. FOREIGN COMPETITION. As Germany rearms and the European Defense Organization goes into gear, I forecast further improvement in Europe. Competition from European manufacturers will, however, be keen; but many trade deals will be pushed. I would not be surprised to see a rise in the dollar import allowance on taxes, up to 30%, provided 10% goes to churches, schools, or hospitals.

48. TRAVEL AND SPORTS. I forecast that money will be lavished on travel and sports in 1955. This is becoming an important year for sports, and should especially benefit Florida, California, Arizona, New Mexico, the Great Lakes Region, New England and the Northwest.

49. NEW METALS AND ALLOYS. Next to air-conditioning, I expect great growth in the use of new metals and alloys. I forecast the rare-metals stocks will not be as active as were the oils in 1954.

48. ADVERTISING. I forecast business spending in this field will increase further in 1955. It is not only the salvation of individual businesses, but is the best stimulant for national prosperity.

46. POPULATION. I forecast the population will continue to increase during 1955, with a rising percentage of young people between 15 and 22. This means a greater demand for clothing, college education, and especially for new school buildings.

56. CONCLUSION. Develop high Mental Health, and Good Works—with more attention to your families, to create no trouble which some day will come. GO TO CHURCH!

City Will Supply Sand for Walks To Householders

City householders requiring sand to cover ice on walks about their homes may have it delivered to their homes by the city public works department.

Householders desiring sand should leave a box outside their premises and call the city engineering department by phone and give their street number. The sand is mixed with chloride so it will not freeze.

"We are only too happy to provide sand for city householders," City Engineer Charles Mott noted. "All that is required is for them to call the city hall with their request."

TWO MILD

Southern Ontario had mild weather Thursday and the threat of a freeze-up, following snow and sleet Wednesday night, was removed. Above - freezing temperatures were forecast for the next two days.

Continuing cold weather was in store for most parts of the prairie provinces although there were indications the extreme sub-zero conditions of the past week were moderating. In Manitobe the forecast was for above-zero temperatures today. It was five below in Winnipeg Thursday.

The wind was running hot and cold in Alberta and Saskatchewan. A Chinook wind left Lethbridge, Alta., basking at 41 above; Edmonton recorded 10 below at noon Thursday, but was nine degrees warmer at midnight.

A snowy New Year seemed to be in store for the western Prairies, however, as a Chinook was moving in over the rockies.

In the Atlantic provinces snow or rain were general.

Mr. and Mrs. McCaughen, (the former Margaret Ellen Walker, of Thomasburg), were married in Stirling, and have spent most of their married life in Wm. Huntington and Foxboro, before moving to Stirling four years ago. Mr. McCaughen has been employed by the C.N.R. for 33 years.

The happy couple were then asked to take seats of honor and following a delicious supper by their son, were presented with a glass-topped coffee table and a floor lamp by their sons. Both responded with their heartfelt thanks.

A delicious turkey dinner was served by Mr. Sweet, assisted by her sisters, Mrs. Thomas and Mrs. Moore.

During the cutting of the three-tiered anniversary cake and throughout the festivities, flash pictures were taken to record the happy event.

After another sing-song the guests departed, all wishing Mr. and Mrs. McCaughen many more years of happiness.

Woman Legislator Withdraws, Hubby's Career Comes First

By RUTH COWAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Maurine Neuberger, three - times - elected Oregon state representative, says her husband's career is more important and that for 30 days as a legislator are numbered.

Her husband is United States Senator-elect Richard L. Neuberger (Dems., Ore.). So at caucus by as he stole a press conference Wednesday that was to have been hers.

Columnist Doris Fleeson, longtime friend of the Neubergers, had invited several news, radio and magazine women to her home to meet Mrs. Neuberger.

The 45-year-old senator - elect took his wife to Miss Fleeson's intending to go on elsewhere. But the girl reporters bombarded him with questions.

Now and then a reporter remembered Mrs. Neuberger, a slender, reserved woman. "How are you going to work it out—you being a state representative on the west coast and your husband down here on the east coast? Where's 'home' going to be?"

Mrs. Neuberger replied: "I've already announced that my name will appear for the last time on an election ballot. I'll be down here with my husband."

Her husband added: "She's going to help me in my office as an unpaid assistant and consultant. I need her advice. The only time I didn't follow her instructions I got wrong on education bill. After that I listened."

New Year in France Day Par Excellence

January 1, la jour de la bonne annee, is the day par excellence in France.

It is the day of gift-giving and of ringing doorbells. Besides friends who come to call, tradesmen, bill collectors and postmen are accustomed to call to offer compliments of the season, receive, in turn, small sums of money.

The atmosphere is full of joy and gaiety and hospitality. Gifts are proudly displayed and welcome and go amid many compliments and the toasting of everyone's health.

Jour de l'an has its serious side, too. Many families visit the graves of departed members, since this day is considered an appropriate time to remember the dead as well as the living.

The churches generally are crowded on New Year's Eve, which is also the Vigil of St. Sylvester, an early pontiff and father of the Church.

Going Places

Travel Has Its Annoyances

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

Everybody ought to have the opportunity to get things off his chest every once in a while—so perhaps you'll grant us the fifty seconds of your annual Going Places reading time to help us avoid a weekend frustration.

We propose to list some of our pet travel peeves. Perhaps then they may lead to some reforms that will benefit all of us.

Since we spend much of the year praising the airlines for their superior service, let's get out here against them — little though they are, for the most part—then forgive all. For instance:

Take the airline stewardesses who can't envision any other way of handing a man his hat than by seizing it by the crown and crushing it between a dainty, though sometimes greasy, thumb and forefinger.

Since many men have stopped wearing pinched crowns, this is something that seems decidedly avoid doing all day. Anyway, it's certainly much more logical on general principles, to grasp a hat by the brim.

OVERHEAD LOOK

It's usually the same gal, who will fold a coat and force it into an overhead rack regardless of how jeans's hat beyond recognition. Why don't the stewardess folding the coat first, then?

Then there are the airlines(and bus) companies (and them) that speed passengers to their destination at 300 miles an hour—only to let them wait in the aisle of the plane while ramp agents pretend they remember where the luggage and forget to roll out a ladder.

Speaking of stewardesses, there are a few things like that? The first thing I can to make your trip more comfortable." then disappear into the pilots' compartment shortly after take-off for a Kaffee Klatch, and are never seen or heard from again.

The map on may not be the same chick who puts coat tags on buttons so securely that they can't be removed by ampotating the button.

HUMAN ERRORS

Its an occupational hazard of running an airline. We suppose bad ter passengers are fortified by human error of selling more tickets than there are seats; or telling the passengers at the field that there is "no record" of the reservation made by phone.

Less understandable are the unrealistic schedules, particularly in connection ground time between stops, that make no many local flights intolerably late, especially in bad weather. We've often wondered if airline officials fully realize how heavily the majority of their passengers—particularly business—travel depends on their being on time.

Finally, improved though they are since the war, still offer their share of annoyance.

Prime examples are the bellhops who pounce upon you as you enter the airport with the elevator and try to seize and carry for you anything from your briefcase to your wife. Then come one offer, and each boy in the lobby will attempt to turn as you pass his station.

Consider, too, the ice-water taps which don't work it all, or run like water mirage than the regular cold-water tap, or flow either at a maddening trickle or a torrential gush which splashes out of the glass and onto your clothes. And the bathroom shower stalls which flood the bathroom with the slightest splash.

Nothing can be more inconvenient than scrambling on the floor in the dark in the maze of lamp wires, to find the plug for the bed reading light which has been kicked out by an unconcerned chambermaid.

Then on the highway, few things so irritate a traveler as the motels with inflated ideas of what their rate schedules ought to be. They are usually the same ones which have adopted the very evils of hotels that auto travelers want to get away from—bellhops, porters, distant parking lots, and over-priced restaurants.

Our motels are specially designed not to offend," they said.

Shirley Harmer, singer on both Canadian and United States TV networks, said she feels there is no justification for the criticism.

"If they complain about the dresses we wear on CBC, what on earth do they have to say about the girls on the U.S. networks?" she asked.

Equally indignant was Juliette, blonde singer on the Saturday night Billy Daniel show.

NEWSBRIEF VIEWS

Vi am sure my gowns don't offend anyone," he said. "We get piles of fan letters and the viewers are very frank. If they thought I showed too much, they would tell me."

Singer Phyllis Marshall, whose 36-26-36 inch figure graces the Wednesday Night On Stage show, insisted her gowns are carefully cut.

"Our designers watch like hawks while we rehearse in new gowns and at the first vestige of overexposure they make suitable adjustments—little bits of lace here and there, you know."

CBC-TV Performers Criticized For Showing Too Much Charm

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto's curvaceous CBC-TV performers are watching that cleavage.

L'Action criticized the CBC for allowing "certain persons who ordinarily are the symbol of elegance and good taste" to forget themselves to the "great surprise" of viewers.

The paper reminded performers that they are not appearing for an adult audience in a theatre but in a home.

PERFORMERS DENY

Toronto TV stars Shirley Harmer Phillys Marshall and Julie Juliette said in on interview Wed. they certainly are not suffering from over-exposure.

"Our gowns are specially designed not to offend," they said.

Yvonne Sugden Wins 2nd Straight National Skating Championship

By JEFF RYAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Yvonne Sugden, Britain's 15-year-old skating queen, has pirouetted to her second straight national championship and now she's all set for another crack at European honors.

After that it's on to the world championships.

Yvonne, who puts in 25 hours' practice during her five-day skating week, is coached by Jacques Gerschwiler the Swiss expert. Gerschwiler, who coached two other British ice queens—Cecilia Colledge and Jeanette Altwegg—is more than satisfied with Yvonne's progress.

"Perhaps in the New Year, Yvonne will complete the hattrick," he said, hoping for a British-European-world coup. "The girl has everything. Her figures are perfect. They have to be."

CAUTIOUS YVONNE

Yvonne herself is not too confident—which is about the only thing Gerschwiler will say against her.

"I may not get good enough to win the world title," she sighed, "although I am hopeful like points.

Jacques, but I should be at my best for the 1956 Olympics."

For the girl who still does lessons and "can't imagine what living is like without skating" a place on the British Olympic team is her most fervent wish.

Yvonne, whose idea of a day off is to watch ice hockey, started skating at seven. Her mother, Mrs. Ida Sugden, took her to a rink where she couldn't get in to a movie.

MOTHER'S COMMENT

With mother at the career helm, Yvonne is not likely to go professional in a hurry.

"I'm not particularly keen for her to do so—in case it wouldn't be till she's older—I want to see her marry someone nice and settle down."

She was third last year in the European competition, scheduled for Budapest Jan. 27-29 this year. Fourth in the world championship. This is at Vienna Feb. 15-18.

She won the British title Dec. 16, coming from behind to beat Erica Batchelor by a second and 16

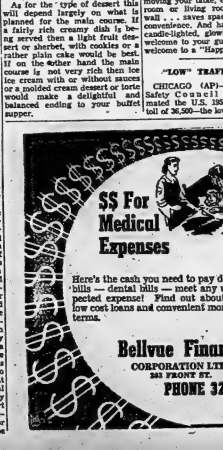
Entertaining Buffet Style

Whether designed for the New Year's Eve or late mid-winter entertaining, a buffet supper party will long be remembered as the ideal way to have them genuine hospitality prevails, the hostess one who generously enjoys the party with her guests, and the supper table is a real symposium.

Buffet service for a supper party is ideal for it breaks down formality and at the same time relieves the hostess of considerable work. In case there is no room for a buffet party is far removed from the elaborate buffets of a century ago. The origin of the expression "buffet" applying to the serving of food comes from the French word, buffe, in entertaining royalty and other dignitaries the feast would be lavishly arranged on a tiered continuous table placed against the long wall of the dining room. The famous French chef Antonin Careme described as an outstanding food artist, is credited with simplifying the buffet to some extent and making it a more popular service. And so the tiered buffet became a flat table and eventually was moved away from the wall. However in our homes today, if it is possible, we do like to have our buffet table against a wall or window with the decorations across the back and the food arranged at both ends and across the front.

SMALLER PARTY BEST

In planning a buffet supper the first thing to be considered is the number of guests. The smart hostess does not invite more guests than her dining room can accommodate. The size of the dining room, the extent of chairs and silverware, both must be taken into consideration in planning the size of the party. Eight to twelve guests is a convenient number for the average hostess. The menu is very important and here one point that must not be overlooked is that of who is going to serve themselves. So if you are going to be a buffet supper hostess, make it easy for your guests, eliminate embarrassment and plan to have dishes which lend themselves to simple service, and which you can also thoughtfully consider her menu from another standpoint. She will include only dishes which can be prepared some time in advance, so that she will have little to do immediately before supper is served except to arrange the food on the table.



A word is in order on the table arrangement. The table should be extended to the size which allows the food to be placed on it without over-crowding and the guests to move easily about the table. The dining room buffet may be used as a supplementary serving table but the supper table should be served from the dining table. If the room is large the extended table may be left in the centre, but if not it should be pushed back against a wall or window to allow more room for guests to serve themselves. A cutwork or lace cloth makes an attractive table covering, or a damask cloth with service the purpose. But in either case the cloth should entirely cover the table and come to the floor over the edge. The cutlery and napkins should be placed in groups as they will be used. If there are to be more than eight guests, two containers for cooked food should be on the table. If there is not sufficient space on the table for the dessert, or if a frozen dessert is being served, it can be brought in to the buffet table after the first course. As for serving the beverage, one of the hostess' most intimate friends of the party might be asked to pour coffee after the end of the table or from a side table.

EARLY PLANNING BEST

Well made plans for a buffet supper pay dividends. The first thing is to decide the menu, next to do the shopping and then go to work in preparing the food and the table. Most buffet suppers fall into a pattern something like this—for the first course a fruit or vegetable juice or a fruit punch will savory canapes or small crackers, the main course a substantial hot or cold dish together with a salad or two, relishes and hot rolls or bread and finally dessert and coffee.

Remember this as a party so the main course can be more elaborate than for regular family supper. If a hot dish is being served either chicken or turkey a la king, a curry or a casserole of creamed poultry and mushrooms would be suitable. Along with this you would want a crisp salad like tossed greens or a combination of apples, celery and nuts or cabbage with celery or apple and a plate of relishes suited to the main dish being served. A platter of assorted sliced meats such as jellied tongue, roast turkey and baked ham is popular for a cold main course and it is quite all right provided the meat is very tender, tender enough so that the guests can easily cut it with their forks. Individual molds of jellied meat or poultry are well worth the extra effort of making them as, too, is a delectable mousse of chicken or turkey. The main course of the meal might be centred around a substantial salad of chicken, turkey or fish and in this case it is a decided advantage to your guests to make up the salads individually and arrange them for easy serving on a flat platter. And no matter what the main course a bowl brimful of crisp potato chips is an enjoyable accompaniment.

As for the type of dessert this will depend largely on what is planned for the main course. If a fairly rich creamy dish is being served then a light fruit dessert or sherbet, with cookies or a rather plain cake would be best. If on the other hand the main course is not very rich then ice cream with or without sauces or a molded cream dessert or torte would make a delightful and balanced ending to your buffet supper.

IF SOME of these Christmas toys must be assembled at home, how about doing it now? Then, if an important part or direction is missing, you can replace it before Santa comes. And it always helps temper that eve bafflement to set up a simple-looking wagon or doll's crib.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

CHASING BEAUTY RAINBOWS

There are women who spend a great deal of time and money in an endeavor to make themselves attractive and the more they do, the worse they look.

They apply make-up lavishly and in a careless manner. Powder is patchy. Rouge is a rosy blob instead of being carefully blended. They letter on far too much shadow in a big way and their eyes look like burnt holes in a blanket. How can they view the reflection in the mirror without shuddering?

Others, refusing to accept the fact that they are no longer young, put their clothes at the college girl's department. Or they dye their hair when the silver white nimbus would make them look charming and distinguished. Some can be cruel to a woman, but there are ways of playing down defect. Too much artifice fails to attention to them.

There are women who believe that if they buy expensive clothes they are bound to look like ladies of fashion, not knowing that good taste is a greater factor in creating a well dressed woman than price tags. It does not occur to them that the frock that makes one woman look like a sartorial masterpiece will transform the next into a caricature. The frock that may be a dream of loveliness on one feminine shape is just so much dry goods on another.

There is the young lady, minus dress sense of an appreciation of color, who selects dismal tones and frumpy clothes and looks as if she were rigged out in her grandmother's draperies. Only her grandmother would be caught dead in them!

The wrong hairdo can also upset the beauty cart. Hair stylists often tell of customers who come dancing into their shops with a picture of a movie star, demanding a coiffure "just like that." They don't know that the hairdo must be harmonious with the features, the facial contour, the figure—and the type of woman you happen to be.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

NEW YEAR'S DAY . . . PARTY DAY!

In many a home the New Year's afternoon party is the big party of the year. It may be "Open House" . . . such warmth and friendliness . . . such welcoming words! It may be called an "At Home," very welcoming words too. It may be an Eggnog Party, the traditional party for this day. It may be delightful Tea-Party, small or large. It may be a party very late in the afternoon, to be followed by a buffet supper. Or a Coffee-Party, today so popular. It can be a wonderful reunion of the members of the family—relatives, friends and neighbors too. Also it's a grand way to pay off an accumulation of social indebtedness . . . to salute the new year with a bright new social start.

It's to be an Eggnog Party? If so, you probably have an ancestral recipe, or else a good friend or a good cook-book will guide you to a good recipe. Or if you aren't inclined to the traditional rite of of making the eggnog, you can buy your delicious drink from your dealer, and serve it as is, or added to, as your taste suggests. I'm strongly opposed to the idea of serving only sweet accessories with eggnog. Don't you do that! Serve only your Christmas fruit cake on hand!) Beaten biscuits are, of course, the traditional and most successful food-companions. Their blandness is perfect for the sweetness of the eggnog. You can make the beaten biscuits, or now you can buy them ready-made. For the "extra, added attraction" split the biscuits, butter them thinly, over-lap, and insert slivers of ham. O insert thin slices of cold meat (or for thoroughly heated) biscuits or small finger rolls. Or serve very small, very thin, bread-and-butter sandwiches, with or without ham. Or heated biscuits, split, buttered, with jam please. Salted nuts are another appropriate accessory.

Should it be an eggnog enthusiast . . . so the thoughtful hostess would have an alternative. She might have a "double-feature table." The eggnog and beaten biscuits bowl and small glasses on a large tray . . . at one end of the table . . . and at the opposite end, the tea or coffee service. For the tea or coffee drinkers, simple sandwiches, slices of fruit cake and or plain cake, or festive holiday cookies.

If it's a cold, cold day, it's a bright idea to feature on the buffet table a large covered tureen of steaming-hot borsch, soup festive in color, thick, delicious chicken or clam broth, to be served in tea cups or bouillon cups. Plenty of salty crackers, thoroughly heated. Or, if more convenient, serve the broth in cups in the kitchen and pass these cups on a tray.

When you set your New Year's table, you have a wonderful chance to express yourself glamorously. With a prodigal hand, have fun using the Christmas sparkle you've doubtless already have. Red green, white, silver, gold, other rainbow hues. Let your centerpiece sing with color . . . a huge bowl of glowing, vari-colored or all-one-color Christmas-tree balls, all of one size or of various sizes, will do the radiance-trick easily and wonderously. Or have a big clusters of gay balloons, later to be merrily deflated. Or make a star-design by filling a big, colored bowl with white popcorn balls. Or rhoons of vari-colored metallic paper, starting from under the bowl and reversing the top of the table. Arrange your serving-dishes with a sure sense of orderly beauty and convenience-to-the-guests. Consider moving your table, into the dining room, the living room, against a wall . . . saves space and adds to convenience. And has your table candle-lighted, glowing hospitable welcome to your guests . . . and welcome to a "Happy New Year!"

Food Resolutions to Be Made, Kept

By Mary Moore

Habits —good and bad—are easier to make than to break.

If you are a new homemaker reading this, with lofty homemaking ideals, these resolutions will be easy for you to keep.

If you are a small we say experienced and ageless housewife (definition of ageless: no more birthdays)—you may have to change a few long-held habits to conform to these resolves. Simple to old soldiers like us.

Number 1 Resolve: To maintain or achieve the desirable weight for our age and height.

Number 2 Resolve: To conserve all of the nutrients contained in the food we pay cash for. Which when interpreted means to cook vegetables in no or little water quickly and if water is used to conserve the minerals in it by making soup or gravy or sauces with it.

Number 3 Resolve: To use 100 per cent whole wheat bread except if you are a food fiend or a good cook-book will guide you to a good recipe. Or if you aren't inclined to the traditional rite of of making the eggnog, you can buy your delicious drink from your dealer, and serve it as is, or added to, as your taste suggests. ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

HE'S NOT AS EAGER TO MARRY AS SHE IS

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have been a widow for five years, and for the past two years, I have been going with a single man who has told me he loves me and wants to marry me. I am 40 and he is 42.

What I can't understand is why he talks of marriage but does nothing definite about it. I am sure he isn't interested id anyone else, because he comes to my house nearly every night in the week for dinner. Then we go to the movies, or sometimes just sit home and watch television, or sometimes go out with mutual friends.

Why do you think this man doesn't ask me to set the day for our marriage? — Lonely.

Dear C.W.:

Personally, it seems rather clear why this man is dodging the issue of marriage. You don't say whether or not he has ever been married, but, whether he has or not, he is evidently very content now with bachelorhood — particularly when he has a woman friend to go out with and a home-cooked meal awaiting him and apparently makes no demands upon him.

Unless you are so afraid of losing this man that you would prefer having things as they are to trying to wake him up by making him think he may lose you, you had better let him see that you are not very well satisfied with the current state of affairs and might get interested elsewhere. Don't put anything of this kind in writing, but just get the idea across quietly by making an occasional excuse for not having the evening so that you aren't able to get his dinner. If he thinks you're going to begin devoting all your time to him, it may startle him out of his contentment with things as they are, and make him think he had better act fast in setting the wedding date.

IT MAY HELP TO REVISE YOUR BEHAVIOR

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a junior in high school, and very much interested in a boy who is a senior there.

Just recently, a friend of his told me that he thought that I was fast, but the only reason I behaved as I did was because I thought he had to be persuaded to know I was very wrong. He likes a refined girl.

I want very much to go out with him, and I would like to know how I could get him to like me again, for I have been told that he does like me but is a bit doubtful about going with me now. — Miss B.T.

Since you give me no details about the behavior that this boy considered "fast," I feel rather in the dark on how to advise you.

If you yourself feel, however, that your behavior was not all it should have been, then I think all you can do is to make a point of revising your conduct so that not only this boy, but everyone else, will be sure you are a girl with the right sort of manners, attitudes and standards. If you do this, and if the boy really was interested in you originally, he will probably decide that he was a bit hasty in thinking you were "fast" and want to be friends with you.

Never forget, though, that in order to win the liking of any one individual, it is important to make yourself attractive, friendly and popular with everybody else. For the girl who is liked by everyone has the best chance of interesting the boy she wants to know better.

Pre-Red Russia Observed New Year's

Before the revolution, New Year's was a gay and happy time in Russia.

In some cities the streets were decorated with flags and lanterns and thronged with merry-makers. The year's arrival was heralded by hundred shots fired from cannon.

One New Year's Day the Winter Palace was opened to society. Festivity reigned throughout the city, hospitality and charity were the watchwords from palace to cottage.

The mythical Ovsen was supposed to be around about this time. He was usually depicted astride a boar, symbolically associated with the pork served for New Year dinner and the symbolism of Aryan descent.

1954 CITY AND DISTRICT NEWS REVIEW

Bell Case Was Biggest Story In Year Crammed With News

(EDITOR'S NOTE: All dates used in the following summary of district news in 1954 are dates of publication.)

The arrest, trial and acquittal of Mrs. Mary Bell on a charge of murdering her husband, Emerson Bell, was the top news story in Belleville and district during 1954.

During the year just past 60 persons died violently in the area, there were 28 major fires, two plane crashes, a rash of safe-breakings and four local option votes.

Expansion of industrial facilities in the area received an unexpected boost with active exploration of iron ore possibilities at Ankerite Hill; renewed interest in uranium ore possibilities in the Bancroft area; and construction of the iron ore loading docks at Picton for the shipping of Bethlehem Steel's future ore production at Marmora.

Additions to educational and municipal facilities marked continuing healthy growth of residential and commercial construction.

Community service and welfare agencies, social and cultural organizations, church groups and recreational and athletic clubs for the most part found 1954 a busy and successful year.

MADE HEADLINES

The year's biggest story came in with the New Year when Mrs. Warner Bell died suddenly at her home during the early hours of January 2nd. The whole province followed the story as Bell's body was exhumed and special investigations were instituted that culminated in Mrs. Bell's arrest January 7 and charges were made headlines as it progressed through a preliminary hearing during the last week of March and a grand jury hearing and Mrs. Bell's trial in October, which concluded with her acquittal October 30 after special witnesses testified before Oakaro Chief Justice J. C. McRuer.

Of the 28 major fires in the Quinte district during 1954, 24 were residential fires, most of them on the highway. There were 13 drownings, six persons died in fires; four persons killed in plane crashes; two men were asphyxiated in a sewer; a canoe capsized and a boy died in a sand pit cave-in at Tweed.

Heaviest loss of life occurred when eight persons died in a level crossing crash at Carrying Place, January 25th. Four of the six fire fatalities occurred at Carrying Place when three members of a family and a friend died early Sunday morning, May 23rd.

The crash of a Mitchell bomber at Alliscnville, June 9th, killed two RCAF officers and the crash of a Harvard trainer into the Trent River, August 17th, also took two lives.

28 MAJOR FIRES

Blazes of the 28 major fires in the district during the year was the gutting of a downtown business block in Campbellford with loss estimated at $25,000.

Belleville's 24 residential fires were the $700,000 cutting of the business block adjacent to the Methodist Odeon, January 23th, and the $150,000-blaze in the East Robertson block August 9th.

Other major blazes in the district included the $150,000 fire at Wilson Lumber, Madoc, November 25th; the $100,000 fire in the G. K. Graham home, Trent Road, in February.

Eight aircraft safe crackings took place in the area during 1954 topped by the A. and P. store break-in, September 13.

LOCAL OPTIONS

Four local option votes were held during the year. Votes in Thurlow township and the Parkwood Heights area on February 12th and in Trenton on April 22nd were defeated.

At Tweed, a vote held Sept. 30th following a decision by Judge J. C. McRuer to set aside a similar vote in 1953 for election irregularities resulted in a victory for the "wets". Bancroft went "wet" December 16th for the first time in 16 years.

BANNER YEAR

1954 was a banner year for the town of Trenton with the acquisition of several new industries; embarkation on a program to build a $100,000 for a new community centre; opening of a $500,000 water purification plant, a new public library; and approval of a debenture issue of $730,000 for a new school.

Education played a prominent part in the life of Belleville and the district with the opening in the city of Queen Elizabeth, Secondary School and the Sir Winston Churchill public school. Hillcrest public school opened a fourroom addition.

In Trenton a million dollar high school was opened.

CHANGES

Trenton is added to main' station services with the opening of accommodations for No. 4 Transport Squadron formerly based at Montreal but projected movement of all No. 4 Wing aircraft to Trenton was viewed with pessimism by district residents.

Other important stories during the year were: the awarding of a contract for $708,150 to the St. Lawrence Contracting Co. for the erection of a new wing for the Belleville General Hospital; the christening of the two new Department of Highways ferries for Glenora-Adolphustown run; merging of the 9th Anti-tank regiment with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment in the Canada-wide militia re-organization; the awarding of $200 extra increases across the board for Belleville policemen and the $75,000 damage by fire to part of the Canada Cement Co. plant at Point Anne as a result of damage inflicted by Hurricane Hazel.

Municipal elections saw acclamations for Mayors Marshall of Trenton and Harvey McFarland in Picton while Mayor Jack Bailey was returned to office after serving in a three-way contest with two former aldermen. Municipal elections were more common than elections in the county.

Top human news during the year was the 30th annual convention of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Kingston Archdiocesan convention, also in June.

NEW MAYOR

What's Ahead Around World

Editor's Note: What's ahead, around the world, in the new year? The AP sent that question to seven of its correspondents in strategic areas. Their findings are detailed below.

WESTERN EUROPE

LONDON—The new year finds Western Europe wrapped to all outward appearances in an atmosphere of pre-1914 normalcy.

Old cold war tensions are still there, but they do not produce the same anxiety they did a few years ago.

West Europeans themselves have changed. They are better fed and better clothed. Employment in most countries is plentiful. New buildings blot out scars of the Second World War.

The London and Paris agreements to rearm West Germany promise in the new year a firmer posture of defence against possible Russian aggression.

GERMANY AND AUSTRIA

FRANKFURT—Ten years after losing the worst war in history, Germany is preparing to rearm in 1955 in the world's richest economy. Guns and uniforms are ready to be issued to 500,000 young West Germans if the Paris treaties survive their last ratification hurdle.

West Germany is tied up in the Soviet military bloc, which ranges from the Elbe river in central Europe to the Pacific ocean.

West Germany is enjoying unprecedented prosperity. Her new parliament, to be elected next year, will be the most powerful since the days of Hitler.

Austria's neighbor pays the bills and enjoys a stable economy.

SOUTHEAST ASIA

HONG KONG —The coming 12 months in Asia will be years of unstable showdowns may be delayed.

Peiping, holding the key, threatens war even while talking of coexistence.

Democracy's influences are dulled by many disagreements, including the subject of what the word "freedom" means widen. This disunity and obvious Western reluctance to arm Japan and the Far East again will be exploited by Peiping, which may overplay the hand.

Formosa's little hot war may cool and then break out later.

JAPAN

TOKYO—The Japanese people, beginning 1955 with a conservative government, will elect a new House of Representatives in March.

Paramount in the election campaign will be the issue of promise to voters that commercial relations will be established as soon as possible with Soviet Russia and Red China.

LATIN AMERICA

BUENOS AIRES — Most Latin American leaders finally became convinced in 1954 that they must help themselves along to solve their economic problems. In some instances, governmental changes in this part of the Southern Hemisphere, the new year will start a period of difficult readjustment to peacetime.

Venezuela leads the way in prosperity with her enormous sales of petroleum and her new-found stability.

Colombia and other mid-American countries are looking for more profits as a result of extra demand after Brazil's crop failure.

President Juan D. Peron is pulling all stops to keep Argentina's giant meat packing and wheat-to Latin America and Europe.

PENITENTIARY RIOT

Torch-bearing prisoners rioted for two hours and set a dozen fires within the high grey walls of the federal penitentiary at Kingston, Ont., August 15 before armed soldiers, police and guards brought them under control. The riot, led by 50 prisoners and joined by about 400 others, broke out in the prison exercise yard. This photo shows the roof blazing in a number of places. It was the worst riot in the history of one of the country's largest penal institutions. None of the prisoners escaped during the outbreaks, which some officials blamed on arsonists and psychopaths. One convict said the riot was part of a planned mass break. (CP Photo).

This 4,200-foot causeway links Cape Breton Island and its coal mines and steel mills to the Nova Scotia mainland. More than 10,000,000 tons of rock-fill were dumped into the Strait of Canso between Mulgrave and Port Hastings before the project, started 27 months ago, was finished in December. Until the curving land bridge is opened to road and rail traffic next spring commerce and travellers between Cape Breton and the mainland will continue to move across the strait on car ferries. This view is from the mainland side near Mulgrave. At the Port Hastings end can be seen locks built to accommodate shipping moving through the strait. The strait was dear to the heart of Nova Scotia's late Premier Angus L. Macdonald who was born in the Cape Breton highlands. (CP Photo).

CANADA'S FIRST SUBWAY

The gleaming $58,000,000 product of 4½ years of construction, Canada's first subway, went into operation at Toronto last March. Here a train pulls into the station at Yonge Street and St. Clair Avenue. Almost as soon as Premier Frost had declared the 4.6 mile subway line opened officially W. C. McBrien, chairman of the city-owned Toronto Transit Commission, called for the immediate start on another subway running east and west along Queen Street. (CP Photo).

27 KILLED IN AIR CRASH

Thirty-seven persons were killed April 8 when a Trans-Canada Air Lines plane and an RCAF trainer crashed over Moose Jaw, Sask., and fell into flames. It was Canada's worst airline disaster. In this photo, one of the airliner's big motors lies amidst the flaming debris of a home into which it fell. (CP Photo).

SEAWAY BEGINS

A dynamite explosion at Massena, N.Y., August 10 marked the start of the 3600,000,000 Canada-United States St. Lawrence seaway project after years of negotiations. Thomas E. Dewey, then governor of New York State, touched off the blast at a ceremony attended by Canadian and U.S. officials. When the project is finished, ocean-going freighters will be able to carry the world's commerce into the Great Lakes. (CP Photo).

PRIME MINISTER'S TOUR

Prime Minister St. Laurent and his daughter Mrs. Helen O'Donnell of Montreal watch two elephants perform at a party in Colombo, Ceylon, during the prime minister's six-week commonwealth tour. Mr. St. Laurent said on his return that he had "more confidence that the cold war is not going to be converted into a hot war." He visited leaders in Commonwealth capitals and met Canadian service men and women in Europe and the Far East. This photo is from Mrs. O'Donnell's personal album of her tour with her father.

HURRICANE HAZEL

Rains following Hurricane Hazel October 15 turned meandering Central Ontario streams into rushing torrents sweeping away homes and flooding vast areas of farmland. The death toll was set at 84 and property damage was estimated at more than $24,000,000. This aerial view shows the fertile Holland Marsh, 30 miles north of Toronto, turned into a great lake. Highway 401, a 90-mile super-highway between Toronto and Barrie, Ont., runs between flooded sections of marshland where farmers suffered heavy losses as stored crops were swept away. (CP Photo).

MONTREAL VICE-BUSTER

Pacifique (Pax) Plante, 47, captured the imagination of Montrealers six years ago with drastic anti-vice measures as assistant director of police. Fired by Police Director Albert Langlois for insubordination, Plante wrote for La Devoir a series of articles exposing vice and corruption in Montreal. His articles sparked an inquiry which resulted in dismissal of 20 members and former members of the police department, including Langlois, for tolerating commercialized vice. After his friend and colleague, Jean Drapeau was elected mayor October 25 on a reform ticket, Plante was restored to assistant police director. (CP Photo).

BUSY YEAR FOR CANADIAN TROOPS

On three continents Canadian troops formed a defence line in the intricate pattern of the defences of the United Nations and NATO. At home, with three new Regiments in the Active Army, training went on to provide replacements for the units overseas and maintain the defences of the country. The above layout shows some facets of the Army's activities during the year. In (2) four bearded xsemen of the Queen's Own Rifles take part in celebrating the 94th birthday of the Regiment's founding. (4) Shows men of the Royal 22nd Regiment taking part in Exercise Loup Garou held last winter at Seven Islands, PQ. Troops from the local Militia and Active Force units were quick to come to the aid of the stricken Toronto district population when disastrous Hurricane Hazel struck as shown in (5). Federal Government Plans To Assist Jobless by Raise In Supplementary Benefits

OTTAWA (CP)—With labor issuing new calls for action against unemployment, the federal government is planning to move against the winter jobless situation by increasing some unemployment insurance benefits.

The scale of supplementary benefit payments, it was learned Thursday, will be placed on a par with regular benefits. At present, the cold weather supplementaries amount to 80 per cent of normal payments.

Supplementary benefits, paid during January, February and March, go to persons covered by insurance but unable to qualify for payments during that period, mainly because they have exhausted the payments to which they are normally entitled.

The increases, from the unemployment insurance fund, are expected to cost an additional $60,000 a year above the existing contributions to the fund.

TOP PAYMENT

The changes will be embodied in a top - priority measure to be placed on the Commons order paper in the first week of the parliamentary session that opens Jan. 7.

This will be followed later by a bulky amendment completely overhauling the Unemployment Insurance Act.

Presidents of the two big labor congresses in year-end messages Thursday urged action with governments to create more jobs.

President A. R. Mosher of the 375,000 - member Canadian Congress of Labor said the winter unemployment situation is becoming "extremely serious" and called for a "clearly defined and planned program of economic activity."

Claude Jodoin, president of the 380,000-member Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, called unemployment serious but found it "encouraging . . . that our representations are beginning to bear fruit."

"At the same time," he said, "we must not lose sight of the fact that many thousands of our workers are unemployed and their families are suffering hardship and frustration." Anything possible must be done for them.

UNEMPLOYMENT PICTURE

Most recent government figures on unemployment showed that at Nov. 15 government employment service offices had 298,575 unplaced job applications on file — 32,532 higher than a year earlier. A bureau of statistics survey estimated 214,000 persons were without jobs and seeking work Nov. 20, compared with 151,000 a year previously.

In another New Year statement, Labor Minister Gregg said job opportunities should be better this winter than a year ago. However, he said, the somewhat greater number of jobs would be offset by a larger labor force.

CARNATION KING DIES

NORTH BERWICK, Me. (AP)—H. Allan Sim, 57, called "the carnation king," died Thursday. Sim and his father, the late William Sim, specialized in growing hybrid carnations.

Storm Blacks Out City of Cornwall For Ten Hours

CORNWALL (CP) — Electric power was restored here today, 10 hours after a storm caused a break in a main supply line bringing power from Quebec province.

The power went out a few minutes before midnight.

Officials of the St. Lawrence Power Company, the distributor here, blamed the interruption on a break in the 110,000-volt feeder line from a generating station at Cedars, Que., about 45 miles east of here.

Utilities men said they were told a storm east of here Thursday night caused the line trouble.

SECOND BREAK

As an emergency measure, efforts were started to connect the city with the lines of the Niagara Mohawk Power Company at nightfalling Massena, N. Y.

The break was the second in two weeks in the Cedars line. The previous interruption, also caused by an ice storm, lasted only 50 minutes but was accompanied by other outages resulting from local damage to lines when three limbs broke under the weight of ice.

It did not disrupt industry.

The latest power blackout came to some 3,500 industrial workers temporarily idle. Plants affected included the big factory of Courtaulds (Canada) Limited.

Virtually every resident of this St. Lawrence river city of more than 20,000 suffered some degree of inconvenience.

Oil-heating equipment went out of action. Some citizens lighted fireplaces while others shivered as the temperature outside sank to between 20 and 25 degrees above zero.

Restaurants were crowded as householders flocked to them for breakfast and a hot cup of coffee. One restaurant had so much business, it finally closed its doors. The eating places remained open under emergency lighting but most had gas-burning cooking equipment.

LIGHTS OUT

Street lights were off all night. However, Cornwall works department men continued to work all night on the job of clearing away trees left by a storm Thursday.

The city's newspaper, The Standard-Freeholder, fixed the prospect of late deliveries. Its type lead went cold. Remelting it takes several hours.

Radio station CKSF was temporarily put off the air by the power break.

Hospitals used emergency lighting and wate-heating equipment and reported little difficulty.

G. T. Trowhill CNR Wire Supt. Retires Friday

TORONTO — G. T. Trowhill, general superintendent of Canadian National Telegraphs Central and Atlantic Regions since 1949, retires here Friday with 42 years' service. He has been located in Toronto since 1913.

Born at Clinton, Ont., Mr. Trowhill began his telegraph career in 1908 with the Michigan Central Railway at St. Thomas, Ont. In 1912 he became an operator with the Great North Western Telegraph Company which was later incorporated into the Canadian National System.

In 1918 he was promoted to assistant wire chief at Toronto and the following year, leased wire supervisor.

In 1928, in the responsibility of supervising the system's wire plant and in 1925 assisted in pioneering broadcast services for the National system. He was also instrumental in promoting the use of carrier telegraph systems in the telegraph plant.

In 1934, he assisted the establishment of a direct cable circuit between London, England and Toronto and five years later as superintendent of traffic, he helped establish broadcast for the Western Union Telegraph Company, and the establishment of an all-British cable service between London, England, Montreal and Toronto. This circuit transversing British territory throughout its entire length.

From 1940 to 1946 Mr. Trowhill was chairman of Committee Six, Communication Plant Operation, Association of American Railroads. He was made chief of traffic in 1945 and four years later was named general superintendent.

Drew to Miss Opening Session Of Parliament

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Drew, not yet fully recovered from a severe cold and grippe, will miss the opening of the next session of Parliament Jan. 7.

Acting on his doctor's orders, he may pass up the first three weeks of the session while the effects of cuperating completely before returning to work.

F. C. Whitley, who has been treating the 60-year-old Progressive Conservative leader, said Thursday night Mr. Drew has gone to bed "on time" with his family for a holiday rest.

"There is nothing wrong with him, except I don't want him rushing back to work and getting overtired," the doctor said.

At Ste. Adele, Que., a member of Mr. Drew's staff confirmed he will not return to his Commons seat until after the session opens, and said that while his condition has improved greatly "he can't get right back into harness."

Labor Leaders in Messages Urge Measures to Create Jobs

OTTAWA (CP)—Leaders of Canada's two largest labor bodies Thursday urged measures to create more jobs in their annual year-end messages.

The expressions came from Claude Jodoin, president of the 380,000-member Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, and A. R. Mosher, president of the 375,000-member Canadian Congress of Labor.

"In domestic affairs," Mr. Mosher said, "one of the most disturbing factors as we enter the new year is the army of unemployed workers . . . The situation is again becoming extremely serious, and there is little if any prospect of adequate action by the various levels of government to bring about an improvement.

"The need for a clearly defined and planned program of economic activity, under which the skill and energies of the workers would be utilized to produce the goods and services necessary to provide a high standard of living, seems to be recognized by almost everyone except those who have the authority and ability to put such a program into effect."

Public works were needed, said governments should give leadership to industry.

"There can be no excuse in Canada," Mr. Mosher said, "for unemployment of serious proportions, and while there are a number of factors responsible for unemployment in any particular industry, it should be evident that part of the blame must be laid upon our haphazard methods of production."

Mr. Mosher added that if Canada's resources and productive capacity were efficiently used, she could give considerably more help to less fortunate countries in addition to raising her own standards.

TLC president Jodoin in his first new year message—he was elected last summer—said labor efforts during the last year to warn the federal government of the seriousness of the unemployment situation have been shown to be correct.

"It is encouraging now to find that our representations are beginning to bear fruit," he said. The TLC was aware of efforts being made by the labor department to obtain seasonal winter unemployment.

"At the same time," he added, "we must not lose sight of the fact that many thousands of our workers are unemployed and their families are suffering hardship and frustration.

"Everything must be done within our power to help these people if we are to remove from our economy the continuous threat of unemployment. Let all agree once and for all that full employment is possible and that, with full and intelligent co-operation between government, management and ourselves, this goal can be attained."

Meanwhile, he said, the TLC will "press for the federal government to take responsibility for the relief of unemployed who are capable of working.

Seals Rate First Among Animal Acts in Circus With Kiddies

By WAYNE OLIVER

NEW YORK (AP)—The relative popularity of human stars on television is pretty well known, but what of the animal performers?

Seals rate first—at least with the kiddies says Leon Leonidoff, who books circus acts for "The Big Top" on CBS. Dogs and ponies are strong contenders.

"The youngsters also go for aerial acts," says Grund, who has to scout circus shows in North America and Europe all year to provide the six acts weekly needed on the Saturday TV show.

"But novelty acts that have proved tremendously popular in circuses, and theatres often fall flat on television so far as the youngsters are concerned," he says.

"In planning a circus show for children, says Grund, a producer must be exercised to avoid accidents that we find some of the performers are surprisingly careless."

Grund recalls with a shudder the case of an aerialist he cautioned about using a frayed rope to pull himself up to a high platform. The aerialist promised to get a new one right after the show but failed to do so and was killed during a circus performance a few days later.

Like movie actors, circus performers apparently were reluctant to appear on TV for fear it would lessen their attraction for personal performances, Grund says, but now most of them find it's a help.

One people is Prof. George J. Keller, former university professor who trained lions as a hobby. He was on the opening show four years ago and was brought back four months later because of fan request. Soon he quit his teaching job and now is booked solid for weeks of the year with his lion act.

Tonight's New Year's Eve television will include a midnight pickup by NBC from Times square in New York. The same network will use a blimp to give overhead views of the Tournament of Roses parade in Pasadena, Calif., for New Year's Day in a special show starting at 12:15 p. m. EST.

No Police Apology For Detention Of Photographer

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Vancouver police commission has refused to apologize for the detention by police of a newspaper photographer who took a forbidden picture of a robbery suspect.

The commission's action Thursday followed a demand by Vancouver Province publisher A. W. Moscarella that authorities apologize for the half-hour detention of Province photographer Bob Olsen.

Mr. Moscarella said the police action was a "direct infringement on the liberty of an individual."

However, in denying the police owed an apology, the commission also threatened that "a proper criminal charge" was possible in this and other cases where newspaper men acted contrary to police instructions.

CHARGE POSSIBLE

City prosecutor Stewart McMorran said a proper criminal charge lies against the photographer, his employers and other newspapers for unlawfully and wilfully attempting, by their actions in publishing the photograph in question, to obstruct the course of justice."

Olsen said he took the picture against police orders after promising that it would not be published until proof of the suspect's guilt was established.

The picture, with the face blanked out, was carried by The Province and the Vancouver Sun.

The suspect, Stanley J. Charboyer, 24, and Gerald F. James, 23, pleaded guilty to robbery with violence when they appeared in police court Dec. 17, and were sentenced to three years each.

The Olsen case resulted in the worst press - police row in Vancouver's history, with press executives branding the police action "intimidation . . . dictatorship . . . arrogant . . . arbitrary . . . and a threat to the freedom of the press."

WAYS MEETING

Mayor Fred Hume, chairman of the three-man police commission, Thursday invited the executives of the city's three daily newspapers and radio stations to meet with the commission to discuss the handling of crime news.

A similar invitation, extended previously by police chief Walter Mulligan, was turned down by the publishers.

French Approval of Pact For W. German Rearmament Greeted With Relief by U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—American officials today tempered a sigh of relief with a cautious look to the future after the French assembly's belated approval of West German rearmament.

President Eisenhower expressed "great gratification" at Thursday's assembly vote reversing the decision last week to reject the rearmament plan. But he added that further steps must yet be taken before Allied plans for integrating West Germany become a reality.

State Secretary Dulles took much the same tack, calling the French vote "a good augury" but reminding that the parliamentary steps lie ahead. The French Council of the Republic, its upper house, still must act. But little difficulty is expected there.

HOPES WILL BE WELL

Chairman Alexander Wiley (Rep., Wis.) of the Senate foreign relations committee mentioned "the narrow margin of victory," but expressed hope that all will be well from now on.

The disappointing initial reversal on this issue a week ago elicited no statements from United States officials, except for unofficial endorsement of a British admonition to the French that the question was "not whether, but how" West Germany would rearm.

In his statement Thursday, Dulles referred indirectly to the nagging French fear of putting gns into the hands of German soldiers for the first time in a century had invaded France.

SPECIAL TRIBUTE

Dulles said:

"A special tribute is due to those in France who saw that patriotism required the burying of age-old hostilities. That this could happen is a good augury for the years ahead."

Eisenhower, too, spoke in this vein when he said:

"As decisive co-operation supplants age-old antagonism, as the prospect for a general and lasting peace will be definitely improved, and as members of encouragement may therefore even now be felt by all who are earnestly striving to maintain and improve the unity and harmony of the Free World."

Wants His Blood Pumped Into His Daughter

TORONTO (CP) — A Toronto father said today he wants to have his blood pumped through the veins of his six-year-old daughter in a rare operation to correct her heart condition.

James Carnegie, 26, a veteran of the Korean war and a shipper with a metal firm, said he sent a request today to Dr. C. Walton Lillehei of Minneapolis to perform the operation on his daughter, Faye.

Dr. Lillehei is the only man in the world reported to have developed and applied the new method of repairing heart defects.

HOLE IN HEART

The girl's doctor at the Hospital for Sick Children here said she has a hole in the wall between the two chambers of her heart. He said the defect might kill her any time.

If Dr. Lillehei agrees to perform the operation, Faye and her father will go to Minneapolis and be placed side by side on operating tables.

The father's artery will be hooked up to a machine which will pump blood into his daughter's vein leading to her heart. Her artery will be connected through the machine to her father's vein.

The surgeon will then stop blood flowing through Faye's heart while he closes the hole. During the operation, the rest of her blood will receive blood from her father through the machine. The father's heart will be supplying fresh blood for two bodies during the operation.

TRAIN CANNON FODDER

LONDON (Reuters) — British publishers of "horror" comics have two main aims, said Moscow radio Thursday night. First, the publishers wished to make huge profits and secondly, they "aim to train millions of children, including British lads, as cannon fodder for the future wars which the American monopolists are planning."

Marsh Trophy Presented To Marilyn Bell

TORONTO (CP)—Marilyn Bell, a 17-year-old schoolgirl who last September became the first person to swim Lake Ontario, Thursday was awarded the Lou Marsh Trophy as Canada's outstanding athlete of 1954.

When informed in Atlantic City, N.J., that she had won the award, Miss Bell said she was "surprised and delighted."

"It's the nicest Christmas present I ever received," he added.

The trophy is in memory of the late Lou Marsh, former sports editor of the Toronto Star.

Two men shared second place in the voting. They were Pat Fletcher, the Saskatoon golfer who became the first Canadian to win the Canadian Open in 40 years, and Rich Ferguson who ran third behind Roger Bannister and John Landy in the British Empire Games" mile.

Miss Bell becomes the fifth female winner of the award in the last 18 years. Golfer Marlene Stewart won it in 1951 and skater Barbara Ann Scott won it in 1945, 1947 and 1948.

Let me tell you how to decide if you have enough for an opening bid of two in a suit. Count to see if your hand can take nine tricks. If it can, open with a bid of two in a suit.

If you know this you can save yourself the worry of trying to memorize the different rules in unnatural systems. But I will tell you now the rules announced by Culbertson and Goren.

Culbertson says: 8½ to 9 honor tricks with a four-card or five-card suit; five honor tricks with a strong six-carder; 4½ honor tricks with a strong seven or eight-card suit.

He also mentions that it would be wise to have more honor tricks than losers. Also that as few as four honor tricks may be enough if the hand is a freak with an unusually long suit.

Goren says: With a good five-card suit, 25 points; with a good six-card suit, 23 points; with a good seven-card suit, 21 points; with a second good five-card suit, one point less.

He also makes certain modifications: Such as, if game is to be in a minor suit, have two points more; unguarded honors should not be relied upon; do not include Q x or J x.

Each, however, reminds his readers that the opener should have within one trick of game; or nine tricks. Which is, of course, the consensus of what all their rules are trying to say.

Accordin' to Gordon, a player with nine tricks should open with a bid of two in a suit. This is the entire rule in my Horse Sense system So, deep down in our systems we all agree.

♠A 8 5
♥A K Q 8 6 5 4
♦A Q
♣6 7

This hand has a count of nine tricks. It is within one trick of a game. Say it with a flock of rules or with Flowery Language. It all comes to the same purpose and end.

Business Skyrocketing In Las Vegas, So Are Salaries

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—When Joan Crawford gets $10,000 for greeting customers and Liberace earns $50,000 a week for playing the piano, you know there's a boom in Las Vegas.

Business has been skyrocketing in the Nevada pleasure town, and so have salaries for entertainers. With five big new hotels being added to the present seven in the next few months, star salaries will doubtless go higher.

Until recently, talent bookers at the Strip supper clubs operated more or less under gentleman's agreement. Stars who played one spot were generally considered that place's property.

With a dozen clubs seeking top talent, the competition should be terrific. The new Royal Nevada has lured Helen Traubel and Anna Maria Alberghetti away from the Sahara and Ben Blue from the Flamingo. The Flamingo has taken the Mills Brothers from the Thunderbird, and Nat King Cole has moved from El Rancho Vegas to the Sands.

HIGH SALARIES ASSAILED

With each move comes a higher salary. The most notable is Liberace's. He played the Last Frontier many times, his top price being $5,500. He'll earn $50,000 weekly for three weeks at the Riviera. The same hotel is giving Joan Crawford $10,000 and a free vacation for acting as hostess during the first four days of the opening.

Abe Schiller of the Flamingo assails this kind of salary.

"By the time you pay Liberace $50,000 plus a band, a line of girls, supporting acts and small combos for the bar, you've got a $90,000-a-week bill," says Schiller. "And that doesn't include the cost of publicity and exploitation. You can't possibly support that kind of an outlay."

Eddie Rio, booker for the Royal Nevada, said he is looking for stars who have never played Vegas before. Most of his colleagues are, too. Thus the bidding rises for stars like Jack Benny, Dinah Shore, Danny Kaye, Bob Hope and Bing Crosby.

Some of the bookers are trying to solve the talent crisis by signing up performers to long-term deals. The Flamingo has signed Kay Starr at $800,000 for 40 weeks in the next five years and Keefe Brasselle at $400,000 for six engagements. The Royal Nevada is giving Miss Alberghetti $300,000 for 18 weeks in the next few years.

Next week should see a three way tie for first place broken when White-Kids meet Idlots in the first game and the Pirates play the Speedsters in the 8.30 game.

Connie Johnson Of White Sox Is Released

CHICAGO (AP)—General manager Frank Lane, baseball's busiest trading man, Thursday disclosed the fruits of his 1954 bartering with the release of the Chicago White Sox winter roster. It includes Connie Johnson, formerly of Toronto Maple Leafs.

No fewer than 16 of the 41 listed players will be reporting for the first time at a White Sox spring training session at Tampa, Fla., two months hence.

The new group includes pitchers Ted Gray (from Detroit Tigers), Bob Chakales (Baltimore Orioles) and Al Brazle (free agent from St. Louis Cardinals); infielders Bill Serena (Chicago Cubs), and Jim Marshall (Oakland), catcher Clint Courtney (Baltimore) and Bob Nieman (Detroit).

Cliff Speegle Asks Release

EDMONTON (CP) — An announcement is expected from Edmonton Eskimos today on a request by assistant coach Cliff Speegle for his release from a two-year contract in order to take over as head coach at Oklahoma A and M.

Speegle, who helped Frank (Pop) Ivy pilot Esks to their first Grey Cup win this fall, called manag Thruston Morton to make his request.

Speegle, 37, came here last spring from Colgate University under a two-year contract. It was reported Speegle has accepted a three-year contract at Oklahoma at an annual salary of $10,500.

'Lady of The Lake' Won Fame for Herself and Canada

Tiny principal in Canada's top sports event of the past year was 16-year-old Marilyn Bell. In becoming the first person ever to conquer the 32-mile course across Lake Ontario, the Toronto student won world acclaim as well as $10,000 from the CNE, sponsors of the swim, and other gifts from private sources totalling $60,000. At left, Coach Gus Ryder congratulates his star pupil.

Diane Leather, Great Britain, became the first woman to run a mile in five minutes.

Dusty Rhodes, Giants' pinch-hitting hero of the World Series, came through in the clutches as New York Giants trounced Cleveland Indians four straight for the world baseball championship.

An 11-to-1 longshot, Collisteo, above, staged one of the biggest upsets in Canadian racing by winning the Queen's Plate. The one-to-four favorite, King Maple, was beaten by close to three lengths.

Although Montreal Canadiens forced the Stanley Cup finals to seven games, Detroit annexed the cherished championship. Canadiens' goalie, Gerry McNeill saves on Detroit's Pronovost here.

California's Parry O'Brien became the first man ever to hit 60 feet in the shotput with a 60' 5½" heave.

THE "MIRACLE MILE"

The "Mile of the Century" was the highlight of the British Empire Games last summer when Vancouver was host to athletes and spectators from all over the Commonwealth. This photo shows Roger Bannister (in front) and Australia's John Landy at the finish of the mile August 7. More than 35,000 saw Bannister run the classic in a record 3:58.8, defeating Landy who finished four yards behind in 3:59.6. (CP Photo).

Climaxing five years of victory-studded competition, this graceful couple brought Canada her first world figure-skating title since 1948, with a brilliant display which won them the world pairs championship at Oslo, Norway. They are Frances Dafoe and Norris Bowden, both of the Toronto Skating Club.

Pat Fletcher of Saskatoon was the first native son to don the Canadian open golf crown in 40 years.

"WAIT TILL '55" IS AUSSIE CRY

Veteran Jaroslav Drobny, 33, clinched his first Wimbledon singles crown—a goal he sought since he was 16, downing top-seeded Australian, 19-year-old Ken Rosewall.

TRAINING TO BREAK LANDY'S RECORD

Wes Santee, America's great miler, flies through space as he works out at the Memorial coliseum in Los Angeles. He is training for the Sugar Bowl track meet Dec. 31 in New Orleans and for a run between halves of the pro-bowl game in Los Angeles, Jan. 16. He hopes to better the world's record for the mile of 3:58, set by Australia's John Landy.—Central Press Canadian.

Everyone had an opinion why the highly-favored Canadian team lost the world amateur hockey championship to Russia and the post-mortems went on for months. During the Russians' 7-2 victory at Stockholm, Moe Galand of Toronto Lyndhurts and Russian goalie Puljkov fight for the puck.

RETURN TO WORK

BRANTFORD (CP)—More than 150 employees of the Canadian Westinghouse Company plant, who walked out Tuesday in protest over temporary suspension of a union official for what the company called a breach of discipline, returned to their jobs today.

However, the suspension of Jerry Hunter still stood and was to be taken up in further discussions.

NEWSPAPER MAN DIES

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—Alexander W. (Sandy) Thorne, 72, retired Saint John newspaper man, died here Tuesday night. He joined the old Saint John Standard in 1910 became city editor of the Telegraph-Journal and the Evening Times-Globe and, before his retirement seven years ago, was an editorial writer.

TO KINGSTON

WINNIPEG (CP)—A consignment of lemmings, a little Arctic rodent, passed through Winnipeg Tuesday night en route from the defence research northern laboratory at Fort Churchill, Man., to the defence research laboratory at Kingston. The lemmings were travelling by air in copper mesh cages labelled "keep cool."

RETURN TO WORK

HAMILTON (CP)—A return-to-work movement for 600 employees will start Monday when the Studebaker plant begins full production of the 1955 cars. Recall notices have been sent to all Studebaker employees, D. C. Gaskin, Studebaker president, announced Wednesday.

CAPTURE TWO

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — The state highway patrol reported that two men who robbed a bank at nearby Flowood of $32,000 Wednesday were captured less than three hours later at a roadblock 60 miles southeast of the robbery site. The money was recovered.

NEW YEAR'S GREETING

'Tis the day before New Year's—we're done with the dishes—so now to dispense with a few season's wishes. Many friends dot the sport's trail, some old and some new—best to all new and old, our wish is to you: May '55 bring you the best that is true, with happiness, joy and prosperity, too.

• • •

Let's see, there's Big Jumbo, Farial and Ted,
Red Conn, Pete Jones, and the Dunce, Er, and Ed,
MacDonald from Sagin, Muckler John and Nob Day,
Doug Hull, good Bub Macey, Big Jake and Boucher;
Bob Wilson and Dugan and smooth Devy Jones,
Trainer Al, who looks after the bruises and bones;
There's Drury the Denyes, and Bruce, last name Smith,
And the rest of the puck-chasing kin and kith.
The best to Maree Walter, his wife and the crew,
Both Tuckey, Bill Gault, Jack Smith and St. Loo;
There's baseball's bright galaxy, champions all—
A hard-fighting crew, which came "back from the wall."
Drink a beaker to Carson, to Fitz and to Mowatt,
To Buxton, Art Wright, who knew just when to blow it;
To Wollens, "the Mouse," and the rest of the clan—
To Pettitt, Big Al, Davy Jones, Sam the Man,
To MacDonald, McCormick, Peter Jones, Hull and Gerry,
Who with brother Coach Vern with the hickory made merry
Quaff a nogger to softball, its Stewards and Lees,
For a colorful season from fishin' to freeze,
It's Frank Annis and Bobcats, it's Maude's and others;
Its Frankfords, Stew Warners, Electrics, and brothers,
It's peewees and bantams, the midgets and such;
Plus outstanding men like Chief Vezey, who did much.
With fellows like "Warpy," O'Brien's the name,
And Culhane, who achieved minor diamond fame,
To the rest of this hard-working summer-sport crew,
Our very best wishes go also to you.

Then hit one high to a real great guy,
Who was not foiled by the adds,
With a gallant crew which knew what to do
"Made" baseball for the kids.
Frank Gendreau now should take a bow,
With the rest of his worthy men.
Through guys like you, and what you do,
The kids will play gain.
And so on to the trial of sport—
The old with flames anew.
To tennis, soccer—now there's a game—
Me, Dibny, thanks to you—
That's riding high, both far and by,
With the minors playing, too.

• • •

We could make out a list as tall as a steeple, of gallant good sports who make up the people, those champions all, whether paying or playing—the backbone of sport, and that goes without saying. And here's Auld Lang Syne to you, hard-tolling crew, the sportswriters, such as Mike Rodden, Perdue, Big Bunny, Young Doc, Bobby Heskith, et al—Ron Sivell, the "Harpo" among Petts, ain't it pal—Laurie the "Brain" and Chick the Ole Appel, Len Taylor, Moe Reid, young Garry who'll grapple with anything sportslike that's tossed in his way. Ya Gods, near forgot "Soup" up Oshawa way. Then there's Maxie the Jackson, a figure magician, who's Mike's right-hand man, and a fine statistician.

Now back from the millwrights and on to that crew, who promulgate lonstlar crews, bright or blue—the microphone maniacs who gargle with speed, while hard-working scribes try to think of a lead. The Devines and the Smiths, the McNights and the rest. Staunch good fellows all, and to them goes our best. Especially here in this city location. (Shucks, it won't meter, but the word's co-operation).

HAPPY NEW YEAR FROM THE SPORTS STAFF.

Navy, Ohio, Georgia Tech, Duke Hold Favorite Roles in Bowl Games

By RIP WATSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Navy, Ohio State, Georgia Tech and Duke held the favorites' roles today as the teams and fans made final preparations for the gridiron pageant of New Year's Day carnival of football bowl games.

Navy, making its first bowl appearance in 20 years before an expected 100,000 fans, was the slimmest sort of favorite, thanks to a wave of injuries which hit the Middies in the final week of training. The Middies, ranked fourth in the Associated Press' final poll of the season, meet Mississippi's sixth ranked Rebel in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans in the only game involving two of the top 10 teams.

The Rose Bowl can boast the No. 1 team in the United States in Ohio State, the Pasadena classic was kept from being a "dream-game"—Ohio State, No. 1 against UCLA, No. 3—by a Pacific Coast Conference rule. Because it appeared in the Rose Bowl last year, UCLA was ineligible this year, so Southern California will furnish the opposition for Ohio State's Big 10 champions, spearheaded by all-America back Hopalong Cassady.

UCLA whacked Southern Cal 34-0 during the season and Ohio State will be favored by 13½ points when it lines up against the Trojans before 100,200.

Duke is a 12½-point choice for Nebraska in Miami's Orange Bowl, where 68,000 are expected despite the total of six defeats and one tie on the two teams' records.

Georgia Tech, a virtually perennial bowl team, is a slight choice over Arkansas in Dallas' Cotton Bowl. A capacity crowd of 75,504 is expected to see if all-American guard Bob Brooks and his mates can recover the winning formula that carried Arkansas to the Southwest Conference title.

The 60,000 at the East-West game will get the first glimpse of three, all-American players in action. Notre Dame's Ralph Guglielmi, who was scheduled to direct the east's attack as starting quarterback, will be replaced because of a heavy chest cold. Duckie Morgan, Ohio halfback, and Jackie Jack Ellena of UCLA definitely will be in the West lineup.

Canadiens Romp to 7-4 Win Over Hawks While Rangers Take Bruins; Wings Beat Leafs

By AL COLLETTI
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Clarence Campbell's comment that Maurice Richard underneath is a jolly good fellow was just about the nicest thing a hockey official has said about the fiery Rocket in a long, long time.

The accolade from the NHL president, coming at a time when the Montreal winger seemed destined to do penance for his temper on the ice, may be the medicine the Rocket needs.

Just a few hours after Campbell called Richard a "very honorable type of fellow" who admits his failings on the ice when he gets mad and in trouble, the great star burned in a three-goal performance to lead the Canadiens to a 7-4 victory over Chicago Black Hawks on Montreal ice.

WILD DISPLAY

When the Rocket banged in his third goal in the third period the crowd of 13,885 put on a wild display, tossing hats, programs and rubber shoes on to the ice.

Richard didn't get a penalty while he was his string of goals to 20 for the season. It was the 22nd three-goal performance in the NHL career and boosted his lifetime total to 404.

Campbell hasn't said a word yet about Richard's scrap with Bob Dalley of Toronto Maple Leafs in Toronto Wednesday night, and what it will cost the Rocket. He said in an interview Thursday he'll be waiting for the officials' reports before he decides.

INTENSE PLAYER

Of Richard, the NHL president had this to say:

"I have never seen a more intense competitor. Richard has a volatile temperament which breaks loose every so often. This is caused by the intense competitive fire which burns him as soon as the puck is dropped.

"In all my talks with him, I have found him a very honorable type of fellow who readily admits his guilt after an explosion.

"He has paid something like $2,200 in league fines but most were the usual misconduct type."

There were other thrilling performances in the league Thursday night.

Dean Prentice, who had scored only seven goals all season, caught fire and banged three more to lead the Rangers to an easy 6-3 victory over Boston Bruins in New York's Madison Square Garden. The win was doubly sweet for the Rangers. It snapped a six-game winless streak and moved them into fourth place, one point ahead of the Bruins.

Gordie Howe, the easy - going giant of Detroit's Red Wings, became the club's biggest goal-scorer by netting a pair of 15-footers to lead the way to a 4-1 victory over the weary Maple Leafs at Detroit. The goals gave the Red Wings' 25th of Howe's nine-year career.

Richard's big rival down centre while the Black Hawks were short-handed. His first was unassisted when he trapped a pass from the Canadiens defence late in the opening session. Jean Beliveau scored twice and single goals went to Bernie Geoffrion and defenceman Doug Harvey.

Jack Kelntyre scored two goals for the lacklustre Black Hawks and Eddie Litzenberger and Dave Creighton got the other two.

At New York the Rangers piled up a 6-0 lead before Boston's Murray Costello deprived Gump Worsley of a shutout midway in the third period with a goal while New York was short a man.

A pro-holiday crowd of 12,356 filled Detroit's Olympia Stadium early to their first victory since Nov. 28 with his first goal late in the first period, while Howe had a man in the penalty box. Howe's 20th goal of the season in the second period clinched victory. Bob Chrystal made it 2-0 and Danny Lewicki scored twice within a minute and 38 seconds, goals No. 19 and 20. Howe's second tip into his last two goals early in the final period.

The Detroit-Toronto affair was a rough one with 14 penalties called, 10 of them in the third period. Both of Howe's goals came while Toronto was shorthanded and enabled him to break a tie with teammate Ted Lindsay who is out of action with a shoulder injury. Lindsay has 253 goals. Bennie Woit and Marcel Bonin scored Detroit's other goals. Rookie Parker MacDonald averted a shutout by rifling his seventh goal on a neat pass from George Armstrong.

The four big guns of the Montreal Canadiens continued their runaway of the National Hockey League scoring race Thursday night by fattening their scoring averages in a 7-4 romp over Chicago.

Bernie Geoffrion, the league leader, scored his 22nd goal of the season and picked up two assists to boost his point total to 41. Teammate Jean Beliveau closed in on him, however, by rapping in a pair of goals and assisting on three to bring his total to 38.

Maurice Richard of the Habs holds down third place with 20 goals and 16 assists. He fired three goals against the Hawks but Model-dell was held to one assist but clung to fourth place with 36 point.

TeePees Move Into Second-Place Tie With Bilts

HAMILTON (CP) — St. Catharines TeePees moved into a second-place tie with Guelph Biltmores Thursday night in the Ontario Hockey Association's junior A series by defeating Hamilton Cubs 5-3.

Led by Cec Hoekstra who scored two goals, the Teeps broke out after a scoreless first period to tally on scores by Ches Warchol, Barry Cullen and Hank Ciesla.

Jimmy McWhirter, up from junior B ranks, and Jerry Sullivan got the Cub counters.

OUTSHOT THEM

The defending Memorial Cup champions outshot Hamilton 43-21.

Mart Plata of St. Catharines and Barry Playton of Hamilton drew major penalties for a third period brawl, forcing both teams to finish the game shorthanded.

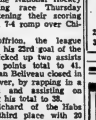
Cubs had lost only one home game this season coming in. They lost. Only the goaltending of Dennis Riggin prevented a worse defeat.

TeePee netminder Marv Edwards got a 10-minute misconduct penalty for protesting Cubs' last goal. He said Cubs were in the goal crease when the shot was fired.

St. Catharines Entering U.S. Talent Market

TORONTO (CP) — Basketball, like Canada's hockey, appears breaking the ice, is entering the United States player market.

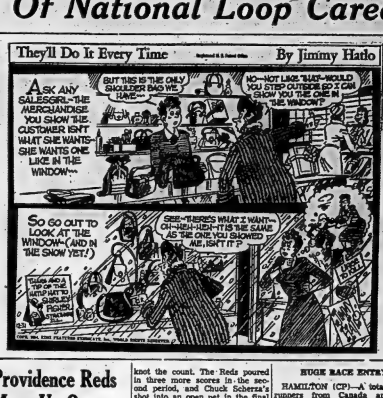
Manager Lambert Kenis has overhauled the lineup of his international Eagles entry of last year so completely that only one member of last year's team is still around. He is Tom Collins, the only Canadian on the team, who led the Queensway in scoring last year.



St. Catharines, currently tied with Tonawanda, N.Y., for the league leadership, makes its first local appearance Sunday at St. Michael's College gymnasium against Toronto Nortown 98.

Topping the Queensway's list of imports is Bo Ertaz, an all-time great from Sweden's top U.S. basketball schools, Niagara University.

Frequently mentioned as all-American during his college career, Ertaz has scored 101 points in the three games he has played for the Queensways. The six-foot, four-inch native of Brooklyn is a deadly shot from all angles.



Frank Jaydon, another former Niagara star, who now coaches the freshman team there, also is with the Queensways. Playing coach Bimbo Villa, ex - Toronto and Bing Martin have been stars in semi-pro basketball in upstate New York.

Providence Reds Move Up On AHL Ladder

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Reds defeated cellar-dwelling Buffalo, 6-4, Thursday night in the only league action.

Providence's vault from fifth up to a three-way second place tie is anything but unusual in this season's AHL scramble. Every club except league leading Springfield is grouped within four points of the others.

Buffalo got off to a blazing start, taking a 2-0 lead. But burly Pat Egan, Providence's coach, fired a pair of goals in 23 seconds while the Bisons were a man short to knot the count. The Reds poured in three more scores in the second period, and Chuck Scherza's shot into an open net in the final 12 seconds clinched the victory.

HEPBURN TO WRESTLE

VANCOUVER (CP)—Doug Hepburn, the Vancouver strong boy, has signed a five-year wrestling contract.

He said Thursday in an interview he has signed with Toronto wrestling promoter Frank Tunney. He will be taught professional wrestling by Whipper Billy Watson.

Riders Want Portion of Home Team's Gate Receipts in 1955

MONTREAL (CP) — Ottawa Rough Riders, doormats 'of the Big Four Football League both in the standings and at the gate last season, have asked that visiting teams be given a portion of home team's gate receipts next year.

Roy Robertson, president of the league, announced Thursday night the request has been added to the agenda for the loop's annual meeting here Jan. 15.

The proposal, if accepted, would enable Ottawa to share in the receipts of the wealthier clubs of the league. At the same time, the Rough Riders would give other clubs a portion of their gate receipts on games played in Ottawa.

At present, the home team keeps all its gate receipts.

Robertson also said the Big Four will discuss a proposal to ask the Canadian Rugby Union for a later deadline for signing imported players, preferably after the National Football League player cuts in late September.

He said there has been some progress in negotiations with commissioner Bert Bell of the NFL to prevent raiding of players on rosters under contract with other teams.

The Big Four president also announced that Montreal and Toronto received $56,000 each for television rights to their home games, Ottawa and Hamilton collected $35,000 each.

The National Broadcasting Company paid $200,000 for the right to televise Big Four games and the CBC added another $160,000.

Trent Valley Hockey League

The defending champion Point Anne Comets opened their title defeated streak to three games by trouncing the Marketers 4-1 last night as from Picton 10-1, while the Belleville Juniors dropped their first game of the season to the RCAF Flyers by a narrow 3-2 margin in a waffle fest-tilt at Memorial Arena on Wednesday night.

Picton scored the first goal of the game against the Foisters, but after that they had to help as Timmy Williams' crew poured in six goals before the first period was over. They added two in each of the second and third periods to make victory assured although the Marketers scored backhander after taking Dawson's goaltenth pass. Blanchard made it 2-0 at 11.41, banging home the disc from a scramble at the side of the net. Dawson soon again setting up the play.

Picton's Bill Ryan got the Juniors' initial goal at 13.13, carrying along the boards and passing in front to Bob Hunter who slammed the rubber home. The Belleville crew scored third and 4 15.30 St. Pierre of the Flyers, drew a minor penalty and had a clear shot-ball load on for arguing while Francis and Brooks went off together for roughing at 19.20.

Both teams were a man short when the Airforce crew scored in the middle stanza. Blanchard took a pass from Cowlin and roared in on the net, cutting loose with a terrific drive to the upper section of the net for the 5-1 score.

Things became rougher and John Casey tangled with Racicot at 14.35. Both drew penalties for roughing but Casey rushed at the Flyer again as they entered the penalty box and was promptly served with a match-misconduct.

The Gault-Ethier crew carried the play to Point Anne's net minder Gerry Boyd but goalie Ogden at 10.50. Atkins pulled the trigger on a play with Hunter, but Charlton made several great saves in the Picton nook advancing of Junior penalties. Baker for tripping and Atkins for having too many men on the ice cut down on the Juniors' scoring threat, but just every man returned until the final whistle.

Belleville were on the receiving end of 6 Picton penalties while the Flyers had six.

Rose and Aquino were the officials.

The teams:

Belleville Juniors — Charlton, Murray, Baker, Brooks, Brant, Robertson, Atkins, Stadnick, McCann. Subs: Buskard, Bryant, Vesterfelt, Petrie, Fox, Casey.

RCAF — Racicot, Stewart, Cowick Francis, Bowman, Rochon, Cowlin, Tardif, Blanchard, Belcelot, Dickson, St. Pierre, F. Boucher, White, Childerhouse.

Fans Request Franchise Be Left in Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — A telegram signed by 1,000 Ottawa district residents who want International League baseball to stay in the capital was sent Thursday night to the Texas City Athletics, owner of the league franchise in Ottawa.

Jack Steinberg, an Ottawa clothing merchant sponsoring the petition, said he hopes it's only the first of several messages of similar size to Parke Carroll, owner of the Kansas City Athletics.

The petition, gathered on a recent Montreal campaign in which 31,947 Montrealers signed a message of support to Alouette halfback Chuck Hunsinger after his dribble in the Grey Cup football final. Like the Montreal petition, signers were asked to pay 10 cents towards the cost of the telegram.

The Kansas City club took over the Ottawa club when it bought Philadelphia Athletics of the American Baseball League club fall. Kansas was reported thinking of moving the Ottawa franchise elsewhere.

Steinberg said he received a letter from Kansas City's Athletics west of here with 10 signatures. He says he has additional signatures to Carroll after the New Year's weekend.

Hamilton Will Likely Support Ottawa's Request

OTTAWA (CP) — D. N. Gill, president of the Ottawa Rough Riders, indicated Thursday night his club will appeal to the self-interest of Toronto and Montreal Big Four football clubs in the Ottawa proposal that home clubs give a share of gate receipts to visiting teams.

The proposal will be considered at the league's annual meeting in Montreal Jan. 15.

"It had to come," Gill said. If Toronto Argos and Montreal Alouettes wanted Ottawa to be a gate attraction, Rough Riders would have to field a competitive team.

"In order to field such a team, we must have money, and this is a possible solution of a problem now confronting our executive."

It was learned unofficially that Hamilton Tiger-Cats will support the Ottawa bid for a pooled gate arrangement.

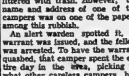
Solmar Notes

Year-End Roundup

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
(Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Solmar Tables)



For a long time the outdoor writers, such as I, have been complaining off and on about men who clutter-up the outdoors with trash. Wisconsin has a good solution. Now it is illegal for a man or a woman or a group to use a state camp site and then go away leaving it littered with trash for the next fellow to clean up.

A couple of months ago a group used such a camp site and left it littered with trash. However, the name and address of one of the campers was on one of the papers among this rubbish.

An alert warden spotted it, a warrant was issued, and the fellow was arrested. The charge was later quashed, that camper spent the entire day in the area, picking up and disposing of every piece of litter. Other states please take note.

TROLLING FROM MOTOR BOATS

Scene few years ago the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania repealed the rule against trolling from motor boats, making this dubious practice once more legal. Now a reverse ruling has restored trolling no more trolling from motor boats. To kill trolling in such a team, would be an excellent move. In the first place, there is no more deadly, or sly way to fish than trolling. I would much rather stay in camp where I could eat and sleep than go fort. However, many people enjoy trolling from a boat, so let them.

If trollers were content to go about their doubtful sport in waters that are not being used by others, I don't suppose that we would object very much. But make is, they won't do that. A good many times I have had outboard trollers cruise right between my boat and shore while I was casting a shore line. Such inconsiderate behavior does not endear the trollers to the caster's heart.

Now, if a man wants to troll, he must provide his own motive power. No longer will he be able to chore line with motor disturbance. Maybe, after he has traveled over the oars long enough, he will take up casting and learn to have some real sport from fishing.

LIBERALIZED FISHING

When liberalized fishing was first introduced, there was a tremendous upsurge in the number of idle print. "Liberalized fishing," as you probably know, means that you can fish any place you wish and keep what you catch. No seasons, bag limits or number limits—you have free gangway. As I say, there was a lot of criticism.

Now, after several years of trial, we find that it is sound, practical conservation. Surplus fish are removed from liberalized waters, thus bringing them into more natural balance. Sharks, who devour mind chilly weather, can enjoy the outdoors during the colder months. Experience indicates that the practice will be continued in 1955, Hamiltonians being among the states mentioned.

HUNTING AND HEART TROUBLE

Every year along about this time we see reports in our newspapers of men dying of heart trouble while deer hunting. It makes chilling reading.

Why fit, I wonder, that so many fellows sit behind desks for 11½ months of the year; then they go to deer camps and lug in and over mountains as though they did that sort of thing every day?

Moreover, they do it in cold weather with snow on the ground. Such exertion is too much for the heart breathing and, indirectly, to the brain. Deer hunting is mostly walking, and mountains are tough to climb any time.

Now, I'm not a doctor, old enough to know better, keep on doing it everywhere. But during the first week of the 1954 deer season there have been accounts in our local newspapers of at least two deaths from heart failure while deer hunting.

Nothing I can say here, I suppose, will make any difference. I would like to point out that the little bevy of fellows who do their hardest to beat deer season, Elmwood Institute, all I can do is to write this and hope, sincerely, that it may do some good.

A LOT OF MONEY

While a graduate student at the Massachusetts Cooperative Wildlife Research Unit, Dr. Clarence H. Cantine made an economic survey, the purpose of which was to obtain an accurate idea of how much money is spent in that state by those who hunt on the outdoor sports. The result of this research disclosed some surprising facts.

First, 2009 questionnaires were sent to license holders selected at random from the files of the fish and game department. Thirty-seven per cent of these questionnaires responded. Personal interviewer also called on a few of those who failed to return their questionnaires, brought the total to 37 per cent—a record for this type of survey.

Let's take a quick look at some of the items, such as rifles and shells, $9,404,397; travel expense, $8,617,667; fishing tackle, $8,114,765; boats, $7,347,571; food and lodging, $6,463,694; clothing, $5,650,000; guns, $3,000,000; miscellaneous equipment, $4,524,466; and contributions to outdoor magazines, $827,227.

The grand totals—$56,166,462, by hunters and inland fishermen, with an additional $18,000,000 by the salt water fishermen—make $74,166,462 in all, spent in one year by the hunters and fishermen of Massachusetts. I'll bet a dollar to their favorite sports. Even in these days of high prices, that's quite what it used to be, 74 of them add up to important money.

Trappers Reel Off Fourth Straight Win

NORTH BAY (CP) — North Bay Trappers reeled off their fourth successive victory here Thursday night with a 6-1 runaway over the Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds in Northern Ontario Hockey Association senior southern group.

The result moved the high-flying Trappers within one point of the front-running Soo Greyhounds.

Bannister Named Sportsman Of Year in Britain

LONDON (AP)—Dr. Roger Bannister, the first man to run a mile in under four minutes, Thursday night was named Britain's sportsman of 1954.

The title of British sportswoman of the year went to Pat Smythe, internationally famous competitor in horse jumping events.

Both were selected in a national ballot organized by the newspaper Sporting Record.

Presentation of the awards was scheduled from a dinner in London. Before the main ceremony Chris Chataway, former record holder for the 5,000 metres, was selected British, television's outstanding athlete of the year.

Etcheverry Gets $12,500 Contract For Next Year

MONTREAL (CP) — The Star said Thursday that Sam Etcheverry and the Montreal Alouettes' management have agreed on a $12,500 contract for the star quarterback to play with the club in the 1955 Big Four football season.

The story quotes a source close to Etcheverry as saying: "The Alouettes' vice-president, as saying the figure agreed on was $12,-000 originally, but Sam, incensed over last year's salary."

Etcheverry arrived in Montreal Wednesday from his Albuquerque, N.M., and went into a huddle with Alouettes' Jules Deschenes. He said he had reached a verbal agreement with the Alouettes.

Meanwhile, it looks as if all-star halfback Alex Webster will be back with Alouettes. Webster, who set a Big Four record last season for total yardage and has been trading down record, was in Montreal a few weeks ago and said he would play here again next season if he found a good job.

The Star said Thursday Webster has since received offers "of five or six jobs with a good future."

Santee Aiming At Four-Minute Mile in Meet

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Wes Santee of Kansas aimed at a four-minute mile tonight in the Sugar Bowl track meet, hoping his added experience would more than outweigh his lack of recent competition.

"Monday I worked out on the Southern California track and did a four-minute mile in good conditions," he said. "Tuesday I raced five with my times 59, 56, 55, 55 and 52. A year ago workouts such as these were a cinch. Tough. This week they were a breeze. I have grown a year older and a year better.

"I know I am much faster but I lack the racing edge that comes only with competition."

Santee, who holds the American record of 4:00.6, said he shot for a four-minute mile every time he went on a track.

"If conditions — weather, track and pace—are right," he said, "it could be this time."

The record record is held by John Landy of Australia, who ran the mile in 3:58.

Kings Reject Offer For Gordie Howe

DETROIT (AP)—Jack Adams, general manager of the Detroit Red Wings, said Thursday night he has received an offer for Gordie Howe but has rejected it.

Adams declined to say who made the offer or what it was.

"We're not interested in trading Howe," he said. "We've had offers for him before and we've turned them down. We're not interested in trading him now."

Howe, who has been the mainstay of the Red Wings for years, is the league's leading scorer with 29 goals and 29 assists for 58 points.

CHRISTMAS 1954 IN WELLINGTON

Christmas day was bright and golden,
Goodness all the sky;
Silent were the winds of winter
As the hours crept by.
Nature bowed in adoration,
A tribute real to bring
To the Christ-Child in the manger,
To our Lord and King.

As on that first Christmas morning
When the hours were long,
Nature seemed to pause and listen
For the angels' song;
And in every stage window
Gleamed a beacon bright,
Telling of a faith eternal
In the Christian light.

—Helen B. Anderson.

WELLINGTON—Christmas day dawned with a bright sun in a cloudless sky. Winter was still silent, and all Nature lay in solemn stillness as if to catch the angelic choir's message of peace on earth. From many homes in the hamlet gleamed Christmas decorations and lights, and the arrival of Christmas guests added to the festive air.

LATE SHOPPING

Entering a local store on Friday afternoon I found the place thronged with eager buyers. They were pleasant people, and although busy showed no sign of frown or impatience as they waited for attention. And the proprietor of the store, as well as his able assistants, were happy faces as they hurried here and there and waited on customers. Very evidently the Christmas spirit of peace and goodwill was abounding, and how pleasant it made the task of Christmas shopping! It never turned to my thought how fine it would be if the Christmas spirit prevailed throughout the year as it was not put aside with Christmas decorations until another Christmas.

Christmas is past and the new year lies before us, with its opportunities, its opportunities, and its struggles — and we might add its possibilities and achievements.

THE NEW YEAR

An untried path before us,
A way we cannot see,
That leads us ever onward
To the days that are to be:
The road, though dark and dreary,
And to the heart unknown,
May prove all bright and cheery
When we look back upon.

IVANHOE

St. Andrew's Holds First Candlelight Meet

IVANHOE, — St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, West Huntingdon, held its first Christmas candlelight service on a recent Sunday evening.

Members of the Junior and Senior choirs entered to the processional hymn "O Come All Ye Faithful." The service was conducted by the pastor, the Rev. F. H. V. Walker, who delivered an impressive Christmas message, on "No Room in The Inn."

These two tragic words "No Room", have accompanied The Master from the time of His Birth, throughout His ministry and even unto this day. A modern post has written of the treatment of Christ in so-called Christian society after 2,000 years of His blessed ministry. "Room for pleasure—doors were open and for business; but for Him only here and there a stable like to that of Bethlehem."

"Let us make room for Him in our hearts and homes."

Special music, under the direction of the organist, Miss Beatie Fleming included anthems, "Softly The Night Is Sleeping"; "Far in the East", offertory anthem, "High Over the Hills".

The junior choir sang "Safely Sleep, Little Babe," a duet, "Baby Jesus", was sung by Grant and Garry Thompson.

Following the sermon, a solo, "O Holy Night", was given by Mrs. A. Hassall.

The hymn "Joy to the World", was sung as a recessional.

The musical numbers were well rendered and the benediction brought to a close an impressive Christmas service.

Little Benny's Notebook

Pop was reeding his paper and ma was reeding hers, saying, After all, William, time is what you make it.

I make it 8 forty, pop said, looking at his watch, and ma said, I was just reeding P. Willis Hinkle's article about New Years day. He claims that the so called first of the year is a date made by man, and not by nature, she said.

By gollies, he could probably prove it, too, pop said, and ma said, Well, in other weeds, men didn't invent time at all, so they dont need to feel so conceited about their days and weeks and fancy calendars. And what's more, one man is as good as another, so if I feel like starting my own private year I can begin it any day that strikes my fancy, and no law can stop me as long as I dont try to make it legal instead of personal she said.

That's the best news I've heard all year, pop said. Here I've been smoking this cigar feeling like a man walking slowly to his own funeral, just because it's time to make my annual resolution to cut out smoking, but now I see a beautiful ray of hope. I'll start my own private year a day or 2 after the calender New Years day, and that's when my resolution will take effect, and then if the fancy strikes me to push my own year ahead a few days, my resolution will just have to wait a little longer, and so on and so on. That dope Hinkle should be ashamed of himself, really said something at last, pop said.

On such a man, I'm sorry I spoke, ma said. Oh well, if past history is any criterium to go by your resolution will only last till about the beginning of the following week, no matter when you make it, she said.

Being probably all it will.

How burn the stars unchanging in midnight skies,
As on the earth the old year dies!
Like leaves before the storms haste our lives away;
Eternal God, to Thee we pray.

For all Thy mercies past we lift our hearts in praise,
Thy care that crowned our fleeting days;
Our follies and our sins, O Lord, remember not,
Lost hours when we Thy love forgot.

From age to age Thy love endures; Thou art our God
Send now Thy flaming truth abroad,
That with the New Year's dawning right may conquer wrong,
Grief yield to joy, and tears to song!

May we take this opportunity of wishing you and yours, health and happiness in 1955 and to thank one and all for your valued past patronage. We look forward to serving you again throughout the coming year.

Doggie in the Window

By LILLIAN MITCHELL

Sandra sighed and slipped into her white fur jacket.

Mabel laughed, her brown eyes crinkling at the corners. "Oh, well, maybe it isn't as much fun going out for New Year's Eve with a crowd of girls, Sandra. But, at least, come Monday morning, we shall have something to tell at the office."

"I know, I know," agreed the grey-eyed Sandra. "Only if I'd guessed how very few men there would be here in Emeryton, I'd have chosen to stay in the City where I do know men—from school days. And I'd never in the world have bought this fur jacket on the no-called easy term basis."

Arm in arm they left the boarding house and hurried towards the bus stop where they were to meet two other girls. The air was fresh and icy and Sandra pulled the collar of the white fur jacket closely.

In the darkness, a small dog crossed the sidewalk, nearly tripping them in the dragging leash.

"That must be the doggy in the window," Mabel laughed.

"That doggy must have a good home," Sandra chimed in. "What a coat! The golden fur drags on the sidewalk, for a fact."

The golden Pekingese looked up at her with enormous eyes and waited. Sandra stopped, looking closely at the collar that stated,

"I'm Tang. I live at 423 Euclid Avenue. Please take me home."

Sandra glanced up at the nearby house. "Well, Tang, you are home. Skip up those steps, Pup."

"Come on. The girls are waving that a bus is coming, Sandra," Mabel said.

"I'll meet you at the corner of State and Broadway. I'm going to ring the bell and tell them their dog is loose," Sandra said.

"Oh, the dog will get inside, all right. Come along!"

"Come on," Mabel said. "The girls are waving that a bus is coming, Sandra."

But Sandra stooped again, swooped the tiny dog into her arms and ran lightly up the grey stone steps. Her ring brought no one to the door although she could clearly hear the soft chime when she pressed the button. Opening the door that was unlocked, she called gently, "Here's Tang. Anyone at home?"

"Oh, come in, please," answered a silvery voice.

Sandra, still holding little Tang, moved along the hallway to an open doorway where a fireplace glowed and an elderly woman sat in a wheelchair. "Donny took him walking, my dear, and Tang must have got away, somehow."

"Ah, well, he couldn't have got himself lost," smiled Sandra. "He was right outside your door."

"Yes, but he chases cars. We even had him trained by a professional training school and they really trained him in everything except car-chasing—and with his least dragging," she sighed.

Then the door burst open and a tall, dark-haired young man rushed in. "Grandma! Tang—why, you little yellow rascal! You—"

"He's not yellow—he's golden!" interrupted his grandmother. "And I'll wager you took him in that convertible I got you for Christmas—and he jumped out—and this is the blonde girl who lives down at 666 on this same street—goes home every night with the brown haired girl at sixteen minutes after five. My grandson, Donny."

"How do you do," murmured Sandra, edging towards the door, away. "How in the world did you even guess I lived at 666?"

"The lady who keeps it is a friend of mine, my dear. Ms. I get to sit in the front window all the time because I fractured my hip ten years ago."

"Oh," said Sandra. "I am to meet some girls downtown—"

"Now's for me driving you down, the buses will all be jammed at this time—on New Year's Eve—and if your brown-haired girl friend will double date, I've a classmate home from the hospital—he's an intern where I am this year—"

"That'll be nice—and maybe I'll see the four of you on TV when I look on at midnight," said his grandmother. "Don't let me keep you," she urged. She heard the front door click and motioned to the dog to jump into her lap. "Well, ol' pup, I've made a better trip down that hallway to the front door—in double quick time, too. That girl and Donny—they couldn't be righter for each other, eh?"

The Spelling Bee

By DOROTHY KILIAN

It was about eight o'clock on New Year's Eve when Jane Walters turned to stare out the kitchen window into the wintry darkness. She didn't want Don to see the tears in her eyes, but she hadn't been quick enough.

"It's a raw deal all right honey," he said from the chair where he sat with one leg, in a cast, propped up on a stool. I take you away from all your city friends and bring you back to Brantville to live, and then what do I do? Break my stupid leg during our first holidays together and leave you high and dry without an escort for the New Year's Eve party."

"You couldn't help it, Don."

She tried to sound bright, but the truth was it did matter. She had found herself more homesick than ever with the coming of the holidays. This little town to which Don had come back as operator of the grain elevator was like a foreign country to her. And, with the furnace acting up, here they were sitting in the kitchen of all places on New Year's Eve.

Jane sighed and turned slowly away from the window. "What kind of a party will Grandma Jenner is having?"

Don chuckled. "Oh, it'll be corny, all right—no blaring trumpets. And yet, Janie," Don leaned forward and, even on earnestly, "I really think you'd enjoy these people if you'd, well, kind of let yourself go."

"Maybe so, Don. But I just have the feeling that they consider me an outsider. I—did you hear that scuffling noise? Sounds like somebody's in our back yard."

"Lots of somebodys, I'd say," Don replied.

There was a resounding thump on the back door. Jane opened it and stepped back, bewildered.

"Surprise, surprise!" a chorus of voices shouted, as a couple of dozen people trooped in Grandma Jenner in the lead, swinging a huge granite coffee pot.

"You do look floored, my dear," she said, planting a peck briskly on Jane's cheek. "But it's an old custom around here—when you can't come to a party, the party comes to you. Look at, Don there he doesn't seem too surprised."

Don grinned. "I was kind of hoping this would happen," he said. "But Jane hasn't gotten over being acquainted yet."

"I know," Grandma said quickly. "And it's mostly our fault. To tell you the truth, honey,"—she turned to Jane—"we were kind of afraid of you, you seemed sort of distant. But when you phoned that you and Don couldn't make the party, I heard the trouble in your voice, I suddenly knew that your just as human as the rest of us. So here we are. Now let's get on with the fun."

It seemed no time at all before Grandma called out, "We've just time for a spelling bee before midnight and refreshments. Get yourselves lined up folks while I put the coffee on to boil."

The crowd laughingly divided into two lines on either side of the big kitchen. As Jane hesitated, someone pulled her into position.

"Spear the words, Mac," Grandma said to the school principal. "You're used to this kind of thing."

Mr. MacRay began giving out words. Amid shouts of praise for the successful spellers and hoots of derision for those who stumbled over a word, the game progressed until only Jane and Mr. Nichols were left.

The caller cleared his throat and, turning towards Jane, pronounced the word, "hospitable".

Jane hesitated looked slowly around the room. She saw Grandma Jenner hovering over the coffee pot at the stove, Mr. Appleton gently adjusting the cushion under Don's outstretched leg, and Mrs. Jones just coming in from the pantry with a tray of apple pies.

"Yes, I can spell 'hospitable'," she said. "B-R-A-N-T-V-I-L-L-E."

There was a moment of silence. "Bravo!" several voices called out, and just then the kitchen clock began to strike twelve.

"Happy New Year!" Jane echoed with the rest as she looked around at her new friends and finally met the eyes of her beaming husband. It was indeed going to be a good year.

The Year 46 B.C. Contained 445 Days

The longest year in calendar history was 46 B. C. and contained 445 days. This is how it happened:

Numa Pompilius supposedly created the Roman calendar in the seventh century B. C. It was revised several times, but by Julius Caesar's time it was two months behind the sun.

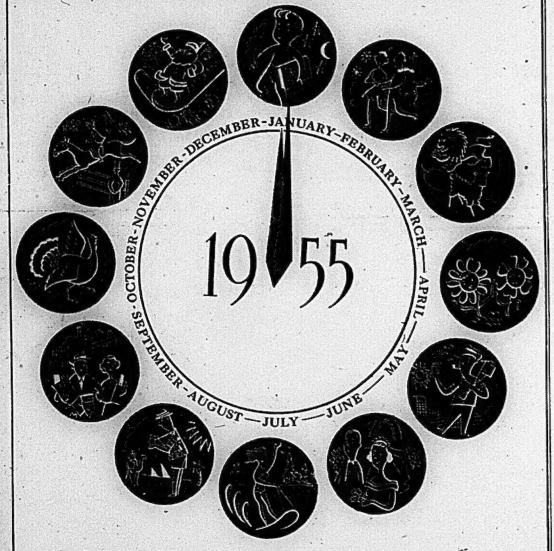
When Caesar's experts revised the calendar in the 16th century there was the problem of catching up with the sun. So two months were inserted between the months of November and December. As a result 46 B.C. contained 445 days.

There is no report of the confusion it must have caused, but it must have played heck with tax collections and the like.

Ancients Observed New Year in Spring

Ancient Rome and Egypt celebrated New Year in the spring.

Egypt used the overflowing of the Nile as a calendar and celebrated the New Year accordingly, in June.



The Babylonians began their year in March and the early Romans followed the Babylonian pattern.

Bearing this in mind, the custom of invoking the gods of fertility at New Year's time—the origin of which is lost in antiquity—seems logical and appropriate.

The Romans were accustomed to hanging tiny masks of Bacchus upon trees and vines, the idea being to impart fertility to every side of the tree to which the masks were turned by the wind.

Scottish lads always had a howling good time going about on New Year's Eve switching the trunks of fruit trees and petitioning a "good bowling crop."

Reflecting the fear of starvation, peasant families in various parts of the world baked a special New Year's cake which they dashed against the door; member of the household hastened to pick up a piece and eat it, prayful that neither hunger nor want should enter the house during the year.

Happy New Year ... all year long

As we stand on the threshold of a New Year, let's all resolve to make it a happy one. If we think FIRST — and keep a few common-sense rules in mind — we can make 1955 a happier, safer year for everyone.

IN THE HOME...

- Now that the Christmas season is almost over, be careful of your dried-out Christmas tree to avoid fire.
- Keep sidewalks shovelled or sanded to prevent serious falls.
- Never use oil or gasoline to start a fire — in the stove, furnace or fireplace.
- Make sure that hot irons or pots of boiling food are safely out of reach of tiny hands.
- Keep stairways and landings free of playthings, parcels and garbage containers.
- Make sure that all poisonous medicines are kept in a medicine chest where children cannot reach them — have containers well labelled so adults won't make mistakes.

ON THE ROAD...

- Use special care when driving on slippery winter roads — safety is more important than speed.
- Drive on snow tires during the winter months, and keep chains in the trunk for emergencies.
- Show courtesy and consideration to both pedestrians and other drivers at all times.
- Keep your spare tire in good running condition — and an adequate set of tools in the car for any roadside emergency.
- Always observe the official safety rules — they were set up for the protection of all drivers on the road.

Garden Notes

A Living Christmas Tree

By FLORA M. RAVILLE

If you have a vacant spot in your garden why not plan to buy a "Living Christmas tree? Make it an annual event. As the children grow let them help select the tree. Doing things together makes for family unity, and such family traditions are treasured through the years. Then too, small spruce shrubbery and trees add beauty and value to your property.

Wherever possible the site should be prepared in the late fall in case severe weather in December turns the ground to concrete. The hole should be at least three feet deep and three feet in diameter depending on the size of the tree you intend to purchase.

Dig the hole a little deeper than necessary. Break up this soil and mix some good all-purpose fertilizer and replace the mixture. Cover this with a thin layer of peat moss. The displaced soil should be covered with a heavy mulch of leaves, straw, or moss to keep it from freezing hard.

When buying a Christmas tree, pick one that is balled and wrapped in burlap, or tubbed. Leave the wrapper in place and soak the roots thoroughly and keep them damp and cool.

This is done by placing the tree in a tub and packing with damp peat moss. Keep the room as cool as possible since excessive heat may damage or kill the tree. If the tree is not kept in the house too long, and is properly planted outdoors immediately after the holidays, it has a good chance of living.

Fir is better than spruce, since it retains its needles better. Should the weather remain very cold and it is necessary to keep the tree until spring, keep it in a cool basement. Keep the roots in the tub of moss and keep them damp. It is fairly certain to remain in good condition and make satisfactory growth in the spring.

When planting the tree soak the ground around it thoroughly as soon as the tree is in place. If the winter is dry soak the ground around the tree several times. Winter kill around evergreens is caused by drying out, rather than sub-zero temperatures. Remember strong cold winds are very drying.

Scanty soil moisture is the cause of sunscald in boxwood hedges. Prevent this winter injury by soaking the root thoroughly, and add a mulch of hardwood leaves, or peat moss.

Sunday School Lesson:

Book of Life

By ROY L. SMITH

No book in the world sells so many copies year after year as does the Bible. Printed in more than 1,000 languages and dialects, it is the unrivalled "best seller" throughout the earth. More people are familiar with at least some portion of its contents, and its passages are quoted in more public speeches and publications than any other piece of literature ever produced by the hand of man. And yet it must be said that it is, perhaps, the least understood of any book ever written.

A BOOK OF MAGIC

No small part of the misunderstanding and misconception concerning the Bible is due to the fact that the average reader approaches it with a more or less mistaken expectation of what he will read therein. The Christian (and Jewish) doctrine of "inspiration" has had the effect of confusing men, so much so that the sublime message it holds is distorted and obscured.

Literally millions of readers assume that the Bible is a book only a little way removed from magic and that it contains the answers to all questions. That it does have divine authority behind its judgments, and that it does reveal the will of the living God is the fixed faith of devout men of widely differing theological viewpoints. All Christians look to it, as all Jews also look to the Old Testament section, as the authentic record of God's revelation. But this does not give it powers of divination, nor does it mean that men can wrest it out of its honest purpose or historical setting.

REVELATION IS PROGRESSIVE

Exactly as men's knowledge in the field of mathematics has developed out of primitive concepts, so men's understanding of God has developed out of simple forms into more elaborate ideas and ideals. In the Bible there is recorded a progressive understanding of the divine nature and will. The Old Testament records many of the simplest and most crude ideas once held by men who were just starting out on the great quest and Christians believe that in the New Testament there is revealed in the life and teachings of Jesus the complete revelation. Between the Pentateuch (the first five books of the Old Testament) and Revelation (the last book of the New Testament) the entire spiritual pilgrimage of the race is charted, according to Christian doctrine. Furthermore, according to Christian faith, the message of Jesus is so complete that no further divine revelation will ever be necessary.

PRODUCED BY LIFE

Just as economic problems and crises are the product of actual life situations, so the Bible has come into existence as men have stumbled upon great spiritual truths and have made records of their discoveries. Just as our modern political philosophy of democracy has been worked out by the painful process of trial and error, so our advanced spiritual concepts have been revealed to us piecemeal in the process of our efforts to master life.

The Uniform Sunday school lesson for January 2: "The Bible, The Source of Christian Teaching." John 20:31; Acts 8:26-38; 17:10-12; Romans 15:4; II Timothy 3:14-17; Hebrews 4:12; II Peter 1:16-21.

The doctrine that justice and religion are linked together by divine authority was unknown until the days of Amos (750 BC) The doctrine that God (any god, for that matter) could love a people was the great doctrine of the prophet Hosea. The doctrine that the Divine was profoundly concerned with "mishpat" (social justice and morality) was the great contribution of Isaiah. Devout believers, both Jews and Christians, believe that these spiritual discoveries were made as the Spirit of the Divine moved upon the minds of men.

The inspiration of the Bible lies in its power to inspire. The sincere soul who approaches the Bible expecting God to speak through its lines, will never be disappointed. That makes the inspiration of the Bible always contemporaneous.

BACKACHE May be Warning

Backache is often caused by lazy kidney action. When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and waste remain in the system. Then backaches, disturbed rest or that tired-out and heavy-headed feeling may soon follow. That's the time to take Doan's Kidney Pills. Doan's stimulate the kidneys to normal action. Thomasburg

THOMASBURG — Service on Sunday evening in Moira United Church was fairly well attended by the Moira people, but few from the other points. The roads were in a bad condition. The Sunday School in the morning at Thomasburg was withdrawn.

Many friends and ex-fellow-neighbours gathered last Thursday in the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home for the funeral service of the late Mrs. J. C. Morton. Mrs. Morton, one time resident of Thomasburg, was a member of the United Church and for years a faithful member of the choir. The Rev. E. F. Smith, of Christ Church, officiated in the chapel, and at the committal in Thomasburg cemetery.

PRESENTATION

The annual Christmas concert of Thomasburg School was held recently in the hall. A packed audience enjoyed a varied program of choruses, drills, dialogues and recitations presented by the scholars.

After the program, and just before Santa Claus arrived, Miss Shirley Mayers, who is leaving Thomasburg school, was invited to the platform and on behalf of the community was presented with an address and substantial sum of money with the best wishes for her future happiness.

Later Santa Claus arrived and with the assistance of the school staff, distributed the presents and treats.

Friends of Earl Adams were pleased to welcome him home for the holiday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wes. Martin were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Webb, on Christmas day.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Jones and all their family enjoyed an evening dinner Sunday at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Earl Ray.

This is the first time in many years the entire family have been together.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Bateman enjoyed their Christmas with all their children and grandchildren home for the day.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Hosking, of Belleville, had as their guests on Christmas day: Miss Isabel Beatty, Belleville, and their mother, of Thomasburg.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Parkyn Richardson on the birth of their son on December 30th, in the Belleville General Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Thompson are happy to all their family for Christmas day.

Best wishes for his recovery go to Lorne Thompson, who is laid up with a septic thumb.

Friends of Mrs. W. Adams were sorry to learn on Monday of her having fallen. Although no bones were broken, she suffered a severe shaking up and bad bruises. She is now resting at her daughter's, Mrs. C. Carter.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Carleton join with their children and grandchildren on Christmas day at the home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Carleton.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Wilson were guests of Miss Phoebe and Robert Kerr, on Christmas day.

Best wishes go to Mr. and Mrs. W. Yateman who are recuperating at the home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. E. Morton, in Belleville.
